U.S. junior champion Sharon Walsh, 18, followed up a victory over Patti Hogan of the U.S. Thursday with an impressive 6-2, 6-4 triumph Wednesday over a three-year veteran of the tennis tour, 33-year-old Australian Helen Gourlay.

Peaches Bartkowicz of the U.S. scored a 6-4, 6-0 victory over Australia's sharpshooter Evonne Goolagong, and the third, fourth and seventh seeds, Virginia Wade of Britain, Kerry Melville of Australia and Karen Krantzcke of Australia all moved into the third round of women's singles.

Pushes Fight, Writer Loses Job

DETROIT (CP) — A proposal for a world heavyweight boxing title fight between Cassius Clay and Joe Frazier in Detroit appeared Wednesday to have cost a columnist for The Detroit News his job.

Doc Greene, longtime sports columnist and more recently a general news columnist, told reporters he had been fired from the afternoon paper because of his involvement with the promotion of the fight.

"My involvement wasn't much," Mr. Greene said.

In a story in its late afternoon editions Wednesday the News said:

"Martin S. Hayden, editor of the News, said today that Greene's involvement was without the knowledge of the newspaper.

"The News doubts that a Clay —Frazier fight would be in the best interests of Detroit. Mr. Greene has been so informed and also told that his continued involvement with the project would not be compatible with his position as a member of the News staff."

Mr. Greene said Mr. Hayden thinks it's unpatriotic and will be bad for Detroit. He thinks it will be a race riot and I don't think so. I think it will be a great fight for Detroit."

Reds Give Selves Send-Off

Cincinnati Reds played their last game in Crosley Field—their home for 38 years—charging from behind with a pair of eight-inning homers to beat Juan Marichal and San Francisco Giants 6-4 Wednesday night.

"It was a great way to go out," said Reds' Johnny Bench, whose 29th homer of the season tied the score 4-4. Bench followed him to the plate and immediately ripped another Marichal pitch to win it.

"It's just as though it had been written in a script," said Bench after they turned out the lights at Crosley field, 4,543 regular-season games after the opener, April 11, 1912. Crosley was the first major league stadium to have lights and the first game was played there May 24, 1935.

Elsewhere in the league, New York Mets hammered the faltering Chicago Cubs twice, 9-5 and 8-1, to edge past the Cubs into first place in the East division. Los Angeles Dodgers beat Atlanta Braves 7-0, Montreal Expos walloped Philadelphia Phillies 8-4, Pittsburgh Pirates nudged St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 in 11 innings and Houston Astros nipped San Diego Padres 5-4.

The Reds handed Marichal his seventh loss of the season against three wins before a close-out crowd of 28,027. Marichal had a 19-9 won-lost record against Cincinnati before the game.

The defending world champion Mets took over first place from the Cubs by one-half game after taking their fourth straight in the five-game set which concludes today. It was Chicago's sixth loss in a row and dropped them from the lead for the first time since April 22.

"What can you do?" said Cubs manager Leo Durocher. "The pitching is terrible and we can't hit."

Durocher shook up the Cubs' benching slump-ridden Ron Santo and using Ernie Banks only as a pinch hitter but still couldn't stop the Mets fine pitching and hot-hitting.

Tom Seaver won the first game, tossing a seven-hitter to raise his record to 11-5. He struck out 11 for a major-league leading total of 151.

Nolan Ryan, 5-5, gave up a leadoff single to Don Kessinger and then held the Cubs hitless through seven innings before leaving with a blister on the middle finger of his throwing hand.

Tommie Agee knocked in three runs and Cleon Jones four in the opener for the Mets and Wayne Garrett, who homered in the opener, had a pair of RBI in the nightcap. Banks had a three-run pinch homer for the Cubs in the first game.

Carl Morton fired a three-hitter and the Expos exploded for six fifth-inning runs off loser Chris Short of the Phils. John Bateman doubled and homered for Montreal.

Schofield Goes From Sub to Star

Dick Schofield, Boston's occasional infielder, figured on watching Wednesday night's game against Baltimore Orioles from his usual spot on the Red Sox bench. Then Mike Andrews showed up with an aching back and Schofield went from sub to star.

Starting at second base, Schofield whacked a bases-loaded triple that tied the score in the seventh inning and then scored Boston's winning run on a sacrifice fly as the Red Sox rallied to knock off the Orioles 6-5.

In other American League games, Bobby Murcer walloped four home runs—three of them in the second game—as New York Yankees split a doubleheader with Cleveland Indians, losing 7-3 before winning 5-1; Oakland Athletics tripped Kansas City Royals 5-1, Minnesota Twins edged Milwaukee Brewers 3-2, in 11 innings and California Angels swept a doubleheader from Chicago White Sox, 3-1 and 2-1.

Schofield's triple, his first extra base hit of the season, followed three walks and Tom Satriale's single which had narrowed Baltimore's lead to 5-2. After his Baltimore mates tied the score, Schofield trotted home with the winning run on Reggie Smith's sacrifice fly.

When it came to home runs though, nobody outdid New York's Bobby Murcer, who closed four in his last four official at-bats against the Indians in the doubleheader. A walk interrupted the string.

Former Winners Lead Marksmen

OTTAWA (CP) — Two past winners of the Queen's Prize, the Commonwealth's top shooting award, will lead a 22-man Canadian team at Bisley, England, in July, it was announced Wednesday.

Capt. Arnold Parks of Saint John, N.B., and Sgt. Gunner Westling of Burnaby, B.C. won the prize in 1958 and 1968 respectively. They leave with the team July 3 for the month-long Bisley competition.

Lt.-Col. Tom Hall of Westminster, B.C., has been named commandant of the team and his adjutant will be Capt. Bill Hall of Ottawa.

The team will also compete in the International Palma Match against Britain and the United States.

Weslock Given Open Edge Over Other 124

GUELPH (CP) — Defending champion Nick Weslock has an edge on the 124 players entered in the Ontario open golf championship which starts at the Cutten Golf Club here today.

Weslock, a 32-year-old golfer from Mississauga, said smilingly in an interview Wednesday that he has played the course before.

The fact is obvious because his picture appears in the program with nine birdies and a one over par."

Weslock broke the record in 1962 and his 63 include a one-shot penalty stroke he took when his ball moved after he had removed an obstructing stone on the fourth hole.

Al Balding of Toronto, who placed well in the United States Open last week, is the top professional in a field of 35 amateurs and 79 professionals, down from the 150 entered last year in St. Catharines.

Other young Ontario golfers include Randy Dunk of St. Catharines, Gary Bowerman of Richmond Hill, and Stu Hamilton of Brampton.

Also at stake is competition for the four-man Ontario team which will compete for the national championship and Wolfingdon Cup.

The four low scorers of the first 36 holes of the Ontario amateur championship and the open make up the team.

Several players predicted high scores if winds that gusted to 35 miles an hour Wednesday persisted today.

Although the course is relatively short, the backnine has several narrow fairways where the wind can easily carry balls into the rough.

Western League Returns to CAHA's Junior Hockey Fold

CALGARY (CP) — The Western Canada Hockey League has returned to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, ending a five-year absence by signing an agreement which places it in the front ranks of junior hockey.

President Ken Botlin told a news conference Wednesday that the two-year agreement, endorsed in writing by the National Hockey League, gives the WCHL a minimum of $100,000 a year, with each of the 10 teams receiving $5,000 in travel money and $5,000 in development money.

Botlin said the agreement, signed in Montreal Monday, places the WCHL in Tier 1 of the new tier system for junior hockey adopted by the CAHA, and on a direct path into the Canadian final.

The Ontario Hockey Association and the Quebec Junior Hockey League will also be in Tier 1, with all other junior teams in Canada in Tier 2.

"This was the most significant thing, Botlin said. "It means the WCHL will have all the best junior hockey players in Western Canada because teams in Tier 1 can automatically draft players from teams in Tier 2." Each Tier 2 team can lose a maximum of two players.

Joe Krycuka of Calgary, a CAHA vice-president, said the terms of the agreement with the WCHL also apply to the OHA and QJHL with the exception of the $5,000 in travel money.

Botlin said that in addition to the travel and development funds, the WCHL will receive $53,000 for players drafted by the NHL during the 1967-68 and 1968-69 seasons.

Krycuka described the reconciliation as a move to strengthen the CAHA's negotiating hand with the NHL when an agreement between the professional and amateur groups expires in two years.

"We could be looking at a whole new deal," he said, "and now we have a bit more muscle."

Krycuka said American owners in the NHL are discussing the possibility of bypassing the CAHA and spending their money on scholarships to lure Canadian hockey players to United States colleges.

Botlin said the WCHL anticipates it will receive another $200,000 during the next two years for players drafted by the NHL. Under its agreement with the CAHA, the NHL pays $3,000 for each player drafted, $3,000 if the player signs a professional contract and an additional $4,000 if in his first year as a professional he plays 25 games in the NHL.

Each WCHL team will be permitted to use four over-age players during the 1970-71 season and two in 1971-72. The CAHA's junior age limit is 20 as of Dec. 31, while the WCHL's has been 21 at Dec. 31. The junior age limit was one area of dispute between the two amateur organizations.

In return, each WCHL team will pay the CAHA a $1,000 registration fee.

In drafting from Tier 2 teams, Tier 1 clubs will pay $1,000 for a player having two years junior eligibility remaining and $500 for a player with one year. The WCHL will be able to draft only in Western Canada, with the other Tier 1 leagues drafting only in Eastern Canada.

Krycuka said a meeting will be held in Toronto July 7 to put the finishing touches on the proposed new junior hockey setup.

In Winnipeg, CAHA President Earl Dawson of Rivers, Man., and Bec Hatskki, chairman of the WCHL board of governors, told a news conference the agreement culminated two years of negotiations.

Washington Unwelcome At Rough Rider Camp

OTTAWA (CP) — Halfback Vic Washington was curtly dismissed from Ottawa Rough Riders training camp Wednesday and told he isn't welcome back until he has settled his contract difficulties.

Coach Jack Gotta said later in an interview that the flashy halfback, a sensation in his two years with the Eastern Football Conference club, "is becoming a liability to us."

"He came out with no pads on, just standing around and talking, and is upsetting the morale of the other players.

"With so many of our fine players gone from last year, we have to concentrate on our other assets and life includes the fine morale of the 35 or 36 guys back from last year," Gotta said.

Washington is determined to try his luck in U.S. football next year and general manager Frank Clair is trying to talk him into at least playing out his option year here.

But Gotta has strong doubts that he will and appears to have written Washington off.

He also is losing patience with other unsigned Riders including halfback Ronnie Stewart and linesmen Jim Cain and Tom Beynon.

Stewart has no thoughts of retiring but is looking for a big pay increase after a fine season in 1969. He has shown up in camp also, but is not taking part in scrimmages.

Gotta says the 30-year-old Cain might have reached the age "where he no longer wants to play football."

No matter what happens, neither Cain nor Stewart will start in the all-star game here next week.

"It wouldn't be fair to the other guys who have to work double duty in practice because they are not here," Gotta said.

Gotta is running a tough training camp and is fining players $100 for each drill they miss. At two drills a day, this could be costly for Stewart, Cain and Beynon.

The hot weather and the iron fist of Gotta prompted four players to pack up their gear without being told.

"Let them go," growled Gotta. "Now is the time to find out who wants to play."

Among the early departures was quarterback hopeful Kent Thompson of Miami University of Ohio.

Of his key recruiting job, replacing quarterback Russ Jackson, Gotta said that last year's backup man, Billy Van Berkies "has an edge so far on Gary Wood," the ex-New York Giant acquired from Montreal Alouettes.

Gotta is satisfied with his offensive and defensive lines, most of them team veterans, and says Riders are strong in linebacking strength. His main concerns are candidates for running backs and wide receivers in addition to quarterback.

The offence-building job has been made tougher by the loss of Jim Thomas, the club's leading pass receiver and rusher in 1969, who has signed with Los Angeles Rams of the U.S. National Football League.

To plug the gap, Jauch has switched sophomore Terry Swarn from flanker to halfback. Thurmon Butler, a returnee, Kenneth Lee from Wichita State and Rich Patterson from the University of Nevada also will be trying for halfback spots.

Bruce Cullen, a 220-pounder from Illinois State, and Dave Davis, a 225-pounder from Oklahoma State, will be the chief candidates for fullback.

Jauch also says the line must be strengthened. In all, 14 players will be trying for guard, tackle and centre positions.

Willie Young, a six-foot-six-inch, 265-pounder from Akron A and M, is expected to make the team at tackle as is Roger Anderson-6'3" and 245 pounds-from Virginia University.

New Eskimo Coach Admits Grey Cup Out This Year

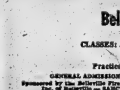
Breaking the tradition of coaches' optimism, Jauch says he doesn't think the Eskimos will be contenders for the Grey Cup.

"We'll have too many young, inexperienced people in a concentrated area, such as offence," he said in an interview at the Eskimos training camp.

"Maybe those young people we have signed will have the potential and ability and maybe they'll come forth, so to speak, and we will be contenders. But I would not think at this time that we can say we are going to go out and win the Grey Cup.

"Our object is to get the team back into the playoffs, solidify the offence and kicking game and maintain the defence, even improve it versus the running game."



Jauch, 32, became the youngest coach in the Canadian Football League this year when he moved up from defensive coach after Neill Armstrong resigned. He took over a team with the best defensive record in Canada last year, but which missed the playoffs because it lacked scoring punch.

Inconsistency at quarterback was the "No. 1 problem we had last year and we've got to improve that."

Jauch has five quarterbacks in camp, including returning Corey Colebour and Charlie Fulton. Both had "too many passes intercepted last year"—Colebour because his long passes frequently wobbled and Fulton because he was inaccurate.

Competition for the job is supplied by Don Trull, a six-year veteran of the American Football League with Houston Oilers and Boston Patriots, who is expected to make the club.

Also in camp are rookies Phil Hagen, 21, of the University of Minnesota, and Rusty Clark, 23, from the University of Houston. So far, Clark has looked good.

Eskies Under Gun?

EDMONTON (CP) — Norm Kimball, general manager of Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference, Wednesday denied a charge that eight of this players were pressured into signing contracts.

The charge came from John Agro, lawyer for the CFL Players' Association.

"We've no happy right now, and I know the players are happy," Kimball said. All team members have been signed except for one injured Canadian.

Kimball declined further comment on Agro's charge. "Any action we have taken we are confident is in the best interest of the club."

Agro had said that eight Eskimos had been told to sign by a certain date or they would not be issued uniforms and would be placed on waivers. He said six signed immediately.

"Kimball is pressuring these kids into signing," he said. "A terribly bad situation is developing.

Dandy Double

TORONTO (CP) — The biggest daily double payoff of the current Ontario thoroughbred racing season was recorded at Woodbine Wednesday—$1,420.50.

Twenty-two persons had $2 tickets on Lucky Doctor in the first and Captive Witch in the second race.

Lucky Doctor, a two-year-old making his first start, paid $20, $13 and $6.40. Captive Witch, who had never finished higher than third in his 12 previous starts, paid $94.60, $33 and $14.50.

The double was far short of the Ontario record of $1,058.10 set in 1958.

Government's Testimony Corrected on Duke Investigation

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Arthur Wishart and Provincial Police Commissioner Eric Silk corrected earlier government testimony Wednesday as an Ontario legislature committee continued its examination of George Duke's alleged relationship with the underworld.

The government has rejected a demand by Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) for a public inquiry into what he said was the association of Duke, wealthy Oakville businessman, with Mafia figures.

Dr. Shulman named John Papalia as the Mafia enforcer in Canada and Donald (Red) LeBarre as Papalia's bodyguard. He also called Daniel Gebarri Mafia "kingpin."

In a statement to the committee Tuesday Mr. Wishart said Duke knew Gasbarrini and Papalia through business visits they paid to his lawn equipment company. Mr. Wishart also said Duke had spoken to Le Barre at the Leander Boat Club in Hamilton where both were members.

On Hamilton Wednesday night Jack Pearson, manager of the Leander Boat Club, said neither Duke nor Le Barre were not now nor had ever been members.)

Early in the committee's Wednesday meeting Mr. Silk repeated Mr. Wishart's words.

However, later on, during questioning by NDP Deputy Leader James Renwick, Mr. Wishart said it was Le Barre and Gasbarrini who had gone to the lawn equipment company.

Police surveillance showed no contact between Duke and Papalia. But Duke himself had admitted to Staff Sgt. K. W. Grice, who prepared testimony for the attorney-general's statement, that he had met Papalia.

The first meeting occurred a year or so ago at Hamilton Motor Products where Duke said he had seen Papalia three or four more times around Hamilton.

Mr. Wishart's correction came after Mr. Silk read into committee records the report of the officer interviewing Duke.

Deputy Attorney-General Rendall Dick, who wrote Mr. Wishart's statement, admitted he had made the error in transcribing the Duke testimony into the record. Later Mr. Silk also admitted the error.

In addition to hearing the report on Duke's testimony, committee members also were given a summary Wednesday on Duke's driving and liquor infractions since 1958 and were told of the extent of OPP investigation into the Duke affair.

Commissioner Silk said the investigation, conducted by two staff superintendents, consisted primarily of interviews with or statements from members of the force.

There were only two outside investigations. One consisted of a signed statement obtained from an Oakville couple. Mr. and Mrs. Les Slattery, about a court case of Duke's and the other was an investigation carried out by the head of the OPP's intelligence unit.

The intelligence head interviewed Duke and talked to "various other police forces" to ascertain Duke's relationship with the three alleged underworld figures.

Commissioner Silk refused to give the committee the names of the men or the police forces interviewed because, he said, it would not be in the public interest.

The government rejected the public inquiry on the grounds that the contacts between Duke and senior officers of the OPP, including Commissioner Silk, were of a purely social nature or else related to his own lawn equipment business.

The other part of the government's argument is that there is no evidence of anything sinister about Duke's relationship with the three men.

Duke, who has a criminal record in the United States, was deported to Canada in 1946 after serving a jail sentence for a $600,000 jewel robbery. He has since had other brushes with the law, including liquor and traffic infractions.

Commissioner Silk was at the OPP wedding and funeral which Duke attended. He visited Duke's home after the funeral and invited him to lunch at Toronto's Military Institute to repay the hospitality.

Eleven other officers—including two three assistant commissioners and three chief superintendents—attended the annual "lawnmen" staged by Duke's company at his estate.

THE BETTER HALF — By Bob Barnes

"One of your friends called—can't recall her name... She said another friend of yours ran off with somebody. I hushed—can't recall their names either."

Company Closing Act Harshly Criticized

TORONTO (CP) — Five bills were given second reading—approval in principle—by the Ontario legislature Wednesday as the Progressive Conservative government pressed to complete its legislative program before the house rises for a summer recess Friday.

But the New Democratic Party, led by deputy leader James Renwick, threw sand in the government gears by moving that the bills proceed to consideration by a committee of the whole house, during which much of Wednesday's seven hours of debate will be repeated.

Debate Wednesday was on the Mortgages Act; the Employment Standards Act; amendments to the Municipal and Assessment acts to provide a system for granting relief to persons badly hurt by market-value reassessment in some communities; amendments to the Corporation Tax Act and a bill that provides for grants to companies and municipalities installing pollution-abatement equipment.

Liberals joined the NDP in strong opposition to the Employment Standards Act which provides protection for workers hurt by industry decisions to lay off staff or to close plants.

They supported an amendment moved by Mr. Renwick that the bill be withdrawn.

It fails to provide adequate notice of layoffs, he said, and does nothing in the bill interferes with management's unilateral right to make decisions without taking into account the welfare of employees. The amendment lost.

The Liberals called for public hearings before a plant is permitted to close down. The NDP insisted upon government inspectors making the decision after inspecting the company's operations and books.

St. Jean Baptiste Parade Peaceful, First Time in Three Years

MONTREAL (CP) — The city's traditional St. Jean Baptiste holiday parade went off without violence Wednesday for the first time in three years.

Spectators of all ages celebrated the feast day of French Canada's patron saint under a hot, cloudless sky as the parade took a new route through the predominantly French-speaking east end—a switch from recent years when it moved from east-end Lafontaine Park along Sherbrooke Street to the downtown shopping core.

In 1968 and 1969, the parade was marked by violent clashes between police and demonstrators.

But police hid their strength this year and young persons who joined the end of the parade chanting Quebec-independence slogans caught the festive atmosphere.

Although there were as many as five policemen at 2-block intervals when the parade started on time at 3 p.m., they did not make a show of power during the parade although a police spokesman had said beforehand 2,300 would be on duty. If any riot-equipped police were available, they did not show themselves.

Police reported no arrests.

They estimated 25,000 to 30,000 spectators, down from crowds estimated up to 1,000,000 in some previous years, lined the route from Laurier Park down St. Denis Street to Place Giver in Old Montreal.

They stood on rooftops, sat on balconies and lounged in folding chairs on sidewalks, waving fleur-de-lys flags and balloons and buying soft drinks and potato chips from roving vendors.

There were few Canadian flags showing although one large group of people planted four on their balcony. A little old lady shows them hung out an old Red Ensign without the Canadian crest that used to identify it as Canada's banner.

The parade was followed by a blue panel truck belonging to Reggie Chartrand's militant Chevaliers de l'Independence — Knights of Independence — painted with slogans saying "Vive le Quebec libre" (Long Live Free Quebec), "Quebec, Notre Seule Patrie" Quebec Our Only Motherland), and "Quebec aux Quebecois" (Quebec for Quebecers).

Police estimated 2,000 and 3,000 persons, mostly young, joined behind and this swelled to 5,000 or 6,000 stretched over about 15 blocks as the parade neared Old Montreal.

Separated from the regular parade by seven police motorcycles, the enthusiastic marchers changed and sang while giving the two-finger sign of peace.

At least four rock bands on balconies along the route struck up a hit parade song "Quebecois; Nous Sommes Quebecois" (Quebecers, We Are Quebecers) and spectators returned the salutes, clapped and waved Quebec flags.

Le Masse, a tabloid published by Le Front de Liberation Populaire (Popular Liberation Front), was distributed to the crowds. It called for a demonstration July 1 to "favor of Quebec independence."

Only a few regular police were in evidence as the parade neared city hall and, to avoid trouble, they turned the young people west along Craig Street while the scheduled floats and bands went east to Place Viger.

It was a significant change from last year when a similar group at the end of the regular parade overturned a float with a statue of St. Jean Baptiste and smashed store windows as they were chased through downtown Montreal.

Gasbarrini Writes Wishart

Called Mafia Figure, Complains of 'Innuendos'

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Arthur Wishart told an Ontario legislature committee Wednesday he received a letter June 6 from Daniel Gasbarrini complaining of "innuendos" of Mafia connections with three other Oakville businessmen, including millionaire George Clinton Duke.

Mr. Gasbarrini, a real estate executive, John Papalia and Red Lalkarre were described as allegations made earlier this month by Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) as well-known Mafia figures who had influence with high-ranking provincial police officers through Mr. Duke.

In the letter, read to the committee studying Mr. Wishart's department estimates, Mr. Gasbarrini called Dr. Shulman's statements "false and inflammatory" and denied any associations with the Mafia.

Mr. Gasbarrini said his only guilt is that he has a past criminal record. Earlier, Eddie Sargent (L—Grey-Bruce) described Mr. Gasbarrini as a convicted heroin courier.

The letter was the only contact police had with the three so-called Mafia figures in their investigation of Dr. Shulman's allegations, the committee was told.

In a statement Monday, Mr. Wishart absolved police officials of wrongdoing except for instances of "social indiscretion"-in their association with Mr. Duke, a lawn-equipment manufacturer.

Mr. Wishart, his deputy A. R. Dick and OPP Commissioner Erick Silk underwent three hours of questioning by James Renwick (NDP—Toronto Riverdale) who sought to determine the scope of the police investigation.

Mr. Renwick said that, except for statements taken from 20 officers within the OPP, the thrust of the investigation rests on inquiries made by Staff Supt. K. M. Grice, head of OPP Intelligence, who interviewed various police forces and private informers.

"That was the extent of the investigation," Mr. Renwick said.

Mr. Silk refused to identify the police forces or the officers interviewed, on the grounds it was "an intelligence matter" and would adversely affect their work if sources were revealed.

However, he gave the names of the 20 OPP officers who were questioned, including Supt. Al Wilson of Burlington and Supt. A. M. Rodger of Toronto, who face disciplinary action because of their role in the affair.

Mr. Silk told the committee he was awaiting conclusion of the committee hearings before he takes "appropriate action" against the two officers. Mr. Renwick said the men should have been suspended immediately until their case could be reviewed.

The two officers are accused of attending a barbecue at Mr. Duke's home after they were told by Mr. Silk to avoid social contact with the millionaire who has a criminal record.

Supt. Wilson also must answer complaints that he waited 10 days to inform his superiors after learning of Mr. Duke's record of armed robberies and a major jewel theft in the United States.

Mr. Wishart's statement Monday indicated that 11 OPP officers had attended barbecues and lawn parties at Mr. Duke's home where lawn equipment was being demonstrated. Mr. Silk admitted to get-togethers with Mr. Duke on four separate occasions-once at a lunch in Toronto-but claimed that was before he knew of the manufacturer's background.

Big Training Centre Role For Former Camp Picton

PICTON — The former Camp Picton will soon become the largest training centre for the retarded in Ontario, with the accommodation of about 600 people in a village-type institution.

Health Minister Tom Wells announced yesterday that the former army camp, vacated by the Canadian Guards one year ago, will be used as a residential training centre, with the retarded living together in small groups in an attempt to create a home-like setting.

Today, Larry Kent, executive assistant to the minister, said from Toronto that the centre will be installed after one now in operation at Edgar, Ont., in the Gravenhurst district.

At Edgar, 85 retardees live in a village-like setting with a factory on the premises operated by the Shakespeare fishing equipment company. The trainable retarded learn to work in a factory setting and can rise to the position of foremen while in the process of working their way back to a productive role in the outside community, Mr. Kent said.

Larger living quarters will be used in programs for the more severely retarded.

However, Mr. Kent could give no firm outline of the type of program to be carried on in Picton.

"The big thing was to acquire the property," he said. "Negotiations for purchase of the camp by the provincial government from the federal government have been going on for several months, and at times the outcome in favor of the retarded looked very doubtful."

'Unofficial' Brief Is Well Received

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward county council's Regional Committee has made a submission termed by its members " a reasonable approach to items that are of importance in considering an amalgamated form of area government within the county" to minister of municipal affairs Darcy McKeough.

In reporting the committee's interview with McKeough to county councillors, chairman Bernard Hepburn noted Norris Whitney, MPP, and Reeve Edward Lennox accompanied the delegation to Toronto last week.

His description of the committee's discussion with Mr. McKeough indicated a mixture of criticism from Hallowell reeve George Vincent. "Isn't this the brief county council wanted us to present a year ago?" demanded Mr. Vincent. "I would be disturbed if a brief has been presented if county council had no chance to discuss it first. Frankly, gentlemen, I am disappointed that this committee would do that."

Mr. Hepburn quickly assured the Hallowell reeve the committee had presented only a submission of its ideas and not a formal brief. "A presentation to a minister must have a basis of thought. Our submission didn't even have a title and we did not say that all councillors endorsed it," explained Mr. Hepburn.

He told council Mr. McKeough had considered the document well prepared even if all members of council did not agree on it. Although he is unable to provide the county with immediate assistance, Mr. McKeough said that eventually he could provide the staff required to help with this type of development.

He stressed to members of the Regional Committee, however, that he must have a request from county council carried on a majority vote before he can assist with his staff.

County warden Gordon Lloyd said yesterday the function of the regional committee is to examine the present system of municipal government and to suggest changes to make it more workable.

A more refined amalgamation of services where indicated and promotion of a one-tier system of government are also the improvements. "I feel that the time is opportune in the year but we, aren't firm on this. It's a big change and we want help from the department concerning costs and necessary changes."

Outlined in the regional committee's report to Mr. McKeough is Prince Edward County's agricultural location, its population distribution, administration, debenture debts and current and capital assets of local municipalities. Other factors considered such as welfare, parks and recreation, fire and police protection, public utilities and road systems were also described.

Mr. Hepburn explained to council the submission is similar to the brief rejected by councillors a year ago but decisions and additions have been made.

Another Chance To Hear Singer

Quinte residents who missed the appearance of Smithfield singer Gordon Tocher, 23, on Ted Mack's Original Amateur Hour, will have an opportunity of catching a re-run of the program Sunday afternoon, June 28 at 1.30 p.m. on Channel 10.

Winners of the Amateur Hour are decided on a popular vote basis and results will not be known for four to five days. Mr. Tocher received sustained applause at the end of his pre-recorded performance last week.

Mr. Tocher, a machine operator, came to Canada from Scotland seven years ago. He was chosen from about 37,000 acts auditioned by Ted Mack talent scouts. Mr. Tocher was also appearing in Belleville Week last year.

He will appear locally this weekend in events during the Highland Weekend in Belleville.

Enthusiastic Response For Mainline Group

By BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

More than 700 Belleville rock music fans were on hand last night at the Belleville Arena as this year's summer series of Wednesday night dances officially opened.

And the occasion was double significant because of the triumphant return to Belleville of the McKenna Mendelson Mainline who last played here in September of 1969.

Triumph, as a matter of fact was almost an understatement for the Mainline who received a standing ovation from the Belleville crowd as their second set and the dance closed.

Their entire act was punctuated by applause and cheers from the fans in attendance.

There have been some minor changes in the Mainline since last year's appearance here.

All the members stay seated during their performance, a position symbolic of their placement of music over stage appearance. Their musical accent is more country than when they were last heard.

The members appear more loose and content with themselves than they did prior to their breakup in December. Obviously their music is approaching the style they desire — light within the members' own virtuosity, and country, clear and raw.

Also on hand for the opening was another recording group, Fear, whose members could use some maturity and some control in their music.

The Wednesday night productions will continue well into September at the Arena. An added attraction this year will be a black culture peace festival to be held at the Belleville Fairgrounds on Aug. 2.

Chiefs of Police Concerned About Municipal Lotteries

KENORA, Ont. (CP) The Ontario Association of Chiefs of Police wants a better understanding and greater control of the province's lottery laws.

The association's legislation committee recommended Wednesday that the group's executive meet with officials of the department of financial and commercial affairs to discuss municipal lotteries.

The committee said areas of concern are the "lack of uniformity in interpretation and enforcement" of lottery regulations and that applications for lottery licences do not need police approval.

Since Jan. 1 municipal councils have been allowed to licence religious and charitable groups to hold lotteries, if prize money is less than $1,500. The province issues licences if prizes are worth more than that.

The director of the provincial lotteries branch told more than 100 chiefs attending the association's annual conference he needs their co-operation.

Ernie Fisher said he wanted the police chiefs to get more involved in lottery licence granting, although they cannot veto any council decision to issue a licence.

Mr. Fisher said he was asked municipal councils to seek the advice of police chiefs before granting licences because the chiefs are usually aware of what will benefit their communities.

Mr. Fisher said if a chief strongly opposed granting of a lottery licence, he would back the officer in the opposition.

Two Jailed for Contempt

TORONTO (CP) — Eric Hoffman, 19, and Mary Scott, 18, were sentenced to 90 days in jail Wednesday for contempt of court when they appeared on charges of causing a disturbance during an anti-war demonstration in May.

Provincial Judge S. Tupper Bigelow also fined each $100, in default 30 days in jail, after convicting them on the disturbance charges.

Asked whether she had anything to say before sentence was passed, Miss Scott, of no fixed address, shouted:

"Death to Lackey police. Death to lackey judges. Long live the Communist party of Canada. Long live Chairman Mao Tse-tung."

Hoffman, described by Crown counsel David Robson as "an American who had been living in Montreal, told the judge:

"I am not a criminal the real criminals, are the police who should have let the Canadian people tear down the U.S. embassy brick by brick."

He called Judge Bigelow a "flunky judge."

The head of the provincial police anti-gambling squad told the association tighter control of religious and charitable organizations holding lotteries is needed.

Chief Inspector Jack Hatch said many unscrupulous organizations are "beginning to form for the purpose of going into the lottery business."

Another conference speaker seeking increased co-operation from the chiefs was Brig.-Gen. Gerald Coffin, commander of the Canadian forces base at Oakville.

He said an increase in civil disturbances in Canada makes it necessary for close dialogue between police and the armed forces.

Brig.-Gen. Coffin said the armed forces are trained and prepared to assist police in quelling civil disturbances.

He said 1,000 to 1,500 troops could be made available quickly, if requested by the Ontario attorney-general in event of a large-scale disturbance.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Frankly I'm confused About "diets" that is! One diet calls for two eggs every morning, cheeses, some protein for weight reduction.

Another diet says if you start each meal with grapefruit or grapefruit juice, it tends to eat up the fat and you can eat as much food as you wish. The grapefruit is supposed to act as a natural diuretic.

I could go on mentioning the various diets I have received from friends who say "this is the Mayo Clinic Diet" and almost always a "Doctor's Diet."

In going on these so-called diets, I was afraid that eating too many eggs produced high cholesterol. And that eating too many tomatoes or tomato juice caused acidity. And too much grapefruit also caused breaking out, itching and acidity.

What I'm concerned about is this: I'm only in my early 30s and would like to be around a while longer. What does one require each day in the way of food for good health. If we leave off meat, is this bad? If we refrain from eggs, are we depriving ourselves of necessary protein? (I'm driving my husband crazy.)

I wish that once and for all, someone would come out with the facts of "daily requirements needed for good health." I feel that many of us adults, as well as children, are so food conscious that we are probably suffering malnutrition because of constant dieting. What is your theory? Thank you. — Mrs. B.

Comment: Please don't take it personally when I say I think you are food-conscious. You are a ripe candidate for joining the large army of food fadistas who are afraid to eat this, and too scared to eat that.

When you come right down to it, eating a healthful diet should really be a natural and easy part of decision-making in your daily life.

For example, what's more natural than to drink when you are thirsty and eat when you are hungry? The fact is that most of us eat what is good for us, otherwise we wouldn't survive.

People are too gullible about food requirements. Fads and Ads contribute to our confusion. As you say in your letter, Mrs. B., some are afraid of getting too much cholesterol (cholesterophobia), others abstain from grapefruit because they are supposed to "eat up the fat" while tomatoes cause excess acid.

I believe the quickest way to become confused about what to eat (and what not to eat) is to open an ear to what friends say, what fad-dists say, what the advertisements say. If you do, you'll be one of those who believe that molasses and yogurt will guarantee a ripe old age; that mixing ice cream and seafood at the same meal is poisonous; that fish is really brain food. (One of the students in one I ever met ate fish seven days a week.)

All you need to do to have a well-rounded and satisfactory diet, Mrs. B., is to have suitable portions of proteins, fats, carbohydrates, minerals, and vitamins in your daily intake of athletes.

What is suitable? The list is too long for inclusion here. I suggest that you ask your doctor for advice. At least you will be getting it from the "horse's mouth" and not from fadists, advertisements or well-meaning friends.

Ignorant Should Not Vote

Thoughts at Large:

Urging people to "get out and vote" who have not taken the time to study the issues or the candidates, represents subversion of democracy more than support of it; for the larger the number of ignorant persons who vote, the less the chance of a rational result.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For June 26

Your birthday today: The year to come promises a dynamic equilibrium between your urge to settle for what you have and a stronger but erratic compulsion to break out into entirely new directions. Startling events will stir your imagination, and inspire your career efforts. Today's natives are keen of hearing, sensitive to and easily offended, interested in justice for all.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): The weekend opens with unanticipated or unexplained events. Your quick reactions may in turn trigger additional upset — hold everything; pause for intuitional guidance.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Impulsive moves do not improve the situation. Expect impatience on all sides. A flash of inspiration comes during the evening's meditation.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Relationships are at their most fragile today. Money is the subject of sudden whims. Unexpected circumstances are not fully known until later; withhold decisions.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): The utmost care is essential today with anything which has a hazardous nature, such as power tools. Any discussion can deteriorate into estrangement over if you let it.

LEO (July 22 — Aug. 22): Take the day as it comes, first come first served, and watch the circus. Getting personally involved would pull you out of a position of advantage.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Disturbing news should not cause you to start making emergency arrangements. Economic matters are to be guided by the advice of expert consultants obtained some time ago.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): There will be change and excitement enough without voluntarily making changes. Stand by for sudden differences, flashes of temper, possible accidents.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 — Nov. 21): Now it is not easy, but very important, that you keep on a steady work-effort. Stay on the safe side: contain your emotional pressures.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Your energy is safely channeled into developmental ventures or sports events. Other activities are subject to upsets, sudden losses.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Your personal arrangements need careful study. Associates are quick to reply to any impulsive move or critical comment — hold it for another time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): For once an independent attitude doesn't go well, particularly with officials. Be cautious in driving, use of equipment. Today will give you much to think over.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Take care of yourself instead of relying on others. Unplanned events should provoke in you some intuitional defences. Keep your serenity so this can happen.

New Foreign Policy Is Canada-Centred

Old Internationalism Of Pearson Is Out

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's foreign policy of the 1970s will seek to promote national goals on an international plane, But External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp denies that this means it will be based on "narrow self-interest."

The new-look policy, outlined in a white paper presented to the Commons Thursday, represents a marked shift from the brand of internationalism espoused by Lester Pearson, former prime minister and external affairs minister.

It rejects over-emphasis on "roles and influence" which at times, it says, characterized Canada's approach to world affairs in the past.

Rather, emphasis should be on promoting Canada's domestic aims in an international environment. Foreign policy, says the document, is the extension abroad of national policies.

The new policy will be based on a "realistic assessment of the world and of Canadian interests in the world." Mr. Sharp told a press conference after tabling the white paper.

The six-part document disclosed a government plan to increase Canada's foreign aid allocations by hefty amounts in the coming years.

During fiscal year 1971-72 official aid to developing countries will rise by $60,000,000 or about 16 per cent from the current level of $380,000,000.

At the same time the government officially accepted the recommendation of a World Bank commission that industrial countries channel at least 2% per cent of their foreign aid through multi-lateral agencies.

The proportion which Canada will aim to achieve is 25 per cent. This compares with an average 15 to 20 per cent in recent years.

The white paper outlined a series of detailed proposals for expanding Canada's ties with both Latin America and the nations of the Pacific.

It made clear that Canada does not intend to join the Organization of American States, at least in the foreseeable future, but suggested that some kind of working relationship with that hemispheric organization might be established.

At the same time the white paper disclosed that Canada will provide bilateral technical aid to Latin American countries. Until now, its economic assistance to that part of the world has been administered through the Inter-American Development Bank, a multilateral agency.

Pearson Warns UN Could Die

LONDON (CP) — Former prime minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada warned today that, if the world cannot develop a stronger commitment to the United Nations, the international organization "will diminish and ultimately disappear."

This disappearance would come about "not with a bang but on a point of order," Pearson said.

However, the 72-year-old statesman from Canada, addressing an audience which included the Queen and the Prince of Wales, also cited reasons for hope in the future of the UN.

He told a meeting held to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the signing of the UN charter that an identity of interest between the world's giant nations "has now at least begun to appear alongside cold-war discord and division."

Syria, Israel Still Battle

By The Associated Press

Israel and Syria slugged each other on the ground and in the air today for the third straight day. Tel Aviv said that an Israeli armored force seized Syrian military positions on the central sector of the 50-mile frontier.

Syria said that it downed six Israeli jets in the swirling conflict. The Israelis said it shot down two Syrian MiG-21s. Tel Aviv admitted the loss of one jet and said the pilot parachuted into Syrian territory.

It marked the first time since the 1967 Middle East war that Israeli armor has been reported moving onto Syrian soil. The positions attacked faced Tsafid on the Golan Heights.

A communique issued by the military command in Tel Aviv said that the Israeli force "supported by artillery and aircraft attacked and seized control of enemy positions at noon today."

Israeli jets attacked Syrian army camps near Damascus for the second day in succession, and large-scale dogfights raged through the Syrian skies. Then Syria announced that Israeli tanks had crossed the ceasefire line on the Golan Heights.

"Violent fighting along the frontline is still continuing," said Damascus Radio shortly after noon. "The enemy is throwing his armored units against our positions, and our forces are engaging them."

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, meanwhile, rejected the new United States plan for Middle East peace, saying it would leave Israel in possession of the Golan Heights territory which it seized from Syria in the 1967 war.

"Egyptian patent office here! Get me President Nasser."

Breathalyzer Law Upheld

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today upheld the federal law making it mandatory for motorists to give breath samples to police officers on request. The judgment was 5 to 4.

Assessment Courts To Be Ready Soon

TORONTO (CP) — Assessment review courts will be set up within the next month, Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough said early today as the Ontario legislature worked until 2:10 a.m. The house, which was to resume at 10 a.m., was working on bills the government wanted passed before the summer adjournment. Mr. McKeough's remarks came during debate on amendments to the Assessment Act. He said the courts will be set up in municipalities to sit on a continuing basis rather than travelling from one area to another.

The Cup Runneth Over

And so does the bowl, as Mrs. Edna Sullivan heaps it high with strawberries. It looks like strictly home-style feasting, but this bowl was being prepared for a come-one, come-all feast, a strawberry supper held in Plainfield by that hamlet's Women's Institute, and for a buck and a half! No wonder there was an overflow crowd. (For story, see Page 3.)

Croll Says Time Ripe For Guaranteed Income

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator David Croll, chairman of the Senate poverty committee, says the time is ripe for the government to provide guaranteed minimum incomes for Canadians.

The concept came before the committee during its hearings time and time again and there was almost a total agreement on it, he said in making a progress report Thursday in the Senate on the committee's work.

"The consensus was that income should come from the federal government, services should come from the provincial government and delivery can be made by the Canada Assistance Act," he said.

Later he added that to him, the guaranteed maintenance income "is an idea whose time has come."

Senator Croll (L—Ontario) praised the Canada Assistance Plan as an excellent measure although he had strong criticism for the welfare system as a whole.

The plan, enacted in 1966, is a comprehensive public assistance measure providing through provincial arrangements for federal contributions of 50 per cent of the costs of assistance to persons in need generally and of selected costs of extending and improving welfare services.

But Senator Croll said that some provinces have only just begun to use the legislation and that poorer provinces cannot take advantage of it in the way that rich provinces can.

Law Enforcement Said No Answer to Drug Use

TORONTO (CP) — Two members of the LeDain Commission indicated Thursday night law enforcement will never be their answer to the drug problem.

"We've got to repose faith in the individual . . . to live wisely in a chemical age," Gerald LeDain, chairman of the commission investigating the nonmedical use of drugs told a public meeting.

Commissioner Dr. Heinz Lehman, director of research at Douglas Hospital in Montreal, said law enforcement has not been the answer, leaving only two courses—education so the individual can make his own choice, and creation of a social attitude "which will enable people to control this phenomenon drugs."

"We hope the solution will evolve," Dr. Lehmann said.

Full Equality for French In Ottawa Is Recommended

OTTAWA (CP) — The next-to-final report of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism calls for a "radical reorganization" of country-wide voluntary associations to permit greater opportunities for French-speaking Canadians to participate in them.

The two-part report, tabled in the Commons Thursday by Prime Minister Trudeau, also contains indignant criticism at the low priority assigned by Ottawa's municipal council to issues involving the city's French-speaking minority.

It recommends that French and English have full equality of status in the capital area and proposes that the federal, Quebec and Ontario governments establish an advisory agency to co-ordinate programs to achieve that goal.

The report, divided into Book Five of the commission's findings, The Federal Capital, and Book Six, Voluntary Association, leaves still to be published one final report on the mass media, arts and letters in Canada, and a general review. The commission wound up its work in March after spending seven years and nearly $6,000,000.

The report on voluntary association deals with the language and cultural problems facing educational, service, athletic and commercial organizations which, although free of government control, "vitally affect the society of which they are part."

Unlike its practice in earlier volumes, the commission does not offer specific recommendations for action on grounds that it would be "presumptuous to do so."

It does, however, suggest that voluntary associations must accept certain basic requirements if they hope to assist Canadians "to realize and profit from the country's cultural duality."

The report warns that while many associations have made an effort to give their French-speaking or Francophone members equal opportunity to participate, there is a need for more than token changes.

The associations must become "culturally aware," the report says. "Leaders of associations should regularly examine their procedures and activities from a cultural point of view—what one might term a cultural relations, yardstick."

The report says that in predominantly English-speaking or Anglophone associations, Francophone members have tended recently to opt out.

The report suggests that separation of national groups along Anglophone-Francophone lines is not necessarily a development to be opposed at all costs —it may be, in fact, the only solution to the problem of equal participation.

Mail Shuttle Still Working

Belleville postal employees returned to work today — after their second 24-hour rotating strike caused a three - day delay in mail deliveries.

The walkout created a backlog, at the city's post office which could not be processed in time for delivery this morning, said postmaster Roy Wainwright.

Letters mailed in street boxes Thursday night had to be collected this morning. Mail from outlying Quinte points also was resolved early today, said Mr. Wainwright.

Yesterday's walkout came exactly two weeks after the rotating strike tactic first was ordered by postal union officials in the Belleville area.

Meantime, public and private - enterprise organizations continue to operate or utilize a variety of alternate services to assure delivery of important correspondence in and out of Belleville June 11.

Provincial government agencies in the city can take advantage of a daily shuttle service linking Queen's Park departments, with offices across the province. Dropoff and pickup point for government couriers is district provincial police headquarters. The service has been operating since last May.

Biggest government agency in the city is the federal Unemployment Insurance Commission regional office which also is linked to nationwide service, a spokesman said today.

Benefit cheques are distributed to area offices across Canada which in turn have set up community subfices to facilitate claimants.

The service mails and picks up correspondence across the U.S. Companies in the group are International Harvester, Stewart-Warner, Mead Johnson, Stephens-Adamson and Superior Electric.

Each company delegates a courier on a rotating basis — thus coverage service throughout the five-day work week.

Northern Electric, the city's biggest industry, still uses a normal mail procedures, a management official said.

However, when necessary the company uses the regular express service, utilized by city banks.

He'll Take It

With many people in the city leery about the new 'rainbow'-colored $20 bills being released, Jack Belanger didn't hesitate a minute when he exchanged his old twenties for the new bills Bank of Montreal current account teller Mrs. Carole Boothe was distributing.

It Might Look Strange But Money Is for Real

A local merchant yesterday refused to cash one of the newly designed $20 bills when asked to accept it in change.

"No, I won't change that," he said.

After explaining that the attempt to use the new bill was part of a survey being conducted by The Intelligencer, the store owner replied:

"Well, I still don't think I'll change it . . . but I'll go to the bank tomorrow and ask to see one."

The new bill, scheduled for release across Canada on Monday, arrived at only a few of the local banks on Wednesday. The downtown Toronto Dominion Bank began circulating its two packets of 100 bills each to their customers on Wednesday. The Bank of Montreal began releasing theirs yesterday.

Other banks have either not released their supplies, or have not ordered any at this time.

"It doesn't look like money," he said.

A possible explanation for this distrust could be the colors of the new bill, the first of a new series to be released.

As well as a full-color Canadian coat of arms, the new bill is interwoven with a mixture of yellow, mauve, blue red, and light green as well as the basic white green.

The result is a "rainbow" effect similar to various travel-effect cheques and store coupons.

At least, this was one explanation throughout the survey.

Although not having seen one before, he said: "I looked at it and saw Rasminsky's signature and the way it was printed, I didn't think anyone could forge something like that."

Verna Raycroft called the bill "an awful looking thing, but most of us in the store have been shown one and I would have chased it."

"I wouldn't have taken it . . . it looks like something you would find in cereal, only the cereal coupons look better," she said.

This morning, spokesmen for local banks agreed that the general reaction by the public is favorable.

Yesterday a teller explained that "once you show them the new bill is real, the customers accept them."

In a further survey later yesterday afternoon, most stores recognized the money.

Goldie Gets Reprieve

PICTON — "Goldie" an equine schemer with Houdini's contempt for locks recently realized he was going to the dogs...Plain horse sense told the big chestnut gelding resistance was useless since he didn't have a leg to stand on — a right hind leg that is. Crippled by an injury of long standing, Goldie was about to be purchased by a horse trader for sale as dog meat, when his luck changed. Bruce Wallace, a Picton horse enthusiast, bought the former western games mount as a stable companion for his standardbred gelding, Chex.

Wallace intends to do all he can to discover the reason for Goldie's lameness then follow a veterinarian's prescribed treatment. "If anything can be done for him I'll be all for it, even if the horse has to be rested for a year. On the other hand, if he's hopelessly crippled he'll be humanely destroyed," comments Goldie's owner.

Once a top contender in western competitions in the Quinte area, Goldie was valued this week by a former owner at $1,000 in sound condition. Wallace redeemed him from a horse trader for less than $100 owing to his lameness. If patience and proper care can put the speedy chestnut horse back on his feet Wallace plans to use him for pleasure riding. Goldie's trip from the show ring to your friendly grocer's shelf has been cancelled.

IN MEMORIAM

LOCKWOOD — In loving memory of our dear mother Jessie Lee Clarke Lockwood who passed away June 26, 1965.
Mother, 5 years have passed since you left us,
Left us with memories to remember,
Lonely are our hearts today,
Sad are the days since you died,
Our forever been sailed away,
Left us to grieve,
No eyes may see us weep,
No ears may hear our sighs,
But deep within our hearts,
When we are sad and lonely,
And every day we think of you,
We seem to feel you whisper,
Smile for me dear ones,
Your memory is our keepsake,
You seem to smile and say,
Don't cry, for I'm not dead,
But just sailed some distance away,
Sadly missed and dearly remembered by Daddy and Mommy.

LOCKWOOD — In loving memory of our dear mother Jessie Lee Clarke Lockwood who passed away June 26, 1965.
Sweet heart and her smile,
Sweet heart but her smile,
Sweet heart but her smile,
Is gone,
Here's a flower too sweet for earth,
Sent home by God above,
To show us what a perfect life in Christ can be.
And took Him with a smile.

Why Buy Life Insurance?
"Life insurance is a character product. Men buy it because they love their families, not because they are businessmen. Men buy it because they are homebodies and because they like to do it or not; they buy it because they have strong feelings about their families and things to which they have devoted their time, including their businesses. They buy it because they want to, not because they have to, because they are not compelled to leave somebody in a bad financial situation if it is within their power to do something about it".

Mmmm—They Are Good

Who said the old-fashioned ways of enjoyment are for the berries.

They came from every point of the compass, lured by the pleasurable prospects of an event that's as old as rural Ontario itself.

So great was the turnout that the diners overflowed into the roadway outside, impatiently waiting their chance at the tables. Automobiles lined approaches to the centre, continually feeding fresh supplies of appetites to the event.

The bustling, spontaneous response also was in a good old - fashioned cause — community effort.

Before the night was out Plainfield Women's Institute—which organized the event — estimated some 400 paying guests had overrun 116 quarts of strawberries.

Not a strawberry was bruised despite the crowd of youngsters, adults and senior citizens, that piled, plated and piled again.

Need Periodic Re-evaluation Director Tells UCS Agencies

Holders Cooperman, newly appointed executive director of United Community Services, has given representatives of member agencies a few gleanings of what his approach will be in administering the community service group.

Occasion for his remarks was last night's second quarterly meeting of UCS agency representatives held in the club room of RCSCC Quinte, the local sea cadet headquarters on S. Front Street.

"UCS is not just a fund - raising organization . . . We don't want the image that UCS is just an organization that comes around getting money," he said.

Mr. Cooperman said UCS must stress the image of community service and must cater to the needs of the people.

He maintained that community needs are not static and suggested, at least, periodic re-evaluations of these needs.

"We should determine what are the needs of the people, as the Y is doing," Mr. Cooperman said, referring to the Belleville Family YMCA's example of re-examining its role in the city.

In his attempt to take fresh assessment of Belleville's community services, Mr. Cooperman explained that one of the first things he is projecting is a full audit of all social resources in the community.

He added that the research facilities of Loyalist College could be called upon to do a case study of these resources.

Mechanics of the United Fund campaign for this fall were discussed at the meeting. Campaign chairman Jack Bennett announced that the fund drive for the 14 participating agencies will begin on Sept. 28 and will be slated for completion on Oct. 16.

Getting dedicated volunteer workers was the subject of considerable dialogue. Ald. Ben Corke maintained that "the calibre of canvassers is the biggest single problem" explaining that it would be better to have 20 individuals willing to work than a few 100 disinterested workers.

Fred Deacon suggested that large local corporations be solicited to provide executives to work for UCS. It was his contention this would be of considerable benefit to the United Appeal and would bolster corporate images.

There were varying opinions on recent criticism of the YMCA. One party felt that much of it had been "imaginary" whereas Mrs. Sinclair expressed the belief that, real or not, it had to be coped with.

Belleville Family YMCA president, John Hayman, reported that board of directors will meeting frequently and that the organization was on schedule with its action program.

Mr. Cooperman suggested that the public be made more fully aware of two facts, that the YMCA provides free membership to those who cannot afford it and that the YMCA is a member of UCS. He suggested that a sign be placed at the Y building to point out to the public that the organization is part of the UCS social service family.

The budget committee of UCS has not yet finished negotiations with member agencies, so a breakdown of the United Appeal objective is not yet available.

OWRC Sidney Hearing July 8

The Ontario Water Resources Commission will hear Sidney residents' comments on the new sewage disposal system proposed for the new Bayside Secondary School at a public hearing July 8 at 2 p.m.

Scene of the hearing will be Sidney Township Hall.

Clearance for sewer and water provision at the Bayside site has been obtained by the Hastings county board of education from OWRC. It is believed that the hearing is a necessary formality to give residents and other interested persons an opportunity to learn details of the provisions and voice opinions.

Clean-up Volunteers Needed

Belleville Pollution Probe official, Gordon Johnston, is calling for more volunteers for the organization's Moira River clean-up to be held Sunday.

Mr. Johnston told The Intelligencer that the clean-up would go on as scheduled, but more volunteers could be used for the project.

He said that the ranks of those interested had thinned out slightly in the face of "the actual nitty - gritty of the clean - up" approached.

The clean - up will begin Sunday at 10 a.m. in the Corbyville area six miles from the Bay of Quinte. Teams of workers will cover both banks of the river and will carry on along the shore of the Bay of Quinte to the hospital and along the northern shore in a westerly direction.

Not Only Students Glad School Over

The yellow buses have stopped rolling on county roads, the corridors are empty and repair crews have taken over the schools for their annual sprucing up.

The school year closed today, for the traditional relief of pupils, but the even greater relief of staff and administration in the two education al systems in the district.

The 1969-70 year has been marked with a teacher-board dispute in the separate school system with a threatened mass walk - out of teachers averted last December. The situation is now being resolved, with negotiation on the new contract proceeding smoothly.

The public system was under attack from a Tweed citizens' protesting sale of its high school to the separate school board and consequent loss of secondary education in the village. The school system was punctuated with motions of censure and calls for administrative resignations from Tweed.

A Metro Toronto teacher-board dispute threatened to prevent secondary teacher hiring for the coming school year, and delayed hiring until perilously close to the end of the school year.

Tight budgets as a result of a department of education grant formula, in theory supposed to up-grade education in low assessment areas but in practice handicapping them with lower grants than metropolitan boards received, prevented extension of programs here that would have made a start on equality of educational opportunity.

And grumblings about high education taxes have now reached the proportions of a steady refrain in trustees' ears.

With three - quarters of their two - year terms of office as the first county boards of education trustees now behind them, board members must keep their eyes on the first week of December when election time rolls around again.

In Belleville, the city recreation department is planning to open playgrounds for the annual summer program for children. Supervisors are now taking their final week of training and will be on hand at the playgrounds to register children July 3. The program officially begins July 6.

One final foul-up marked the end of the secondary school year.

The final report cards, mailed yesterday morning, got to the post office just as it closed in another rotating day-long strike.

Although some of the students got their report cards this morning, most will be delayed in the mails until Monday.

Secondary schol students ended their year last week, but their teachers remained in school until today, marking exams, preparing reports and holding evaluation sessions.

One of the few surviving department of education decrees still affecting schools is the regulation forbidding release of report cards before June 25. As a result of the mail strike, high school year for many county secondary students will be climaxed with a long, anxious weekend of waiting for the final verdict on their year's performance.

Separate School Board Loses 39 Teachers

Thirty-nine teachers of the 189 employed by the Hastings and Prince Edward separate school board at the beginning of the school year have handed in their resignations, effective the end of June.

The count was taken by the teachers this week during a meeting to elect a new executive for the local branch of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association.

Many of these resignations are a direct result of the lengthy dispute this school year between the teachers and the school board, spokesmen said.

Four of the teachers who resigned were members of the local executive of OECTA, holding positions as president, 2nd vice-president, secretary and treasurer.

The out-going president, Miss Theresa Durkin, thanked the teachers for their support during a "difficult" year and wished the new executive members good luck for their term of office.

The new district president for 1970-71 is Frank Evans, principal of St. Peter's School, Trenton. Other members of the executive are first vice-president, William Casey, Trenton; second vice-president, Barry Carmichael, Belleville; recording secretary, Miss Rosemary Phieffer, Madawaska; corresponding secretary, Miss Mary Heffernan, Belleville and treasurer, Tim Buckley, Belleville.

Alkenbrack Asks Death In Bombing

OTTAWA (CP)—Douglas Alkenbrack (PC — Frontenac - Lennox and Addington) drew a heavy round of applause from Progressive Conservative benches in the Commons Thursday when he suggested that capital punishment be written into the Criminal Code for bombing offenses resulting in death.

Mr. Alkenbrack called the bomb explosion at national defence headquarters here Wednesday "a hornole crime." The explosion resulted in one death and two injuries.

A New Director

Without reservation the community welcomes the appointment of Isidore Cooperman as director of the United Community Services.

His is not an enviable task but one we are pleased he is willing to tackle. The changing face of social need has unhappily created problems in our community. Even more unfortunately, it has precipitated misunderstanding among those who in the past have been willing to assume the burden of contributing financially to the city's attack on its social problems. In many cases this has even broken down into conflict over the role of member agencies.

Directors of the United Community Services have given notice recently they are prepared to change the name of the city's social planning arm so that it differs from the organization of member agencies who band together each year in a one-shot appeal for funds.

Mr. Cooperman's role could possibly be made easier if this was done immediately so that the public is made aware that his primary function is to run the social planning arm of the city administration.

However, as Mr. Cooperman's job is inextricably interwoven with the city's broad appeal for funds each year, it is encouraging to hear that he is prepared to undertake an audit of all social resources, health welfare and education, in the community.

Duplication of effort is with us as agencies have grown in their roles of alleviating the hardships of the more unfortunate.

Mr. Cooperman's intention to bring social agencies, government, industry, labor and religious groups together for action is a commendable one. Now would be a good time for the community to set aside its past unacceptance and provide a welcome environment in which Mr. Cooperman can approach his task.

Pumpout Station

The decision of Harbor Marine on South Front street to instal a boat pumpout station effective next Monday will be welcome news.

The lack of sewage pumpout facilities has been of concern to Commodore Richard Bird and members of the yacht club who were worried that Belleville's normal complement of visiting boaters might be reduced due to lack of such a service.

The matter has also been before city council on numerous occasions and after discussion at a recent parks board meeting the vital cause of a resolution being passed asking the province to assist those communities which had difficulty in setting up the required anti-pollution control.

Mr. Douglas Knight's action was an independent decision and one which is most highly welcome.

Mini-Devotees Arise!

Rally around, men. New York designer George Halley has dared to challenge the designer conspiracy and is holding out against the midi.

It could be the opening wedge in the fight to keep women suitably clothed.

Halley's reporter-Joyce Carter capsuled the struggle between dress manufacturers and the male population in this fashion:

"Women buy clothes because they are seduced into thinking that the new look will make them more desirable. So far, in men's eyes, women are less desirable in long skirts.

"It's a poor joyless seduction that's accomplished only by costuming."

There you have it George Halley, Joyce Carter and the mini.

Kazoo to You

A Kazoo Band might not be the normal entertainment served up to royalty, but the Quinte Travel Trailer Club had designed it it was good enough for Queen Elizabeth in 1967 it should serve the purpose of welcoming 1,200 visitors to the Quinte area this weekend.

An estimated 325 trailers will make Trenton their headquarters for the annual get-together. If the announced program lives up to expectations, and there is no reason to believe it will not, it will be yet another example of the hospitality of the friendly Quinte area.

Steam Reunion

In these days of diesels and turbo trains, Campbellford's decision to hold a steam reunion the weekend of July 5-7 is likely to attract a lot of steam engine buffs.

For those who like to explore a bit of the Quinte area on weekends it should prove an entertaining outing for both young and old alike.

U.S. Still Looks for Cool Summer in Troubled Cities

WASHINGTON (CP) — Despite firebombings, riots and other disorders in several cities during the last week, the justice department is still predicting a "cool summer" this year in America's troubled cities.

Not everyone agrees, especially several of the mayors and others concerned with preventing such destructive urban riots as occurred in these areas during the "hot summers" of the 1960s.

There is always a potential for disorders in many areas due to local factors," a justice department official said recently, "but the department anticipates cool heads will prevail this summer and violence will be avoided."

That was the opinion of many this time last year, for several reasons.

Many felt that the police forces, after the destructive riots in the major cities during the 1960s, had become expert at preventing small disorders and becoming major riots.

The economy was booming then and unemployment was low. Black militants were counselling against destructive acts and the movement to black pride and community control was prominent.

This year, some new disturbing elements have caused concern among Mayor Carl Stokes of Cleveland, Mayor John Lindsay of New York and others.

There is an economic slump that is beginning to be felt, and the unemployment rate among teen-agers has jumped to 25 per cent from 14.3 per cent last year. The rate for Negroes and other minority groups in the inner cities is higher.

Mayor Stokes says the prospects are "terrible."

"We have been having violence of all kinds, on the campuses, everywhere. Now you are going to have idle people out on the streets. And that only adds to the bad situation we already have."

Mayor Lindsay agrees, and he emphasizes the need for more federal money for jobs and recreation.

"New York will have $50,000 teen-agers on the streets this year, many of them without employment," he said recently.

The changing mood of the country must also be considered.

National surveys have indicated widespread hostility between young Negroes and the police, a growing access to weapons and explosives, the creating support for the Black Panther party and establishment of "liberation schools" for campus militants.

There has also been little change in conditions in the cities since a government commission found in 1967 that isolation of the poor in the hearts of the centre of deteriorating cities was doing fundamental damage to society.

There have been outbreaks of violence in Augusta, Ga., New York and other cities this spring, and in Miami last week about 89 persons were injured —14 by gunshots in a four-day outbreak of arson and rock-throwing.

In Des Moines, about 28 persons were injured in violence that followed the fatal shooting of an escaped convict by police in the predominantly Negro section of the city.

There was trouble in Brooklyn recently when demonstrators set fire to piles of garbage in the streets that the sanitation department had not picked up for several days. They also firebombed and looted stores.

"Sure they are going to riot," said one black businessman in the area.

"They see that one riot will clean up a small section . . . and they know by simple arithmetic that they will have to riot 16 times to clean up the whole neighborhood."

To the people in the Ghetto, the cool heads the justice department predicts will prevail may all be sitting in their air-conditioned offices in Washington.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

June 28, 1970 . . .

Governor John P. Altgeld pardoned three suspected anarchists 77 years ago today—in 1893—who had been imprisoned seven years before after a bomb-throwing incident in which seven policemen in Chicago were killed. Altgeld did so because he was convinced their trial had been rigged and the jury packed, and wrote a 18,000-word brief explaining why. However, popular feeling against radicals was against him and the pardon ruined his political career.

PhDs Find Work Scarce

Letter to The Globe and Mail

As the holder of a Ph. D. from a British university who has applied, unsuccessfully, to obtain employment in Canada following a research fellowship here, I feel Peter Sonnenfeld's letter (Too Many Ph.Ds?—June 19) calls for comment.

The newly graduated Ph.D. would be more employable if he regarded his degree merely as a certificate that he had successfully completed a research project in his chosen field, and has therefore the ability and experience to tackle a project in a related one, not necessarily the same. The complaint has often been voiced by prospective employers that the P.d.D. graduate is too specialized and is unwilling to adapt, wanting only to continue his work in his own special topic. It is distressing, therefore, to those seeking jobs to find that employers are becoming increasingly unwilling even to consider someone whose experience is not in exactly the subdiscipline required, and even more distressing to find this attitude in a university, where such over-specialization can only be self-perpetuating in successive generations of graduate students.

Dr. Sonnenfeld may indeed be unable to find a low-temperature biorgenetic or organic geochemist, or a Ph.D. in groundwater geology, but among the 98 applicants he regularly obtains for each job offered he could surely find someone with the ability and enthusiasm necessary to gain the skills required. The fact that so many of these experimentally trained people are either unemployed or sufficiently dissatisfied with their present position to seek a change is an indication that a change in attitudes of both applicants and employers is necessary.

Bail Reform Legislation To Require Study By Magistrates, Police

Niagara Falls Review

The long-awaited bail reform bill was presented by the Minister of Justice to the House for first reading. It is a complicated document to understand and will require careful study by magistrates, police officers and the public. However its intention will simplify the present inadequate system of dealing with minor offences and reduce the inequities of the bail regulations now in force. All authorities will be given an opportunity to study the bill before the Fall when the government will send it on its way through the House.

The present bail system dates from an earlier time when crimes were fewer and the number of magistrates and judges available to cope with the flow of cases without a backlog developing. But today the tremendous increase in crime and outmoded bail arrangements have meant that many accused persons who have had to spend periods in jail before their cases were heard by a judge. Private Citizen Don Jail is reported overflowing with this type of unconvicted suspects.

Under the new plan, the arresting officer will be given a wide degree of discretionary powers. Appearance notices for minor crimes will be issued. These are virtually summonses. If the offender fails to appear in court on the stated day a fine of $500 or six months in jail is mandatory. No bail is involved.

The procedure is, of course, only intended for minor offenders. This category will have to be defined in detail. It will be left to the discretion of the arresting officer whether to issue the appearance notice or, if he is suspicious of more serious aspect of the case, to arrest the suspect and proceed in the normal method now in operation.

The advantages of this reform are welcome. No longer will the jails be filled with minor offenders awaiting trial. This will mean fewer on-the-spot arrests and less expense for the taxpayer in feeding and lodging the accused until they come up for trial. But most of the added responsibility is given to the police officer. This added improved morale. In fact with the current pay raises most police have received, the many assets in becoming far more of a happy one.

This new proposal, doing away with bail bonds, lodging a prerogative of the rich and a disadvantage to the poor, is indeed welcome. But the responsibility delegated to the police officer requires careful study and full scrutiny. Careful instruction by legal authorities is necessary if the officer can be expected to play his part. The whole of the scheme depends on him.

Outlook No. 2

Violence Inevitable If Black Unemployment Persists

Kingston Whig-Standard

Violence, it appears, will be the inevitable answer this summer in the big cities of the United States to the continued refusal of most of the white majority even to try to treat the black minority's problems on an equal footing in every way. Everybody deplores racial violence but it appears that not enough white Americans deplore it enough to create the conditions which would end it.

Americans familiar with urban disorders are justifiably alarmed by new government statistics which show that unemployment among black teenagers is over 30 per cent in big cities. In Los Angeles, for example, 45 per cent of the black youths are without jobs. Watts is described as a "giant Roman candle, ready to blow." In Detroit, scene of bloody rioting in 1966, the black teenage unemployment figure is 49 per cent. Department of Labor officials say that 47.7 per cent of black teen-agers in poverty areas were unemployed in the first three months of this year, compared with 26 per cent in the same period in 1960.

The current inflationary recession in the U.S. has made the teenage unemployment situation worse this year than in the past. Today, more than 100 years after the Civil War, young blacks still are the last to be hired and the first to be fired. In most big cities local authorities and hundreds groups are co-operating in campaigns to find summer employment for disavantaged blacks. The economic slowdown, however, has made the task of keeping teen-agers off the streets this summer virtually impossible. As Mayor John Lindsay of New York City observed recently, in New York 500,000 youngsters, are out of school with no meaningful employment or recreation.

In the face of these distressing facts it is shocking that the reaction of the Nixon Administration and the press is one of calm indifference. There are federal funds for such "projects" as the supersonic transport; urban leaders such as John Lindsay and Mayor Walter Washington of Washington have to beg for federal money with which to "keep them off the streets." The American press now pays close attention to every word uttered by Vice-President Spiro Agnew but it tends to avoid stories and comment on the social conditions which contribute to the breakdown of "law and order" Mr. Agnew deplores. Meanwhile Congress is about to approve a new District of Columbia crime bill introducing "preventive detention" and giving police the right to smash down doors without warning.

How could the lessons of Watts, Detroit and the 1968 reports of the National Commission on Civil Disorder be forgotten so quickly?

through a combination of development assistance, commercial initiative, and political action.

The white paper committed Canada to a policy of trying to break down the diplomatic isolation of Red China. Lasting world peace cannot be secured without Peking's co-operation, it holds.

The document implied that Canada will persevere in its current effort, now well over a year old, to establish diplomatic relations with the Chinese Communists.

On Europe, the policy document says Canada intends to continue making a military contribution to NATO, though a reduced one. The line laid down is similar to that traced last year in a major pronouncement by Prime Minister Trudeau.

The white paper did not contain a separate component dealing with Canadian-American relations. Mr. Sharp said these are too complex to deal with in a single document.

The white paper reaffirms Canada's belief in the peace-keeping role of the United Nations, though it expresses doubt that there will soon be further occasion for big operations such as the UN undertook in the Middle East and the Congo.

The paper articulated a stiffening Canadian attitude towards the white-supremacy regimes of South Africa and Rhodesia. It forecast increased economic help to black Africa. And it signified Canada's intention to open another diplomatic post in a majority-ruled country of southern Africa, possibly Zambia.

Stolen Truck Chased

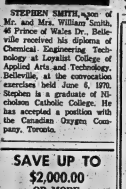
MADOC — Speeds of up to 80 miles per hour were recorded in an early morning chase here this morning between OPP Constable Gerry Rollins of the Madoc detachment and an unidentified male driving a stolen ½-ton truck.

Shortly before five a.m., the truck, reported stolen from Marlock at 4:45 a.m., was seen speeding east on Highway 7.



The officer gave a 10-mile chase from Marmora to Madoc over the road, which was under construction, with no room to pass.

The vehicle was brought to a halt at the west end of the bypass on Highway 7 before going into Madoc. The unidentified driver fled into the night and has not been apprehended.

The truck is being dusted for fingerprints at the Madoc detachment and will be returned to owner Marvin McNeely of Havelock after investigations are concluded.

A scraped fender was the only damage reported and a value of $50 has been estimated.

Officer Rollins reported that it was too dark to see the fleeing man.

Beneficial Parasite Sought To Eliminate Alfalfa Weevil

The days will soon be numbered for the troublesome alfalfa weevil, an insect that has been plaguing area farmers with alfalfa crops.

The Canadian Department of Agriculture's Research Institute here in Belleville has been trying to solve the problem by the use of parasitic insects.

Dr. James Kelleher of the Research Institute explained how this method of insect-control operates.

He told The Intelligencer that the alfalfa weevil had been discovered in New Jersey in the United States.

As a result of the presence of the weevil in the Quinte area, researchers here have been collecting parasitic varieties of insects that feed on the weevil.

The fundamental idea of the project is simple. The non-beneficial insect is destroyed by a harmless variety of insect before it goes to work on crops.

There have been reports of alfalfa weevils in Prince Edward County and north of Belleville in the Stirling area.

"Our role is co-operating with the Ontario and Quebec departments of agriculture," Dr. Kelleher said.

The Institute has been collecting and releasing in alfalfa crops five different kinds of parasitic insects.

This form of control is long term and more natural than pesticides and serves to rid alfalfa crops of the harmful weevil.

The season of the weevil is almost over now, Dr. Kelleher explained, stating that the insect does its damage while in its larva stage of development.

Because it is the larvae that do the damage, Dr. Kelleher encourages farmers to cut their alfalfa early before the weevil can do its worst.

"We don't recommend spraying, as it's expensive," Dr. Kelleher said.

The alfalfa weevil larvae shred the leaves on the alfalfa plant and the leaves therefore become bleached. An entire crop hit by weevils will look bleached and white.

Meeting Postponed To July 9

The meeting between the Prince Edward County board of education and the Committee for Quality Education concerning the proposed Kente school project has been postponed until July 9.

It will take place in the Bloomfield board office at 8 p.m.

The meeting was called to give an exchange of information about the projected kind organize to grade 13 school at the site of the present Kente school.

The Committee for Quality Education, so far opposed to extending the school to include secondary education, has submitted a list of questions to the board for answers at the meeting.

The postponement of the date was suggested by board chairman Edward Rutter, who noted that a large number of trustees have been invited to attend grade 8 graduations in most county elementary schools the night the meeting was originally scheduled — June 25.

Since the committee would prefer to meet with the entire board of trustees, July 9 was suggested as the first occasion all would be available to attend.

Man-made Fur Now Popular

NEW YORK (AP) — Man-made fur is gaining popularity as the fashion season.

Along with the current animal-print chiffons, velveteens and vinyls, these "furs" go a long way towards appeasing a woman's fashion appetite for tiger, snow leopard and cheetah, breeds endangered by extinction.

Active conservationist groups such as the World Wildlife Fund co-sponsored Princess Soraya Esfgel—La France fall showing of man-made furs, approves of this trend. They urge women not to buy real furs of endangered animals.

A 21-month-old tiger cub named Elizabeth was brought to the show to dramatize the fact that there are only an estimated 2,500 tigers left in the world.

For fall, Dynel and mohair are blended to duplicate cover furs in coats — and even dresses.

Sportswear's look of the tiger in "tigerish" fabrics translated into a pants coat with tie front and swing back by H.B. Fabrics. Charles Kleibacker used this "tiger" for a full - length evening dress.

"See-Otta" got the '30s treatment with deep collar and cuffs in rayon by Russell Taylor, designer - manufacturer of "furs."

Taylor presented his fall collection Thursday, including his "seal" in pants coat with "tiger" side panels. For a young look, he showed "beavers" in fun fabrics such as bottle green and navy blue. His men's "furs" are shaped for the broad chested. They include "seal," "pony" and "tiger" furs.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Honestly, I don't know what goes on in school these days. Jerry acts as if there's nothing to talk about. The more I ask questions, the more he clams up. We've certainly hit a generation gap."

A teen-ager's reticence with his parents may merely be his step toward independence. A relaxed friendly attitude on your part is the best way to keep the lines of communication open.

The early teen years are often secretive ones, when most boys and many girls stop confiding in their parents. This is not the time to pry or try to force confidences, but it is the time to be ever ready to listen.

Ann Landers

Genius Loses Jobs Due to Soap Operas

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter is 27 years old. She was an "A" student all the way through school. When it came to common sense, she didn't have much. Her grandmother used to say she was "book smart and life dumb."

Anne has a master's degree in English and taught in junior high for two years. Ten months ago she married a brilliant computer genius who gets lost on his way home from work and misplaces his paycheque regularly. He has trouble holding jobs because he becomes intrigued with afternoon TV soap operas and stays home from work. Recently, he became so enthralled with "Edge of Night" and "General Hospital" he failed illness for five days. Now he has fallen in love with "Sesame Street" and there is no telling when he will go back to his job.

Anne is pregnant and had to quit teaching last week. She told me yesterday her marriage was a mistake and she is fed up with the lazy lug. What should her father and I do? — AGONIZED FOLKS.

DEAR AG: Nothing. It's her mistake and her lazy lug. Let her know you'll give her and the baby bed and board if she should need it but say nothing that might encourage her to leave her husband.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Today is my birthday. I'm alone. My love just phoned to say his wife is ill and he can't leave her. This isn't the first time he has cancelled plans at the last minute. Of course there's nothing I can say or do.

My evenings are spent sitting by the phone. Sometimes it rings. Sometimes it doesn't. I'm afraid to leave the apartment for fear he'll call and I'll miss him. I hesitate to invite friends over because he might drop by when someone is here.

I'm ashamed to tell you how long I've been living like this. I'll just sign off with a warning to other starry-eyed fools who think the role of the Other Woman is exciting and glamorous. It's a lousy life and a lonely one. The road is a rough one and it leads nowhere. I've wasted my youth and I have no future. — TEARS IN THE PILLOW.

DEAR TEARS: Your message is plain. I hope the candidates read you loud and clear.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married eight years. We both want a family but I can't seem to get pregnant. He has been checked and the problem is mine, not his. Three doctors have told me the trouble is "psychological" and not organic. They have suggested adoption — and all three doctors have said, "After you adopt a child you will probably have your own."

The problem is my husband's big mouth. We have been interviewed by representatives of two adoption agencies. When they ask him about church attendance he says, "Religion is a lot of garbage. Children should be raised to depend on themselves, not a phony church." I know we will never get a child if he doesn't stop that kind of talk. I've begged him to just keep quiet about this subject but he says, "I'm no hypocrite."

What can I do? — REDDING, CALIF.

DEAR RED: You'd better start to contact adoption agencies which are not church-affiliated — if you're sure he wants a child. I'm not so sure he does.

Successful Living

See Your Doctor and Stay Well

By DORIS CLARK

When should you go to a doctor?

Is there any sense in paying him a visit when you seem to be thoroughly well? Would a series of headaches and you'd be concerned about being overweight? Maybe you suffer from persistent indigestion. Do you take bicarbonate of soda and try to forget it?

Every week letters in my mail bring situations to light that call for immediate expert medical advice. A woman writes: "For four years I have had bad headaches and they seem to get worse in the summertime when I am busiest.

If your philosophy about your own health is to grin and bear it, it's time to take a new look at what total health can mean to you and to those around you.

Mental men grow with distress about people who neglect simple symptoms far too long. The time to see a doctor is before you are sick.

* * *

Dear Doris: I am a senior high school student in a rural area and feel that my personality is far from exciting. Is there such a thing as a charm course by correspondence? Could you supply titles of books which deal with improving one's personality?

I am not particularly interested in cosmetics (which some of these courses are mainly about), but other aspects of a more charming personality. — A Bit Dull.

Dear Dull: There are both charm courses and books but of the courses usually require attendance in person.

When it comes to charm, the teachers have a good deal to say about what you do and how you think and your general enthusiasm for life. But grooming counts. You can spot a lady by the restraint with which she uses cosmetics.

A list of my leaflets on beauty, grooming, behavior, and book titles, is on its way.

Enthusiasm is a key to charm. Take up a hobby or sport. Read the newspaper. The more you get into things the more you'll enthuse.

* * *

Dear Doris: I am sending the poem "Mary Ann". It seems that the little girl who owned the doll, Mary Ann, had trouble with her arithmetic. Her way of mastering nine — times — six brought a surprising result.

I love your poetry items. — Mrs. A.

Dear Mrs. A.: I have a niece, Marianne, and the poem might almost have been written for her. Away back in school days arithmetic was her bugbear. I drilled her on seven — times — eight at various times of day until she never forgot it. This has been a family joke ever since.

I'm sending your little poem to her, many hundreds of miles from here, where she is raising four children of her own.

P.S. I'll send along a copy to anyone sending in 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

(Every day Doris hears from readers who report success after taking her advice or a human dilemma. Let her help you with yours.)

1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
2 tsps. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
2 tbsps. cocoa (first amount)
½ cup chopped walnuts

TOPPING:
½ cup granulated sugar (second amount)
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup cocoa (second amount)
1½ cups boiling water

To make the batter in mixing bowl cream together the sugar (first amount) and margarine until creamy then stir in the milk. Over the creamed mixture sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and cocoa and stir in until batter is smooth. Add and stir in walnuts. Turn into greased 8 x 8" square pan.

To make Topping in a small bowl mix together thoroughly the white and brown sugars and the cocoa and sprinkle evenly over top of batter. Now slowly with a back and forth motion, pour the boiling water all over the top. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 30-40 min. The wide spread in our suggested timing is because Mrs. K. suggests 30-40 min. but Betty's pudding was baked in a gas oven in 30 min. So since this is rich with sugar you must watch it to be sure it is removed from oven before it has a chance to burn on bottom.

Serve warm with whole milk if desired.

Ontario to Raise Minimum Wage in Two Steps

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"Here's that folksy place . . . I wonder if they still ask you if your nanny is full when you leave?"

Clergymen Paid Too Little

INGERSOLL, Ont. (CP) — Borden Co. Ltd., officials in Toronto have offered to meet representatives of the National Farmers Union who are picketing the Border plant in Ingersoll to protest the firm using whole milk powder imported from Ireland.

Walter Miller, vice-president of the farmers' union, disclosed the offer Thursday.

TORONTO (CP) — Increases in Ontario's minimum wage rates were announced Thursday as Ontario followed federal policy on the rates.

But the general rate will not reach Ottawa's level of $1.65 until April 1 next year. In the meantime, it will rise to $1.50 from $1.30 on Oct. 1.

The minimum rate in the construction industry is being raised by $1.75 and $1.80 on the same dates. It now is $1.55.

Labor Minister Dalton Bales, announcing the changes in the legislature, stressed that the new rates will cover everyone in the province except in the student and learner categories.

The federal rate, approved by the Commons Tuesday, applies only in employment that falls under federal jurisdiction.

Minimum wage rates were first established in Ontario in 1963. The general rate then was $1, the construction rate $1.25. The present rates have been in effect since Jan. 1.

Learner and student wages will be worked out and announced during the summer.

The increased federal rate takes effect July 1. Until October's increase comes fully into force, however, the federal rate will be higher than that of any province.

Mr. Bales said the new rates were reached after wide-ranging "impact studies" conducted in the latter half of last year. He said his department focused on studies of pay levels in 48 lower-wage industries.

He agreed with Donald MacDonald, New Democratic Party leader, that the higher rates might still not bring families above the income level considered necessary by social agencies.

But, he said, minimum rates do give "protection against exploitation" to "workers whose bargaining power is limited."

In other business:

—Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said further information will be gathered in an attempt to resolve "honest doubts" about a provincial police investigation into alleged Mafia connections involving the provincial police.

—George Kerr, county and city with dredging sections of resources minister, said Ontario Lake St. Clair that have been is expected to proceed immedi- polluted by industrial mercury.

Metro Teachers May Quit OSSTF

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of Metropolitan Toronto's 7,250 secondary school teachers begin discussions tonight which may result in the teachers forming their own union.

"The possibility of an independent Toronto union is being considered by a committee studying alternatives to the present structure of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

The teachers have complained of their minority position in the OSSTF which groups them in five districts. The OSSTF has a total membership of 25,000 in 33 districts across Ontario.

"The present method just doesn't work," Walter Miller, president of the OSSTF Scarborough district, said in an interview Thursday.

"The Metro teacher in many respects doesn't have anything in common with the teacher outside Metro," he said.

Lewis Is Likely Choice As Ontario NDP Leader

TORONTO (CP) — Donald MacDonald, leader of Ontario's New Democratic Party, for 17 years, announced Thursday he will not seek re-election to the party leadership this fall, leaving the job open for a younger challenger.

His resignation clears the way for Stephen Lewis, 32-year-old son of national NDP deputy leader David Lewis, who is expected to announce his candidacy for the leadership early next week.

Mr. Lewis (NDP—Scarborough West) is the choice of the majority of the party's 21 MPPs in the 117-seat provincial legislature and has support from most sections of the party.

Mr. MacDonald, 58, appeared on the verge of tears as he left the news conference where he made his surprise announcement.

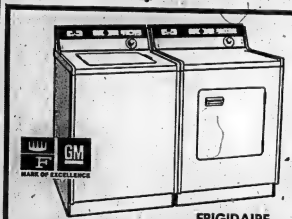
He told reporters he decided it would be best for the party for him to resign and said the NDP "stands on the verge of a magnificent breakthrough in the province of Ontario."

Premier John Robarts has indicated the NDP could be more of a threat than the Liberals in the next election, not expected for about two years.

And the choice of a youthful new leader for the NDP next October will increase the threat they represented under Mr. MacDonald, some observers say.

The NDP leader said he assessed the support he has among party followers and concluded he could have retained the leadership this year, as he did when deputy leader James Renwick challenged him in 1968.

"But the campaign would only be at the cost of serious diversion of time and energy from the top priority of election preparation and inevitably the contest would have had the appearance of a long-time leader trying to hang on beyond his day."



A spokesman for Mr. MacDonald's office said that one key to the resignation was a recent statement by Dennis McDermott, Canadian vice-president of the United Automobile Workers who said he would remain neutral if Mr. Lewis challenged Mr. MacDonald for the leadership.

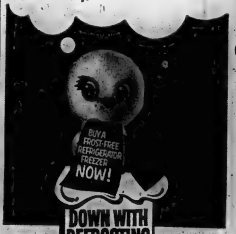
Think of all the cool things about a frost-free refrigerator freezer.

Every housewife should have one. Frost never forms. Not in the big refrigerator section. Not in the big freezer section. So there's no defrosting. Ever. And you know what that means.

No more dripping water to mop up. No more waiting for frost to melt. Your ice cube trays won't stick any more. No more re-freezing frozen foods.



You'll have more storage space, because you'll be free of all frost accumulation. And your frozen foods won't stick together.

Think about it.

Think of all the extra space you'll have for stocking up on food bargains.

And besides all that, think how much more attractive your kitchen will look with a sleek new frost-free refrigerator freezer.

Morris Ties Mark In Select Company

by Maurice Switzer Sports Editor

A group of 20 spectators isn't the sort of crowd you might think would inspire an athlete to outdo himself.

But that's how many it took to get a Canadian record performance out of weightlifter Price Morris Thursday night.

With only coach Ken Carr-Brasint and fellow Apollo Barbell Club members looking on, Morris unofficially equalled the 344-pound, native press record set by Canadian champion, Russ Price at last month's British Commonwealth Games in the city.

Morris, whose best previous official press was a 341, weighed in at 244 pounds, two over the limit for the class in which he will compete at next month's Commonwealth Games in Edinburgh.

A 275 - pound snatch and 275 clean and jerk gave "Percy" a 895 total — five better than the May 23 total that earned him a berth on the nine - member Canadian weightlifting team, but not enough to get coach Carr-Brasint excited.

"He's getting stale from too much training. And there was the natural letdown after the Trials. That always happens."

But why a record - equalling performance in the Boswell St. 44' x 12' garage-clubhouse, of all places?

"As long as there are five or six people watching that lifting don't know, it seems to make them bear down," explained Carr-Brasint. "They can always do better in any form of competition than in training."

Last night's inter - club contest marked Morris' last lifting on Canadian soil until he begins pre-Games training in Edinburgh.

"He needs a layoff to relax," said coach Carr-Brasint, who will fly over with the Canadian team July 7th.

"The day after we arrive in Scotland, Price will begin training daily and then until two days before the actual contest. He'll get in almost two full weeks of training."

He had missed 315 - pound presses in his last two contests — the Ontario and Canadian championships.

"I'll bet a buck I don't miss the blankety-blank tonight," he offered a bystander.

Who Needs A Crowd?

Not Apollo Barbell Club weightlifter Price Morris, who last night unofficially equalled a Canadian 242-pound-class record with this 344-pound press. Only spectators to the feat were fellow members of the Apollo Club, which last night held an informal contest in the tiny Boswell Street clubhouse, formerly coach Ken Carr-Brasint's garage. The contest marked Morris' last lifting before leaving for Edinburgh July 7 to compete for Canada in the Commonwealth Games.

Harness Racing Requires Knowing All Mistakes

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

"Mistakes?", smiles Belleville harness racing driver Pat Herrington. There must be a thousand you can make when you're driving. Probably the most common are allowing yourself to get boxed in, and setting too fast a pace at the start."

Herrington has managed to avoid the pitfalls of his profession enough to become one of the top local drivers, reaping from two - six horses on an average racing night.

He started racing three years ago, passing the requirements set for harness racing drivers. To be eligible candidates must pass a written test, obtain references from six licensed drivers and prove themselves in qualifying races.

"I've worked around horses all my life — although not race horses," says Pat of his involvement in the racing game. His sister Reta Herrington, was a top Belleville driver for a number of years, and is now on the big Western Ontario circuit.

"It's a big advantage to know your horse," Pat admits. "With some you can go in the front right away, and with others it's better to hold back until the final stretch."

One horse that Herrington definitely knows the characteristics of it Golden Cee, a six - year - old brown trotter which he owns and trains.

"A trotter is harder to drive because they break stride easier than a pacer, and they take more time to train, but a person can make a lot of money with a good trotter," he says.

Herrington will be sending Golden Cee to the post for the second time this year, in one of the two Sunday night heats of the Quinte Riding Club card. Post time is 7:45 p.m.

Under Wraps

Belleville harness racing driver Pat Herrington cools out trotter Golden Cee at the Belleville Fairgrounds. Herrington, a three-year racing veteran will be one of the drivers competing in the Quinte Riding and Driving Club's Saturday night card.

Lacrosse Midgets Learned Lesson

Despite the fact that the Belleville midgets absorbed a 12-4 loss to Oshawa in their first Ontario Minor Lacrosse Association contest, coach Wally Uhrynuk feels that the team is "learning their lessons."

"I was pleased with the way the boys played," said the coach, "and I know, now, that they're capable of playing good lacrosse. We'll have to work on conditioning and finishing off our plays — the latter of course, comes with experience."

One participant who wasn't handicapped by inexperience was Belleville goalie Peter Cox, who played brilliantly despite being beaten 12 times. "He must have stopped at least another 12 certain goals," says Uhrynuk.

The home team was able to hold the Green Gaels to only three goals in the first period, while scoring twice themselves, before the Oshawa club's superior conditioning paid off.

Ricketts played a fine game for Belleville, although lack of finish around the net cost him the opportunity for a couple of goals.

Gary Bone led the Oshawa attack with five goals.

Ruin No-Hit Bid

Rollins Construction was again applying pressure on the first - place Elks Juniors while the pressure was too much in the Point Anne - Stinson's half of Thursday's Commercial Softball League double-header.

Rollins moved within two points of first place by whipping Corby's 5-3 and Stinson's broke up Jamie Hunter's no hitter in the seventh to edge the Cementmen 1-0.

Wayne McConnell fired a five - hitter to pick up the win for Rollins and also fanned nine Corby batters while walking four.

The Constructionmen got all their runs in the first inning as they jumped on Corby starter Gerry Genereaux for five hits including two home runs from Brian Harder and Bob McAlpine. A double and single from Dale Alexy and two singles from Skip Belch highlighted the Rollins attack. Plane and. safeties by Carl Boomhower and Jerry Hill were the other Rollin hits.

Genereaux and reliever Pat Scollard combined to give up nine hits while fanning three and walking one, on the Corby mound. Chuck Rowbotham's homer and double along with single from Gary Goyer, Don Smith and Pat Scollard were the only hits the Distillerymen could muster off McConnell.

Harold Workhoven's long single in the bottom of the seventh scored Bert Deroo providing Stinsons' 1-0 winning margin and completing Jamie Hunter's last inning catastrophe.

Hunter had fired no - hit ball for six innings and had allowed only one walk before the disastrous seventh frame.

Consecutive singles by Lyle Thompson, Wayne Woods, Rick Denard and Paul Stinson set up Workhoven's game-winning shot off the left field fence.

Stinson Jeffs pitched the Stinson victory allowing four hits, all singles, to Eric Mabee, Mike Cook, Ross Boasbush. and Gerald Maher while fanning three and walking only one batter. -

Kinsmen Don't Waste Any Time

But for the grace of half an hour the Kinsmen Juniors might have taken the home - and - home EOBA series against their Port Hope intermediate counterparts. Thirty minutes cost the Juniors a 9-0 default on Wednesday but they came to play Thursday night whipping Port Hope 7-3.

The three - hit pitching of Garnie Adams and five Port Hope errors propelled the Juniors to their victory. Adams fired no - hit ball for five innings before Paul Wakely punched a single in the sixth. Adams issued three walks and fanned 13 batters including a string of seven in a row.

Glenn Carleton paced the Juniors by batting five-for-five, getting four singles and a double. A double from mid-get graduate Brian Cousins and singles from Terry Meagher, Craig Rump, Dale Duval and Garnie Adams rounded out Belleville's ten - hit attack.

John Smith hurled for Port Hope and fanned seven batters while walking only two in going the distance. Hitting support in the form of singles from Rick Austin, John Smith, and Paul Wakely was insufficient to stop the Juniors.

Impossibles

The fairway wedge is a great recovery club. It can recover you from many an errant drive or iron location. Let's say you've hit the ball off the fairway and landed in a tree that blocks your way to the green. Since the Ranger sets low to the ground, your only chance is to hit over it.

Considering you have a good lie, take the fairway wedge and assume an open, wider than usual stance. Play the ball forward, off your left heel, and open the clubface a bit (pointing it right of target). The idea is to slide the clubface under the ball with the least amount of contact.

The wide stance will accommodate a quicker action and shorten the backswing. Used for this shot, PGA Pro Ricky Cooper early in the backswing and keep your action slow as you move easily through the ball.

Sudden-death Thompson Top League Train Robber

While as yet posing no threat to Jesse James' modern day record, Intelligencer catcher Merv "Sudden Death" Thompson, is fast becoming the top train robber in the Industrial Softball League.

Thompson crashed a last - inning homer, last night, to nullify a four - run comeback by the CNR Turbos and give the Intell a 9-8 win. The victory lifted them into a first - place tie with the CNR team.

The winners carried an 8-4 lead into the final inning only to see a pair of walks, Cam McKenna's triple and a circuit blast by Zane Plumbe, knot the score.

Thompson delivered the game - winning homer, his second of the season, with one out in the bottom of the seventh.

Dave Feeney hurled the win, allowing eight hits, walking nine and getting four men on strikes. For the losers, it was Rod Bennett going all the way. He was touched for eight hits and issued only one walk, while fanning four batters.

Thompson added a single to his home run to pace the winners at the plate. Bob Brooks added a double and a single with Bill Hoard, Pat Brown, Eric Emerson and Dave Feeney collecting a hit apiece.

Cam McKenna belted two triples for the Turbos, while Zane Plumbe had a homer and Fred Page a pair of safeties.

Mead Johnson moved to within one game of first place by edging AOCO 9-8 as pitcher Steve White singled in the bottom of the seventh to drive in the winning run.

White gave up 12 hits walking three and striking out an equal number for the winners. Neal went the route for AOCO issuing 10 hits and one walk. He fanned four batters.

Vincai crashed a homer and a single in a losing effort, while Neal, Smith and McCoy added two singles each.

The Fire Department added some last minute heroics of their own, scoring in the bottom of the seventh to take a 5-4 Minor Soccer victory last night as they blanked Jim's Pizzeria.

Mike Kirby was the big booter, with a three - goal performance. The others went to Ralph Kolaars and Jeff Hockley.

Kirby's Three Good Kicks Rivet 5-0 Win for Steelworkers

Mike Kirby was the big booter, with a three - goal performance. The others went to Ralph Kolaars and Jeff Hockley.

Station Street Food Market edged Belleville United 2-1 in the only other game played. Scoring for the winners were Bob Crawford and Larry Arsenault. Kelly Munkittrick scored for the losers.

Cubs Do June Swoon, Drop All Five to Mets

It's better, says manager Leo Durocher, for his Chicago Cubs to do a June swoon than a September sag, which last year cost them the National League East Division pennant.

"If we have to run into a slump, I'd rather do it now than later on," Durocher said Thursday after the world champion New York Mets wrapped up a five-game sweep over the Cubs with an 8-3 triumph and took a 1½-game lead over Chicago in the East Division.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh Pirates rallied for three runs in the ninth inning and beat St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 and Philadelphia Phillies edged Montreal Expos 3-2 in 11 innings. The Los Angeles Dodgers-Atlanta Braves game was rained out.

You might say the Mets stole first place from the Cubs, swiping 18 bases in the five-game set.

But Leo conceded the resurgence of the Mets, who did virtually the same thing to the Cubs last September, was due to more than base stealing, which already has produced a Met club record of 74 thefts.

"Every time they swung the bat against us this week they got a hit," said Durocher.

"Not only did they get the breaks, the Cubs had six errors and several defensive mental lapses in the series, but they took advantage of every opportunity which presented itself.

"There's no question we miss Randy Hundley (injured catcher), but our hitting and pitching have been terrible when we needed either. There's only one guy delivering goods, Jim Hickman. . . ."

In the big Met second, six hits, three errors and a double steal anchored Ken Holtzman with his fifth loss against eight wins. The Mets pulled another double steal in the seventh, with Joe Foy scoring home.

Alomar Streak At 20

Joe DiMaggio's record is a long way off, but Sandy Alomar is closing in on the longest hitting streak in nine American League seasons.

"I'd like to hit in 57 straight games, but the main thing is winning," the California Angels second baseman said Thursday after stroking two hits and running his string to 20 straight games as the Angels whipped Chicago White Sox 7-3.

Alomar was referring to the former New York Yankee great's 56-game hitting streak of 1941 which hasn't been threatened since. However, Alomar is only four games away from the 24 straight that Lennie Green of Minnesota Twins hit in 1961.

In other AL games, the Yankees stopped Cleveland Indians 3-1, Baltimore Orioles bombed Boston Red Sox 13-8 in 14 innings, Detroit Tigers nipped Washington Senators 2-1, and Milwaukee Brewers dropped Minnesota 4-1.

Clay Making Comeback . . . of Sorts

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP) — Cassius Clay, former world heavyweight boxing champion, is scheduled to make his return to the ring after a three-year layoff July 9 in Charleston.

Charleston boxing promoter Reggie Barrett says he has signed Clay, who is also known as Muhammad Ali, to appear in a six-round sparring session with Jeff Merritt of New York City.

Seeds Planted Right

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The heavily-criticized seeding committee of the Wimbledon tennis championships was smiling today. That's because 11 of their 16 selections made it into the fourth round of the men's singles, with one more still to play.

They would have had another hit, for 36-year-old Tom Gorman, of Seattle, who sprang the biggest upset of the tournament Thursday by knocking out Cliff Drysdale of South Africa 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

The most controversial seedings, bitterly criticized by some stars who were left out of the list, were three European clay court specialists. But one of them, Ilie Nastase of Romania, did the committee proud by reaching the last 16 with a five-set victory over South Africa's Terry Ryan.

Meanwhile the big guns—Rod Laver and John Newcombe of Australia and Arthur Ashe, the U.S. Davis Cup star—also advanced.

But Laver showed he is not completely invulnerable. Frew McMillan of South Africa, took a set from him before the reigning champion won 6-2, 3-6, 6-0, 6-3.

Newcombe, seeded to meet Laver in the final, hammered another Australian, Open Davidson, 8-7, 6-3, 7-5.

Ashe downed the Egyptian lawbander, Ismael El Shafei, 6-3, 6-1, 3-6, 6-0.

Balding Leads Open With Sizzling 64

GUELPH (CP) — Al Balding of Toronto holds a two-stroke lead entering today's second round of the 54-hole Ontario open golf championship but he can't afford to relax.

Balding, a top North American professional who gathered the largest gallery Thursday, eased in with a six-under-par 64 on the par-70, 6,210-yard Cutten Golf Club course.

His score was one stroke short of the course record of 63 set in 1962 by Nick Weslock of Mississauga, the open's leader in 42 years with seven victories, the first in 1946 when he was 28.

Balding is being chased by 12 players who broke par and 19 others who were at even par.

Good weather and competition also resulted in 14 players tied at 71, and nine at 72.

Balding, who skipped the more lucrative financial offerings of the Cleveland Open to play here, was disappointed with his play although most predict he will win the $2,800 first -place prize money.

"My putting finally came around but my drives were quite a bit out of line," he said.

The 42-year-old golfer, who plays out of Southampton, had 18 3s, an eagle on the par five first hold and a one-over-par after three putts on the 18th.

His nearest challengers are Stan Homenuik of Dauphin, Man., and Bill Wright Jr., of Edmonton.

Tied at 67 are two professionals, Gary Bowerman of Richmond Hill and Garry Pitchford of Toronto, and two amateurs, Stu Hamilton of Brampton and Robert Bradley of Oshawa.

Five others were grouped at 68. They included professionals Frank Whibley of Toronto, Gary Slaiter of Campbellville, Moe Norman of Gifford, and Pete McGregor of Guelph and amateur Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener.

Alone at 69 was 19-year-old Dale Tallon of Toronto, winner of the Canadian Junior championship last year.

Weslock, the defending champion, had a 70 and Gary Cowan of Kitchener, the 1968 Open champion, was in with a 71.

Tallon, drafted by Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League earlier this month, eagled the first hole but his putting faltered on the back nine.

"It takes a while to get used to golf after playing hockey," said Tallon, who starred with Toronto Marlboros.

"In hockey you can belt somebody if you get mad but in golf ..... well, there's nobody to take it out on but yourself."

One of the early surprises of the tournament has been the play of 41-year-old Kesselring Ontario pro as an amateur in who is making a comeback as 1953 and 1957, and as a profes- an amateur. sional in 1956 and 1957. He has Kesselring, who hit 12 out of recently been reinstated as an 18 greens in regulation, won the amateur.

'Folding Camp'

Two of the more than 300,000 annual visitors to the Outlet Park camping area lean up to maintain a tidy campsite. Over 500 campsites are in use at the Outlet, alone, handling the influx of summer campers.

Thousands Vie for Sites At Area Camps

That great North American institution is upon us again, swelling the Quinte district population over twice its normal level, congesting the major highways of the area, bringing wealth, prosperity, and frivolous courage to the region and returning citizens to the cities with colds, poison ivy and poverty. Yes, the summer camper hath returned.

Each year the six major parks of the Quinte area are faced with thousands of campers vieing for a site in the woods so as to escape the sweltering heat and confusion of city life.

Says Ken Moore, superintendent of Presqu'ile Provincial Park, Brighton: "This year we are already 34,000 people over what we were at the same time last year and just last Saturday we had 250 families visiting our park."

This keeps the 500 campsites at Presqu'ile filled virtually all the time and also provides the interpretive program with an eager audience. "We have two hiking trails about a mile long, a museum and an outdoor theatre where films, slides, and lectures are presented to the campers to inform and entertain them," says Mr. Moore.

Maintenance of a mile-and-a-half beach, the trailer dumping station, the outdoor lavatories plus the water patrols and park patrols keeps the 23-member summer staff busy the entire camping season.

The Toronto-Oshawa area seems to supply the major portion of the campers at

Vacation Patterns Change

Want to bridge the generation gap within your family? Then move out into the great outdoors. You don't have to go far — the gap begins to shrink right at the doorstep to your patio, where the great outdoors begins. So give your family a new room — outdoors.

Patio size, decor and degree of elegance are up to you and your pocketbook. Just remember that an outdoor family room can be fun whether it's a tiny, geranium-bordered back yard furnished with brightly painted second - hand furniture or a lavish, landscaped, canopied complex.

Most important is the feeling of freedom and friendship the whole family experiences the moment they move outdoors together. That's one reason homes with patios sell faster and bring better prices.

You can get more use from your pool and patio area if you equip it with outdoor gas appliances — a pool heater, "people heaters," grills and lights. A thermostatically controlled gas pool heater, for example, can increase useful pool time as much as 50 per cent.

Add gas infra-red heaters on the patio and your outdoor living season can be extended by two or three months.

When you climb out of a heated pool and kneel at in the warmth of a gas patio heater, you'll never realize there's an autumn chill in the air. Like the sun, gas infra-red heaters, either portable or permanently mounted, can make a generous section of your patio or poolside cozy after the sun goes down, and for months before and after the days are warmed by the sun.

With an outdoor gas grill, open-air meals can be fun without fuss, and they get blother out of the kitchen during nice weather. The permanent briquettes in gas grills transform heat from the flame into a radiant glow that gives food a charbroiled flavor. Gas heat is instant and easy to control, and clean-up is minimal.

To light up your outdoor supper and make life in the open air as attractive as it is comfortable, install gas lighting on the patio and around the pool. Its soft glow sets a mellow mood for open-air living, and when winter comes, you'll enjoy the gleam of gas light on the snow.

Parks Expanding

Vacation patterns are undergoing rapid transformation. While July and August are still the most popular months, more and more people are flocking to national parks in spring, early summer, fall and even in winter.

There is a steadily increasing demand for outdoor camping facilities during the winter months. Travel analysts believe this demand may assume quite substantial proportions in the next 10 years.

Canada Plans Growth In National Park Chain

Already a leader in the development of national parks, Canada is planning to expand the 1969 chain of 19 national parks to between 60 and 80 by the end of this century.

Ten new parks will be in operation within five years. One of the first will be the first national park in Quebec Province — on the Forillon Peninsula in the Gaspe region. The Canadian government is now spending some $8 million to develop it.

There is no doubt that Canada's national parks are used and appreciated. In 1969, some 15 million people visited them — and even more are expected in 1970. Attendance has been increasing by 10-15 per cent annually, and these figures will escalate sharply as new parks are opened and recreational facilities upgraded.

Estimates indicate that by the early 1980s, some 25-30 million people will be visiting the parks.

Ranging in size from one square mile to over 17,000, and covering a total area of about 30,000 square miles, Canada's national parks were chosen to preserve some of the most beautiful scenery in the country, and recreational facilities.

To meet these high standards, an area must satisfy certain strict requirements:

- It must contain some unspoiled natural feature such as outstandingly beautiful scenery, rare geological interest, unique flora or fauna;
- The territory must be large enough to support a flourishing wildlife in the most congenial environment;
- The cost of development and preservation "in perpetuity" must be justified by the pleasure it will give visitors;
- It must be left unimpaired for the benefit and enjoyment of future generations.

Canada's parks expansion and on the belief that outdoor recreational areas have to be organized to, face entirely new and, in some cases, entirely unexpected situations:

- A large percentage of the population will use them regularly for health and recreational purposes;
- Social, economic and political changes will produce a radical change in their function;
- Increasingly rapid technological progress will accelerate the need for those changes.

Canada has divided all park territory into five broad groups, according to their "land-use."

In the first group, vehicular traffic is absolutely prohibited, to allow plant and animal communities to flourish with the minimum of human interference. Group five, at the other end of the "land-use" spectrum, is permitted a certain amount of regulated traffic because of existing local communities (e.g. Banff Townsite).

The three groups in between are classified as rural, semi-rural, and semi-urban — with the accent always on the natural and unspoilt.

Provision is also being made for recreation in every month of the lengthening vacation year — watersports, wintersports, golf, tennis, lawn bowling, trail-rid-

Play It Safe—Northern Waters Are Cold

By Stan Davies

Living in Canada demands one important consideration when buying a lifejacket, that need not be applied in other boating areas — such as the Florida Keys.

The important thing is that northern waters are quite cold for a large part of the year. It naturally follows that anyone who, because of a boating accident, must remain in these cold waters for any length of time is likely to suffer from exposure.

Such exposure can cause unconsciousness. In fact, it's not at all uncommon to read of people being picked out of the water after having passed out from the cold — even on what would be considered a warm summer weekend.

So, this brings up the major consideration in selecting a lifejacket of any kind for such conditions. It is imperative that the life saving device keep the wearers nose and mouth above water even if the wearers loss consciousness.

Needless to say most modern lifejackets are designed this way. They have a pad of floatation material behind the head, and the rest in one or two big slabs down the front. This distribution generally keeps a person face up, with nose and mouth as high as possible, which is the way it should be.

But there are exceptions. Even modern designs don't work well for some body types and there are still many old-style lifejackets being carried on boats that have never been put to the test.

So let me urge every boater to put all lifejackets he carries on his boat to the rigid test required. A good way to do it is to put on a jacket and jump into the water. Allow the body to go limp, just as it would if you had passed out from the cold.

If the jacket doesn't work, throw it away.

There is a vast area of uncertainty concerning lifejackets and all life saving devices as is shown by some of the questions I've been asked:

Q — I have a couple of life preservers stamped: "Do Not Dry Clean". Why?

A — The dry cleaning solvent may damage the plastic foam used in some lifejackets, or the plastic bag containing the kapok or other floatation material in others. Use a gentle household detergent.

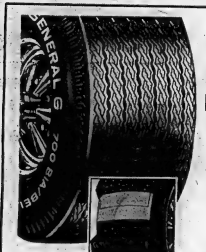
Q — Our lifejackets are 14 years old and have never been used. Are they still good?

A — It's quite likely that they no longer meet the acceptability standards of the Federal Department of Transport. After 1963 all devices that used kapock for floatation material were required to have it in sealed plastic inserts so that it wouldn't get water logged. I'd buy new ones.

Q — There is quite a bit of criticism of boxyard cushions. Are they useful at all?

A — Yes, they certainly have their place. They are not offered as a substitute for a well-fitting lifejacket, but they are easily grabbed in an emergency and are excellent for small craft that do not venture far from shore. They'll keep you afloat until help can get to you — if you don't lose consciousness.

Q — Do lifejackets come in children's sizes?



A — Definitely, but sometimes even the smallest size can be pretty big, or a poor fit, for a child. Care should be taken that when it is worn it's tied on securely enough so that the child's head will not slip through. It has happened.

Q — Why don't you push for a law requiring everybody to wear a lifejacket all the time they are in a small boat. It would save lives . . .?

A — Wouldn't that be fun? Also, think of the cost of paying all the police to enforce such a law. You've got to be kidding, but safety groups have urged such a law in the past — in the name of safety. It would be easier to ban boating completely.

Q — We've practised and can put our lifejackets on in 20 seconds. Is that good?

A — It's terrific. But look at it this way. If conditions are really dangerous and such that you might be pitched into the water, you should be wearing your lifejacket. Two other things you might practise is finding them in a hurry, and putting them on in the water. Your practice sessions will pay off in an emergency.

If enough support is found the future holds many changes for soccer in Belleville. Mr. Hockley hopes to develop a club system like those used in Europe and also initiate inter-city competition. "But before we can fully develop minor soccer we must have the co-operation of parents to assist in coaching, refereeing or at least coming out to watch."

The newest member of minor sports is lacrosse which has caught the fancy of 200 boys this year, an increase of 100 from last year.

"We are very fortunate in the number of coaches and received from the parents and the development of a good minor system will provide the nucleus of junior and senior teams in the near future," states lacrosse president Ray Payne.

In all phases of minor sports the future holds much for the children of Belleville who rely on these organizations for summer fun. Now if only more parents will help "the kids will be off the streets."

HUNTING TIPS

A little common sense and courtesy go a long way toward keeping farmlands free of posted signs; hunt like the gentleman every sportsman should be.

The late Herb Parsons, Winchester-Western's famed exhibition shooter, scored a real bull's eye when he advised the father who hunts with his son will never have to hunt for him.

No Tall Tales

Pictures Are Proof

Almost everyone remembers the old fisherman's tall tale that goes something like this: when the fisherman up in the north woods was asked about the biggest fish he had ever caught he said, "Well, we never really weighed the fish — but the picture... about weighed six pounds!"

There is no prouder fishing trophy than a good snapshot of the day's catch. Closeups work best (and if you want to fudge a little on the size of the fish you can hold the stringer of fish close to the camera and they'll appear larger).

Lots of parents get some of their greatest snapshots catching their youngsters casting, reeling in a fish or holding it up in the boat right after catching.

Sailing Is Bay of Quinte Pastime

Bay Provides Regatta Site

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

The natives have known about it for years, and now the word is spreading throughout North America about the unique advantages of the Bay of Quinte for sailing enthusiasts.

If the ground swell now gathering momentum crests to the proportions expected, Belleville could, in a few years, find itself the regatta capital of Canada.

Although the bay has sporadically been the scene of regattas over the past 100 years, the increase in sailing in recent years has drawn new attention to Quinte waters.

Last weekend, 44 skippers of the Canadian Albacore Association and their crews ran off the championship here and were so impressed they asked to come back for the next running in 1972.

The Canadian Fireball Association approached the directors of Bay of Quinte Yacht Club to hold their regatta here this year but arrangements could not be completed in time. The Fireball class may have its turn at the bay next year.

Reasons for the bay popularity include temperature, wind, and resources — both human and physical.

The bay is protected by its surrounding shores from the strong winds common to Lake Ontario, making it ideal for the small centreboard craft gaining popularity among North American sailors.

With berthing space for large keel boats in short supply, more sailers are turning to "dry sailing" — keeping their boats on land during the week and hauling them by trailer to launching ramps for weekend sailing. These smaller boats need more protected waters than the Great Lakes offer.

But high protecting shorelines shut off winds — except on the Bay of Quinte. The long stretch of Belleville Reach lies along an east-west axis — to the path of prevailing westerly winds.

Another factor ensures enough wind for sailing on the bay almost every day of the season. The warm land mass of Prince Edward cools meeting the cool water of the bay creates thermal winds to ruffle the waters every afternoon.

"The unusual thermal wind situation off Prince Edward is a big factor in the bay's favor as a site for scheduled racing competitions," said BQYC's Commodore Richard Bird. "We can assure competitors of enough wind to keep their events moving anytime during the season."

The factor was noted by Albacore skippers, who found this y.ar's event the first in which they had been able to stage seven races for their championships.

Seven races is the ideal they strive for, but until coming to the Bay at Quinte this year they have had to settle for running off only four or five events.

Water temperature in the bay proved as a pleasant surprise to visiting yachtsmen. Centreboard craft capsize routinely in competition and the water in Lake Ontario at this time of year is so cold a man can stand immersion for only 10 to 15 minutes. No such risks exist in the Bay of Quinte's warm waters to create uneasiness in minds of racing committee members.

Variability of the winds on the bay drew favorable comments from the Albacore skippers. During their three days here they experienced heavy, moderate and light winds, giving every skipper and crew a chance to display their skills.

Facilities already exist around the bay to handle the needs of boat and visiting yachtsmen, especially the small boat owners. Marinas, a boat yard for repairs and a sailmaker's establishment ring Belleville's harbor — a combination found in few other centres. And Victoria Park with the Yacht Club at its tip offers space for the dry sailors in park their trailers and beach their boats.

New launching ramps built by the club this year for the Albacore championships will remain for use by the junior sailors of the club and, hopefully, future regatta participants.

Most important of all is the concentration of knowledgeable people in the Quinte district, on hand to assist with large-scale events. They include the 100 sailing members of BQYC, the power squadron and the Sea Cadets, all of whom contributed to the success of the last regatta.

Vital to competitive sailing is a well-laid out course and officials to man it. Key man here has been Peter Carr, an employee of Belleville Marine Yards, and an experienced dinghy sailor in England.

With proven ability to lay courses, start races and even conduct the after-race protest meetings, Belleville yachtsmen are gaining a reputation as good hosts for a racing meet.

BOATING IS FUN!

By Stan Davies

By Stan Davies

Whether you do your boating under power or sail, there are two circumstances where the beginner, or novice, makes serious errors of judgment.

One is the lack of appreciation of how much less effect the rudder has on a boat, as speed degreases. The other circumstance is a failure to judge speed correctly after travelling along at a good clip for a prolonged period.

If you see a beginner bang his boat into a dock wall it's usually because of one of these shortcomings. However a boater doesn't have to be a beginner to make three mistakes. Even old hands, if they have never given the circumstances the proper thought, make the same errors.

It's in the process of docking

Minor Sports Program Needs More Parents

"Anything to get the kids off the street" is a common hope and wish of the parents of Belleville but usually little action accompanies this statement. Fortunately for Belleville, a few conscientious and dedicated men have volunteered their time and effort to develop minor sports throughout the summer months.

Director Lorne Williams and assistants Cliff Belch and Wilma Summers of the recreation department have instigated a program involving varying aspects of the sporting world and successfully gaining the participation of 1000 Belleville youths.

Girl's softball to lacrosse and soccer to baseball are offered as the wheels of minor sports in Belleville continually turn to provide fun, exercise, and experience to both the children playing and the parents watching.

One of the more successful endeavors has been girl's softball, a relatively new entry in minor sports. Says league president Ron Lucas: "I'm really pleased with the amount of help and co-operation we have received from both the parents and the rec. centre. I used to be one of those beefing coaches but now that I am directly involved I can really appreciate the work these people are doing."

Girl's softball has expanded to include 130 girls ranging from six to 16 years of age and nine teams divided into a senior and junior league. Utilizing the help of spectators and teenagers, umpires are never a problem or is the finding of diamonds which the parks board handles tremendously. The only problem seems to be keeping the fans and coaches calm and avoiding emotional breakdowns.

Getting Their Kicks

Four of the more than 300 boys involved in minor soccer intently practise their skills before their house league game. Soccer comprises only a small portion of the Belleville Minor Sports program which offers summer fun to over 1,500 Belleville and district youth.

The $1,300 budget creates little financial worry or does any aspect of girl's ball. "The main concern of this league is to give the girls a chance to get off time from doing the dishes," concludes Mr. Lucas.

Minor softball and baseball, the oldest of the minor activities, appear to be having the most trouble in operating. The main concern is the lack of parental help towards the organizations which offer recreation to over 850 boys.

"People besides being lethargic think that it is a seven day job but if enough volunteer a few hours a week is sufficient to insure the best possible program" states softball president Howard Shugg.

"We have 33 house league teams plus four all star teams for which to supply umpires and equipment, yet only three executive members and the coaches are available to help. This places pressure on the coaches who have to worry about their own team as well as aid in running the rest of the league," adds Mr. Shugg.

Garth Bradshaw, president of minor baseball, exclaims: "There just isn't enough support from the parents to run the league as well as we wish we could. Coaches are severely lacking for our 17 house league teams and four all-star teams."

Agreeing with Mr. Bradshaw is soccer president Bill Hockley. "Parents are all too happy to sit back and

Thousands Visit Area Camp Sites

Presqu'ile but the solitude, the rugged outdoors and excellent facilities attract a large number of American visitors. They made up 22 per cent of last year's total.

The main factor influencing summer camping is the weather and E. Grant of Bon Echo Park, Cloyne, aptly diagnosed the situation: "Last year, the early portion of the camping season was quite wet but we still had 134,000 campers. This year the weather has been excellent, so I expect at least a five per cent increase in attendance."

Five per cent more people will keep park superintendent W. J. Miller and his 26 staff members busy maintaining the 400 campsites, 80 outdoor privies aida, plus the four comfort stations, which provide hot and cold water for the campers.

"We draw from pretty well all over, but Toronto and Oshawa seem to be the main areas where the campers come from. We also provide eight group sites and therefore we have ha girl guide groups and boy scout packs along with other organizations using these facilities."

The early wet weather did not dampen the Prince Edward County park attractions as a total of 481,646 people used the services provided at four parks. North Beach drew 68,332 people, Lake-on-the-Mountain 32,380, the Sand Banks 58,751 and the big attraction, the Outlet, drew 322,505 people.

"We have 482 campsites at the Outlet with overflow sites at the Sand Banks. We provide hot water in the camping areas, three comfort centres, and of course outside privies plus supplying fuel wood and tested drinking water," rattles off B. Thompson of the lands and forest department. An interpretation program on Wednesdays and Saturdays at dusk along with police patrols, night men pounding the beach beat and shore patrols insure the campers' information, entertainment, and protection while also keeping the 54-man staff hopping.

Park superintendent Bob Davidson and district forester Allan Peacock run the park as smoothly as possible as do all the various park staff around the Quinte region, offering aid in any way possible to the enduring camper.

Hastings Has Plenty 'That Got Away'

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Reporter

For local anglers, and visitors from as far away as the central United States, Hastings County's more than 2,000 bodies of water provide a focal point in the search for "the one that got away."

Haunting the waters of the Belleville-Tweed area is an assortment of game fish that offer almost any angler the choice of his fresh water favorite, including the various species of trout, large and small mouth bass, pike, pickerel, muskellunge and panfish.

The muskellunge, heavyweight champion of the local fish fraternity, has created its ugly head, with reports of several medium - sized muskies landed in Beaver Creek.

Pickerel have been supplying the bulk of the action in the Bay of Quinte area with reports of excellent catches in the Moira River and at the mouth of the Trent.

Those taken in the Moira have been hooked almost exclusively on minnows, while ignoring the artificial bait offerings. West and East Lakes have had fair catches of both pickerel and pike.

With bass season opening this weekend, fishermen will get a chance to test their skills on the scrappy, high-jumpers.

Areas around West Lake and Hay Bay are already booked solidly for the summer months, with about 50 per cent of the visitors hailing from the U.S.

Despite the lack of precipitation, waters in the area are still at high levels in many areas, thanks to the construction of beaver dams, which have helped maintain the water level.

While an excessively dry summer would not hinder the immediate fishing prospects, it could have an adverse affect on future angling. If water levels drop too far, the spawn of species like lake trout could be left high and dry.

Lake trout fishing which has been generally good throughout the spring months is beginning to slow down, as the fish move to deeper water to maintain the 50 - 55 degree temperatures which they require.

Top fishing spots in the Tweed area this year include Egan Creek, near Bancroft, for brook trout, Wesleminkon, Big Clear and L'Amable lakes for lakers and St. George lake, which has been a top pickerel spot.

Inclement weather at the opening of the lake trout season may prove to be a boon to summer anglers, as it helped to reduce the fishing pressure in the early weeks. The advent of snowmobiles for winter angling has greatly increased the pressure on the existing supplies of fish available.

Officials of the department of lands and forests are combatting this angling pressure in a number of ways including helicopter stocking and the tanding of catch reports for further research.

About 60,000 fish have been stocked by helicopter this year and officials are evaluating the success of the operation. The main advantage is that it allows the fish to be deposited in the exact spot required.

The fishing public is asked to aid the department by turning in catch reports, which are available from out fitters, conservation groups and the department of lands and forests.

Boating

where either misjudgment can be expensive. But there's a way to avoid trouble — and it's very simple: Just stop your boat completely. Let it sit quietly for 10 seconds a few boatlengths away from the dock, then start your docking procedure as a completely independent action.

While you are stopped, you can observe the natural influences that will affect your approach . . . such things as wind, current and wave action. Try to come into your berth against the strongest of these forces — you have better control.

The most common and costly mistake in docking is coming in too fast and it's very easy to misjudge speed after you've been zipping along in a fast boat say at 30 mph. When you slow for the approach, 15 mph feels like 5. And the boat which answered smartly to the wheel or helm at top speed is a sluggish log at idle, yet your reflexes are still geared for the snappy control you were just enjoying.

So remember. When approaching the dock, stop, before moving in.

Here are some questions on this topic I've been asked:

Q — I'm told that docking a houseboat is much harder . . . I'm getting one . . .!?

A — A houseboat really handles just like any other power boat — when there's no wind. But even in a little breeze the high sides of a houseboat act like sails. Take extreme care in coming down wind towards a dock. Many houseboats have been badly damaged by swinging broadside to the wind and coming up to the dock with a crunch.

What's low priced-easy to buy - lots of fun-and increases in value every year?

The answer to this question can also be the answer to where you will be spending this summer and many, many summers to come. You'll find the answer in Foxboro at Rollins Lumber where Mr. George Mills can fill you in on how easy and inexpensive it is to own a summer home.

(If you own your own lot or prefer to find one by yourself, we would be happy to build a cottage on it for you.) It's worth looking into if pleasure is important to you. # Toronto Police May Soon Solve Bombings Of Italian Stores

TORONTO (CP) — Police said Thursday they may be close to solving a series of bombings of Italian-owned businesses in the city following an explosion which rocked a bakery in the borough of North York early Thursday.

Police Chief Harold Adamson said that investigating officers had been hindered in solving the bombings which occurred during the last two years because the victims were not willing to give information.

However some bakery owners now are willing to co-operate with police following Thursday's explosion at Capri Bakery in which a policeman narrowly escaped injury or death.

Police said two or three sticks of dynamite were used in the bombing. The explosion blew a two-foot hole in the wall, damaged a 300-gallon oil tank and shattered about 30 windows in an adjoining building.

On June 18, the Nino D'Aversa Bakery was badly damaged when 16 sticks of dynamite exploded, blasting a hole in the front wall.

In 1968 and 1969, owners of Cornelius Bakeries were victims of a series of a bombing and shooting incidents.

In March, 1968, a bomb was thrown in the Cornelius Bakery.

In July, 1969, the eldest daughter of a partner in Cornelius Bakeries, Guiseppe Racco, was hit in the knee with a shotgun blast from a passing car while she stood outside Mr. Racco's home.

Anthony Cornelius was also hit with three pellets from a shotgun as he stood in the parking lot of a bank last June.

Commons Okays Voting at 18

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's controversial Canada Elections Act, including provisions to lower the minimum voting age to federal elections to 18 from 21, was passed by the Commons Thursday and sent to the Senate for approval.

The bill, first major revamping of the election law in 18 years, would also permit 18-year-olds to run for Commons seats.

Today the House holds an emergency debate on the postal dispute following a ruling Thursday by Speaker Lucien Lamoureux.

The debate was requested by NDP Deputy Leader David Lewis and Heath Macquarrie, Conservative post office critic.

The MPs, in arguing for the debate, said the rotating postal strikes are spreading and threaten to become more serious after the Commons begins its summer recess. The House is scheduled to rise for the summer today.

Along with the drop in voting age, the placing of candidates' party labels on the ballot ranks as one of the principal changes in the election bill.

Any party fielding at least 75 candidates would be permitted to place its name beside its candidate in each riding.

Candidates would have the option of running without a party label on the ballot and independent candidates could designate themselves as independents or drop the label entirely.

A proxy system, by which an absentee elector can assign his vote to another elector, is another innovation in the bill.

The system is restricted to mariners, fishermen, prospectors, students and the physically handicapped or ill.

Another move to expand the franchise is included in provisions changing the residence requirements of voters. Under the bill electors would vote where they lived on the first day of enumeration.

Currently, residence is listed as of the day the election writs are issued, usually about two weeks before enumeration starts.

Regulations for marking the ballot have also been loosened.

Under the new bill, marks other than X may be used, and may be made with any writing instrument.

Indians Reported Mistreated

TORONTO (CP) — A report by a human rights officer in Northern Ontario that tells of the "alleged killing" of an Indian woman by a policeman in 1968 was revealed Thursday to an Ontario legislature committee.

The "covered up" report, read to the committee reviewing the estimates of the attorney-general's department, said that Walter Crowe, identified as an Ontario Provincial Police officer, "forced the woman into a cell in such a manner that her head struck the wall".

The report by Bruce Leskiw was read to the committee by Donald MacDonald, New Democratic Party leader.

The report quotes Rev. Samuel Oliver of Whitefish Falls as saying the woman, not identified, died later but that the OPP said she hung herself with a blanket in her cell.

Mr. Oliver also is quoted as saying the woman was drunk and could not have hung herself in the manner described by the police.

Mr. MacDonald referred to this incident and to a separate case involving an Indian couple who tried to lay an assault charge against Mr. Crowe as an example of police brutality and discrimination in dealing with Indians.

Mr. MacDonald said that Mrs. Eli Pitawanakwat was kicked to the ground and handcuffed by Mr. Crowe on May 3, 1968, on Highway 68 near Little Current on Manitoulin Island. She later was charged with impaired driving.

Mr. Pitawanakwat, acting on the advice of a human rights officer, later charged the officer with assault on his wife, but was so intimidated by police he dropped the charge for fear of reprisals, Mr. MacDonald said. OPP Commissioner Eric Silk, who attended the committee meeting, told Mr. MacDonald that the facts "as recorded by you" were a "gross misrepresentation of what happened."

Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said he was prepared to review both cases and report on them later. Mr. Wishart at one point noted that Mr. Crowe is an Indian, one of two posted to the area for the purpose of having police of their own race deal with Indians.

Mr. MacDonald also said that Mrs. Pitawanakwat was hemorrhaging from a miscarriage when the officer threw her to the ground and she was forced to spend a night in jail without treatment. The next day she entered hospital where she underwent surgery to stop the hemorrhaging.

KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have three small children and all have pinworms. It makes them irritable because they all complain of itching which disturbs their sleep. Two of them grind their teeth at night.

I pride myself on keeping a clean home. My children are bathed regularly. They don't eat dirt like some children I know do. They've been treated by our pediatrician who is an excellent doctor for examination. Where do we go from here? It's real frustrating. — Mrs. N.

Comment: Threadworms (pinworms), as you know, are quite common and try the patience of many mothers. These tiny threadlike worms live in the lower intestinal tract. They come out at night to lay their eggs between the child's buttocks. That's when the itching starts. They are also found in bowel movements.

As your doctor has proved, there is a satisfactory treatment to eliminate the worms. But the trouble is "reinfection." Re-infection is the bugaboo. No matter how clean your home is, Mrs. N., children cannot be kept prisoners within its walls.

They run out to play with other children. They go to school. Other kids may innocently give them their pinworms. Your children's hands invariably get dirty when they play. They put unwashed fingers in their mouths when they come in to grab a snack of bread and peanut butter, or piece of candy. They swallow the eggs and presto! — another attack of pinworms.

Some mothers say "let the child swallow his pack of dirt" while growing up. I suppose it's inevitable that many children do. But when pinworms are the problem, it makes good sense at least to try keeping their hands clean when they are at home under one's supervision. And, if an attack of worms occurs, better get them to the doctor for specific drug treatment to eliminate them. Incidentally, Mrs. N., there is an agreement that pinworms in children are a direct cause of nephritis.

* * *

For Mr. O.: It is true that the drug L-dopa, which is proving so helpful in many cases of Parkinson's disease, has also seemed to increase the sexual appetite and sexual powers in some of these patients. According to some physicians, such beneficial effects occur in about one in 50 patients.

As for your interest in getting the drug to help your problem of impotence, I suggest you do not hoodwink it and try to treat yourself. In some patients, severe side - effects occur, which would make your experiment impractical and perhaps harmful.

When L-dopa becomes recognized as a treatment for impotence it will undoubtedly be welcome news for many who suffer from it prematurely. Unfortunately, it's too early to consider this drug as an answer to sexual problems. Its chief contribution is the hope it holds out for many Parkinson patients in relieving them of their muscle rigidity and other distressing symptoms.

Replies to Readers' Queries

Answers to Readers' Queries:

"Why do members of the British Parliament say 'Hear, Hear,' when they approve of what a speaker is saying?" — B. G., Cleveland, Ohio.

In the early days of Parliament, disapproval of a speaker was marked by humming as a form of booing; those on the speaker's side protested by calling out, "Hear him," which eventually lost its "h" to "hear."

"It seems to me that your column is soft on crime; doesn't the murder rate keep going up in the United States?" — R.S., Halifax, Nova Scotia.

No, it is considerably less than it was 40 years ago. In 1930, the homicide rate in the U.S. was about 9 per 100,000; by 1957, the rate had dropped to 4, and the average for the last decade is between 5 and 6.

"Isn't it true that the top hat — now a symbol of gentility — created as much of a public hubbub and scandal when it was first introduced as our present 'day hippie' style?" — M. B., Philadelphia.

Yes. The London Times in 1798 reported that John Hetherington was brought before the Lord Mayor on a charge of "breach of the peace" and of "terrifying the street." The newspaper reported:

"Mr. Hetherington, who is well connected, appeared on the highway wearing upon his head what he called a silk hat — a tall machine, covered with shiny lustre and calculated to frighten timid people. The officers of crown stated that several women fainted, children screamed, and a youngerson of Ordinarner Thomas was thrown down by the crowd which had collected, and had his right arm broken.

"In extenuation of his crime the defendant claimed that he had not violated any law of the kingdom, but was exercising his right to appear in a headdress of his own devising — a right not to be denied any Englishman."

"Wasn't 'Hello, Dolly!' a flop in its original form?" — L.L., Santa Barbara, Calif.

Its "original form" was actually "A Day Well Spent" by John Crawford, produced in London in 1835. This was turned into a Viennese comedy, "Zehn Aus Will Er Sich Machen" by Johann Nestroy in 1961. Nearly a century later, Thornton Wilder rewrote this material into "The Merchant of Yonkers," which closed in New York after only 28 performances. A dozen years later, Wilder slightly revised the script, retitled it "The Matchmaker," and it became the enormous hit from which "Hello, Dolly" was adapted, totally unrecognizable from Nestroy's original.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For June 27

Your birthday today: Whatever your personal goals, the tide of this year's changing circumstances is likely to place you in a better position than you had planned. Your main energy through all this must be within yourself, as it is primarily an inner transform action, despite the probably external changes. Today's natively normally must overcome a strong desire for possession for its own sake.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): You have a choice: a weekend of needless turmoil or one of active, noisy but productive adventure with associates. Your best like the balance.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Details escape notice, and you can expect to be asked to repeat later, when it's least convenient. Any delay might be very worthwhile.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): There is nothing so sensible as minding your own business today. Social activities are lively, exciting, and probably quite expensive.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Don't allow difficulties over money disturb your serenity. Some delay in your tasks is almost certain, so prepare to be patient. The evening's entertainment is apt to be beyond your usual preference.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Smooth out any existing differences, particularly new disagreements. For once try being a peacemaker first, before promoting your own interests.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): If you must get emotional today, take it out within your personal relationships rather than complicate your career or vocational situation the evening will be refreshing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Expect nobody to agree with any request today. By listening instead of proclaiming you can achieve more. Pastimes arouse new sense of humor — just don't overdo.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): You may have to cope with opposition from overly vehement people. Your best course is moderation: avoid harshness and direct contradiction.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Your eagerness today brings you to an expensive pitch. You may be tempted to overspend, overdo social activities. Save some of your resources.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Spend some time in your home at hours you are not usually there. Just for the novelty, turn your schedule around and see what may be learned.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): This weekend is unfavorable for travel or entertaining. Your expenses are up. Seek free time for a new field of interest, an intellectual vocation.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Don't bring any recent stress forward to spoil the present moment and your chances of doing something wonderful. With inner serenity this can be a very good day.

Shoplifter Sprays Tear Gas

TORONTO (CP)—A shoplifter, caught helping himself in a supermarket Wednesday, sprayed tear gas on two store employees when they ran after him outside.

Police said the Loblaws employees spotted the suspect filling his pockets with meat packages. When they caught him outside, he sprayed them with tear gas from a pocket-size container.

Kirk Ryan Mechlin, 20, of no fixed address, was charged later with possession of a volatile substance, assault with intent to resist arrest and theft under $50.

Competition shooting for all comers.

One of the most popular target shooting programs in existence today is the CIL Shooting Sports Program for .22 rim fire rifles.

Pioneered by CIL more than fifty years ago, the program was designed to provide gun enthusiasts with an easy way of getting started in competitive shooting without the need for highly specialized and expensive equipment.

Today thousands of gun club members shoot for the plaques and badges awarded by CIL through their Shooting Sports Program. These awards, the high standards they represent and the fact that target shooting knows no seasons, has made the sport a gratifying and inexpensive one for all gun enthusiasts. To get started simply write for details on the CIL Shooting Sports Program. We'll be glad to send you free folders and booklets. Write CIL, Box 10, Montreal 101, Quebec.

For competition shooting the Canuck .22 Long Rifle, standard velocity rim fire cartridge is preferred. It's designed for all standard .22 jingle shot and repeating rifles, pistols and revolvers. These cartridges come packed in the unique CIL 'heads-up' package for easy handling.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will continue fighting an air war in Cambodia after American troops leave next week, Defence Secretary Melvin R. Laird said Friday.

He told reporters the primary purpose of the continued air operations would be attacks on Viet Cong and North Vietnamese supply lines with "an ancillary benefit" for Cambodia ground troops.

"I would be less than frank or candid if I didn't say there would be side effects on the troops on the ground," Laird said in indicating the possibility of U.S. air support for local combat troops.

Laird's remarks followed by one day a statement by State Secretary William P. Rogers that the possibility of air support for Cambodian forces by U.S. war planes should not be ruled out.

Laird also was speaking the day Senate foes of President Nixon's Southeast Asia policy claimed a unanimous vote restating congressional war-making powers had restored the teeth to a proposal to limit future U.S. action in Cambodia.

"It brings back into proper equilibrium the purpose of the Church-Cooper amendment," said Senator Frank Church (Dem. Idaho), co-sponsor of the key anti-war proposal that has been the focal point of seven weeks Senate debate over Cambodia.

Church commented after the Senate voted 72 to 0 to approve a surprise amendment by Senator Jacob K. Javits (Rep.-NY).

The Javits proposal inserted into the amendment of Church and Senator John Sherman Cooper (Ten. Ky.) a phrase stating that Congress retains full constitutional power to declare war and regulate the armed forces.

European Parley Suggested

BUDAPEST (AP) — The Communist Warsaw pact governments, in a memorandum handed to Western governments by Hungarian diplomats, have proposed the early preparation of a European East-West security conference, wrhl the United States and Canada also attending.

At such a conference, the document said, an organization could be set up to deal with questions of European security and co-operation, including the mutual reduction of troops stationed on foreign territory.

The memorandum was issued by the Warsaw pact governments during a foreign ministers' conference in Budapest June 21-22 and was published today. It said the Warsaw pact countries noted during recent East-West talks that "the views of the countries concerned have moved closer to each other about the European security conference," which has been proposed by the Soviet Union.

The memorandum said:

"The conference can be attended by every European state, including the German Democratic Republic (East Germany) and the German Federal Republic (West Germany), with rights equal to those held by the other European states, and the United States and Canada as well.

"It is generally understood that the convening of the conference must not be tied to any preliminary conditions.

SAIGON (CP) — More than 8,000 Cambodian civilians and troops have been brought to South Vietnam in a massive emergency evacuation that means Cambodia has virtually abandoned its three northeastern provinces to the North Vietnamese.

A military spokesman in Saigon confirmed today that the Cambodians were pulled out of two towns, Labansiek and Bo Kheo, in a military operation that began June 24.

"The operation is now complete," the spokesman said.

The operation, originally announced as a drive to evacuate ethnic Vietnamese from the towns in Ratanakiri province, was carried out by a 1,000-man ground force that pushed into Cambodia from Pleiku, South Vietnam. The refugees, including several hundred Cambodian troops, were brought out via Highway 19 to Pleiku and a nearby former United States base, Camp Enari.

South Vietnamese troops involved in the operation said the evacuated Cambodian soldiers had no weapons.

The pullout also was announced by military spokesman in Phnom Penh, where officials had said earlier that both Labansiek and Bo Kheo were to be held "at all costs."

The Cambodian spokesman gave a slightly different version of the evacuation, saying only that Cambodian troops had been withdrawn from the two cities by air.

The pullout meant the Cambodians apparently had abandoned the country's three northeastern provinces—Ratanakiri, Mondulkiri and Stung Treng—to the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

The towns, Bo Kheo and Labansiek, are located in the area where the Ho Chi Minh trail runs south paralleling the South Vietnamese border. They are less than 30 miles west of Pleiku, South Vietnam.

Riots in Ulster Cities Follow Devlin's Jailing

LONDONDERRY (AP) — Protestants, Roman Catholics and British troops battled in the streets of three Northern Ireland cities Friday night in riots touched off by the jailing of civil rights leader Bernadette Devlin.

The violence began after Miss Devlin, 23, a champion of the Catholic minority and the youngest member of the British House of Commons, lost her last appeal and began a six-month sentence on charges of helping to incite Catholic-Protestant riots in Northern Ireland last year.

More than 1,000 Protestants and Catholics were involved in Friday night's disturbances in Londonderry, Armagh, and Belfast, the capitals of predominantly Protestant Northern Ireland.

The rioting in Londonderry lasted five hours. Fourteen persons were arrested and 22 soldiers were injured, three requiring hospital treatment.

Eight soldiers were injured in Belfast, four seriously. Two men were injured in two hours of disturbances in Armagh, where Miss Devlin went to begin her sentence in the women's jail.

Miss Devlin, leader of the Catholic minority in predominantly Protestant Londonderry, was scheduled to address 2,000 residents of the city's Bogside district before being taken to jail.

Postal Dispute Debated

OTTAWA (CP) — The postal dispute stayed in the hands of the negotiators Friday despite a special three-hour debate in the House of Commons in which government and opposition speakers hashed through the issues on their way to a three-month recess.

Only about half hoped to reach Ottawa Friday night. As it turned over, well over half made it to the capital.

The flyers will spend the weekend here before continuing their 10-day trip to Victoria. They are following the original flight pattern as closely as possible.

The first flight also took 10 days, from Oct. 7 to 17, 1920. It involved six aircraft.

Retired air marshal Robert Leckie, pilot of a Fairey seaplane and later a HZSL flying boat which flew in the original flight, was present at Rockcliffe airport to greet the incoming flyers Friday night.

Israeli forces invaded Syria's Golan Heights Friday and fought Syrian troops in an all-day battle which a spokesman for the Damascus government called "the heaviest, longest and fiercest" since the 1967 Middle East war.

Fifteen Planes Reach Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Fifteen light aircraft, participating in a group flight commemorating the first trans-Canada air crossing 50 years ago, landed in Ottawa Friday night.

Earlier in the day, 19 small planes of different ages had left Shearwater and Morris Lake, near Dartmouth, N.S., and headed westward to re-enact the pioneer journey.

Mr. Green was once a flying boat pilot in 228 squadron, Royal Naval Air Service. The squadron commander was Robert Leckie.

Before Friday night, the two had not met since 1918.

Bus Deficit In Belleville Lowest In Province

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Although the Belleville Transit Commission is one of the few in Ontario experiencing an annual increase in passengers, its cash box receipts are failing to keep pace with its operating costs.

The number of passengers carried increased by 7 per cent last year, but operating expenses rose by 13 per cent.

"No transit system operates with a profit; all are subsidized," said a spokesman for the Belleville Transit Commission today.

The statement was confirmed at the 65th annual meeting of the Canadian Transit Association, when it was revealed that the average increase in operating expenses for the 47 operating members rose by six per cent last year.

But at this Halifax convention, the emphasis was on a problem not experienced here — a 7 per cent loss of passengers.

Belleville is one of only six transit systems in Ontario showing an increase in passengers. For the first four months of this year, only two centres, North Bay and St. Catharines, showed a larger increase in passengers than Belleville.

Belleville's 1969 deficit was the lowest of all companies in Ontario. Total revenue from all sources, (passengers, advertising and charters), was $226,953. Expenses were $260,495.

"The spokesmen for the city-owned company said a large deficit is expected this year, with expenses rising faster than the number of passengers carried.

Other cities, notably Montreal with a five per cent annual drop in ridership, are planning "leave your car at home" campaigns. But the management of the Belleville system said such campaigns are rarely successful.

"Courtesy and on - time service are the vital factors in running a public transit system," the spokesman said. "If you lose those, you lose passengers."

"Railway crossings in the city, and Front St. traffic congestion play havoc with our schedules," claimed the spokesman.

Surveys by the transit commission have turned up data on the types of people who ride the city buses.

Fifty per cent of the passengers are adult women who are housewives, like the family car to work. Thirty-five per cent are students and the remainder are children and elderly people.

Because bus service is vital to this section of the population, city council has opposed curtailment and elimination of routes whenever the matter was suggested as a solution to the annual deficit.

As the city grows, the transit commission sees future extensions of bus routes. One, initiated this year to serve the north east industrial park, was dropped recently because of lack of passengers.

"The trial run to the industrial area was unsuccessful, because the plants there are not operating at full power, yet," said the spokesman.

Government intervention is the bleak transportation picture across Canada is not expected here, and has never been discussed seriously by officials on either side.

At the transit convention, D. H. Seymour, assistant manager of the Cornwall system remarked that government "has not yet faced the fact that transit is necessary, even in an auto-oriented society."

The Belleville Transit Commission operates 13 buses over five routes, and in 1969 carried 980,221 passengers.

With Brush in Hand

Yesterday this Belleville teenager celebrated the opening of the Belleville Help Centre — a project she has worked on for two months — by completing the painting of a sign announcing the centre to all who have need of its services.

Help Centre Opens Doors To Assist Troubled Youth

There was no hullabaloo and no loud congratulations for the 15 to 20 Belleville young people who have planned and worked for two months for the centre's inception.

Instead a few of the youth "helpers" sat around the newly - decorated building obtained with the assistance of Lorne McDougall, Frank Folwell, Bert Messacar and Father James McGilvray, cutting out and mailing posters and wall decorations. Rock music came quietly from a record player in the corner.

The building is divided into three main sections, none of them large, none of them loudly designed, instead relaxed and quiet, symbolic of the aims of the centre.

There is a hall which visitors encounter first with a number of signs that serve to welcome. One of the rooms contains a bed, the other a chesterfield, table and several chairs. The walls are adorned with flowers, pictures of rock personalities and posters expounding the philosophy of today's youth.

Outside, passers-by can witness only a simple trio of signs saying "help centre" and "peace."

The centre is designed as a quiet, relaxed place where young people can go to "rap about their problems" — a place to get your head together.

Its purpose is to act as a referral agency for those with problems the volunteers can't handle.

People with drug problems first are severe, for example, will be referred to doctors involved in the centre and possibly eventually to the hospital.

The young people involved in the centre are a cross-section of today's youth, ranging in age from early teens to early twenties. There are "long hairs" and "short hairs" and different philosophies mulled only by the wish to do something constructive for the modern young adult.

"It's not an alternative to the drop-in centre. It's a different type of thing."

"We talk there was a need for it and with some of the problems the hospital can't cope. Kids can talk to other kids."

"The duty of the revolutionary is to help his brother and sister," one youth said.

"We've been to parties where people really needed to rap and couldn't. You know what it feels like to want to talk to someone."

"The help centre is a home without mother and father, a relaxing atmosphere. You won't get hassled here."

One youth summed up his feelings on the drug problem, one of the troubles the help centre expects to be involved in.

"There's a drug problem in Belleville as there is everywhere and it still is maintained within the maelstrom that is the generation gap."

But there'll be no moral judgments there, the "helpers" are emphatic about that.

"Who are we to judge? We can only comment and listen and try to help."

Information Booth Open At Tweed

TWEED — The tourist information booth operated each summer by the Tweed Chamber of Commerce, and housed in North America's Smallest Jailhouse on Victoria Street, will be opened for the summer season on Monday.

Present plans call for the booth to remain open until Saturday, Sept. 5. The hostesses will be Dianne Gunning, who has worked at the booth for two seasons, Brenda Jones who worked at the booth last season, and Sheevan Rush, who will begin her first season at the booth. Miss Rush has had considerable experience in meeting tourists, since her family has a number of cottages that are rented to tourists each season.

Last year, some 2,000 persons visited the booth, situated on Highway 37 in downtown Tweed. The Chamber of Commerce has received "helpers" discussed the philosophy of the centre. "It's not an alternative to the drop-in centre. It's a different type of thing."

Separate School Board Pays Cash for School

Tweed-Hungerford District High School is a hair's breadth away from being a possession of the Hastings and Prince Edward separate school board.

All that remains to complete the sale is a meeting of solicitors of the two boards concerned and the handing over of a cheque.

At a special meeting June 25 the board ordered Rs chairman and treasurer to obtain a certified cheque for $181,891, and present it to its solicitor to complete the transaction on the closing date of June 30.

The cheque will go to the solicitor for the Hastings county board of education, to write finis to the tangled Tweed school situation.

Total selling price is $238,500, of which the separate school board will pay $181,891 by cheque. It will take over outstanding debenture debts to make up the remainder.

At a special meeting, 13 members of the 14-member board of trustees were present. Magr. J. F. Sullivan and Paul Mercier were absent. Three trustees voted against the completion of the sale — Ken Krouze and Austin Scott of Tweed and Rev. Louis Casartelli of Maynooth.

Hospital Board

No Ready Answer To Need For GPs

Newcomers to Belleville still are having problems finding themselves family doctors. Ald. Gerald Joyce reminded Belleville General Hospital's board of governors yesterday.

The aldermen — often one of the city's first official contacts for new residents as chairman of its industrial commission — told a recent board meeting that a promotion program might attract more doctors to the community.

In the interim, the problem hasn't eased, he indicated yesterday.

"I still have queries from new people coming to town that they're having difficulties finding themselves family physicians," said Ald. Joyce.

"I'd like to be reassured that we don't have this problem or that we're doing something about it," he added.

Dr. Douglas Horne, BGH chief of medical staff, said "a little progress" had been made in the situation.

A new doctor was expected in the area, and will practise at Stirling.

Shortage of general practitioners recently was cited as one reason why pressure has been mounting on the hospital's emergency department services.

A rotating system among local doctors keeps a physician on emergency department call for out-of-town patients as those without a doctor, said Dr. Horne.

"But again this is not really possible because the hospital is not approved for internship — and they (interns) are not available."

Only staff source available may be graduates from outside Canada who must first practice under supervision before going into practice.

Dr. Horne said the area medical profession didn't want to keep practitioners away.

"Certainly we don't want to keep a monopoly — because there's no need is."

"I think the medical profession is generally overworked," agreed Ald. Joyce.

Mayor Russell Scott said he had checked up to 20 complaints about the attention given by family physicians over a two-year period.

Of 15 to 20 people who "were really upset" only one had a valid complaint.

And even that was the result of a doctor being diverted by an operation that took longer than expected. A phone call to remind the physician awaiting his attention could have solved the problem, he said.

Most complaints appear to arise from two sources, said the mayor:

(1) Patients are dissatisfied with the appointment time given them by a physician, or (2) become impatient when they find a doctor's waiting room crowded.

"These are not true emergencies as such," said Mayor Scott.

Linen Loss $500 Monthly

The administration at Belleville General Hospital is cracking down on what is believed organized pilfering of linen supplies — disappearing at the rate of $500 a month.

That was the estimated loss given hospital governors yesterday and the result may see an investigator called in to track the source of thefts.

"We're convinced this has an organized approach," said Carl Bateman, Hastings County administrator and BGH's finance committee chairman.

Sheets, pillowcases, bedtowels, even pyjamas, were involved, a hospital spokesman said later.

"It's been going on for some time," said Mr. Bateman.

He said the administrative staff has been instructed to take all "appropriate action" to halt the pilfering.

If necessary, this would mean calling in an investigator, added Mr. Bateman.

BGH Gets Approval In Survey

Belleville General is popular with its patients.

A recent survey shows an overwhelming majority of people treated at the hospital hold it in high regard.

Results of the survey, undertaken by hospital administration, were presented to BGH's board of governors yesterday.

The findings were based on 462 replies received from 1,500 questionaires mailed — a response of 27 per cent.

In total, 84 per cent of the replies were favorable.

The general rating: Excellent, 71 per cent; Good, 26 per cent; Fair, two per cent; Poor, one per cent.

Arbitration Negotiations Stall Over Wage Guidelines

Arbitration between Belleville and the city's fire and police departments have stalled — and looming in the background is the Federal government's six per cent wage guidelines.

The need for arbitration arose when both the firemen and the policemen rejected the city's counter-offer to their demands.

Mayor J. Russell Scott explained yesterday that the city had countered the original demands with offers for an increase in wages of a flat 15 per cent in one year for policemen and 18 per cent for the first year and another 18 per cent the second year for the firemen.

"This was before the government set the six per cent limit," the mayor explained.

Both of the departments rejected the city's proposal and arbitration is the only answer.

"We can't go any further . . . it's done as far as we're concerned," the Mayor said.

"However, if they (the police and firemen) come back with a request for the six per cent limit, it will be all right . . . we could sidestep arbitration.

"Otherwise, that's the only way open to us," he continued.

Meanwhile, both departments have decided nothing, the arbitration boards have still to be established.

The city has nominated A. J. Clark of the Toronto firm of Mathews, Dinsdale and Clark as its representative on the three-man fire department arbitration board.

The firemen have appointed Louis C. Assaly, Queen's Council, Ottawa, as their member.

The third man has yet to be selected by the two negotiators. If they cannot agree upon a choice, one will be appointed by the attorney general.

Judge T. Y. Wills, secretary of the Police Commission said this morning, that "as far as I know, no board of arbitration has been constituted."

No Contract Worries School Board Trustees

Separate school trustees in Prince Edward and Hastings counties are concerned about the absence of a board-teacher contract for the school year 1970-71.

The 1969-70 contract, in dispute for a year, has now been ratified by the provincial executive of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association and accepted by the teachers here.

The separate school board has had a salary negotiating committee set up since March, but the teachers have yet to approach the board to contract negotiations for the coming school year.

The board is concerned that teachers do not appear willing to enter into negotiations," said a spokesman after the special board meeting called June 25.

Three-stage Disposal Advocated

Citizens should encourage their municipal governments to build three-stage sewage disposal plants in the fight against pollution, the Belleville and District Aquarium Club was told at its last meeting.

John Meiboon, a laboratory technician with the Quaker Oats Company in Trenton and guest speaker at the meeting, said the cost of complete sewage treatment would be only $3 a person a year.

Many Canadian cities have inadequate sewage disposal, and some, including Montreal, have none at all. Mr. Meiboom listed heavy industry, housewives who use high phosphate content detergents, fertilizers and insecticides as major contributors to pollution of rivers and lakes.

He suggested that individuals interest themselves in pollution and take an active part in helping to eliminate the amount of pollutants entering water courses.

Winners of the monthly fish show were Norman Wessels, Velma Sinclair and Vincent Sinclair in the livebearers class and Norman Wessels, Marguerite Wessels and Velma Sinclair in the egg layer class.

Police Question Suspect

MADOC — Members of the Madoc OPP Detachment have arrested a man who "looks a bit like" the subject of a province - wide search in the slaying of two school teachers' wives last month.

In Hastings County Jail is Edward Joseph Deshene, 39, of Selfe Sdc. Marie charged with possession of a stolen vehicle and dangerous driving, the result of a high-speed chase early yesterday morning.

Police here have forwarded information about the man to Toronto police officials whom they expect will want to see the prisoner because of his resemblance to a composite drawing of the murder suspect.

Deshene was arrested at 8:30 p.m. when he wandered out of the woods during the rain last night at the Whispering Pines Restaurant near here.

The incident began with the theft of a half - ton truck belonging to M. L. McNeely of Havelock at 6:30 yesterday morning. The vehicle was spotted an hour later near Marmora and a police chase ensued.

A roadblock, set up just west of Madoc, caused the chase to end with the driver running into the woods.

Deshene has been remanded in custody until July 2 when he will appear in court to face the truck theft and dangerous driving charges.

Senator Croll's Words

Senator David Croll Thursday made enough startling statements that all levels of government should sit up and take notice. As chairman of the Senate committee on poverty he was making an interim report to his colleagues and in the blunted words heard in many a year termed Canada's welfare system "a mess" and claimed "billions have been spent on social services which are failing their clients."

His comments are more than just food for thought. They are indeed a mandate for action. Close to home there is not one community in the Quinte area which has not seen its elected representatives and civic officials spend many hours puzzling over the problems of social services.

There is a loss of confidence in the system, says Senator Croll, an opinion arrived at after months of hearing briefs from individuals and agencies across Canada. His criticisms ranged from programs piled on programs without proper evaluation to serious gaps being evident in the welfare system.

Recipients of aid feel deprived of their dignity was a recurring theme throughout the committee hearings, the senator reported and on the other side of the coin the welfare system was distrusted by those "who pay the piper." Many Canadians have lost confidence in the system and thought recipients were "cheaters and bums" although it has been proven this is not so, said the senator.

The Liberal senator made two observations which should precipitate thought. He suggested a partial answer was the provision of a guaranteed minimum income — a concept proposed seriously for the first time by Robert Stanfield during the last election campaign.

Guaranteed maintenance income "is an idea whose time has come," was Senator Croll's succinct summation.

An accompanying answer to breaking the poverty-welfare cycle was education. The committee had been told that poor children need education starting at the age of three. The poorest schools and the poorest teachers served those in poverty when these people needed superior schools and better than average teachers.

It is a concept that bears consideration by those residing in Hastings county. Education costs at the elementary level work out to $840 per pupil in Hastings, $31 less than the figure recommended by the province and $200 less than some areas of the province are providing. The suggestion for a commitment for education is still not an accepted fact in this area as obviously it is not in many other sections of the country.

Canada has spent many millions of dollars recently on hearings touching bilingualism, the status of women, the mass media and sundry other topics. Senator Croll's words are so insistent and so blunt that it behooves us to take action immediately.

Genius VS Hard Work

Bill Mullerbeck is Toronto's top high school graduate. He obtained an average of 98.4 per cent.

He says he did not study very much. This should surprise no one. There is the stamp of talent about any mark which approaches within 1.6 per cent of perfection. It lies above the level to which hard work can lift mediocrity, yet the high school curriculum, being designed for the mediocre, is not a sufficient challenge to demand that hard work should be wedded to genius. Bill recognised this and, wisely, elected to be lackadaisical but bored, rather than filling his waking hours with piling the lily of genius with hard work, in pursuit of a meagre reward of 1.6 extra marks per hundred.

Bill thus added to genius the often missing characteristics of common sense.

The mediocre work hard because they have to do so to achieve. Genius spends its time in boredom, which is essentially a hunt for some task worthy of its talents. If lesser chores are thrust upon it, genius devises ways to avoid the labor associated with these tasks. That way lies progress.

Every great advance in mankind's standard of living is the result of some genius seeking to avoid work.

It's Still Fun

There is still some fun in the activities of "the good old days." The members of the Plainfield Women's Institute proved it this week when their strawberry social attracted hundreds of people in aid of funds for the village's community centre.

It is to be hoped we never get so urbanized that these simple get-togethers become only a memory. There is more to life than staying in step with the hustle pace of city life.

Strawberry socials? Great. Let's have more of them.

Two-Year Review

Closer Scrutiny Only Action On Bonaventure Fiasco

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — All those brave promises, those bold threats . . . now, after years on end of all talk and no action, a House of Commons Committee would take actual measures, even sanctions against Government waste and extravagance . . . and what happens?

. . . Bah, the same old sappy thing, nothing. HMCS Bonaventure, the aircraft carrier, is bound for the Great Dockyard in the Sky, with nearly $10,000,000 of your tax money aboard.

Three years ago she was drydocked for a refit that—was to cost an officially estimated $8,000,000.

And when the job was done, with the Bonnie scheduled for the boneyard, the bill read $18,000,000.

You remember the uproar.

Auditor General Maxwell Henderson included the Bonnie in his bill of indictment of documented cases of waste costing the taxpayer $40,000,000.

He charged there had been sloth, indolence, indifference, incompetence, negligence even fraud.

Nothing unusual in th Auditor General's accusations.

He makes them every year.

Just as routinely, the Government protested the faintest suspicion of blame or even responsibility, piously promising the customary "close scrutiny."

That might have been it with another report from the Auditor General lost in the shuffle.

Except that the business of the Bonnie was not easy to shrug off.

So Parliament's powerful Public Accounts Committee was set to work on an investigation, plodding through two painstaking years.

Witnesses were heard, questioned, cross - examined and the Committee, moving off Parliament Hill, went to Halifax to go aboard the Bonnie for an on-the - spot examination of the scene of the wasted-millions-crime.

Among the many fascinating pieces of evidence emerging was the stunningly incomprehensible fact that it had taken more than $400 each to move some chairs from one room to another aboard the carrier.

But things were still pretty much routine, and nothing basically bad showed.

Sure, the Auditor General, that old Government scold, was upset. The Government deplored the idea that there should have been any waste of the taxpayer's dollar — if indeed even as much as a dime had gone down the drain. And the Public Accounts Committee was busy with its probe.

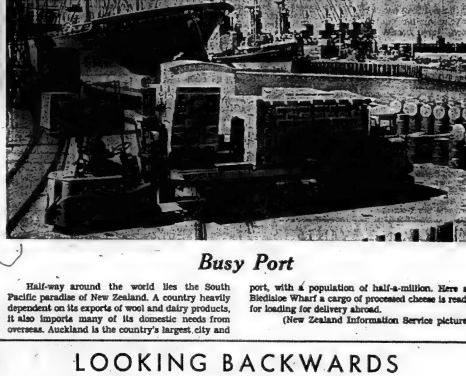
But then, suddenly there seemed to be something different.

The Committee, supposedly non-partisan, began acting and sounding like it meant business.

As all of Parliament's 30-odd Committees it was ruled by its Government - conscious Liberal majority, but it did have a chairman who was a well-respected member of the Opposition, Conservative MP Alf Hales.

And the Committee, Liberal majority and all, was backing him up.

Alf Hales dropped an advance warning that while no parliamentary committee ever had publicly recommended a benevolent, nor had any government ever disciplined a civil servant, "that could be coming soon."



And Vancouver Liberal MP Grant Deachman, a subchairman of parliamentary committees, came right out and said it. The Liberal Civil Service, quipped Deachman, was as well paid as any, and he wondered if it was not undeworked, as if had better begin performing or else there just might be some sackings.

Impossible!

Grant Deachman could have been pipe-dreaming except that right away out came the Public Accounts Committee report on the Bonnie, blasting two deputy ministers for failing to run a spot-check on the spending of that $18,000,000 on the carrier's refit, and recommending the disciplining of four top civil servants.

So far, so good — in fact, so good as to be all but unbelievable. Which, as it now turns out, was to see it) 13 times running. And further, as The Forsyte Saga has shown, there is room in America a large audience for quality programming in serial format.

NET has been dickering for many months with the Time - Life organization (American distributors of BBC productions) for a piece from the network can afford. It may be argued that the restricted showings are nothing advance lineups for a TV airing. Or that more government funds should be channeled into NET's budget. On that Time-Life should accommodate NET's purse. Or that a commercial network should have the courage to pick it up. But in any event the sluggishness in bring Civilization onto American TV is inexcusable. And the lack of such quality productions coming out of America's own industry even more so.

Busy Port

Half-way around the world lies the South Pacific paradise of New Zealand. A country heavily dependent on its exports of wool and dairy products, it also imports many of its domestic needs from overseas. Auckland is the country's largest city and port, with a population of half-a-million. Here at Bledisloe Wharf a cargo of processed cheese is ready for loading for delivery abroad.

American TV Reprimanded For Programming Failure

Christian Science Monitor

With the United States run of The Forsyte Saga nearing its end, a second BBC epic is about to be shared with the American public.

Or at least it should be.

We are referring to BBC's Civilization series, the TV child of British art commentator Sir Kenneth Clark. Sir Kenneth's 13-instalment history of civilization as reflected in its art was a hit in Great Britain. Likewise, a warm populace to the United States. When it was shown at the National Gallery of Art in Washington many more thousands showed up than there were seats for. And now it is running at a few public and museum theatres in New York and Boston.

The obvious question which comes to mind is why it is not being shown on American TV. After all, it is quite an undertaking to go to a theatre (if there were room for all who wish' to see it) 13 times running. And further, as The Forsyte Saga has shown, there is room in America a large audience for quality programming in serial format.

NET has been dickering for many months with the Time - Life organization (American distributors of BBC productions) for a piece from the network can afford. It may be argued that the restricted showings are nothing advance lineups for a TV airing. Or that more government funds should be channeled into NET's budget. On that Time-Life should accommodate NET's purse. Or that a commercial network should have the courage to pick it up. But in any event the sluggishness in bring Civilization onto American TV is inexcusable. And the lack of such quality productions coming out of America's own industry even more so.

No Home Is Complete Without Garden Plot

Boston Globe

Fifty million home gardeners, it is reported, are out there this season digging and rolling the fields with the cultworms, planning on beating the inflated cost of vegetables.

It's a pleasant activity and it can't do any harm. As a financial program, however, it compares with playing the stock market. It requires an investment, to be sure, but not as much, and the return depends on weather, skill, toil and luck.

Even a gardener of decent experience, on a small patch, has to spend a few $$ bills just to get started. Unless he has time and strength to do his own spading, he must hire a man to till soil with a machine. He must buy seeds, lime and fertilizer. If he has to buy tools, too, he can spend enough for a spade, rake and trowel to keep him in carrots for 15 years.

Nature does indeed reward the agriculturist handsomely with 1000 grains for one. When a garden grows well, even tools do not go to waste. Without canning or otherwise preserving, no family can eat all the tomatoes from a dozen vines, four tiers of rows of onions, three cans of cucumbers, all there at the same time, after a prolonged diet of healthful vegetables, one tends to years for something to grow, and wrinkled good things progress from seed to table. Mostly there is the freshness of having a green stuff. Once a person has raised his own corn he will never be with sweet at store produce, and hang the expense.

NDP Switches Policy To Give Backbenchers More Work

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — By itself, a routine press release from the New Democratic Party, announcing the formation of six new caucus committees, wouldn't raise too many eyebrows. Yet, as it turns out, the committees have had a profound effect on the power base within the party's 23-member caucus.

Quietly, but quickly, much of the decision-making power that had rested on the front benches for years has been shared evenly over the backbenches. Even the selection of speakers for particular debates has become, largely, a matter for the back benches.

By discarding their old committee system, which had produced nearly 30 different committees under a loose structure, the NDP members managed to group all major subjects under six comprehensive committees. Each committee is given full responsibility for matters coming under its jurisdiction, with freedom to plan its parliamentary strategy before reporting back to the full caucus.

Each committee examines every government bill under its jurisdiction, deciding what approach the party should take and arranging speakers to deal with each particular subject. In the three weeks the new system has been in effect, there have been several cases in which committees brought in outside experts to offer their views on complicated issues.

Under the old system, say some party backbenchers, there was a tendency for senior backbenchers to examine all bills first and let them gradually work down through the caucus.

"This meant," said one MP, "that senior members could pick off the subjects they wanted to talk about and we picked up the pieces."

This has changed. Two weeks ago, when one of the allotted opposition days became the responsibility of the NDP, a motion was presented condemning the government on grounds of having failed to produce an urban policy.

The entire strategy was worked by the new committee on urban and social affairs, headed by Ed Broadbent (NDP —Oshawa-Whitby). Six speakers were selected, largely on the basis of their areas of interest, and their subject-matter was planned in advance so there would be a minimum of overlapping.

When the debate began, Mr. Broadbent led off with a general review of current urban problems. He was followed by David Orlikow (N D P —Winnipeg North) who concentrated on housing problems, and then Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) added additional housing suggestions before going into urban transportation problems.

Barry Mahler (NDP—Surrey) then came in with a speech on urban pollution (problems and the next party spokesman, Doug Rowland (N D P—Selkirk), talked about the effects of urban problems on the people in the communities. Stanley Knowles (NDP—Moose Jaw) closed the debate by focusing attention on the small urban centres as opposed to the big cities.

There was widespread agreement that this planning resulted in one of the most comprehensive debates ever undertaken by the party. There was virtually no repetition—a remarkable feat in the Commons.

Party sources say the new committee system was designed to "broaden the base of participation" within the caucus. And to ensure the base was broadened, the members agreed that no members of the party's executive committee would become a committee chairman.

This excluded Party Leader T. C. Douglas, Deputy Leader David Lewis, House Leader Stanley Knowles, Caucus Chairman Alf Gleave (NDP—Saskatoon-Biggar), Vice-Chairman Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) and Secretary John Burton (NDP—Regina East).

Later, the caucus did decide to elect Mr. Broadbent chairman of the resources and agriculture committee, but this was the only exception.

Max Saltzman (NDP—Waterloo) heads the finance and economic affairs committee, Mr. Skoberg is chairman of the labor, manpower and transportation committee, Mr. Brewin is chairman of the external affairs and national defence committee and Mark Rose (NDP—Fraser Valley West) heads the committee on justice and cultural affairs.

Asked whether there was any objection from veteran frontbenchers during the caucus consideration of this major reorganization, Mr. Broadbent says there wasn't one word of protest from anyone.

"It's hard to say what they were thinking though."

Christian Pavilion at Osaka Lacks Expo 67 Shock Effect

By JACK TRACY

OSAKA (CP) — Less than one per cent of Japan's 102,000,000 people are Christians, and visitors come to the Christian pavilion of Expo '70 in just about that proportion.

Tucked away in an off-the-track corner of the fairgrounds, the little pavilion, which says it is a co-operation of the Vatican, is the first joint venture of Roman Catholic and Protestant missionary churches in Japan, a country where Buddhism and Shintoism predominate.

Lacking the shock effect of the angry Christian pavilion at Expo 67 in Montreal, which was a protest against human misery and injustice, the mostly-underground Christian exhibit draws few people compared with long queues at nearby displays on man-in-street Sesri Bridge Avenue.

Theme of the pavilion is "Eyes and hands; the Discovery of Humanity," and the above-ground structure suggests that. A pitched roof suggests hands clasped in prayer while windows between the hands suggest the eye.

At the entrance, pretty hostesses—all 30 are Japanese Christians—hand out leaflets which invite the visitor to feel himself "liberated from the colorful audience of the expo" outside.

One of them is Ayako Shimoto of Toyooka, a Tokyo suburb. She was baptized a Roman Catholic and took the Christian names of Mary Louise after attending a Catholic mission school. She said only about 1,000,000 Japanese are Christians. Her brothers and sisters are non-Christians.

"It's rare in Japan for all members of one family to be Christians," she said.

The pavilion's upper hall has a Bible in Japanese—a copy of an ancient Greek Bible, not a communion table and a bamboo pipe organ.

Panel photographs leasing inside a wall show the anguished side of Japanese life, underprivileged Negroes in the United States and groups of student demonstrators.

Daily prayers for peace are held in the upper room. Sundays —while business and the civil service shut down, Sunday has not achieved the same status in Japan as in Canada—the pavilion holds ecumenical services.

Catholic Progressives In Argentine Leftists

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The main progressive movement within the Roman Catholic Church of Argentina has formally sheered to socialism and to "revolutionary process," at a time when the church's hierarchy seems to be taking a more conservative stand.

The priests for the Third World movement, which says it has 400 members out of Argentina's 4,000 priests, held a national meeting at the city of Santa Fe and issued a communique saying:

"We state our formal rejection of the present capitalist system and of its logical consequences, economic and cultural imperialism.

"We also adhere to the revolutionary process, which encourages the appearance of a new man.

"We have made our choice of Latin-American socialism, which must necessarily imply the socialization of the means of production."

Earlier, the conference of Argentine bishops elected a new president, the Archbishop of Parana, Magr. Adolfo Tortolo, regarded as one of the most conservative members of the hierarchy.

Magr. Tortolo replaced the Archbishop of Buenos Aires, Antonio Cardinal Caggiano, also a conservative, who is gradually giving up his religious functions due to his age, 62.

The Archbishop of Corrientes, Magr. Francisco Vicentin, excommunicated last March a parish priest affiliated with the Third World movement, Rev. Raul O. Marturet, and suspended four other priests who supported him. The archbishop charged Father Marturet with having sued him before a lay court, when the priest requested judicial protection against alleged police harassment.

At Rosario last year, Archbishop Guillermo Bolatti faced a crisis when 26 of his parish priests resigned their posts, saying he lacked interest in social problems. Pope Paul sought to mediate for a compromise, which has not been reached yet.

Beside these conflicts with their bishops, the Third World priests have also had confrontations with the military government of President Juan Carlos Ongania, a traditionalist Roman Catholic. The dissident priests have supported labor and student strikes and demonstrations, disregarding government warnings that they were inspired by "subversive Communists."

In their Santa Fe communique the priests called for a "radical change in the mentality and behavior of many of our fellow Catholics, especially those who rule the church."

Anglican Minister Man of Experience

For instance, he says his vocation is "farmer, fisher, and among other things is a gourmet cook.

For years he spent his time on other continents, at jobs which included flying propeller and jet aircraft in the Middle East, Africa and Europe, cooking for loggers, clerking in a bank and selling airplanes.

"I wanted a new challenge and I've found it in the ministry," he said in a recent interview. He managed to support his wife, Betty, and their five children while studying at the Anglican Theological College here after retiring from the RCAF.

"My wife and the children were behind me all the way. I ended up $5,000 in debt, but it's been well worth it."

He became a breadmaker in a logging camp years ago, learned to be chairs and plastic in demonstrations of appliances and picked up a knowledge of French cuisine during four years with the NATO defence force in Paris.

But it is the bread making he prefers.

"It's wonderful for relieving tension," he said. "When you've had a hectic day and feel like taking a poke at someone it's great to get your hands into that lovely dough and pummel it to pieces."

Mr. Brown chose to enter the ministry when he returned to Canada from his stint in Paris.

"I sang in the air force choir for 14 of my 19 years in the RCAF," he said. "Then, when I was stationed at St. Bruno, I wanted to be a lay reader in the church I attended in Montreal and started taking night courses in theology at the Montreal Diocesan College.

"I finally ended up taking six courses a week and also working as airdrome control officer during the day. I couldn't do both—it was too much—so that's when I made my decision."

He brought his family to Vancouver and graduated from the theological college in 1967. He was appointed to St. Timothy's Anglican Church, where he had served as deacon, upon his ordination.

Rural Ministers Find Poverty Is Widespread

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — Rural church ministers from various denominations across Canada got their heads together here recently to look into their common problem. Poverty seemed to be the one most commonly faced.

Called the National Institute for Church Leaders in Small Communities, the meeting was attended by 34 ministers—two female and 32 male—from pastorates as far away as the Yukon and Newfoundland.

The delegates, representing Anglican, United, Lutheran and Presbyterian churches, stayed with families in rural Waterloo County.

Although they found poverty a problem common to all, some of the delegates said they were taken somewhat by surprise by their neighbor's lot.

For example, Rev. David Smith said some fishermen in his Bella Coola, B.C., congregation faced with a shortage of fish and loss of boats through repossession, found it difficult to believe that Prairie farmers were that badly off.

But the ministers from the Prairies were quick to point out to him at the meeting that some of their farmers had to sell parcels of land to pay their taxes.

Conference co-ordinator was Dr. Norman H. High of the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education and former dean of University of Waterloo. Dr. High, a Mennonite, is also a rural sociologist.

Medieval Mood Has Influence on Fall Fashions

NEW YORK (AP) — The real influences on fall fashions this year are the Medieval and pre-Raphaelite moods — not the 1930s — according to the kickoff forecast at the American Designer Showings.

Or they reflect the 19th-century pre-Raphaelite influence, when fashion defied established stays and stuffings by going to softer, prettier clothes: the first shirt waist and skirt, soft dog collars, gently modified leg o' mutton sleeves.

The peasant and national dress look is strong in some collections shown Sunday at the Delmonico Hotel. The look means intricate embroidery on leathers and velveta from Oscar de la Renta, or stitched flower patterns so white they're almost invisible in black. It means the gaucho look, the poncho, pants tucked into boots, and babushka.

Fabrics are lighter than ever—from thick tweeds with synthetic fibers to metallic sheers in gold and silver brocades at night.

The new proportion is the small, slightly fitted top above a curved narrow skirt.

Costume jewelry is having its day: ornate barbarian pieces, the choker, the dog collar, the pendant necklace and long earrings.

Make-up is brighter, more exaggerated. The face is spotlighted again.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Mrs. Wyatt has challenged Labor Minister W. J. Keough of Newfoundland to a debate on the issue of equal pay for women.

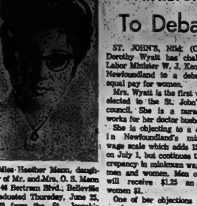
Mrs. Wyatt is the first woman elected to the St. John's city council. She is a nurse who works for her doctor husband.

She is objecting to a change in Newfoundland's minimum wage scale which adds 15 cents on July 1, but continues the discrepancy in minimum wages for men and women. Men over 19 will receive $1.35 an hour, women $1.

One of her objections is that employers are more likely in some cases to hire a woman at the lower rate than a man at the higher.

Apart from the effect on the economy she says this forces some mothers to leave their children without adequate care. This is intrinsically an evil thing.

"I now challenge the minister of labor to a debate on the subject of equal pay for equal work. I would really enjoy discussing this matter with him in a public forum.



"Present legislation in this province forces working women to be second-class citizens. I know of many particular instances where discrimination is prevalent."

Mrs. Wyatt says she feels her own job security almost her duty to say what many working women can only think.

"There are many women who feel as strongly as I do about the rights of women, but who simply cannot speak out. They know they can be replaced by someone who will be quiet."

The Wyatts have two children, a son, 15, and a daughter, 8. Mrs. Wyatt says she owns her daughter an effort.

"I know that as a parent I have an obligation to my daughter and to all our daughters to right this wrong."

Miss Heather Mann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Mann of 46 Bertram Blvd., Belleville graduated Thursday, June 25, 1970 from the St. Joseph's School of Nursing, Toronto. Miss Mann, who is a graduate of Moira Secondary School, plans to nurse at St. Joseph's Hospital.

VON Staff Members Honored on Departure

Miss Norma Gundal, nurse-in-charge, is transferring to the VON branch in Oshawa where she will assume a similar position with a larger staff.

Miss Lynn Pender assistant nurse, is being posted to Fisher River, Manitoba, by the Dept. of Health and Welfare where she will be nursing in a 20-bed Indian hospital.

Commode Chest Designed To Disguise Their Storage

A commode is a small cupboard with a drawer and one or two doors. Initially, the word indicated a chest of drawers, frequently decorative.

In the early 19th century ladies objected to references to chamber pots and therefore the appearance in public. Sheraton's commode chest was designed to disguise their storage. The name came to mean any storage for chamber pots, slop jars and the like. Eventually the commode took over the function of the wash hand stand as well and by mid-19th century often had a marble top and splash back.

In almost all commodes of the mid-19th century the white marble top is cracked or missing. Cracked tops can be readily repaired by a ceramic tile expert. Victorians used vinegar, hydrochloric acid, borax, pumice, soda, plain soap and water, altogether or separately, to clean stained marble.

The surface of old marble usually required cleaning, repolishing, and re-sealing, and should be done by a professional. The cost is modest compared to the value of the marble. Missing marble tops can be replaced economically with veneered plywood.

Early Victorians were practical: no room was without a commode. There were parlor commodes, each bedroom had one and even dining-room sideboards had commode fittings. The commode is now probably the most popular, common and useful piece of Victorian furniture. It is ideal as a small sideboard with shelves for china below and a drawer for linen above.

The commode pictured is mid-19th century, veneered in rosewood with mahogany and touch of gothic trim around base. It was made in a factory and has standard-size applied molding in the door panels, maxa produced locks, hinges and castors and sawn drawer bottoms (cabinet fitted bottoms are planed).

The marble top is removable. It is held in place by two pegs set in the top of the frame which fit into corresponding slots in the marble. The weight of the marble keeps it from shifting.

Commodes had to be large to accommodate toilet sets which consisted of at least ten pieces; chamber pot and lid, basin and ewer, slop jar and liner, soap dish, liner, and cover, tooth brush mug, shaving mug and hot water jug. Late in the century sets included toilet trays with hair receivers, hat pin holders, brush and comb holder and other sundries whose use needs description.

Commodes are useful, decorative pieces well worth. Marble tops in good condition sold greatly to the price. Wooden top examples, are likely to cost $25 or more. Those with good marble tops fetch ten times that price.

LODGING AND SHELTER

"There is nothing . . . by which so much happiness is produced as by a good . . . inn." — Samuel Johnson, (1709 - 1784.)

* * *

With an addition of two motor inns to accommodate and welcome more visitors to our fair city, this bit of historical travel data is offered by a kind reader who sent it to me:

"It is interesting to note in this age of constant travel that the people of 18th century France were enthusiastically nomadic. They moved about with the season, as did their king. As travellers, their love of change, adventure and pleasure created a variety of literature on the subject of lodging and shelter.

"In Fecca, good hostelries are mentioned . . . where the soup is good — there are pies and cakes of every kind. Or in Germany, it is different from the French way, for soup is served at the end of the meal — guests drink from great silver cups . . . glasses are washed with salt (24 hours in four days). In Italy, a bed as big as a tower is offered as a free gift, if a traveller will stop at a certain inn . . . rhymers make up rhymes on the spur of the moment to arouse guests.

"This occasional year of his death, it was not generally known (and there is a wide choice, for he stayed at many, such as the George at Aylesham, Lincolnshire, "the best inn I have ever put up in") will be visited by many visitors.

Which brings to mind the high regard many novelists have for Inns, where their writing is done, such as Sir Walter Waugh, (whose 1356 novel "Island in the Sun") is nestled hem a quarter of a million dollars), who has only praise for "the most hotel bedroom" with its gift of peace and quiet.

What makes an inn, or hotel special? One has suggested — folklore. And the spirit saddens the heart of Boston's century-old elegant Hotel Vendome, modeled after the famed Vendome in Paris, along with a French Room

Certain Types of Food Not for Fingers

By DORIS CLARK

The subject of the complaint was guilty of letting the left hand in on what was really the right hand's act: picking up a forkful of tossed salad. That extra piece of radish kept dodging the fork, so she pushed it on with her finger.

All right, so we don't use our fingers in our food: that is, not in anything which inds to be juicy. But we can pick up things like nuts and olives. Dry slow-eating potatoes and potato chips are finger foods. But not French fries. Bacon is a sort of half - and - half item: it is crisp and really dry, fingers are O.K.

Sandwiches are finger foods, except the sky-high drippy gravy affairs which take fork, and probably knife, too.

Can you pick up drumsticks in your fingers? You can if you are at home and the hostess says it is O.K. Or at a barbecue. But it is simply not when you are out in public company with your best china on.

One mother I know has a "polite meal" once a week — as kiddy layout. All the etiquette questions come up and everybody gets into the act.

* * *

Dear Doris: I would like to form a jogging club but I can not sure how to go about it. In the summers, here, there is nothing for the teenagers to do.

I feel that this would be interesting as well as beneficial if it were conducted in the correct manner. — Want To Be Healthy.

Dear Healthy: Jogging is the "in" thing to do. Round up the teen - agers with a brief advertisement in this newspaper.

You can widen the group's activities by using two good books (names enclosed). They include swimming, walking, bicycling, baseball, squash and basketball instructions. There is a fitness test too, and a graduated point-system exercise program.

You can get other literature on fitness from the Director of the Fitness and Amateur Sport Directorate, Department of National Health and Welfare, Brooke Claxton Building, Ottawa 3, Canada.

Dear Doris: I noticed a letter from Anxious Mother about her daughter's boy friend. He apparently showed them by joking some kind of a far - out religious sect I am curious about, what sect it was.

If it is such an undesirable kind of religion, why not tell the people the title of it so that others can be on their guard against it? — A Bible Student.

Dear Student: Anxious Mother did not name the sect and if she had I wouldn't have repeated it in the column. Who am I to judge another person's religion?

The point was that religion by ceremony proved one more hurdle to jump, in marriage — and a big one; even though both parties had every acceptance with large numbers of people.

(Is it a point of etiquette that others can be on their guard against it? — A Bible Student.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYDON

Mother: "I'm so tired of diapers and bottles and getting up early in the morning. It doesn't seem as if we have any fun."

Grandmother: "You shouldn't feel that way with such an adorable baby. You sound as if you don't love him."

Even caring for a beloved baby can sometimes seem like a depressing and overwhelming chore, especially for a teen-aged mother. An evening of relaxation now and then will lift her spirits and make her a better mother.

Grandmother: "Most young mothers get worn out with the business of baby care, and feel tied down at times. I'll be glad to take care of the baby while you and John go to Jane's party this weekend."

Popular Strawberry Shortcake

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I will be watching for your recipe for Strawberry Shortcake made with your Tea Biscuits Supreme dough. My husband has asked for it and I cannot find my recipe. Please come to my rescue. — Jean E.

ANSWER: I am glad you asked.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE (Biscuit type-cakes serve 5" individual sheet cakes or use large — see below)

SHORTCAKE DOUGH:
(Tea Biscuit Supreme recipe)
2 cups sifted but not sifted all-purpose flour
4 tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. cream of tartar
½ tsp. salt
4 tsps. sugar
⅓ cup hard butter or best quality shortening
2-3 cup milk

Sift together into mixing bowl the flour, baking powder, cream of tartar, salt and sugar. Cut in the hard butter (or shortening) with pastry knife until size of small peas. Add milk all at once, mixing quickly until flour is barely moistened. Press dough into ball. Pat out on lightly floured board. Smoothly pat into ¾" thickness. Cut out with floured 3" cutter. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in 450 deg. Fahr. for 8-9 min. (Do not scorch.) These are perfect.

To make individual strawberry shortcakes, split each big biscuit and butter bottom half. Select 7 perfect big strawberries from a pint box and wash and hull and dry them and set aside. Wash and hull and slice remaining berries from 1-qt. box and sweeten with ¼ to 1-3 cup sugar. Put generous amount of sliced berries on bottom half of each split biscuit, cover with top, add more berries on top. Cover then with sweetened or sweetened whipped cream (or ice cream topping). Decorate top of each shortcake with reserved perfect whole berries.

NOTES: 1) If desired shape shortcake dough into one large round cake ¾" thick and bake on ungreased cookie sheet or pie plate at 450 deg. Fahr. for 12-15 min. Split, butter and cover with berries and whipped cream as above for individual shortcakes.

2) Obviously you can use the shortcake dough above for regular tea biscuits, for it is the famous Tea Biscuits Supreme recipe.

17-year-old Son Has Reading Problem

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you help me help my son? He has always been a slow learner and his reading ability at age 17 was at the second grade level. We had him tested and he is not retarded, just "slow."

ANN LANDERS

The boy has always wanted to do something for his country. He tried four times to get into the Armed Forces and failed. The fifth time they took him. He is now at Fort Dix taking more tests. In the meantime he calls on the telephone and tells me his buddies are reading the notices on the bulletin board to him because he can't make them out.

Is it my duty to inform the authorities? If anything happens to my son I would never forgive myself. — N.Y. MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: Stay out of it. You'll feel guilty either way. Chances are good that he'll be sent home. If you deprive him of this opportunity to serve and be a hero of it, you'll have a serious problem on your hands. And when he does come home, for heaven's sake see to it that the boy learns to read. Call the principal of any high school for information on where adult reading classes are being held in your city.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The advice you gave Poker Player's Wife was lousy. What are you trying to do anyway? Bust up a good poker game?

So what if five wives have to make a few sandwiches and pour a little beer every five weeks? So what if the other four guys who don't invite the fellows over probably have good reasons which are not hard to figure out if you'd use your head.

I know about such things because I'm in a poker club and we have the same deal. One of the players is my brother-in-law. His wife is such a terrible housekeeper he can't have anybody over. Another guy's wife has her 80-year-old parents living with her and the old folks insist on playing in the game. It's murder. We played there once and that was enough.

So let these five fillies in calm down. They should be happy their husbands have a nice, respectable hobby like playing poker. Some guys are out every night chasing broads. — ACES FULL.

DEAR ACES: I know when I'm holding a losing hand. Take the pot, Dad.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am having a disagreement with my daughter-in-law. Please settle it. We both read your column and agree that you would be an objective moderator.

My 11-year-old grandson is a very bright lad. He enjoys writing letters to Gram and Grumps. Some of the letters are essays expressing his ideas on a variety of subjects. He hands his letter to his mother in an unsealed envelope. She then stamps it and mails it to me. Unbeknown to the boy, his mother goes over the letter and corrects his mistakes in grammar and spelling.

I do not object to the mistakes. In fact I find them delightful. As 11-year-old boy is not expected to write perfect letters. I asked my daughter-in-law to please let letters alone. She says he doesn't know about the corrections and she wants to make them more "readable." I suspect she has a compulsion about mistakes because she was an English teacher. What is your opinion, Ann? — LAKEVIEW, WASH.

DEAR LAKE: Of course she has a compulsion!! The best solution would be for the boy to have his own stamps and mail the letters himself. Send him a sheet for the Fourth of July — sort of a Declaration of Independence gal.

Fisheries Act Anti-pollution Rules Will Take Precedence

OTTAWA (CP) — Senators and Commons members have begun a three-month recess after 132 sitting days in the second session of the 28th Parliament.

Both chambers adjourned Friday after passage of a few bills and a ceremony in the Senate chamber in which Chief Justice Gerald Fauteux, acting as deputy to Governor-General Roland Michener, gave royal assent to 25 bills.

As well, the Commons held a debate of nearly three hours Friday on the postal situation after passing amendments to the Fisheries Act to beef up anti-pollution law. They were later passed by the Senate and given royal assent.

The Senate also passed a Commons bill revamping the Canada Elections Act that lowers to 18 from 21 the minimum voting age in federal elections. It was assented to. The Commons passed a bill setting up a standards council of Canada. The Senate gave it first reading.

Delivering a parting shot in Commons debate on the Fisheries Act amendments, Lloyd Crouse (PC—South Shore) said Resources Minister J. J. Greene "fragmented" authority for pollution control by introducing the Canada Water Act, also assented to Friday.

The Fisheries Act had "everything going for it to control pollution."

The fisheries department would have had the sole authority to control water pollution in Canada.

The Canada Water Act, given assent Friday, split authority among federal and provincial governments and various government agencies.

It would now be difficult to enforce pollution control measures.

Mr. Crouse also rapped Fisheries Minister Jack Davis for assuming "dictatorial powers" under the amendments to the Fisheries Act.

He could freeze and control fishing in various parts of the country until there was only a handful of fishermen left.

Mr. Davis said anti-pollution measures under the Fisheries Act will apply to all areas and by-laws.

The amendments would allow the fisheries department to deal more quickly and effectively with pollution.

"I will guarantee that any standards under the Fisheries Act will not stand down to any other legislation—federal or provincial."

Earlier, Louis Comeau (PC—South Western Nova) suggested removing a provision in the amendments that would allow the fisheries minister to permit offshore lobster-fishing year by year.

He said the government decided to allow offshore lobstering because Russian and American fishermen were fishing off Canadian shores. But offshore lobster fishing would hurt inshore fishing.

Mr. Comeau suggested Mr. Davis should be meeting with the fishermen before allowing offshore lobstering.

Mr. Davis said he has no intention of upsetting the inshore lobster fishery in the Atlantic provinces. The department did not intend to permit an offshore lobster fishery there.

In debate on the standards council bill, Doug Rowland (NDP—Selkirk) suggested that the council should make recommendations on what standards it considers should be made compulsory.

Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin said the purpose of the bill is to set up a council that would recommend voluntary standards.

Speaking on a Senate bill amending the Canada Shipping Act, Michael Forrestall (PC—Dartmouth—Halifax East) said the transport department faces a "conflict of interest" as it investigates shipping accidents and sets shipping regulations at the same time.

He suggested the government should set up an independent agency to investigate accidents.

Peterborough Man To Be Tried Again

OTTAWA (CP) — A Supreme Court of Canada decision Friday ordered a new trial of non-capital murder for John Wray of Peterborough.

Wray was acquitted of the charge arising from the shooting death of Donald Cozzens during the robbery of a service station.

The Ontario Court of Appeal upheld the decision but the crown took the case to the high court.

In a 6-to-3 decision, the Supreme Court said the trial judge erred in not allowing evidence to come before the court as to how the murder weapon was found.

Bill Would Let Municipalities Borrow Abroad

TORONTO (CP) — A bill described as a significant contribution to the solution of municipal financial problems was introduced in the legislature Friday as one of the last items of business before the house recessed for the summer.

Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough, introducing the legislation to permit municipalities to borrow capital funds on foreign markets, said it will remain on the order paper through the summer so it can be studied with a view to possible changes.

Municipalities with a population of more than 20,000 will be able to issue four new types of debentures which will provide the funds to help them plan and implement capital works programs, Mr. McKeough said.

Municipalities with populations of more than 100,000 will be able to sell debentures payable in foreign currency other than United States dollars and sterling, if the province approves.

Mr. McKeough said this will allow municipalities greater flexibility in their borrowings and resilience in dealing with changes in the money market.

Treasurer Charles MacNaughton recently introduced complementary legislation for the smaller municipalities which enables them to sell debentures issued for any municipal purpose to the Ontario Municipal Improvement Corp. These debentures would finance water and sewage systems and incinerators plants.

Premier Robarts said special investigation has been launched into the bombings of at least three Italian-owned bakeries in Toronto. He gave no details.

—Allan Grossman, minister of correctional services, told the house the number of juvenile drug users committed to provincial training schools has increased notably during the first five months of this year. He did not give figures, but said the increase is part of a trend that has been developing during the last few years.

Courts Prepare for Flood of Breathalyzer Cases

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Judges and magistrates across the country braced themselves Friday to handle a backlog of cases held up while the Supreme Court of Canada was examining the country's breath analysis law.

The Supreme Court overturned a decision of the British Columbia Supreme Court and ruled Friday that the law enacted by Parliament and proclaimed in part by the cabinet last Dec. 1 is valid.

Under the law, motorists must give samples of their breath when asked by a policeman. If the blood alcohol level is 50 per cent or higher, a motorist is guilty of an automatic offence.

In the Metropolitan Toronto area, judges face a backlog of about 1,200 cases which were adjourned last April pending the Supreme Court decision.

E. G. Hachborn, a lawyer with the Ontario attorney-general's department, said he expects that these cases now will be dealt with in the courts.

Steve Leggett, a senior Toronto Crown counsel, said: "I was pretty sure they'd (the Supreme Court justices) split in favor of the law."

Premier John Robarts of Ontario said that the law now will be strictly enforced. He said while the controversial law was under review, the attorney-general's department had discouraged courts and police from enforcing it.

Richard P. Anderson, the Vancouver lawyer who successfully argued a case under the law before the B.C. Supreme Court, said he was disappointed.

The B.C. Supreme Court had ruled the law invalid and the federal government then took it to the Supreme Court of Canada for a ruling.

Justice Minister John Turner, in an interview at his summer cottage in St. Andrew's, N.B., said the Supreme Court decision will be a good thing for Canadians this summer, since the legislation is "an important piece of protection for Canadians on the road."

U. S. Military Satellites May Be Used to Televise Royal Tour

OTTAWA (CP) — Two United States military satellites may be used to transmit coverage of the royal tour of the Northwest Territories to Canada and Britain, it was learned Friday.

Use of the satellites by the CBC and BBC has involved high-level negotiations between the U.S. and Canada. And official comment is sparse and guarded.

"This is strictly a defence matter," said R. G. Carroll, federal official handling telecommunications arrangements for the tour of the Territories and Manitoba July 5-13.

However, it was learned the CBC group on the press plane will include a Canadian officer trained in satellite transmission, plus special transmission equipment.

Radio transmissions would be bounced off the U.S. Lincoln experimental satellite No. 6 and the U.S. Tactical Communications Satellite, which are on polar orbits, to the Canadian communications research centre at Shirley's Bay, near Ottawa.

The broadcasts would then be fed into network centres at Toronto and Montreal.

Officials confirmed that this is the worst year for sunspots in an 11-year cycle, perhaps accounting for back-up reliance on the satellites. The spots play hob with radio communications.

The royal party will be met by particularly in the North.

On a dry run for the tour May 22, The Canadian Press sent the first telephone transmission from north of Canada's Arctic Circle—a photo of Kenneth Peelalook, 76, who will perform a drum dance for the royal visitors. The picture quality was poor though tests the day before had been good.

As a back-up against possible transmission difficulties, a CF-100 air force jet will carry still photos and television film daily from the territorial points to Winnipeg.

Mercury Detection Brings No Job Offers

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Norvald Flinrekie, the University of Western Ontario zoology researcher whose work led to the discovery of mercury contamination in fish, has had no job offers in Canada and only one from the United States.

Mr. Flinrekie's discovery was made under a grant by the Canadian Wildlife Service and he said Friday he "had almost expected an offer from the wildlife service or some other branch of government" to continue his research.

After he presents his doctoral thesis on mercury pollution in the Great Lakes and Prairies within the next several weeks, he says, he will look in earnest for research positions, but adds he isn't hopeful because the emphasis in universities seems to be on teaching and not research.

The 34-year-old Norwegian and his wife plan a visit to Norway in August and if he hasn't job offer in Canada by then he is confident he can get a job at home.

Mr. Flinrekie says he has been offered a job at the University of Detroit but won't accept because he prefers to remain in Canada.

Hulme-Gurney Pace Second Leg of Can-Am Racing Series

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (CP) — Qualifying sessions for Sunday's Canadian-American Challenge Cup race at nearby Le Circuit were marred Friday when Gary Wilson, Kansas rancher-turned-driver, suffered burns in an accident.

The 31-year-old native of Tewanda was reported "doing fine" in hospital after suffering second-degree burns to his face when an oil pan he was welding caught fire.

Early reports indicated he might lose an eye but a nurse at the hospital said there was no danger of that.

Many of the scheduled 33 entrants in Sunday's second leg of the 11-race Group 7 series spent Friday preparing for today's final qualifying session for starting positions.

Team McLaren drivers Denis Hulme and Dan Gurney racked up the fastest times Friday around the twisty 2.65-mile course set in the Laurentian mountains 90 miles north of Montreal.

New Zealand's Hulme, winner of the Can-Am series in 1968 and runner-up in 1969 and 1970, said he was doubtful about breaking records Sunday after touring the track.

But despite the track and hands he burned in practice for the Indianapolis 500 in May, Hulme posted a 1:32.3 time in his McLaren M12D, good for 102.25 miles an hour and half a second under the 1:32.8 official lap record set in competition. The qualifying record is 1:31.7.

Both marks were set last year by the late Bruce McLaren, driver, designer and builder of the McLaren cars used by more than half the entrants in Sunday's race. McLaren, reigning Can-Am champ, was killed June 2 while testing one of his cars in England.

Gurney, from Costa Mesa, Calif., filled the leader's shoes by winning this year's first Can-Am race at Mosport, Ont., June 14. Hulme placed third.

One of the biggest challenges to McLaren domination of the series should have existed since the fifth. Sal Bando had a two-run homer in the fourth for the Athletics' only runs while Russ Snyder's solo blast in the fifth tied the game at 2-2.

$1,000,000 series is expected to come from Jackie Oliver's Automotive which dicked with Hulme and Gurney to finish less than 20 seconds behind the leader at Mosport.

England's Oliver worked on gearing and suspension Friday as he posted a 1:36.4 time.

Other competition could come from Lothar Motschenbacher of Beverly Hills, Calif., who damaged his car at Mosport and dueled with Oliver for part of the course.

The sports-car race will start the scheduled 75 laps of Le Circuit at 2:05 p.m. Sunday.

Robinson Rips Pair of Grand Slams, Angels Kill Three With One Ball

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Robinson, Baltimore Orioles' 36-year-old star, cracked consecutive grand-slam home runs Friday night, leading The Orioles to a 13-2 trouncing of the Senators. He became the seventh player to hit two or more in a game.

The Baltimore slugger drilled his blasts in the fifth and sixth innings of right-hander Joe Coleman and left Joe Grzenda, increasing his season total to 14 homers and giving him 44 runs batted in. He is also hitting .322.

In other American League games, California Angels edged Kansas City Royals 6-5, Detroit Tigers whipped Cleveland Indians 7-1, Chicago White Sox stopped Minnesota Twins 4-2, Milwaukee Brewers overcame Oakland Athletics in 15 innings, 3-2, and the Boston Red Sox at New York Yankees game was postponed by rain.

Robinson said he wasn't trying for the second homer because, "I've found out the hard way that when you think about hitting a home run you don't get good wood on the ball trying to get a hit."

The last player to hit a pair of grand-slam homers in one game was Jim Northrup of Detroit, who accomplished the feat on June 24, 1968.

Dan Buford ripped a solo homer and single in three other Orioles runs with four hits while Dave McNally eased to his 11th victory, tossing a seven-hitter.

Joe Ascue drilled four hits, including a two-run homer and the Angels pinched a triple play in their narrow triumph.

Ascue triggered a four-run with-hitting rally with his homer and in the previous inning California came up with the AL's first triple play of the year after Kansas City put the first two men on and Steve Kealey came on to relieve starter Rudy May. Amos Otis grounded to Chico Ruiz at third. Ruiz at third,

FRANK ROBINSON

Ruiz stepped on third, threw to second baseman Sandy Alomar for the second out and the relay to first nipped Otis.

Alomar also connected for a three-hitting single, running his consecutive game hitting streak to 21, the longest in the AL since Leonie Green of the Twins hit in 24 straight back in 1961.

Willie Hiron drove in five runs with a pair of homers and a single and Joe Niekro hurled a four-hitter in Detroit's victory over the Indians.

Clutch relief pitching from Jerry Crider, protected starter Bob Miller's victory and Don White Sox cracked three sacrifice flies in their triumph, which lowered the Twins West Division lead to only two games over the Angels. Rich Reese had a homer for the Twins.

Fourth Straight for Dodgers

Osteen Tames Padres

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angeles Dodgers finally gave up a run and Atlanta Braves finally scored one, but it was too little to end the Dodgers' winning streak and too late to stop the Braves' skid.

Claude Osteen extended the Dodger pitching staff's scoreless skein to 33 innings in a 4-1 victory over San Diego Padres, the fourth straight Los Angeles triumph. The Braves made it four straight setbacks, howing to San Francisco Giants 4-1 and had gone 28 innings without a run until Hal King homered in the ninth.

Elsewhere in the National League, Montreal Expos edged New York Mets 5-3, Cincinnati Reds thumped Houston Astros 12-2 and St. Louis Cardinal's trounced Philadelphia Phillies 7-0. The Chicago Cubs were rained out in Pittsburgh.

Osteen, 10-7, turned the Padres ace ace hits before 55,110 fans, largest crowd of the National League season and the largest regular-season attendance over at Dodger Stadium, which opened in 1962.

Wes Parker drove in a run in the first inning, Bill Sudakis homered in the second and Willie Davis sent a run across in the third. Sudakis singled home the Dodgers' final run in the sixth. San Diego's only run came in the sixth on a walk and a double by Clarence Gaston.

The victory kept the Dodgers nine games behind Cincinnati in the NL is West Division and extended the Padres' losing streak to six games.

San Francisco's Gaylord Perry became the major league's first 20-game winner by holding the Braves to three hits. Perry had retired 15 consecutive batters when Hal King homered to lead off the ninth.

Bobby Bonds opened the Giants' ninth with a homer off loser Ron Reed and they wrapped it up in the third on a single by Bonds. Bobby Heise's triple and Willie McCovey's sacrifice fly Henderson singled in the eighth and scored on Alan Gallagher's triple.

Rusty Staub hit a two-run homer in the first inning and pinch-hitter Gary Sutherland followed with a fourth as the Expos snapped the Mets' five-game winning streak.

Staub threw out the potential tying run at the plate in the seventh and Coco Laboy's solo homer in the eighth proved the decisive run when rookie Ken Singleton cracked his first major league homer in the Mets' ninth. Tommie Agee also connected for the losers, No. 16.

"It is difficult to win all the time," said manager Gil Hodges, whose world champions came into Montreal off a five-game sweep of the Cubs.

"It is a disappointment to lose any time, to anyone. Every series is hard. There are no easy games in the National League."

Tommy Helms' run-scoring single in the ninth inning staked Cincinnati rookie Hank Wayne Simpson to his eighth straight victory and 11th in 12 decisions.

The Astros tied the game in the eighth on Joe Pepitone's two-run homer after the Reds scored an unearned run in the third and made it 3-0 on Bobby Tolan's eighth-inning homer. Simpson needed help from Wayne Granger in the ninth.

Clay-Frazier Bout Would Meet Approval Of Michigan State

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — The Washington state athletic commission disapproved a licence for Cassius Clay Friday, making it possible that Clay will fight heavyweight champion Joe Frazier in Detroit.

The commission voted 2 to 1 against licensing Clay.

Eight persons spoke before the commission during the 1½-hour hearing, urging the commission to approve the license for Clay, who lost recognition of his heavyweight championship in 1967 when he refused induction into the army.

Neil Hoff, representing Clay and the group which had hoped to sponsor the fight in Washington, read a letter from Clay's New York attorneys which said the fight undoubtedly would be held in Detroit if Washington State rejected it.

"This week we met with the former mayor of Detroit, Jerome Cavanagh, among others, and were assured that the fight would be sanctioned in Michigan.

"The win gives me a chance to move up in international competition and a good opportunity to wrestle in the Commonwealth Games and the world championships."

Shand, winner of the Canadian junior title at the 105½-pound level in 1969, took a 13-9 decision from Nowel Brain of St. Catharines, Ont., and beat Dave Higashi of Vancouver 3-0.

He did not have to participate in a three-man round-robin final because, he defeated his two closest rivals.

Nick Schori of Stratford, Ont., pulled the major upset of the three-day championships, taking a 3-1 decision from Taras Hryb of Victoria.

Hryb, who won a bronze medal for Canada in the first world junior championships at Bolder, Colo., last year, was undefeated in two previous matches in the 180½-pound senior freestyle division.

Hryb, if, who still could win the title, defeated Larry Speers of Edmonton 3-1 and took a 5-2

Ten Win Games Wrestling Berth

CALGARY (CP) — Ken Shand of Toronto, whose dream is to represent Canada in Olympic competition in 1972 Summer Games at Munich, West Germany, won the first senior freestyle title in the Canadian amateur wrestling championships Friday.

His victory against three other opponents in the 105½-pound division also means the 19-year-old University of Toronto student likely will be selected as one of 10 Canadian wrestlers to compete in the Commonwealth Games next month in Edinburgh.

The Canadian Amateur Wrestling Association will pick 20 senior athletes—10 freestyle and 10 Greco-Roman—to participate in the world championships at Edmonton July 4-11. Most of the freestyle members are also expected to be selected for the Commonwealth Games.

"It has always been my dream to take part in the Olympics because they are only held every four years," said Shand

School, one of 48 Ontario entries in the tournament, also pinned Keith Francisconi of Regina in five minutes and 48 seconds of a consolation match, then pinned John Tresco of Regina in 7:46.

Senior freestyle events featured Friday's opening rounds. The finals will be held today. Greco-Roman competition is scheduled for Sunday along with junior freestyle matches.

The wrestlers compete in three, three-minute rounds and each competitor is guaranteed two matches.

In most cases, the three top wrestlers in preliminary rounds advance to round-robin finals in each weight division.

Other outstanding performers Friday were Ed Millard of New Liskeard, Ont., 220-pound division; Ron Lappage of Edmonton and Claude Pilon of Ottawa, 198-pound division; and Barry Mudry of Prince Albert, 163-pound class.

Eight Amateurs Battle for Positions on Ontario Golf Team

GUELPH (CP) — Eight amateurs are locked in a tight struggle for berths on the four-man Ontario team that will compete later this summer for the Canadian amateur championship and the Willingdon Cup.

The four-man team is comprised of players with the lowest scores after 36 holes of the Ontario Open and 36 holes of the Ontario amateur championship which will be held July 15-17 in Aurora.

Leaders after the Open are Pete McGregor of Guelph, Steve Hamilton of Brampton and Bill Bevan of St. Catharines, all with 140; after two rounds at the Cutten Golf Club.

Two familiar golfers are at 141. They are Nick Weslock, a 32-year-old from Brantford who has won the Open seven times since 1946, and Gary Cowan of Kitchener. Jim Neale, a Burlington school teacher, also has 141.

Two newcomers, an old favorite and a rookie, are at 142. They are Gerry (Kneading of Kitchener, 42, who has won the Open twice as an amateur and twice as a professional and who has recently been reinstated as an amateur, and Dale Talbot of Toronto, the 19-year-old draft choice of Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League and winner of the Ontario junior golf championship last year.

McGregor, Bevan, Kennedy-ing and Cowan would be newcomers to the Ontario team. The other four have all participated before.

The only other amateur with a chance of catching the front-runners, unless there is a dramatic falldown is Bill Gross of Kitchener, who had a 144 after rounds of 76 and 70.

Rosewall Has Reverse Role at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Ken Rosewall, the hero of sentimental tennis fans with long memories, is a quarter-finalist in the all-England tennis championships for the first time in 16 years.

The wily 34-year-old Australian overcame Tom Gorman of the United States Friday 6-2, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5.

Rosewall now has to face fellow Aussie Tony Roche and the ordeal of continuing on the oddest pair of legs left in this gruelling two-week tournament.

"If Rosewall reaches the final, it will be the most sentimental occasion on the centre court since the final of 1954," said a tourney official.

"And how well we remember the emotion of that day."

That was the year 37-year-old Jaroslav Drobny won the title. The crowd cheered him to victory against Rosewall, who was then 19.

Drobny is by far the oldest Wimbledon champion since the Second World War.

Gorman, 24, staged a fierce counter-attack against Rosewall after losing two sets, and near the end of the match the fans sensed the old Australian maestro was at critical point.

"If I could have won that fourth set and levelled at two all, I don't think he would have lasted," Gorman said afterwards. Everybody on the centre court knew Gorman was right.

Gorman broke Rosewall's service to lead 5-4 in the fourth. But then Rosewall broke back and saw the job through in the next two games.

Rosewall now will get a rest from singles play until Monday.

Meanwhile, three Americans were bidding for a quarter-finals place today.

Stan Smith, who has been nursing a shoulder injury in recent months, had to play Australia's Ray Emerson, who was champion in 1964 and 1965.

Rod Laver of Australia, favorite to win the title for the third straight year and the fifth in all, had to play Roger Taylor, the last British survivor and the hope of the fans here.

Four fourth-round matches were settled Friday. In addition to Rosewall, three other Australians—Roche, Bob Carmichael and John Newcombe—made the quarter-finals.

Roche overcame Marty Riessen of the U.S. 6-4, 8-10, 6-4, 6-2. Carmichael upset Bob Hewitt of South Africa 6-4, 3-7, 6-2, and Newcombe eliminated American Dennis Ralston 14-12, 9-7, 6-3.

Billie Jean King of the U.S. defeated the ambi-dextrous Dutch girl Marijke Schaar, who passes her racket from hand to hand and never attempts a backhand, 6-4, 6-0. That put Billie Jean, No. 2 seed, into the last 16, heading the American challenge towards the favorite, Australia's Margaret Court.

True Grit!

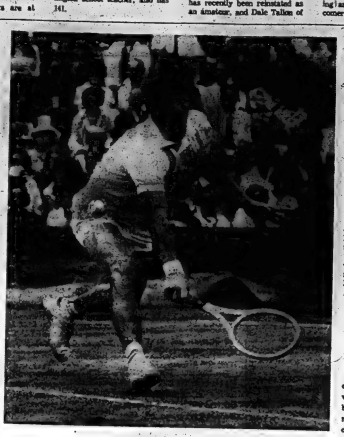
CALGARY (CP) — Three competitors have more to overcome than their opposition in the Canadian amateur wrestling championships.

Art Scott and Gordon Hope are blind and Peter Evans has one arm.



"Both Art and Gord are good wrestlers and should do fairly well in the tournament," says John Howe who coaches the boys at the Ontario School for the Blind at Brantford.

Howe introduced wrestling at the school in 1966 and says more than 70 boys take part in competition.

Scott, 20, of Tillsonburg, Ont., will be participating in the 125-pound class for senior men during the three-day championships. He finished third at the 105½-pound level in the 1968 tournament.

Hope of Edmonton, who also takes part in track and field and gymnastics, represents Alberta in the 105½-pound junior division.

Evans, from Aldershot, Ont., is entered in the 105½-pound class for senior men.

Backhand Baseline

Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., reaches low to make return to Australia's John Newcombe during their singles match in the All-England championships at Wimbledon, England, Friday. Newcombe, seeded No. 2, needed 2½ hours of play to eliminate Ralston, 14-12, 9-7, 6-2.

Four Seals Top NHL Golf Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — Four Oakland Seals players led Friday after the first round of the National Hockey League Players' Association annual golf tournament.

Carole Vadnais, a rugged forward-defenceman with the Seals, and partner Ted Hampson, came out on top with a net best-ball total of 69 on the Board of Trade Country Club course.

Right behind was another pair of Seals team-mates, Harry Howell and Bill Hicke, with a total of 61.

The three-day tournament, with a total of $12,000 in prize money, was won last year by Bob Baun of Detroit Red Wings and Gump Worsley of Minnesota North Stars. The pair had a 68 total in the first round Friday.

Gary Dornhoefer of Philadelphia Flyers, an assistant pro at Kitchener's Westmount club is the off-season, had the best individual score of the day with a 69 on the par-70, 6,197-yard course.

Cleveland Course To Hill's Liking

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I'll defy anyone to play this course without making a double bogey," Dave Hill said after rain saved him from a three-over-par score on the demanding Aurora Country Club course.

"That ol' double bogey is out there somewhere, just waiting for you," Hill said Friday after rain had forced postponement of the second round in the $150,000 Cleveland open golf tournament.

Hill, one shot back of first round leader Larry Hinson going into Friday's play, praised the tight, 6,861-yard, par-70 course.

"It's a good, tough, tight little track," said the man who was fined and reprimanded for his criticism of the Hazeltine course, site of last week's U.S. Open.

"It really makes you think," said Hill, who had an opening 66, four under par, the first time he had seen the course.

With the rain ended, the second round was scheduled to be replayed in its entirety today with a double session of 36 holes scheduled Sunday. All players who had started their rounds Friday must begin again from the start today.

That includes Hinson, the first-round leader with a five-under-par 65. He went one-over-par on two of his first six holes Friday before play was held up.

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders announced Friday the signing of Canadian defensive halfback Joe Poirier to a one-year contract. The 5-1, 180-pound graduate of Loyola College in Montreal will be paying his 11th season with the Canadian Football League team.

* * *

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — Ray Brownlee, third choice of Boston Bruins in the amateur draft, has signed a one-year contract with the National Hockey League club. The young left winger was signed Thursday. Brownlee played last season with Brandon University Bobcats of the Western Canada Intercollegiate Athletic Association and previously with Brandon Wheat Kings of the Western Canada Hockey League.

SANTOS, Brazil (AP) — Pele, the world's most famous soccer player, says "it is certain" he will remain with his home club, Santos, for two more seasons. Then he will retire. Pele disclosed that during the World Cup tournament in Mexico he again received an offer to stay in Mexico and play for one of his teams there. Pele also said a German team was interested in signing him and that he received a proposal to become a soccer instructor in Africa.

MONTREAL (CP) — Michel Briere, 20-year-old centre with Pittsburgh Penguins of the National Hockey League, remained unconscious in a Montreal hospital Friday, six weeks after an automobile accident near his home at Malarctic, Que. Last week, the hospital reported that Briere was able to move his fingers slightly and to respond to the presence of his family by squeezing the hands of those speaking to him.

* * *

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (CP) — Gary Wilson of Towanda, Kan., was burned Friday while preparing his Lola sports-racing car for Sunday's Canadian-American Challenge Cup race at nearby Le Circuit race track.

A hospital spokesman said the 31-year-old driver's condition was "not serious." He suffered burns to his face when the oil pan he was welding caught fire.

The fastest drivers Friday were Denis Hulme of New Zealand and Dan Gurney of California in their team McLaren cars which have won 13 consecutive races.

Drivers get a second chance to improve their times and qualify for starting positions today.

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Thomas C. Robbins, 77, winner of many major senior golf championships, died of cancer at a Pinehurst hospital Friday. Among titles he won were the USGA Senior in 1958, the U.S. Seniors Association in 1961-62 and American Seniors in 1953.

Parker Seeks Improved Pivot

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jackie Parker converted British Columbia Lions in the Western Football Conference from pushovers to Lions at the end of the last season and fans here are hoping the magic carries into 1970.

Parker took over Lions with five season games left in 1969 after Jim Champion was fired as head coach. Under Parker's guidance, the club won four of the five games and finished third for the last playoff spot in the WFC.

How does the club look this year?

About 70 players are in training camp and it is difficult to assess such a mob. But Parker says his players appear in better shape than at the beginning of last season and that he won't make any wholesale cuts until after the first exhibition game against Edmonton Eskimos here July 6.

The club has a number of quarterbacks, halfbacks, receivers and linemen in training camp.

"We have to improve at quarterback," Parker said in an interview, "but I'm not concerned whether it's with new people or with those we had last year."

Both 1969 quarterbacks, Paul Brothers and backup man Hank Grenda are back, but they face plenty of competition. Carroll Williams from Atlanta Falcons, Billy-Guy Anderson from Los Angeles Rams and Vidal Carlin from Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League. All are looking for jobs.

Bests bets to stick are Brothers, because he has Canadian Football League experience, and Carlin who throws with authority.

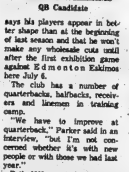
Parker also said the offensive line must improve. Bob Howes is likely to retain his centre position with Ken Sugarman and Trevor Ekdahl at guard.

The Lions hope, however, that Dave Golinsky, a Canadian, will have improved enough to make the club at tackle, replacing an ex-leader Bobby Duncum or Max Huber.

The club is knee deep in good backs.

Jim Evenson, who rushed for 1,287 yards last year—he was second in the West behind George Reed of Saskatchewan Roughriders—and Jim Young will certainly be in the starting lineup.

There's a fight for the other running back position between A. D. Whitfield from Washington Redskins of the NFL and returning Lions Charlie Brown and Jim Nicholson.



Parker said at least one "and probably two" will have to be cut.

Tom Cassese, obtained in a trade with Montreal, will undoubtedly be one of the wide receivers. Who the others will be will not be determined until after the exhibition season is over.

Lefty Hendrickson, E. A. Sims—both 1969 Lions—and Major Stevenson, a highly-touted rookie from Texas, will be trying for the tight end spot.

The Defence will also see a change in the deep backs with Ted Gereia dropping from the ranks to concentrate on kicking.

Bowerman Shares Ontario Open Lead

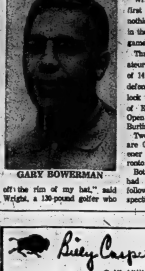
GUELPH (CP — Staff) — Belleville-born golfer Gary Bowerman has his sights set on a triumphant return to Canadian golf links, as he carded his second sub-par round at Guelph's Curtiss Golf Club to jump into a first-place tie in the Ontario Open golf championship.

Bowerman, playing out of Richmond Hill, added a 68 to his opening round 67 to tie it 111 Wright Jr. of Edmonton at 135. His round was the lowest of the day as high winds and cold temperatures held down second round scores.

Wright, who added a 68 to his opening-round 67, was the only other golfer to break par Friday.



Both 29-year-old professionals hold a one-stroke lead over Al Balding of Southampton, Ont., the first -round leader who slipped to a two-over-par 72 Friday for a 136 total.

Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., and Frank Wilbley of Toronto were the only other players under par. Both had 139.

Another five players, including three amateurs, were grouped at 140. They were professionals Ed Engelhardt of Calgary, and Stan Horenski of Dauphin, Man. and amateurs Pete McGregor of Guelph, Stu Hamilton of Brampton, Ont., and Bill Bevan of St. Catharines.

The field for today's third and final round on the 6,218-yard course has been cut to the top 50 and ties. The cutoff point was 147.

A cold rain which started about 2.30 p.m. Friday lasted throughout the day but most golfers did not seem to mind.

GARY BOWERMAN

...off the rim of my hat," said Wright, a 130-pound golfer who has been playing dismally on the North American professional circuit.

Wright, who had a 68 in the first round, said he had made nothing after eight tournaments in the United States but felt his game was coming around.

Three well-known Ontario amateurs have a two-round score of 141, one over par. They are defending champion Mick Weslock of Brantford, Gary Cowan of Kitchener, winner of the Open in 1968, and Jim Neale of Burlington.

Two other amateurs at 142 are Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener and Dale Tallon of Toronto.

Both Kesselring and Tallon had miserable rounds Friday following scores of 68 and 69 respectively Thursday. Both players had several three-putt greens.

Homeniuk's brother Will was among the players at 142. Others at two-over-par were Robert Brodley of Orleans and Bill Kosak of Buffalo, N.Y.

Norman, who finished the front nine Friday three strokes under par, was at that time ahead of the field. However, he missed three four-foot putts on the back nine.

An example of players who were affected by Friday's weather were Balding, who had a 72, eight strokes higher than his first round, and McGregor, who slipped to a 72 after a first-round 68.

Weslock and Cowan, two of the favorites, played steady golf to remain in contention. Weslock is 70-71 and Cowan 71-70.

Mixed Summer Bag

From yogi to basketball the Belleville Recreation Department plans a well diversified and productive summer program to keep the citizens of Belleville physically fit and occupied.

Still waiting for the school board's allotment of gym facilities Bill Leslie's basketball program has signed over 60 interested people and are patiently biding their time until the schedule starts.

More active are the 24 ladies who every Tuesday afternoon and evening endeavor to lose some unnecessary poundage through the newly instigated yogi program. Six weeks are left in the eight week course, which is held downstairs in the Recreation building. Physical fitness is stressed through breathing exercises and muscular improvement with the loss of weight an added incentive.

For the younger set the 21 playgrounds in Belleville open July 6 with registration on July 2. Three supervisors and 25 leaders insure the smooth operation of the sports and entertainment of the children. Five water personnel patrol the beaches and function under the Recreation Department's jurisdiction.

Roller skating at the Ben Bleecker Auditorium and tennis at the more than 13 courts in Belleville are but some of the many summer programs run by the Recreation Department.

There are many times when the dalkeman also will be just the shot for a given situation. Knowing how to bend the ball around, toward and onto a certain green will give you greater confidence in your other shots. You can go ahead and swing freely, knowing that if you do get in trouble you can escape with minimal harm.

To also deliberately, merely follow these prescriptions: (1) align the clubface in the direction of the eventual target; (2) assume a stance in which a line across your toes parallels the direction in which you wish your shot to initially travel. The open stance will cause the clubhead to move from outside to inside in the impact area (direction) and produce the slice.

Weatherman Balks

The scheduled Belleville peewee Softball Tournament took a called strike from the weatherman as rain and cold weather forced a postponement of the tourney, slated to wind up at 6 p.m. today.

Plans are being made to hold the tournament next Saturday, but at the moment nothing has been finalized.

"A couple of the teams have other commitments next weekend," says Minor Softball president Howie Shugg. "But if we can replace them there's a good chance it will go next Saturday."

Golden Bat Tourney Highlight Of All-Star Baseball Season

By RANDY DERRY
Sports Staff

The Peewee, Bantam and Midget baseball all-stars are busily but carefully preparing for one of the major highlights of the season — the annual tournaments held throughout Ontario during the summer months.

"We have to try and pick the tournament that will offer the best ball within reasonable distance. A lack of funds prevents us from attending more tournaments," states Belleville Minor Baseball Association president Garth Bradshaw. "But if not in quantity, the quality of the tournaments that will be attended by Belleville teams offers considerable prestige and honor."

Next weekend, July 4th, the Peewee all-stars will be returning to Cobourg to defend their 'B' championship title in the annual Kool-Aid Tournament. Teams from Trenton, Smiths Falls, Peterborough, Whitby, Oshawa, Port Hope, Belleville and the host Cobourg entry comprise the double knockout competition.

"We're pretty sure of making the finals against Peterborough who probably must be considered the favorite. But we hope to take another trophy home again this year; except this time it will be the 'A' champions trophy," predicts coach Darwin Hoskin.

First Belleville game is 10:00 a.m. with Port Hope providing the competition. The championship game gets under way at approximately 7 p.m.

The Peewees also hope to attend the CNE tournament, the first six days of the Exhibition but further information is not available.

Of greatest local interest is the Annual Golden Bat Tournament held in Belleville July 4, 5, 6. Sixteen of the finest bantam teams in Ontario will be participating this year vying for one of the three trophies offered.

The Ross Bunnett Memorial Trophy which goes to the 'A' champs, was won last year by Scarborough Village.

The 'B' championship and the Legion Trophy went to the host Belleville club, while this year, for the first time, the Golden Bat will go to the Grand Champions.

Trenton, Carmel, Port Hope, Welland, Toronto Leaside, London, Toronto Legion 31, Brampton, Sarnia, Peterborough, Scarborough Village, Whitby, Hamilton, Toronto West Hill, Oshawa, and of course Belleville comprise one of the biggest tournaments in Ontario.

"The response has been tremendous this year and we could have easily gone to 24 teams but the time and effort required forced us to turn away such teams as Toronto East York and Rexdale, Newmarket and Smiths Falls," says tournament chairman Ron Lupenette. "Scarborough is probably the team to beat although Sarnia and Toronto and London have won the Ontario championship three times."

The games will use the Park Dale, YMCA, CNR, and Carnifton diamonds, and all the tournament needs now are helpers for ground keepers, hosts, and billets. Any volunteers are asked to phone 962-2853 after 6:00 p.m.

Kicking off the weekend are Friday night games between Trenton and Belleville at Park Dale and Carmel and Port Hope at the YMCA, with games throughout Saturday and Sunday.

Lions Baseball Clawed As Alhambra 109 Hurlers Fan 19

In Belleville Minor Baseball tyke division action on Thursday, Alhambra 109 clawed the Lion's Club 12-9.

Gary Stapely and Gregg McEachern combined on the mound to strike out 19 Lions and walk only four. They also led their team at bat with Stapely hitting a triple and double and McEachern punching three singles.

Howie Coons and Gary Rideout took the loss for the Lions fanning 14 batters and issuing five free passes.

Rick Garland with a double and single and Brady Mills with a double and two singles paced the Lions at bat.

On a social note a dance will be held Saturday night for all players and spectators.

The Midget All-Stars will be participating in a week long tournament in Leaside July 24 to Aug. 3, featuring some of the strongest teams in Ontario including Kitchener, London, Niagara Falls, and a host of Toronto teams.

Belleville will be renewing old rivals Aug. 1 when they play Niagara Falls in first round action. These two teams met years ago in the Ontario championships and again this year both clubs are rated as very strong.

"It will be a tough road to hoe but we have a good chance to advance through the tournament," said coach Ron Lupenette.

Calgary Coach Juggles Troops In Grey Cup Quest

CALGARY (CP) — Coach Jim Duncan will have to come up with a great juggling act if his Calgary Stampeders are to win the West—and then the Grey Cup—this year.

The Stampeders, second-place finishers in the Western Football Conference in 1969, are faced with these problems as they prepare for this season:

—Two of their top offensive threats are no longer with the club. Running back Ted Woods quit to enter law school and flanker Terry Evanshen was traded to Montreal Alouettes.

—Their first choice of a backfielder who would have taken Woods' spot signed with a U.S. club as did their two top choices to replace Evanshen.

—They were unsuccessful in recruiting a first-rate defensive lineman.

However, coach Duncan doesn't appear worried and emphasizes that the Stampeders won't be the patsies of the Canadian Football League.

He said in an interview at the Stampeder training camp:

"It's just a matter of juggling around. We have the nucleus of a good club, but the hardest thing to say is what kind of club we're gonna have. I mean we're gonna have a good football club one way or another, but I don't know if we'll be a passing or running team."

"I know it's a bit odd that I say we're gonna have a good football club with as many question marks as we have, but I know we've enough good people to play somewhere or other."

It's a safe bet that, Calgary will be throwing the ball more this year than last. Jerry Keeling is a superb passer "either from a drop back or on a rollout." He's also a master of passing off a bootleg and the Stampeders have a talented group of receivers.

Herm Harrison, a tight end, led the WFC in passes caught with 48 and yards gained with 1,042 last year. Flanker Gerry Shaw was third, halfback Rudy Linterman was ninth and Dave Cranmer, another halfback, is a good receiver.

Cranmer, however, looms as one of the big question marks for 1970. Injured in the early part of the season, he underwent chest surgery and is physically fit to play.

"We don't know whether he can take the beating a set running back takes, but it's a blow to us that we can't be sure of him," said Duncan.

BUT THE FINEST .

Even if something wears out you save money.

As we all know, Volkswagons don't change much from year to year. So the parts that make up a Volkswagon, therefore, don't change much either. (And if we don't spend a lot on new parts—neither do you.)

Also, the way we fix VW's ends up saving you money as well. Because behind every Volkswagon dealership is a staff of factory-trained VW mechanics. Each one a graduate of the Volkswagon School of Horrors.

There, we make them take VW's apart and put them together and take them apart and put them together until they can almost do it with their eyes shut. And again, since Volkswagons don't change much, our mechanics get plenty of practice (and plenty good at) servicing them. Which keeps labour charges down.

And if you don't need a brand new part, they'll fix you up with a brand new old part. (Our exchange parts work just as well as new ones—they just don't cost as much.)

And lately, we've come up with what might be the ultimate money-saving device. Our new VW Diagnosis System. With all its electronic eyes and ears, it can see and hear things that a mechanic can't. And actually spot trouble before it happens.

And you don't have to pay for something that doesn't happen.

Trudeau's Auto Workers Talk Called Colossally Arrogant

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau's lecture to autoworkers in Talbotville last week was the "colossally arrogant" behavior of a man who wouldn't use foul language to anyone but workers, Dennis McDermott, Canadian vice-president of the United Automobile Workers, said Friday.

Mr. McDermott made the comment in an interview after addressing 75 UAW members, most of them Americans, attending a wage-and-hour council meeting of agricultural implement workers in Toronto.

He said Mr. Trudeau's exchange last Friday with assembly-line workers at the Ford Motor plant in Talbotville "was like delivering karate chops to people who can't defend themselves."

The prime minister was reported as telling rank-and-file UAW members that the big unions who refuse to accept wage restraints are hurting the economy and less fortunate members of society.

"If you guys get 30 per cent out of the economy that is only growing at five per cent somebody is going to get screwed—and it's not going to be you guys," Mr. Trudeau said.

Mr. McDermott said Mr. Trudeau would not use this sort of language on anyone else.

"I guess he thought he was adopting an assembly line vernacular suitable to workers who get their hands dirty."

The UAW leader said his union's, 113,000 Canadian members, who go into bargaining with Ford, Chrysler and General Motors next month have no intention of observing the federal six-per-cent guidelines on wage raises but will ask for "substantial increases." He would not say how much.

He said Mr. Trudeau is listening to archaic economic advice about how to fight inflation and described John Young, chairman of the prices and incomes commission, as stupid and inept.

Mr. McDermott said he met Dr. Young for the first time last week in Ottawa at a two-hour meeting between top officials of the Canadian Labor Congress and members of the commission.

"He didn't know any answers. If that meeting had been televised, he'd have become the laughing stock of the country."

Mr. McDermott said that Dr. Young had at first told him that he had a definite commitment from General Motors last February that the company would hold the line on price increases in 1971. Then the chairman turned around and said "a top commission member had been negotiating with GM for the last three weeks.

"When I asked him why he was negotiating if there was a definite commitment, there was no reply.

"When I asked what he would do if we agreed in our contracts to get only six per cent but GM broke its verbal commitment on prices, he was left with his mouth hanging."

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Teenagers Need To Talk About Sex

As parents we are often unaware that one of the most difficult periods is adolescence. Because of life in a mature woman is often less trying than change of life in a teenaged daughter.

Lack of communication between parents and children intensifies the problem of "growing up." With many youngsters, the mysterious uncharted area of "sex" dominates their thinking as teenagers. Here is an example:

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am a 15 - year - old girl, not bad looking, and have a pleasant personality. I live with my mom, younger sister and stepfather. My father's dead. I never knew him.

My mom and stepdad don't get along. What hurts me most is the fact that they don't respect each other.

My life is actually boring. I don't go out with boys too often. My main source of entertainment is in school. My grades are pretty good and I've got lots of friends. Boys like me, but I never had a steady boyfriend in my life. Not that I haven't had a chance.

I think marriage is a beautiful thing, except for the set part of it. This has been worrying me for a long time. The older I get the more terrified I become.

I honestly hope you understand me, but this is the best way I can explain it to you. I like boys very much, but the minute I think about the facts of life between a man and a woman, I stop liking boys. Perhaps it's because I haven't matured.

Doctor, this is like a nightmare to me. I wish I could talk to my mother about it, but she'd only laugh or tell me to forget it. — Miss X.

Comment: Mom, with you "please listen?" Or at least arrange to have your family doctor "listen — and explain."

* * *

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am a 61 - year - old woman with no previous history of heart trouble. A few months ago while having a routine physical, the doctor said I had an irregular heart beat. I have been on medication since. I haven't the slightest idea what's wrong. Can you enlighten me? — Mrs. M.

Comment: Is your doctor difficult to talk to? I can't understand why there is so much lack of communication between some doctors and their patients. If I were in your place, I'd certainly want to know what's what. Why not ask him to explain?

I might guess that you have simple heart skips, called premature contractions (often found in healthy hearts). Or, guess you have auricular fibrillation, usually a complication of actual heart disease. If I said, ask him. It's your right to know. If he won't tell, then I suppose a consultation is in order so you can receive a definite diagnosis.

* * *

For Mrs. B.: Some patients have told me that gelatin in the diet helps "kick" fingers, nails. Others say, they've noticed no improvement. I wish I could say that I can't) that gelatin is the answer to your nail problem. If your trouble is due to fungus infection, I suggest you see your dermatologist who can prescribe medication that will help.

* * *

For Mr. E.: An ectopic pregnancy is one taking place in the fallopian tube rather than in the uterine cavity. Surgical termination is usually required.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For June 28

Your birthday today: Your career will bring you into higher levels of responsibility. Your friends are apt to thrust you in the direction you have said you wanted to go. Where your unconscious feelings differ from your expressed intentions, this may bring some stress. Today's natives often lack tact but demand it in others. Discipline or habits which approximate discipline are strong in their daily lives.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Do what your community expects of you this Sunday morning. Enjoy your home. Romantic ventures are the better for a delay or a skipped interlude.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 —May 20): Start afresh, and decide that this a conventional, comfortable Sunday. Gather your friends about you for an evening get-together.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): The early part of the day is delightful, lively; but it may turn out that you expected much too much of people who are not really free to go along with you.

CANCER (June 21 — July 23): There is no excuse for mixing business with today's spiritual expressions or with the pleasures of personal relationships. Seek experience which brings you into more reasonable balance.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Plan for a relatively quiet Sunday. People are touchy, particularly to your sort of open approach. Visit friends you do not often see.

b-mlicoeflieseaxy.., VIB):-NR:

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Take your full share in the community expression of faith. As the day wears on, pull out of social activity and spend some time at home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): There should not be very much doing this Sunday. Take stock of what you are and what you'd like to become. Expect little of any social contacts now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): You can make this Sunday rewarding if you attend to the feelings and needs of those you care for most. Expect little of any social contacts now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22—Dec. 21): Expert advice is available today, and should be carefully followed. Give thought to the impact of your habits on your health.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Permit yourself a vacation mood this Sunday. Creative work produces exciting progress. Tend to the welfare of others, but don't let this preempt your time for diversion.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Your tact determines the quality of this Sunday, as little intrudes on your home environment. Relax, take a recess from your tensions.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Spend time with your favorite pastimes. Expect people to be caught up in their own conflicts and therefore rather glum or disagreeable.

For June 29

Your birthday today: During this coming year, you may find it wise to abandon from some ventures which have been overly expansive. Simplify your line of activity, particularly make changes which reduce physical exertion. This is a time to deepen your use of inner resources. Today's natives usually have talents they never fully apply, seldom work at callings unsuit their best skills.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): The changes that occurred during the weekend have to be taken into account before you make firm commitments. Avoid people who are the worse for a large chip on the shoulder.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Extra ventures only overload your schedules today. Hold them off until later. You can do much for the happiness of your loved ones.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Your friends all seem to be full of impractical schemes now, and can't see your sounder viewpoint. Communications become quite confused by day's end.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Consistent effort now has its rewards, particularly where you have relied on your own intuition. Take a social evening for a break.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Your plans probably lack reality, need more thought. During the day you can wrestle the trouble spots. There is assistance from unusual sources, people you seldom see.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): The things you have learned lately are not common knowledge and you are better off not revealing them. What you do during a day of potential confusion should be kept to yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): If you are not explicit, several well-meaning friends may mix in to your affairs. Take responsibility for your own doings, deal in person rather than by agents.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Your standing now improves from your continued productive efforts. Adopt new habits, diets, exercises. Ignore rumors or critical comments this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Focus your efforts on things Give friends plenty of room for individual differences. You may want to make new plans tonight

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Family matters show healthy improvements, more potential strength. See that all concerned are fully informed, but do not press for immediate decisions.

Thant Wants All In UN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant says the United Nations should become "all embracing" by admitting to membership China and "divided countries" such as North and South Vietnam.

He made the proposal Friday night at a black-tie banquet of UN officials and delegates ending a two-day celebration of the 25th anniversary of the signing of the UN charter here.

"Having the People's Republic of China in mind, I recommend that the United Nations be made universal," Thant said. "The absence of the People's Republic of China and of the divided countries has given the United Nations a great deal of artificiality."

Other countries that do not belong to the UN include North and South Vietnam, North and South Korea, and East and West Germany.

"I urge governments to consider the idea of the universality of the United Nations as the priority item of this year's agenda for world affairs."

The secretary-general often has said that the absence of China and North Vietnam prevents the world body from working effectively for peace in Indochina.

In his speech, Thant said: "The simple people in the street, those whose sons are dying in far-away countries, cannot understand why the United Nations is not seized with the most burning issue of 1970, the war in Indochina."

Universality was one of his main points in a program he proposed to pull the United Nations out of "a crisis of confidence" in which, he said, "disillusionment has undoubtedly reached a new pitch."

His other proposals:

—Make a "radical change from present power politics to a policy of collective responsibility towards mankind," abandoning "blind acceptance of the sacrosanct concept of national interest."

—Resolve with new determination and will, the dangerously deteriorating situation in the Middle East" by helping the Israelis and Arabs reach a settlement.

—Look anew at . . . vast unsolved worldwide problems such as economic and social development, justice and human rights," on which "much more needs to be done."

—"Digest, monitor and face together the new collective challenges and dangers which arise from a rapidly mushrooming scientific and technological civilization accompanied by unprecedented mass phenomena."

If governments do not do that, Thant said, "the world will rapidly deteriorate behind their backs and above their heads."

About 75 persons picketed peacefully across the street from the hotel where the dinner was being held. A few held signs protesting the Indochina war, but most protested the Soviet Union's policy on Jewish immigration, carrying signs saying: "Let Our People Go."

Fifteen UN notables spoke at an afternoon commemoration meeting in the War Memorial Opera House, scene of the UN's founding conference April 24 to June 26, 1945.

Stocks Limp Lower In Indifferent Trade

By ART JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock markets plunged downward this week in indifferent trading.

On the Toronto Stock Exchange, the industrial index, the major indicator of that market's movement, fell 3.81, points on the week to 152.92.

About 7,099,000 shares changed hands, compared with 6,842,000 last week.

One indication of the deterioration of confidence among investors is that almost three times as many shares were trading in the corresponding week last year.

Observers say the bearish trend was caused by a wave of concern in United States financial circles after Penn Central Railways filed for bankruptcy for its subsidiary, Penn Central operates the largest rail line in the U.S.

Rumors persisted through the week of financial weaknesses among many of the large transport industries in the U.S.

Amid the speculation and confusion, Chrysler Corp. issued a statement saying it was operating on a profitable basis and expected a small second-quarter profit.

Observers called the statement highly unusual.

Prime rate, the rate extended to an institution's best customers, was lowered to eight per cent from 8½ while interest rates on non-chequing accounts was dropped to six per cent from 6½ per cent.

Observers said the move was potentially bullish because it started an easing in the current tight-money situation. But they added that any suspicious influence would have been cancelled out by the weakness on Wall Street.

On index at Toronto, golds were up 7.39 to -157.92. Base metals dropped 2.29 to 90.17 and western oils 5.63 to 130.46.

Losses outnumbered gains 519 to 212 with 209 issues unchanged.

Employment News

By J. R. Staveley

The high-light of the local employment picture during the past two weeks has been the way students have met the urgent labor requirements of the local strawberry growers. Throughout the community, several hundred young students have been harvesting this season's agricultural crop. The willingness of the students to do this type of temporary work has a reaching effect. First of all the students help themselves monetarily; secondly, the growers benefit as the crop is harvested without unnecessary waste or downgrading; thirdly, the canning employers benefit; and, finally, the consumers should benefit. The community can be proud of its students because they have shown an understanding of the present economic situation, and have displayed a willingness, not only to find, but to accept a wide range of temporary or part-time summer jobs.

Like other areas in Canada, we have an increased number of students looking for summer jobs this year. Those students at present unemployed, are reminded that the Manpower and English language training courses available during July and part of August at a number of Canadian Universities. Students eligible for these courses must be at a post-secondary, or matriculation level institutions this coming autumn. Tuition, room and board will be free of charge to the student. There is also another program coming under the Federal Department of National Defence, which has been implemented to provide a number of students with temporary jobs in the field of militia and cadet training, as well as, in some cases, ground maintenance work. Any interested unemployed student should contact the nearest Canada Manpower Centre for further information. In the Belleville area, this would be the Student Employment Centre at 270 Pinnacle Street, Belleville.

I will make a few comments on that part of the economy which is of interest to the adult worker seeking permanent employment. It must be apparent to even the most casual observer that, despite the considerable number of persons seeking work, the new economy is undergoing a broadening of its economy, which will result in new permanent jobs.

An example of this was illustrated during the past week when the new Gulf Oil Company's Service Centre, to be called the Wayfare Restaurant, started initial hiring in order to meet staff requirements for its 24-hour daily operations.

It is anticipated that this type of employment, which is known as the services field, will show the greatest increase in the community in the immediate years ahead.

Two Seek Air Speed Record

EDMONTON (CP) — Two Canadian Forces pilots from Alberta will attempt a cross-Canada air speed record July 1, flying two jet fighter aircraft.

A Canadian Forces spokesman Friday said the attempt at an unofficial record will be made in two CF 104 aircraft stationed at Canadian Forces Base Cold Lake, in northeastern Alberta.

The pilots will be Capt. R. D. Pattison, 34, of Calgary and Capt. R. D. Clayton, 40, of Kitchener.

The spokesman said they will leave Halifax at 8 a.m. local time with arrival at Patricia Bay in Victoria expected at 10 a.m. Victoria time.

The two jet aircraft are expected to make the flight in five hours.

All American Troops Have Left Cambodia

Nixon, Rogers Face Problem

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif (Reuters) — How to defend Cambodia without committing U.S. ground forces was expected to be a major issue in talks today between President Nixon and State Secretary William Rogers.

With the last U.S. troops withdrawing from Cambodia to meet Nixon's June 30 deadline, a note of urgency has been added by the decision of the Cambodian government virtually to abandon three northwestern provinces to Communist forces.

Rogers arrived at the Western White House Sunday night and was to confer with Nixon before leaving for Asia and talks with SEATO allies and envoys of countries with troops in Vietnam.

The president will make a final report on the Cambodian operation in a written statement to be issued Tuesday, the deadline he set for ending the ground offensive launched May 1 against Communist border sanctuaries.

Diplomatic observers assumed that Nixon and Rogers would review plans to keep U.S. ground forces out of Cambodia, but to supply U.S. air support and troops from Thailand and South Vietnam in an attempt to break the Communists' grip.

White House Press Secretary Ron Ziegler said Nixon been working steadily on his Cambodian report and preparing himself for a full-scale foreign policy review during a television interview with three network reporters Wednesday night.

Nixon planned to confer today on European security problems with Romanian Foreign Minister Corneliu Manescu, who is in the United States to take part in observances of the founding of the UN.

Nixon's ready to tell the American people Tuesday that the threat into Cambodia has helped him to pursue his program of troops withdrawal from Vietnam.

Informed sources said he will call for a new peace thrust with the hope that Hanoi and the Viet Cong will agree to end the deadlock at the Paris peace talks.

Red Korean Spy Ship Captured

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean forces reported the capture of a North Korean "spy boat" early today after a two-hour ground, air and sea attack, and said the five or six North Koreans aboard the boat jumped overboard.

The counter-espionage operations command said the six-ton boat was taken in Kunja Bay on the west coast after a shell hit its engine. A spokesman said the boat was towed to Inchon, and a search was under way for the crew.

No South Korean casualties were reported.

The command said the Communist boat was spotted by coastal guards Sunday night as it approached land, and a 45-minute gun battle followed.

It was the second sea clash between North and South Korea this month. June 1, a North Korean boat captured a South Korean naval boat in the Yellow Sea. The North Koreans claimed the South Korean boat was sunk after it intruded into Communist waters.

The operations command said the mission of the boat seized today apparently was to take North Koreans spies planted in South Korea back to the North.

Even Advisers Are Withdrawn

From Reuters-AP

All American troops in Cambodia, including American advisers with South Vietnamese troops, have withdrawn to South Vietnam, U.S. military officials said today.

The officials said all the troops were back in South Vietnam by 8 p.m. (8 a.m.) EDT.

The last troops to leave were infantry from the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division, who returned to South Vietnamese soil under umbrella protection from artillery, jet fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships as they left Cambodia's Fish Hook area north of Saigon.

South Vietnamese sources said about 30,000 Saigon troops were still in Cambodia as the Americans completed their withdrawal 30 hours before President Nixon's final deadline.

The U.S. forces first officially moved into Viet Cong land North Vietnamese sanctuaries across the border May 1, although South Vietnamese troops had been operating unofficially in Cambodia for some weeks prior to this.

Cambodian Premier Lon Nol expressed hope today that if his government's military situation deteriorates further that Nixon will send U.S. ground forces back into his country.

The premier made clear during a news conference in Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, that the United States has been directly assisting Cambodian troops with tactical air support and that he has been assured this will continue.

Lon Nol said he thought the Communist threat to Phnom Penh had lessened in the last few weeks.

Lon Nol estimated there are 35,000 guerrillas operating in the country and not the 20,000 to 60,000 which have been reported by some sources.

Referring to the Cambodian army's capabilities, the premier said he had 80 battalions of men under arms, but added: "There is no battalion that I would consider well-armed."

Another 79 battalions (about 35,000 men) had been trained but did not have weapons, he added.

The Cambodians are short of weapons, communications, equipment and helicopters despite expanding their army to 150,000 from 35,000 men since former head of state Prince Norodoom Sihanouk was ousted March 18.

About $7,900,000 worth of U.S. arms and ammunition has already arrived.

Commanders of U.S. tank squadrons returning to South Vietnam complained that the guerrillas had moved back in strength into the border area from which they were driven in the two-month offensive which saw 339 U.S. troops killed.

A Saigon official spokesman said that South Vietnamese forces had evacuated 7,971 Cambodian troops and civilians, abandoning the northeastern provinces of Ratanakiri to the guerrillas.

'Boy! And I thought Chicago was bizarre!'

Cambodian Exiles Plan Raids

HONG KONG (Reuters) — The Cambodian government-in-exile has ordered its forces to launch a general offensive and strike at the bases, nerve centres and communication lines of the Phnom Penh government.

The order came in a defence ministry communique published by the North Vietnam news agency today.

The communique called on the guerrillas to incite the people against the government, assimilate traitors and "capture weapons from the enemy to fight him"—indicating a scarcity of arms possibly because of U.S. raids on Communist supply dumps in Cambodia.

Nuclear Secrets Bought in Store

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard detectives and United States military intelligence experts said Saturday they are investigating tape recordings reported to have been made at a top secret briefing in 1969 on American nuclear strategy.

The tapes were discovered by Leslie Davis, a 58-year-old mechanical engineer who found them among a collection of music recordings he bought at a second-hand store in Cambridge.

Davis contacted the Sunday newspaper News of the World. The paper traced the tapes back to the widow of an American who said his belongings several years ago.

The paper said the tapes outlined procedures to be followed in the event of a nuclear war and included politically sensitive material about Britain's role in controlling warheads in Britain.

Nasser Is in Russia For Peace Bid Talks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egyptian President Nasser arrived in the Soviet Union today and was expected to discuss with Soviet leaders the new American Middle East peace proposals and his country's defence needs.

The Arab leader's visit came in the wake of statements by Palestine guerrilla leaders that they would sabotage any efforts at reaching a political settlement between Arab governments and Israel.

Premier Golda Meir of Israel rejected today the idea of a limited ceasefire with Egypt, one of the points reported to be contained in the new United States Middle East peace proposals.

Israel maintains that there should be an unconditional and unlimited ceasefire until a lasting peace is achieved in the region.

On the battle fronts, Israel warplanes raided Jordan and southeast Lebanon Sunday in retaliation for Arab guerrilla attacks that killed one civilian and wounded two civilians and two policemen. The Israeli air force also kept up its day-and-night attacks on Egyptian posts along the Suez canal.

Arab and Israeli leaders continued to discuss the new American peace proposals for the Middle East outlined by State Secretary William Rogers. In Amman, the Jordanian capital, leaders of the Palestinian guerrillas declared they are determined to sabotage the American proposals.

Ulster Is Quieter

Violence Subsides with Six Dead

BELFAST (CP) — British troops with orders to shoot snipers on sight patrolled Belfast today as British Prime Minister Edward Heath in London called his cabinet ministers into emergency session on the religious rioting in Northern Ireland.

The death toll in weekend rioting in Ulster rose to six today with the death of an injured man in hospital.

Five persons died during the weekend and more than 200 were injured.

Violence spread to the Irish Republic to the south today. Irish raiders threw gasoline bombs into British railroad offices and a British veterans' organization building in Cork.

The Irish Republic's external affairs minister, Patrick Hillery, flew to London to discuss the Northern Ireland crisis with British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

Authorities said they believed the toll of dead in Belfast might be higher than the six announced because underground groups on both sides usually take pains to remove their dead and bury them privately.

British troops were under orders to shoot anyone seen carrying arms.

There was considerably less violence Sunday night as the British government hurried more troops in and emergency measures were proclaimed. Another 40 persons were injured in street fights, an explosion started a fire at an oil depot, but only one shooting was reported—a shotgun blast that wounded two soldiers slightly.

Violence began Friday night over the jailing of Bernadette Devlin, the fiery young Roman Catholic leader sentenced to six months in prison for leading anti-Protestant riots last summer. The bloodiest toll came in 12 hours of fighting Saturday night as Catholics and Protestants fought each other and the steel-helmeted troops with rocks, bottles and gasoline bombs, and troops and snipers exchanged gunfire. Five civilians were killed and 181 civilians and soldiers were injured.

Premier James Chichester-Clark declared that his government was facing an attempted revolution. He ordered emergency measures into force, including a partial curfew and early closing of bars. He also promised new laws to deal with rioters but ruled out martial law for the time being.

"All civilians carrying firearms or using firearms in any way whatsoever are liable to be shot without warning," said Lt.-Gen. Sir Ian Freeland, commander of British forces in Northern Ireland.

Effort to Have Devlin Sworn in as MP Fails

LONDON (Reuters) — A last-minute attempt to enable Bernadette Devlin, imprisoned member of Parliament, to attend swearing-in ceremonies in the House of Commons failed today.

Miss Devlin, at 23 Britain's youngest MP in 60 years, remained in Northern Ireland's Armagh jail where she began a six-month prison sentence Friday on charges of incitement to riot and riotous behavior.

Legal representatives made a last-hour attempt to arrange her release long enough to attend today's installation ceremony at Westminster in London, but without success.

Larger Than Life

None of nature's blooms at the Belleville Horticultural Society's Rose Show this weekend rivaled in size those made and sold by the Junior Society. The tissue paper blossoms were sold as fast as the young manufacturers could turn them out. Kathy Gardiner and David Pope were two of the junior horticulturists who added a touch of fantasy to the flower show. (Page 2.)

Trenton Band Wins Laurels At Tattoo

The pipers of CFB Trenton took top honors in the Quinte area's first Highland Tattoo held Sunday at Quinte Exhibition Grounds.

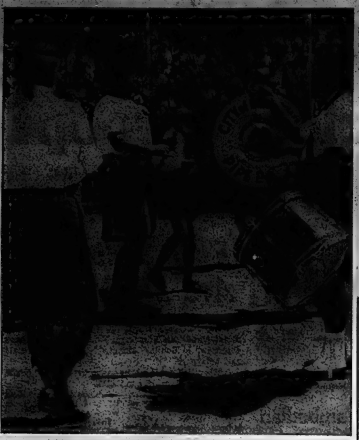
The polished highland band edged out seven other competing groups in the two-and-one-half-hour spectacle, which filled the 3,000 seat grandstand to overflowing.

Each band performed directly before the stands, with all 130 participants massing for a dazzling finale of skirling pipes under the direction of Ken Candler, a Belleville Kinsmen.

Belleville - Kinsmen Club sponsored the tattoo as well as the Tartan Ball that drew 540 people to the city armory Saturday night.

Kinsmen began planning the Quinte Highland Weekend last November, with organizational committees meeting regularly through the winter and spring.

There were some really dejected faces on Friday night" Bill Christie, president of the local club. Kinsmen feared the prospect of having the Tattoo ruined by stormy weather. But the weather turned and the program was held under a blazing sun.



Band presentations were punctuated during the afternoon by the Highland voice of Gordon Tocher, a Smithfield resident who has recently appeared on the Ted Mack television program. Highland dance displays by children from Kingston and Brockville also were presented. Traditional sword dances and the Highland Fling were only two of the featured dances.

Bands participating in the Highland Tattoo came from Peterborough, Brighton, Trenton, Brockville, Cobourg, Newmarket, Ingersoll and Kingston.

Belleville's ANAF Pipe Band took the award for the best veterans' organization pipe band.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Pipe Band from Peterborough, outfitted with the yellow and green Ancient McMillan tartan, was judged best-dressed band in the tattoo. The band's drum major, John Keay, also won the drum majors' competition.

At the tattoo's end Kinsmen already were talking about another production next year. As one Kinsmen put it: "Public response was so enthusiastic, we'd be crazy not to have more of them."

Brockville Presents!

Men Hurt At Wooler

TRENTON — Two area men remain in Trenton Memorial Hospital today following a single car accident early Sunday morning on the Wooler Road.

John Wayne Clegg, 23 of Trenton, has a possible concussion while Frederick Burrows, 22, RR1, Wooler, suffered scalp lacerations.

The accident occurred three miles north of the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway at 2.15 a.m. Sunday. Damage to the 1969 Clegg vehicle was estimated at $3,000.

Sale for City Sidewalks

Called "the Downtown Belleville Beat-Down Sale," this year's sidewalk sale will again feature special sales combined with a carnival atmosphere.

Special attraction will be the "beat-down" merchandise. Patrons will have the opportunity to talk the businessman down from his price on specially-marked items.

Regular priced items will also be displayed with the beat-down goods.

Long, Long Line of Traffic

The vehicles piled up yesterday afternoon as the Bay Bridge which links Belleville with Prince Edward County locked open holding up weekend summer traffic for over an hour.

Tie-up Lasted Over Hour

Mechanical failure on the Bay Bridge linking Belleville and Prince Edward County yesterday caused an hour-long traffic backup at the peak of weekend summer travel.

The result was a major traffic control operation for city and provincial police.

An electrical fault was blamed for the bridge remaining open about five p.m. — as city crowds were returning from the resort areas of Prince Edward.

Even traffic as far away as Trenton was affected.

OPP from the Picton and Belleville Detachments were called in to keep things in order and to divert traffic to Trenton and Deseronto where crossings could be made to the mainland.

Police said that cars were lined up for miles along highway 14 before the bridge was working again at 6:10 p.m.

Near Carrying Place traffic diverted by police piled up for a few minutes and in Trenton the scene was much the same.

Phil Happy With Pool

The general contractor, who lives on Sidney Street here, won about $1,500 for drawing the horse Nor.

He says he has no special plans for the money but "won't turn it down."

"It was sort of a surprise all right," he explained, "You buy a ticket but don't really expect to win."

Before the race Phil was "sort of optimistic" and though Nor did not come through Phil told The Intelligencer Sunday evening, "I'm not that disappointed my horse didn't win because I never figured to win at all."

It was the first win for the 36-year-old father of three since he came to Canada from Greece 18 years ago. He estimated that he had purchased two Irish Sweepstakes tickets each year for the past five years.

Garden Buffs in 7th Heaven

Garden enthusiasts and flower power exponents had a remarkable exhibition to attend over the weekend—the Belleville Horticultural Society's annual Rose Festival and African Violet Show.

The festival-show Saturday and Sunday at Centennial Secondary School, was wide-ranging interests. There were exhibits of photographs, paintings, and petrochedic craft work, all with the floral theme.

Patio fixtures and gardening supplies were displayed. Lectures were given on the fine points of landscaping, Japanese flower arranging and African violet culture.

Drawing card of the big annual exhibition, however, was the flower display. The flowers at the festivals violet show have gained considerable renown and the show is now among the top five in the province.

Gardening buffs converged on the show by bus and car from Toronto, Oshawa, Cobourg, Peterborough, Kingston and Gananoque.

The two-day event was opened by Dr. Richard Potter, MPP Quinte. By the time the doors closed yesterday more than 1,300 people had viewed the show for a new attendance record.

Competition for awards was heavy, with more than 60 African violet entries and 220 individual rose displays.

Some 14 awards and trophies were awarded in the African violet show and 10 in the highly competitive rose festival.

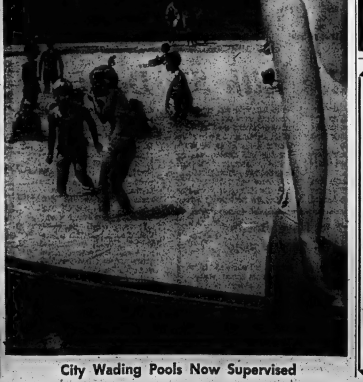
Runner-up in the violet sweepstakes was Mrs. J. Watson, Belleville. Princess-of-the-show award went to another Belleville, Mrs. R. Thorburn.

Queen-of-the-show award for roses went to Mrs. G. Kennedy, of Cobourg. J. R. McLeod, Belleville, captured the princess-of-the-show award for one of his entries as well as topping the sweepstakes in the rose competition.

W. G. Brining's rose garden in Cobourg produced the Best Red Rose and the Best Floating Rose.



Awards for Best Single Bloom and for high score in Peace Roses went to J. Laundry, Picton. Best arrangement awards went to Mrs. M. Laundry, Picton (inter-society division) and Mrs. L. Schnell, Belleville (open division).

Horticultural Society spokesmen said the annual show has developed a competitive spirit among local gardeners and many home landscapes have improved measurably in the last few years.

Home Away from Home

Trenton's Centennial Park is serving as "a home away from home" for many Ontario trailer enthusiasts. 322 trailers and more than 1,200 trailerites from 26 clubs migrated to Trenton this weekend for the fifth annual rally of the Travel Trailer Clubs Association of Ontario. The five-day rally, which is being staged this year by the Quinte Travel Trailer Club, concludes Tuesday.

Frankenstein's Folly

Three ladies out for a stroll through Trenton's Centennial Park Saturday evening got quite a shock — a surprise visit from Frankenstein! Don Foster donned the costume and attracted a crowd of 50 spectators as he toured the grounds. The practical joke livened up the proceedings at the annual rally of the Travel Trailer Clubs Association.

City's Water Safety Staff Now on Job at Swim Sites

Last weekend saw the opening of the summer season for the municipal wading pools across the city.

Zwick's Island Park has two wading pools and a beach which already has been open several weekends.

Parkdale playground also has a wading pool and the Riverside beach area will be opened as soon as the dam is installed, say parks and recreation officials.

The recreation department also rents the Kanawon pool for swimming after 5 p.m. Last year this was held on Thursday nights. The department hopes to obtain two evenings this year.

"The facility is rented by means of a $2,000-city grant.

For the department controlled pools and beaches, experienced water safety staff are employed each summer to supervise the pools at the times which are listed below.

Sunday through Friday inclusive: 1.00 p.m. to 3.00 p.m.; 3.15 p.m. to 5.00 p.m.; 6.00 p.m. to 8.00 p.m.

Saturdays only: 10.00 a.m. to 12.00 noon; 1.00 p.m. to 3.00 p.m.; 3.15 p.m. to 5.00 p.m.; 6.00 p.m. to 8.00 p.m.

A spokesman for the recreation department emphasized, "we provide our experienced lifeguard staff at the facilities during specified times only . . . anyone swimming at any other time does so at his own risk."

Parkdale pool, Betty Hunter; Zwick's wading pool, Mary C. Tugwell; Zwick's beach, Donna Cairns; Riverside beach, Mike Ryan.

All of the supervisors are trained lifesavers and must be at least 17 years of age.

Miss Salisbury, holds her senior Red Cross, leader patrol Red Cross, water safety instructors, Royal Me saving instructor, the Royal life saving award of merit, and the Royal life saving award of destinction.

Besides regular water safety duties, the supervisors are responsible to prepare young-sters for the East Central Ontario Recreation Directors Association swim meet for youngsters being held on July 29 at Napanee.

During the week of July 24 to 31, a lifeguard will be on duty at the Belleville docks when the Nonsuch II docks. The children from the playgrounds will pass by the boat and the guard will be on duty in case of emergency.

Later in July, the Canadian Water Ski Association and the Belleville Recreation and Arena Committee will hold a water ski training school show and a lifeguard will be on duty there also.

For all of these facilities and events, the children simply sign up, without charge.

'Tourists' Visit UK

PICTON — For away places came into view at Picton Sunday evening when about 120 ern - clude tourists enjoyed British Night at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Presented in a British theme, highlight of the night was a dinner of fish and chips, topped by apple pie.

A telephone call to Great Britain was one of the prizes offered to globe trotters during the evening. Winner of the draw was Joseph Randall, Cobourg. He decided to add money to his prize in order to telephone his daughter, a Presbyterian deaconess in Taiwan.

Two cane chairs were won in a raffle by Helen Randall (Cobourg and Mrs. Orin Greatrix, Picton.

British night represents the second holiday across the pond taken by members of St. Andrew's. Earlier this year Up The Rhine provided an evening of fun, German style.

All donations received from British night will be contributed to the building fund, although project golden rod although project golden rod is already has raised enough money to re-roof St. Andrew's.

Mrs. Robert Jones observed today that the Project Golden Roof raised over $1,200 for repairs to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Picton, and its sister congregation at the Church of the Redeemer, Deseronto by a bikeathon.

Two in Canoe Reach Montreal

Voyageurs, Donald Carter and Leigh Westwell, arrived at Man and His World exhibition late Friday night, completing a nine-day canoe trip from Belleville.

"As soon as we crossed into Quebec, we got the red carpet treatment," Donald Carr reported this morning.

The pair, together with their families, were received at a VIP building, dined at the expense of the exposition and given an escorted tour of newly-opened sports exhibits on the exposition grounds.

Trailer Rally At Trenton Draws Praise

TRENTON — The fifth annual rally of the Travel Trailer Clubs Association of Ontario is now in its fourth day at Centennial Park.

Rally chairman Ed Todd termed the event, which drew a peak of 322 trailers Saturday and concludes tomorrow, a "definite success".

During Saturday morning opening ceremonies Trenton Mayor Duncan McDonald called the rally "the best thing that ever happened to Trenton."

Frank Ball, outgoing president of the TTCAO, noted that Orchestral Park was "the best facility we've had yet."

Despite heavy rains which forced cancellation of Friday evening's planned activities, the weekend was a hectic time for the 1,200-plus trailerites.

Saturday was the big day for children who watched Terry the Merry Magician early in the afternoon before being entertained by Don Foster and his associates.

Mr. Foster, the man who salvaged Belleville's Santa Claus Parade last December, entertained the children by providing rides on 15 wobble-wheel bicycles and in a 1926 Model A Ford which he has restored.

A crowd of more than 1,000 Jammed Trenton Community Gardens Saturday night for the inter-club entertainment show which featured performances by members of 12 trailer clubs as well as Don Foster's group from Belleville.

Most unusual of the weekend activities was a Saturday midnight visit to many trailers with Mr. Foster clad as the Frankenstein monster attended by six white ghosts.

A crowd of 50 spectators trooped along as quietly as possible as the seven-foot Frankenstein prowled trailer lanes with unexpected, but enjoyable, shocks.

Sunday morning an interdenominational church service was held and broadcast on Radio Station CJBQ.

Delegates at the annual TTCAO executive meeting Sunday afternoon recognized the effort put forth by rally chairman Ed Todd when they named the Quinte Travel Trailer Club member second vice-president for the coming year.

Al McNeil of Ottawa was chosen president, while Calvin Foster of St. Catharines was selected first vice-president and Rose Irwin of Toronto third vice - president. Forbes McKeown, of Oshawa, was named secretary-treasurer.

More than 750 trailers remained in Trenton Sunday for an air reasce show by CFB Trenton personnel this morning. However, the event will display and a demonstration by the Trenton Fire Department were both threatened by this morning's inclement weather.

Weather permitting, members from the 26 clubs will participate in a trailer today this afternoon on a course laid out in Centennial Gardens.

CFB Trenton, Bata Industries and Corby's Distilleries Limited were scheduled this afternoon and Tuesday for guided, tours.

Dean Likes Progress Of Town

TRENTON — The Quinte Travel Trailer Club's attempt at hosting the provincial association's annual rally has met with favorable comment from the dean of trailer campers.

Charlie McDonald, 94, of Port Credit, called the current rally here "wonderful — the best one I've been to."

The nonagenarian, first travelled by trailer in 1941.

Charlie, a retired farmer who homesteaded in southern Saskatchewan, and first became trailering in 1942 now travels with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Watts, his daughter and son-in-law. He has travelled to huge trailer rallies in such places as Altoona, Pennsylvania and DuQuoin, Illinois.

Bert Watts echoed Charlie's sentiments.

"I think Trenton is one of the more progressive places in realizing the advantages of hosting a trailer rally," he said.

"Too many places look upon trailerites as gypsies," he added stressing the economic benefit to a town of staging such a trailer rally. The event drew over 322 trailers and more than 1,200 trailerites here.

Not Enough Answers

The Hastings and Prince Edward Separate School Board's decision to purchase the former Tweed Hungerford high school raises some questions which require immediate answers.

The board voted 9-3 Friday to pay $181,000 in cash to the Hastings County Public School Board and take over debentures of $57,000.

The questions that require answers are financial ones:

With a reported deficit of $117,000 from 1969 mounting to a projected deficit of $483,000 by the end of 1970 how can this board justify this purchase?

If the department of education does not approve the sale — and subsequently does not contribute to the purchase price by way of a grant — how is the board going to pay the money back which it borrowed from the bank?

What official steps are the board taking to reduce or eliminate the projected half a million dollar deficit facing the two-county board?

And a question which probably interests the man on the street who thinks he understands a little about high finance. What kind of ground rules did the bank apply in lending the board $181,000 when by the board's admission it was six months away from being a half million dollars in debt?

Being realistic, it is a fair assumption that the board will not be able to overcome its deficit position by a direct charge against the separate school supporters in Hastings and Prince Edward counties. At the moment, even with their mill rate a shade higher than the public school supporters, Roman Catholics in the two counties raise only $312,000 yearly through the tax levy.

An interesting sidelight is that this amount is only 15 per cent of the cost of providing Catholic education in Hastings-Prince Edward.

In short, the separate school board has only three ways to escape from its dilemma — raise the money from its ratepayers, raise the money through grants from the church or other private sources, or finally, get the money from the province.

The latter course, it is assumed, is the one the board favors. It will be worth noting what the reaction will be if such a course is pursued, for already the province is contributing 85 per cent of the board's operating cost compared to the 66 per cent in grants received by the Hastings County Public School Board.

Maybe there is one more question.

When does a school board go bankrupt?

Ulster's Tragedy

Another chapter in the continuing tragedy of Northern Ireland has enfolded and a Belfast newspaper, contemplating the senseless self-destruction that is taking place there has compared conditions with those of Nazi Germany in the thirties.

There are the same explosive opposing factions, the same demagoguery and unrest of all the same inability of the government to cope with the rising tide of violence.

It must be remembered that this is still the work of a relative minority, but all the more dangerous for the fact it is being fanned by subversive elements like the Irish Republican Army, for long a disruptive force in Irish politics.

July 12, the anniversary of the Protestant victory in the Battle of the Boyne in 1690, holds out another grim possibility of further conflict and tragedy. In these circumstances, and to such a small area, there is no knowing how tempers can be cooled so that the work of rebuilding and restoring order can be carried out.

An unhappy factor in the rioting is the fact that numerous teenagers were reported involved. They have grown up during the years of comparative peace and industrial accomplishment in Ulster. Now they have been responsible, at least in part, for destroying the hard-won fruits of past labor and relative prosperity.

Booming Hello

Trenton town council has given the go ahead to a private citizen to determine if the cannon on Mount Pellon can be made to work again.

It would be a nice touch, if it is possible, to have the cannon boom a hello to the Hudson's Bay's Nonsuch when the ketch passes through the Murray Canal late this month. The 53-foot boat is a replica of the company's first trading vessel to visit Canada 300 years ago.

Soviet Advisors in Egypt Number Up to 15,000

By Cy Fox of the London staff of The Canadian Press has been on a visit to the Middle East crisis area. A report from both sides of the conflict. In this first of a series, of articles he describes Egypt's efforts in the struggle with Israel.

By CY FOX

CAIRO (CP) — Egypt is a country at war but Cairo, a mammoth metropolis teeming with nearly 7,000,000 people, gives little outward evidence of the grim effort going into the nation's present battles with Israel.

Granted, a semi-blackout symbolizes the capital's state of alert against possible attack by Israeli planes.

This means that many street lights are doused, rendering some downtown areas an unnerving navigational challenge to the most audacious of foreign newcomers.

But the revolving restaurant which caps the structure known as Nasser Tower is lit up far into the night.

So is the neon sign which illuminates a luxury hotel belonging to an American group which also is represented on the skyline of Tel Aviv.

The hotel stands next to the gleaming new Soviet embassy, Cairo's biggest diplomatic establishment, and all around both structures swarm the noisy columns of cars which represent the Egyptian capital's air of business—and pleasure—as usual, war notwithstanding.

The impact on civilian life of the struggle against Israel has, in fact, been kept surprisingly minimal.

It shows up in manifold ways—brick and sandbag barricades outside buildings, like the towering headquarters of Radio Cairo.

Car headlights are painted blue in line with blackout regulations but the paint has peeled away in some instances, making a mockery of air-raid precautions.

Caught up in the merry mayhem of Cairo traffic are an abundance of Russian military vehicles.

Increasingly numerous too in selected residential areas are the Egyptian merchants who speak Russian in deference to the quarters nearby of Soviet technicians here to help Egypt grow economically as well as in terms of military power.

Russians are rarely seen in central Cairo, the preserve of big-city business establishments and luxury hotels patronized by westerners.

But travelling on Egyptian trains usually means taking dining-car meals in close proximity to Soviet military advisers dressed in khaki fatigues or to civilian couples whose Russian-style attire marks them immediately identifiable.

Estimates of the number of Russians currently in the United Arab Republic vary from 5,000 to 15,000.

Serving in the latter capacity, they are bound to find themselves close to the trenches of the Suez war zone and therefore exposed to Israeli fire.

Reports circulating in Cairo say Russians already have been killed in the Suez hostilities.

At Aswan, site of the enormous new power and irrigation dam built by Egypt with vast Soviet backing, the number of Russian technicians was expected to fall below the dozen mark by this summer.

However, Russians are strongly represented among the hundreds who journey the 450 miles south from Cairo to see the dam and neighboring monuments of antiquity like the specially relocated temple of Abu Simbel.

The word among some westerners is that Soviet specialists treat the Egyptians with the contempt usually normally associated with the relationship—between old-time imperial overlords and "the natives."

The extent of Soviet aid pumped into the U.A.R. is powerfully apparent from the Aswan dam itself, a 10-year project resulting in a structure 17 times the size of Egypt's greatest pyramid and, behind it, the world's second-largest artificial lake.

Twenty miles from the dam, a Canadian visitor saw vivid evidence of Russia's military involvement in Egypt —a dozen MiG jet fighters taking off on early-morning patrol from an air base fringed with protective gun emplacements.

Some sources suggest that a number of the new SAM-3 anti-aircraft batteries being set up by Russia in Egypt are situated near the dam, considered a prize target for any Israeli attack designed to shake this country's economic life.

Even apart from SAM-3s, however, Aswan—where summer temperatures hit 120 degrees fahrenheit—is studded with military emplacements and blacked out on moonlit nights.

Scores of troops patrol the high dam and Soviet-built tanks rumble along the dirt road traversing the two miles from one end of the big structure to the other.

The wholesale injection of Russian aid has given Egypt unprecedented confidence in its ability to defeat Israel's military forces sooner or later.

President Nasser's information minister and close confidant, Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, has termed the present stage of hostilities "the beginning of the end" although conceding that great dangers still threaten the Arabs.

Israel at bay is capable of some measures, Heikal said, and it might go as far as to "bring down the whole world on the heads of its people."

The Egyptians talk of wearing down the Israelis in a war of attrition and at the same time preparing for an all-out Israelic battle.

Yet the country's military authorities face huge problems in transforming the mass of fellahin, or peasants, into modern-minded soldiers capable of waging the resurgent warriors of Israel.

The shattering defeat inflicted by Israel's 1967 blitzkrieg left the Egyptian army reeling and morale the need for years of recovery.

A major obstacle hampering Russian advisers and Egyptian officers is language, with interpreters often needed to make the words of Soviet instructors understandable to Arabic-speaking soldiers.

For civilians not displaced or otherwise harassed by Israeli attacks, war means some minor hardships—mostly less days, for example, to help curb food imports and thus improve Egypt's balance of payments.

But war generates deep uncertainties about the future, and reflecting this is the level of emigration by Egyptians to other countries, including Canada.

A hotel clerk in Aswan told of wanting to head for Quebec as a teacher.

A lawyer on the air-conditioned, fluorescent-lit train from Aswan back to Cairo was full of plans and worry concerning what swelled war in the event he headed for a job in New York.

Cause of much frustration is the fact that Egypt's educational system, given new impetus by President Nasser since he took power in the early 1950s, is producing more exports than the country knows what to do with at present.

If it weren't for the war, middle-class Egyptians would rarely break their close family ties and quit their sunny homeland and their friends.

Circumstances being what they are, the Egyptian brain drain is been sufficiently great to force the Nasser government into restricting the number of persons allowed to emigrate, if their departure means further losses to medicine, science, engineering and other such categories of national life.

Some 1,400 skilled Egyptians went to Canada last year, compared with the 2,500 who went to the United States, and a total of 20,000 inquiries were received at Ottawa's immigration office here.

In 1958, the emigrants leaving for Canada totalled almost 2,000 and during the last decade they have numbered up to 14,000, most of them bound for the Montreal area.

Egyptians seeking a new life in Canada have a big advantage in the fact that many of them are multilingual and count both English and French among their foreign languages.

Moreover, a large proportion of this country's 30,000 university freshmen see the prospect of having to settle for a government-provided civil service job that might pay the equivalent of $90 a month—hardly inspiring despite the low cost of living here.

Originally, the migrants to Canada from Egypt were mainly Jews, Coptic Christians and members of other religious or ethnic minorities living around Cairo or Alexandria.

Later came larger contingents from Egypt's Moslem majority, a group reported to be doing better than might have been expected by anyone fearful about possible religious or racial bias in Canada.

Migration figures now have reached a point where mention of the name Canada among educated residents of Cairo is likely to conjure up associations other than the flight of Jewish and Coptic merchant of Canadians in the United Nations peacekeeping force.

These days, references to Canada probably bring to Egyptian minds the letters of relatives or acquaintances currently trying to face up to lonely apartment existences in wintry Montreal as against the warm ways of family life in their homeland.

In Egypt, the ideal solution to such dilemmas would be peace and a return to normalcy able to provide job opportunities for all the thousands of college graduate pining after white-collar security and the mass of farmers and workers seeking something more than a rock-bottom standard of living.

Western observers in Cairo agree that Egyptian authorities have done generally well in their efforts to reconcile war programs with continued strength to the country out of the rut of under-development.

Nasser's men also have achieved a measure of success in keeping wartime expenditures from upsetting the kind of price inflation irrational in periods of all-out hostilities.

Thus, Cairo's taxicabs still boast the cheapest fares in the Middle East.

And the cost of food and accommodation remains low enough to make life livable in a country where the over-all per capita national income is estimated by one planning official to be only about $225 annually.

Egyptian authorities say they have allowed price rises on nothing except a few selected commodities, notably cigarettes and tires.

They add that prices have been ordered down on such items as fabrics and rice.

Nevertheless, there has a major battle on his hands to make economic development match the annual growth in the 2.6 per cent—about 90,000 people—in a population estimated now to be some 35,000,000 strong.

This is the country's constant, worrisome second front of survival.

Next: Egyptians hard hit in war zones.

Heath Wants Results from ECM Negotiations

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Trying to predict the outcome of the Common Market negotiations with Britain may be as fruitful as the politicos' disastrous attempt to predict the outcome of the British general election.

The one thing that is clear, as a result of that election, is that Prime Minister Heath—the man who led the fruitless membership search in 1963—may be more enthusiastic about joining the Common Market than the previous leader, now Opposition Leader Harold Wilson.

But even Heath's reported fervor is unlikely to see the Conservative rush in without some significant concessions gained after tough bargaining that may stretch beyond the previously-anticipated one year.

Heath is reported to feel that the negotiations should not stagnate over too long a period, for if they continue for two years or more, they will be in danger of bogging down altogether.

Thus the Conservative government would favor a fairly quick conclusion with some changes in the Common Market high-priced farm policy and a lengthy transitional period so that the shocks of changing British lives and the levy of Rome do not come all at once.

The eagerness in which Heath embraces current bargaining probably is heightened by the knowledge that Gen. Charles de Gaulle is no longer in a position to exercise a veto over British entry, as he did in 1963 and again in 1967 and again in 1967.

But many problems remain and they no longer centre in Europe. There is a strong body of opposition in Britain. A number of unions have voiced rejection of joining the six-country partnership which allows a free movement of labor through all member countries. Businessmen are also reported to be worried that membership will mean high-cost food.

Attempting to cut the Common Market farm policy to a more digestible size may be Heath's most difficult feat. But to the extent that he succeeds, Canada and other food exporting countries may benefit.

Providing huge financial supports for some of Europe's most uneconomic farmers has resulted in heavy surpluses occasionally dumped on world markets thereby disrupting the normal pattern of trade. Easing these supports may also lower over-all production and make it easier for Canadian and other exporters to retain their old customers.

As some British observers now see it, negotiations may be completed before the end of 1971 and if all goes well, Parliament may ratify the bargaining by the end of 1972. Then the big changes will begin, with Britain virtually turning its back on the Commonwealth and entering its new role as the giant of Europe.

But almost anything can happen before then and it may be a sorry prognosticator who tries to anticipate how much British may yield where her own independence is involved.

Log House Opened

An important link in the history of Ameliasburg township went on exhibition yesterday with the opening of the pioneer's log house in the museum grounds in the village. The donors of the building, Mr. and Mrs. Vince O'Hara of the second concession, are shown unveiling a plaque which acknowledges their gift.

Opening of Pioneer Home Adds to County Museums

AMELIASBURG — Representatives from all levels of government look for a bright future for the historical museum and park under development here.

Extending the official welcome to the visitors to the opening of the restored pioneer's log house yesterday Prince Edward County warden Gordon Lloyd recommended tourists to make the rounds of township museums.

To make their tour complete they should visit the county's showcase being set up in the renovated St. Mary Magdalene Church at Picton, he added.

Accomplishments of the township's museum boards to date were described as "the emblem and epitome of a great community effort," by George Hess, MP Prince Edward-Hastings.

"It would be good for all communities in Canada to copy Ameliasburg so people could be reminded what ancestors overcame to make the country what it is today," Mr. Hess said.

Norris Whitney, M P P Prince Edward-Lennox, named to the St. Lawrence Parks Commission recently, expressed confidence in the project.

"I'm sure the undertaking will continue to improve and grow," he said.

Concrete Jungle

NEW GLASGOW, N.S. (CP) — The Nova Scotia Camping Association wound up its annual meeting and three-day training session at nearby Big Cove with a decision to work with the provincial education department to have camping made part of the regular school curriculum. Don Graf of Kitchener, Ont., one of the organizers of the session, said "resident camping gives people, especially the young, a chance to slow down and back off from our concrete jungle."

Vision of Better Life UEL Story

WAUPOOS — Some 76 persons joined in a dedication ceremony at Prince Edward's pioneers at Marysburg Museum here.

Sharing a lectern placed on the verandah of the museum once known as Rose House, Rev. Kent Gardiner, MMord., and Rev. Paul McClenaghan, Glenora, conducted the memorial ceremony.

Rev. McClenaghan noted when worshipping Jah he commemorate the United Empire Loyalists it is a common feeling that everyone knows why three patriots fled their New England homes to settle in Upper Canada.

"It was for political reasons, wasn't it?" asked Rev. McClenaghan. He observed the popular opinion is frequently emphasized by modern politicians seeking to stress where our loyalties should lie today.

"After 200 years of brewing, dumping none of us would dare to challenge this reason," he said.

The minister, however, voiced skepticism concerning the Loyalists motives for abandoning the scenes of their homes to venture into Prince Edward County.

"I don't quite accept the fact that these people took chances on their futures for political reasons alone. Wouldn't it have been logical for them to remain in New England and cast their lots with the revolutionists?"

He said the risk of staying was probably no greater than the hazards of carving a new life in a strange country.

"In the background of their story is the image of people in whom the American dream had been born — people like the pilgrims, the Quakers and the Mennonites. They had a vision of a better way of life, a better society and to these people the flag of the American continent symbolized a new promised land. These men were called by God and were responsible to Him, since. There was a valid political reason for the escape of the United Empire Loyalists and an equally valid — spiritual answer."

Rev. McClenaghan compared the flight of the Loyalists to the exodus led by Abraham in early biblical days.

"Would it matter to us," he asked, "if we learned there was another reason Abraham led his people? All we know is that God said, "Go". In the same way historians tell us persons living in New England in the 1770's and 1780's escaped to Canada because of their loyalty to Britain. We can accept this or see the working of a mightier hand. God was at work in the establishment of this community. We remember the past not as an act of faith but as an act of gratitude and worship. In remembering we become increasingly aware of God in history, past, present and future." In closing Rev. McClenaghan remarked: "Loyalty to the past is a good and an honorable thing. Being loyal to the future is an act of faith each one of us is required to make."

During announcements made at the close of the session Rev. Gardiner said the memorial service will, hopefully, become an annual event. It was last conducted in 1957, five years after the Marysburg Museum opened.

Gates Dedicated

WAUPOOS — Following a memorial service at Marysburg Museum Sunday afternoon visitors proceeded to the nearby Rose Burying Ground for a brief dedication ceremony.

Entrance gates donated to this historic cemetery by Mrs. Herbert Rose and the late Mr. Rose were presented officially by their son, George Rose, Waupoos. Arching above the picket gates is a sign carved by Capt. Harry Clark noted Prince Edward craftsman who is a Marysburg native. Words of the sign read "The Rose Burying Ground."

Through the efforts of North and South Marysburg residents the tiny, but beautiful cemetery, has been restored as a meaningful tribute to Prince Edward's pioneers.

Scroll stands of pine and silver birch provide the background for clusters of low white tombstones inscribed with the names of the county's early settlers. Rising far beyond the burying ground is an unspoilt forest looking much as it must have appeared 200 years ago.

Entrance to the Rose Burying Ground is gained through a roadside farm gate. Motorists must drive down a steep path to reach the newly dedicated gates. The visitor can look beyond them to discover a silent field from yesterday dropped in the centre of thriving modern farmlands.

Tweed Principal Honored

TWEED — Wesley R. Hamilton, principal of the Tweed-Hungerford District High School, for the past number of years, and Mrs. Hamilton were presented with a barometer by members of the staff and former associates on the occasion of his retirement.

The presentation was made by George Cope at a dinner held at Hotel Tweedsmuir recently. A former member of the staff, John Burns, read a presentation address reviewing Mr. Hamilton's achievements during his years in Tweed. Robert Cruise was the master of ceremonies.

Mr. Burns went on to tell of the work that Mr. Hamilton had done at the high school in developing the educational program. At one time students had come from as far north as Denbigh, and as far south as Read. As the school grew, said Mr. Burns, so did the graduations, with an increasing number of bursaries, scholarships, prizes and awards.

Mr. Burns concluded by congratulating Mr. Hamilton on his decision to retire while he and Mrs. Hamilton still had the strength and the health to enjoy the leisure which for all is only too short when retirement comes.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton will continue to make their home in Tweed.

Pollution Fighters Find Two Tons of Garbage

From 50 to 60 pollution-concerned citizens and young people were on hand yesterday to participate in the Belleville Pollution Probe's Moira River clean-up project.

The result was the collection of two tons of garbage and many tired and bedraggled, but satisfied workers.

Gordon Johnston, an official in the Pollution Probe organization and a participant in the clean-up, told The Intelligencer they were amazed at the quantity of garbage in the river.

"We found furniture, a parking meter and even a toilet bowl in the river," he said, "not to mention the general corruption there."

The workers were divided into working team and covered both sides of the river starting at Corbyville. They travelled in shifts a distance of six miles.

At the Bay of Quinte they travelled along the shore for a distance in their cleaning up efforts.

Belleville Pollution Probe plans other activities in the future for volunteer workers concerned with the problem.

Tenants' Groups Seek Right To Negotiate with Landlords

HAMILTON (CP) — A resolution passed by the Ontario Tenants' Association at its annual meeting Sunday calls on the provincial government to allow tenants' organizations to bargain with landlords regarding rents and services.

Another clause of the resolution would allow tenants to hold rent strikes to improve their bargaining power without being subject to civil action.

Mothers also passed calls for the establishment of a rental administration with the power to order a landlord to decrease the rent if services are lowered or withdrawn.

Joan Kuyek, retiring chairman of the tenant's association, attacked the new landlord and tenant advisory bureaus, recently set up in some Ontario municipalities through the new provincial Landlord and Tenant Act.

Mrs. Kuyek, a Kingston alderman, said the bureaus have no power whatsoever. I called it a fraud when it started and I still call it that."

She said Attorney-General Arthur Wishart had promised a review within six months of the new act, passed last December, but as far as she knows nothing has been done.

The legislation permits municipalities to set up the appointed advisory bureaus, but restricts their authority to mediating disputes, advising landlords of tenants and investigating complaints.

She was also critical of the courts approach to landlord-and-tenant laws.

"One judge said he didn't know what the government was thinking about when it passed this act," she said. "Our court of appeal in Ontario, must be one of the most backward courts in the world. We can't expect much help from them."

Jesse Gray, a New York City tenants' organizer, said the only real answer to housing problems is for governments to provide proper and adequate public housing.

Paul Bennet of Burlington was elected chairman of the association succeeding Mrs. Kuyek, who did not seek re-election.

Mr. Bennett, an insurance company investigator, defeated Don Lee of Oshawa 35 to 19 in a vote.

Reserve's Council House Locked

BRANTFORD (CP) — Iroquois Indians from the nearby Six Nations Reserve said Saturday they will keep the reserve council house locked up until the question of the reserve's independence has been settled with the federal government.

A group of about 75 Indians who call themselves Iroquois Warriors earlier this week took over the council house, changed the locks and nailed a notice on the door proclaiming the reserve an independent nation.

"We will keep the council house locked up to prove that the elective council cannot get back in without police," said Edward Green, a spokesman for the Warriors.

"They have not enough backers on the reserve to get back in there without police. Their only backing left is federal legislation."

None Honest on Economics

I wish somebody would explain economics so that the ordinary man could understand it, and also have faith that the explanation was honest and objective. For everything we talks about it seems to have a special point of view to expouse, or a particular axe to grind.

This is what makes us economic illiterates so baffled and frustrated on the subject of prices and wages, inflation and recession, employment and productivity. We don't know what we're talking about — and those who seem to be experts disagree among themselves as much as with us.

For example, consider the cost of food. I know for a fact that the farmer don't get much for their produce; and I also know for a fact that the supermarket chains don't make an exorbitant rate of profit — they are low on prices on high, and where does it all go?;

We have that vague and sinister word "the middleman" to act as the villain in this drama; but I have never seen the middleman adequately described or defined, nor do I know how much profit he makes.

Are truck-drivers making too much? What is "too much"? Are the unions getting more than their share? What is "more than their share"? Are corporations getting an excessive return? When is a return "excessive"?

Hundreds of spokesmen are eager to enlighten us on these, and allied, matters, but I suspect all of them of having ulterior motives, of trying to justify their own economic doctrine by "proving" that this or that segment is responsible for our parlous state of affair.

And I don't believe any of them. I don't think greed is any more prevalent in one stratum of society than in another. I'm not convinced that villains are manipulating our currency, or that a secret band of conspirators is subverting the free market, or that any particular set of devils sucking our blood away. This is a paranoid conception of the way society works.

The way it really works is by greed, stupidity, short-sightedness, ignorance, laziness, and laying blame on the nearest or handiest victim. If you don't like unions, you blame unions; if you don't like owners, you blame capitalists: if you don't like shopkeepers, you blame merchants. Nobody ever blames his own special segment of society.

Why do the dirtiest and most unattractive jobs pay the least, when according to the law of supply; demand they ought to pay the most? What is a "fair wage"? Or a "fair return"? Why aren't everyone make so much and have so little? Why are we the most affluent society on earth, with everyone struggling to get by? You don't know, either.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

Do you suppose there's any truth to that ridiculous rumor that we're the highest form of life?"

TTC Contract Offered

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Transit Commission employees vote today and Tuesday on a contract settlement worked out between company and union negotiators Saturday. The contract provides the 3,000 members of Division 13, Amalgamated Transit Union, with wage-and-fringe-benefit increases of more than 20 per cent over two years.

The terms ignore the federal government's six-per-cent wage guideline for annual increases.

Pop Festival To Be Staged

MONTREAL (CP) — Montcalm, Que., population 837, is to be the site of a Woodstock-style pop festival July 31-Aug. 2.

Organizers say they have the backing of most of the planners of the original Woodstock festival, held last summer and so are calling it "Woodstock" extravaganza Woodstock-Quebec.

Robert Legay, one of the organizers, said Sunday he has had nothing but co-operation from provincial authorities and "there was never any question of cancelling the festival."

"The site we chose is on Highway 49 just three-quarters of a mile off the Trans-Canada, about 20 miles east of Montreal.

Provincial police can control the only access to the site at the Trans-Canada exit, so we don't have any of the traffic jams they had at the original festival".

Scheduled performers at the "three days of peace, love and music" have been chosen, but their names have not been released. There will be two "big names" and 12 other groups, all American.

Cars Recalled

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors Corp. announced Friday the recall of 631 of its 1970 Pontiac Firebirds to replace a lever which could prevent the throttle lever from returning to the idle position.

Engine Should Operate At High Temperatures

By RAY STAPLEY

A reader writes:

"I own a 1968 Meteor with a 302 CID V8 engine. When last in my garage, a mechanic after touching the radiator told me it was too hot and recommended that I install a 195-degree thermostat. I mentioned that specifications called for a high - temperature thermostat all year, but he disagreed and I went along with his suggestion.

However, after making this switch, the radiator still feels quite hot to the touch. I want to know if it would be better to switch back to the original high temperature (195) degree thermostat." —Mr. P. C., Toronto.

Winter or summer and regardless of outside temperature, with rare exceptions, the automobile engineers advise the use of a high - temperature thermostat (one that opens at about 195 degrees).

An engine operates far more efficiently at higher temperatures and when a high - temperature thermostat is functioning properly it will not cause the engine to overheat during the summer. Such things as a plugged radiator core, soft mushy radiator hoses, improperly adjusted ignition timing, a cracked cylinder head or engine block or blown head gasket, and of course a thermostat that is stuck in a semi-closed position, are the most likely reasons for overheating of the cooling system.

For many years now, all water-cooled motor vehicles have been fitted with a pressure type radiator cap which prevents coolant from turning to steam until the engine reaches a temperature of about 220 degrees. Therefore, how could a thermostat that opens at about 195 degree possibly allow the coolant to boil?

Replacing a high temperature thermostat for a low reading summer unit or operating the engine without a thermostat is in most instances running contrary to manufacturers' instructions. Too, removing the thermostat from some engines can actually cause overheating.

Though small and inexpensive, the engine thermostat is the major control device for the entire cooling system. Its primary function is to supply adequate hot water for the heater and to assure that the engine reaches its proper operating temperature just as fast as possible.

Heating the inside of the car is important for comfort but engineers are primarily concerned with the engine operating temperature. To operate a car in cold weather with a defective thermostat, (when stuck in the open position).

It is well to remember that the factory warranty does not cover an engine which has been damaged by lack of a thermostat or one that is malfunctioning.

If the heater does not provide adequate heat after the engine has been operating for a mile or so in cool weather, it is a strong indication of a defective thermostat. (when stuck in the open position).

It is well to remember that the factory warranty does not cover an engine which has been damaged by lack of a thermostat or one that is malfunctioning.

Saskatchewan Plans to Ban Strikes in Construction Industry

REGINA(CP) — The legislature prepared Sunday for an emergency session today to consider placing all construction trade unions under compulsory and binding arbitration.

If the proposed legislation is passed, trade unions in the construction industry would not be allowed to strike for two or three years.

Premier Ross Thatcher ordered the session on grounds that 314-month-old strikes by plumbers and pipefitters are holding up a $50,000,000 public works program and damaging the province's economy.

The session is not expected to last more than three days, but if it does the Liberals will have to consider adjourning for the NDP provincial leadership convention which begins Thursday.

Plumbers and pipefitters in Regina, Saskatoon, Prince Albert and Moose Jaw have rejected a wage increase of 64 be given a slice of the public costs an hour over two years.

The Prince Albert and Moose Jaw locals are working under terms of the old contract, which gave a journeyman $4.85 an hour.

Mr. Thatcher has said that any contractor who signs for more than six per cent will not get provincial government work.

The government plans to amend the Essential Services Emergency Act to include all construction unions on grounds that if only the plumbers were ordered back to work, there would be no guarantee another strike.

The act was passed at a two-day special session in 1966 to order members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union back to their jobs with Saskatchewan Power Corp.

Toronto Man Scores Second Sweepstake Win

TORONTO (CP) — Jack Hewson, 81, a retired delivery man, Saturday won $125,000 on an Irish Sweepstakes ticket he was given as a Valentine's Day gift.

Mr. Hewson said in an interview people had been calling him for the last two days offering to buy his ticket. The highest bid was $50,000 for half the winnings, he said, but "some guy had the nerve to offer $1,000."

It was the second time Mr. Hewson had won in the sweepstakes—the first time he won a $250 consolation prize.

"Lightning strikes twice," he said.

"I'm delighted but I have not made up my mind yet what I'm going to do with it." His nom de-Plume was Black Magic.

Another $125,000 winner was Glen Stewart, an 18-year-old student from Thunder Bay — who held his winning ticket despite a "tempting" offer of $80,000 for half of it by a man from New York City.

Frank Goddard of North York also won $125,000 with a ticket on first-place Nijinsky, the winning horse.

Frank Garber of Toronto won $52,000 with second place Mesa' wrals. His mother, Eva Garber of Montreal said her son had spoken little of the ticket since he learned he had a chance for the top prizes.

"He didn't build castles," she said.

Gathering of 150,000 Doesn't Worry Police

SHEPTON MALLET, England (AP) — Authorities feared the worst in this sleepy market town when 150,000 fans crowded into an open field for Britain's biggest-ever pop music festival during the weekend, but when it ended early today they declared they had not made one arrest.

No one complained it was dull. A couple danced naked on the stage. Girls went topless in the sun. A baby boy was born in a tent.

Food and beer ran out temporarily. Some sanitation facilities broke down. Traffic jams stretched 15 miles. Organizers had to warn the crowd against drug pushers.

And still, when rain ended the festivities at 3 a.m., just about everyone went home happy.

"You're welcome back any time," a local Chamber of Commerce official told the departing youngsters.

School Band Earns Enough for Expo Trip

TORONTO (CP) — A group of city youngsters with a yen to see Expo 70 in Japan has raised enough money to make the trip.

The 103 teen-agers, members of the Cummer Valley concert band, started to plan for the trip two years ago and raised $124,000 to cover air travel expenses and costs for a two-week stay. They left for Osaka Sunday night.

Robert Richmond, 28, music director of Zion Heights junior high school, originally proposed the idea of going to Japan.

He felt he could mould a group of high school students into a band good enough to give concerts. He was right.

In Japan, the band will give a concert at a high school, but mostly members will take in the sights of that country.

The money for the trip was raised through part-time jobs band members held, selling tickets for raffles—and even selling chocolate bars.

The band also got a $10,000 donation from the provincial government and several donations from business firms.

Postmen Step Up Rotating Strikes

Postmen in sections of British Columbia, Alberta and Ontario were off the job today as Canada's postal unions stepped up their series of rotating strikes to back wage demands.

Postmen were ordered off the job Sunday night in the Vancouver area, Calgary, 37 centres in western Ontario, including London, and a number of centres in Northern Ontario.

Also hit was Toronto International Airport, where all air delivery letters were frozen as 64 postal workers walked out, shutting off aircraft service to Vancouver, Winnipeg and Montreal.

Mowat Accepts Award

ORILLIA (CP) — Canadian writer Farley Mowat accepted for humor Saturday night and also provided a little humor in his own earthy style.

Mr. Mowat wore a kilt as he accepted the award for his book The Boat Who Wouldn't Float.

As he received the award, a man among the audience of 400 shouted: "Are you wearing the kilt tonight, Farley?"

"Yes, me son, I am," Mr. Mowat replied and proved that he was wearing it in true Scottish tradition.

He turned his back to the audience, flipped up the back of his kilt and exposed his bare posterior.

In accepting the award, Mr. Mowat was critical that there was no money attached to it.

He told the audience that awards "must be meaningful" and "something practical should go with it."

Jack McClelland of McClelland and Stewart Ltd. which published Mr. Mowat's award - winning book announced that the author has been elected to the board of directors of the publishing company.

"This may not be a great honor for him, but it sure as hell is a great honor for McClelland and Stewart," Mr. McClelland told the audience. Replied Mr. Mowat: "That must be the most sophisticated way of saying: Farley, we can't pay you . . . royalties."

Girl Wins CBC Position by Ad-lib Commentary

TORONTO (CP) — Cathy Kneen, who beat out 29 other women to gain a summer announcing position with the CBC radio network, showed early in her announcing career how to turn a nerve-jangling situation to her advantage.

The ad-lib portion of her audition, generally the toughest for aspiring announcing staff, was Cathy's opportunity to put in her pitch for more women announcers on the network.

"They told us to talk about anything . . . so I talked about why there should be more women announcers," she said in a recent interview.

"I said that as a constant radio listener I find it very offputting that there are not more women on the radio—in straight announcing jobs and not just selling products."

And the CBC officials apparently agreed. She was hired.

Mrs. Kneen is the only female announcer at the network's Toronto headquarters and there is only one other in the entire English-language network—a summer replacement in Ottawa.

But chief announcer John Rae said that "by next year we hope to have at least one female announcer on the summer relief program in every region, and eventually on permanent staff."

"We believe that female announcers supply a refreshing alternative to the normal male drone."

But Mr. Rae said the network's current austerity policy may delay the addition of women on the permanent announcing staff.

The network has been without a women's voice since announcer Maggie Morris was released last March. She was told she had developed a "precious" English accent and that her voice wasn't suitable for the CBC.

"The climate of opinion about women announcers is definitely changing," said Mrs. Kneen. "Maybe it's because of Maggie. . . . I'm very grateful to her for opening it up."

During her brief radio career, Mrs. Kneen has read several late-night newscasts, and believes that "it's very important that people hear something authoritative like a newscast from a woman—and that's a women's liberation statement".

She's also acting as co-host, with Peter Gzowski, on the popular AM show Radio Free Friday, and is doing the usual commercial and station-break chores. So far there has been no adverse reaction.

At the moment, Mrs. Kneen says, her main preoccupation is "learning the craft"—working on such problems as timing and projection.

"When you get into this business you realize how much work announcers do to produce those perfect mellow tones," she said.

Highland Weekend Opens with Tartan Ball

Well over 500 persons enjoyed a gala time at the Tartan Ball held in the Armory, Saturday evening, which was the opening event of the Belleville Quinte Highland weekend, sponsored by the Belleville Kinsmen.

Dancing commenced at 9 p.m. to the music of the Commodore Orchestra and during the evening many selections reflecting the big band sound era were played.

For the program portion of the evening the large gathering was treated to songs by the well - known Scottish singer from Smithfield, Gordon Tocher who recently sang on the Ted Mack Amateur Show, after which he led in a rousing sing along of Scottish favorites. An intricate sword dance under the spotlights was performed by the Argyle Broadswords of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 100 of Brighton.

But perhaps the highlight of the evening was the participation by all in the Gay Gordons Dance led by the Pipe and Drums Band of CFB Trenton.

The evening of fellowship and camaraderie concluded with dancing till 1 a.m.

She is begging us to let her live with her best friend's family for one year — until she is ready to enter high school. Then she will join us in Omaha.

Joyce has an 11-year-old sister, Molly, who is looking forward to the move, although she has many friends here. Molly is an "A" student, which Joyce is not.

I don't know how much longer I can put up with Joyce's moaning around the house and crying. Her best friend's mother has telephoned me to say Joyce is welcome to stay with them for a year and she hopes I say yes because her daughter has been crying, too. Please advise. — MRS. VAN ORIENTED.

* * *

DEAR MRS.: Someone should tell those two girls to turn off the waterworks. They are wasting the retinal resources. I hope you won't cave in and let Joyce have her way. A 13-year-old girl belongs with her family. Omaha isn't exactly Outer Mongolia. There are good schools and friendly people there.

The challenge of making a place for herself in a new city will be a healthy experience for Joyce. Don't allow her to evade it.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are right most of the time but when you are wrong — oh baby, are you wrong! I refer to your comment to "Can't Get A Word In Edgewise." You said a person can meet with a non-stop talker should send a senseless conversation by frankly saying it's time to stop. Obviously you have never lived in Ottawa, Canada.

All the women we have met are born talking and they don't let up until a physician declares them officially dead. They learn from their mothers (who learned from their mothers) the skillful art of tacking "so" or "and" or "but" to the end of every sentence. This enables them to hold the floor indefinitely.

I have listened to these non-stop talkers all my life and I can tell you there is no polite way to get in your say. I learned long ago, if you live in Ottawa, manners be damned. The only way to fight them effectively is to break in when they come up for air. Even then you can't wait forever because in addition to having superb voices they have fantastic lungs and can go without breathing for incredible periods of time. (They could all swim the English Channel.)

So please, Ann Landers, when you hand out advice, be sure that the advice that works in Omaha might not work in Ottawa. The yakkity yak of the women up here is indeed a difficulty which I'm sure is not found elsewhere on the North American continent. So sympathy is right, but what we need most are support for the loquacious females who will be thrilled when they see that Ann Landers says it is impolite to interrupt. — CAPITAL CAP.

* * *

DEAR CAP: I have known plenty of women who have never left the U.S. who are incessant talkers, so please get it out of your head that Ottawa has a corner on this market because it just isn't true nor is it fair to make a regional problem out of what is in reality a human weakness and I thank you for writing.

Second Weddings Are Not Always Small

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My daughter, who is divorced but still in her twenties, is being married in a few days. Her first marriage was a big one, but this time, as there is a large family connection there will be 300 guests at the wedding. His family is not on this and my daughter feels that it would be wrong to deprive them of it.

What part can my daughter play? Is it the girl that gives the ceremony? She is just five.

There are so many rules and taboos associated with second marriages, but just the same they are becoming part of our society. I feel it looks as if the etiquette books will have to be torn and revising. One doesn't want to make too way-out. — Happy Divorcee.

Dear Happy: The rule for second weddings is to keep them small. Children of a divorcee do not have a part in the ceremony; might not even attend it. Some feel so sure that they may be upset by this new order of things.

But this one has been going to make your own rules. Your daughter has been married well across the flower girl, or could be in charge of the guest book at the reception, circulating to get everybody's signature.

Three hundred guests is far from being a small wedding, but surely the groom's family couldn't have a good time.

Dear Doris: Sometimes I am impatient of the adjurations to "Look forward, not backward." To me it is just common sense to insist that, in 70-plus, the sum total of joyous memories must exceed those anticipated in a somewhat limited future.

I believe, too, the pains and disappointments and griefs of the past must surpass those of the future; so I choose to remember past joys, and treasure them, not only for the breadth of experience, faith and tolerance they generated. — Memory Lane.

Dear Memory Lane: Now that's what I call well-balanced values. I'd say the future looks bright indeed; it is a message for those who might tend to bury themselves in the past.

Dear Doris: My best friend and I are just turned 21, and in grade school. There is a boy in grade 10 that my best friend would like to know, but from him we hear he acts he is really shy.

He is 17 and is usually with a good friend of mine (a boy) who is 16. This boy smokes at her and I feel he would ask her out if he wasn't afraid of his schoolmates.

Dear Matchmaker: What's wrong with arranging an introduction? This should be accomplished by the boy's good friend. Then it is up to your pal to turn on the charm.

Remember, though, that he is 17 and she barely 15. This is a big gap. He won't want a giggly girl now — but someone with a bit of poise — even some serious conversation.

Home for Elderly May Be Torn Down

TORONTO (CP) — Laughlin Lodge in 122 years old, a mansion, rambling building with the last terraced art in back yard and the huge 70th Anniversary Memorial Hospital looming across the street.

It is home to 69 elderly men and women. Most of them have no family. Many of them have their very first room of their own in this quiet, private home.

Its future is in doubt, caught by way of social work and public health agencies.

A Toronto alderman says it looks like something out of Charles Dickens and should be torn down.

Its present administrator, H. E. Goldert, says he understands that even city capital funds available to replace it would bring in a building time renovation are being done with provincial money.

He says it may have a life of only another three or four years as an old people's home, but he would like to see the main part of the building survive as a landmark. It might be used as administrative offices, since inspectors have said the structure is sound.

Residents seem in favor of keeping it up.

"We understand you can't make an old building into a new one," said one. "We also know people are doing their best to fix this place up. If you rip it down, where are we going to go? We get everything we need. We like it."

The lodge was begun in 1837. The oldest part of the present building went up in 1847. Other wings have been added, but not enough to put an every which way.

Where do you spend leisure hours? Is the old building with an uncertain fate? Mr. Goldert says that with the exception of several quiet areas, the paneling the sprinkler system perfectly fine down to the overtones that will add some pleasure and dignity to the lives of the residents.

Lighting and wiring have been improved, bathrooms renovated, and some of the building's interior has been painted by volunteers in attractive and yellow, bright colors chosen by a council of residents.

Next come partitions. The heat-attractive features of the lodge are the decorations. Some of the furniture and the wood of them are in "trefle" areas people must walk through to get from one part of the rambling building to another.

Although the Salvation Army is a big organization, it has been in operation in Belleville Area for nearly forty years and in the past year has handled over 2000 calls, on a 24 hour a day, seven days a week basis.

Some problems needing help were loneliness, marital or financial difficulties, personal or legal needs and the threat of suicide. All calls are kept strictly confidential as are the identities of all Life-line workers. Rev. Bunner said that he was very impressed for a Lifeline volunteer were to be a good listener, a dedicated person and a concerned human being.

After a question and answer period, Mrs. D. Ropson Bury thanked Rev. Bunner and presented him with a token of appreciation for making the members more aware of some of the work in which exist in today's society.

Reports were given by Mrs. R. Nobes on historical; Mrs. W. Sheet on health; Mrs. F. Sloan on the consumer report and Mrs. D. Reid on planning the next district annual.

Tasty Hamburgers Using Homemade Buns

By MARY MOORE

It probably is safe to guess that millions of hamburgers will be consumed in Canada this summer. I determined that they should be made with the best hamburg buns to raise their social status.

There were eight of us grouped around our old barbecue that Pete built from field stone more than 20 years ago, all eyes focused on the fire. It was a great satisfaction to me to see how eagerly each one was awaiting his sizzling hot hamburger. This recipe makes 24 flavorful hamburg buns which I believe sell at 49 cents per dozen in supermarkets. So draw your own conclusions!

HOMEMADE BURGER BUNS
(24 — no eggs, no milk)

2 pkgs. granular yeast
2 tsps. sugar (first amount)
1 cup lukewarm water
1½ cups very hot tap water
1½ tsps. salt
2 tbsps. sugar (second amount)
2 tbsps. margarine

About 8 2-3 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1¼ cups shredded old Cheddar cheese, packed
½ cup finely chopped fresh onion (or bottled flakes)
1 tsp. very large kosk soak the yeast and 1 tsp. sugar (first amount) in the lukewarm water for at least 10 min.

Into a small bowl measure the hot tap water and add the salt, sugar (second amount) and margarine and stir to dissolve. Cool to lukewarm. Add this liquid to yeast mixture and along with four cups of flour and the cheese and onion and beat vigorously for about 5 min. (Reserve remaining flour for kneading later.) Let rise until more than doubled in bulk.

Punch down dough and turn out on kneading board floured with two of the remaining cups of flour. Knead until smooth and knead 100 times, adding the remaining two-thirds cup flour if needed to prevent dough becoming sticky. Shape dough into loaf about 12 in diameter and cut into 24 even balls and cut into 24 even pieces. Shape pieces into even balls and with your palms flatten to 3" even rounds. Place on four buttered cookie sheets at least 3" apart and let rise until well puffed. Bake covered 15 hrs. at room temperature (70 deg.) Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 15 min.

When serving time arrives slit buns nearly through and fill with sizzling hot hamburg patties.

I hope the readers who have asked me for the recipe for hamburg buns read this and make them for they are beauties.

Too Few Librarians Take Administrative Positions

HAMILTON (CP) — Bruce Peel, president of the Canadian Library Association, said Monday that women are partly to blame for the librarian crisis in the library profession because they will not accept the responsibility to delegate authority.

He said in an interview that head librarian posts now are being filled by men because women value their personal relationships with library staffs more.

Mr. Peel said too few li brarians rise through the ranks to take administrative jobs to give them enough library administrators.

In a speech Monday to 1,000 librarians at the opening session of the CLA's 25th annual conference here, Mr. Peel said:

"If it had not been for the importation of specialists and managerial types Canadian libraries, most would be way up with the expansion of recent years."

Michael J. Quinlan, a former newspaper man, received the Merit Award of the Canadian Library Trustees Association for his work as a library trustee and actively needed to prevent dough becoming sticky. Shape dough into loaf about 12 in diameter and cut into 24 even balls and

Points for Parents

By MARY BEYBON

Mother: "I'm tired of doing all the work around here while you children spend the summer playing. I'm going to make you all pitch in and help with the housework. Molly, you clean the cupboards and Jim, you get at the yard."

Mother: "You've had a few weeks without many chores, but it will be a better vacation for all of us if everyone helps with the house and yard work. Let's decide which chores each would like to take over for the rest of the summer."

Mothers need not be dictators to achieve an end. Help usually is more cheerfully given if the work is considered a co-operative family enterprise.

Like It or Lump It, Says PM

Trudeau Vows Fight to Finish--of Inflation or Government

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau told Canadians Sunday night his government is doing all it can to solve the problems of inflation and regional disparities, and that if they are dissatisfied they can elect another government.

"I'm not really trying to govern in order to be re-elected . . . if the Canadian people don't like it, you know they can lump it," he said.

"I want people to believe the government when it says that it's going to fight this thing to the finish either of inflation or of the government."

The prime minister was answering criticisms from journalists and academics across Canada in a series of two-way discussions shown on the CTV program W5.

Economic issues dominated the discussion, with passing reference to separatism in Quebec, abortion legislation and narcotics.

Vancouver journalist and economist Pat Carney wanted to know what action the prime minister would take next winter should there be increased unemployment and still-rising costs.

Mr. Trudeau said there is some cause for optimism in the slight decrease in the cost-of-living index for May, and in indications that the Canadian Labor Congress is ready to co-operate with government and business in fighting inflation.

He reiterated previous statements that wage and price controls would be a last resort, and indicated there are other, less drastic alternatives such as a tax on surplus earnings.

Toronto author Farley Mowat suggested that government policy is to exploit, rather than develop, the Canadian North, and to force farmers and fishermen in other underdeveloped areas into the big cities.

Mr. Trudeau agreed there is an element of exploitation in the

Inflation Major Problem

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament has adjourned until Monday, Oct. 6, after an eight-month sitting in which inflation, government, pollution and the country's wheat glut were major issues.

There was the usual avalanche of words in the 30th Parliament's second session that began last Oct. 22 and adjourned Friday. But there was action as well as talk and some 60 bills made it through the legislative mill.

Some of the [illegible] were controversial but most bills drew support, at least in principle from all parties.

Inflation was the major problem facing the government during the present parliamentary session. It was raised almost daily in the Commons question government's northern policies, but added there also is a move toward development through moving administration of northern affairs to the North from Ottawa.

On Mr. Mowat's second point, the prime minister said Ottawa is not interested in moving people from underdeveloped areas to the cities—but to growth areas within their own province.

Kingsley Brown, of St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish, N.S., charged Ottawa with failing to consult the people on its development programs for the maritimes.

Mr. Trudeau admitted this, but placed that blame on the provincial governments.

The provinces want fast action because they are faced with immediate problems of unemployment, he said.

The provinces want a program "without this long, involved process of consultation at the grass-roots level," he said.

Mr. Trudeau rejected a suggestion by Evelyn Dumas, an associate editor at the Montreal Star, that Ottawa's development grants went to well-established companies, many of them foreign-owned, at the expense of small firms in Quebec.

Tumor May Cause Jumpy Pressure

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My husband's high blood pressure is a mystery. It keeps going down like a Yo-Yo. He will be all right at times, even when his doctor takes his pressure. Other things it will go sky high.

Twice this happened at a blood bank centre. They refused to take his blood. It was over 200. He is only 36. Usually he isn't nervous but when these spells come on he suddenly gets splotches of deep red in his face, blotches on his legs and arms and he has trouble in catching his breath.

One morning I sat on the edge of his bed and it actually shook with his heart beats. I could feel it pounding fast.

All he takes is phenobarbital for it. After a few hours or days the symptoms disappear and his blood pressure is normal again. He is so disgusted with himself he will not go back to his doctor. Does his case history give you any hunch as to what might be wrong? — Mrs. L.

Comment: Here lies see a good internist (diagnostician). I have a hunch. Write down this word: "pheochromocytoma." This is the word for a small tumor in the adrenal gland. When blood pressure hops up and down for no apparent special reason, this rare condition may be the cause.

There are special tests to make the diagnosis. Appropriate treatment will transform your husband's neurotic blood pressure to normal. Lastly see a good doctor for diagnosis. Otherwise, I doubt that he will improve.

* * *

For Mrs. D.: If you have caught your youngsters eating lead - based paint off the window sills and walls of your house, this may be the reason why your son is so pale, apathetic and without energy. He may be suffering from chronic lead poisoning. (One estimate: that a quarter million children in the United States suffer from this condition). Better take him to your pediatrician who will check on his urine and blood to make the diagnosis — and suggest appropriate treatment.

* * *

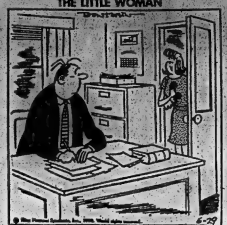
* * *

For Mrs. V.: According to some allergists, the real villain in some cases of allergy is dust in dust mites. By special tests established which type of mite is involved; and desensitization is accomplished through the use of mite extract injections.

* * *



Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am allergic to dogs. My doctor has advised against having one. Yet, I love dogs. I have the children of having such pets. What kind of dog would you suggest I get? — Mr. M.

Comment: Better think it over before taking on the responsibility. Your health comes first in importance. Besides if you are allergic, it's possible that your children (by heredity) may themselves become allergic to the dog a year or two later. But if you still insist on getting one, it's less likely for short-haired dogs to shed dander and hair than long-haired ones.

According to some authorities, here are the three breeds with less dander production: French poodle, dachshund and the Bedlington terrier.

My advice? If you have asthma or other allergic disorders, all concerned will be happier without a dog in the house. (I make what I think is his judicious decision with some remorse because I grew up with dog pets since I was two weeks old. I feel guilty depriving you of the pleasure of their company.)

Over Fifty Perish In Traffic Mishaps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 69 accidental deaths were reported in Canada this weekend, 33 in traffic mishaps.

A survey by The Canadian Press from 4 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday night, local times, also showed 14 drownings and two miscellaneous deaths.

Quebec led the provinces with 29 deaths—24 in traffic and five drownings. Nine of the traffic deaths occurred in a two-car collision 80 miles east of Montreal.

Ontario reported nine deaths —six in traffic, two drownings and one electrocution.

Ten persons died in British Columbia, six in traffic and four by drowning.

Alberta also reported 10 deaths, eight in traffic and two by drowning.

One person died in a traffic accident in Saskatchewan and one drowned in Manitoba.

Four persons died in traffic in New Brunswick and one in a miscellaneous accident.

Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island each reported two traffic deaths.

No accidental deaths were reported in Newfoundland.

The survey does not include industrial accidents, known suicides or slayings.

Homosexuals Hold 'Gay Pride Week'

NEW YORK (CP) — About 2,000 homosexuals marched from Greenwich Village to Central Park Sunday to demand equal rights with heterosexuals.

It was the climax of what its organizers called "Gay Pride Week." The week has featured demonstrations outside state and city offices to demand an end to alleged police harassment of homosexual meeting places and what the homosexuals call enticement by police officers to commit illegal acts.

"Gay" is a word homosexuals use to describe themselves.

Light in spirit and marked by much cavorting and prancing, the march and rally were devoid of incident.

A spokesman for the Lavender Menace, a lesbian branch of the Gay Liberation Front, said the movement was trying to avoid any untoward public disturbance.

Among those taking part were men in women's clothes.

As the demonstrators marched 80 blocks from Greenwich Village to the park chanting "Two, four, six, eight, gay is just as good as straight" and "Hey, hey, what do you say, try it once our way."

Some of the crowd joined in a kissing contest, others smoked marijuana, and many played outdoor games while some embraced each other and rolled in the grass.

Larger Cottage Lots Result from Pollution

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says recommendations to increase the size of cottage lots as part of measures to combat pollution could put the cost of summer cottages out of reach of the average wage-earner.

The newspaper says a recently-released report to an Ontario cabinet committee on pollution recommends that the minimum sizes for cottage lots to be established as one acre in Ontario portion of the Canadian Shield stretching south to a line from southern Muskoka to Kingston, and half an acre elsewhere in the province.

It says adoption of this standard would mean new cottages in Shield areas would have to have lots about triple the present minimum of 15,000 square feet. In Muskoka, where a lot now costs as much as $10,000, a good lot would cost at least $20,000 based on $100 per foot of water frontage.

The newspaper says provincial and local authorities feel the increased lot sizes are necessary to provide sufficient drainage area for septic tank systems.

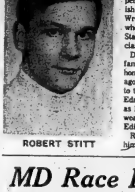
Hamilton Club Pays Way For Belleville Mat Champ

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

The city of Belleville, not exactly over - populated with Canadian champions, can lay claim to the top 114-pound freestyle wrestler in the country, after Robert Stitt captured his Canadian class title at Calgary Sunday.

However, if the 18-year-old Belleville secondary school student were to disclaim any sports connection with the city, you couldn't really blame him.



For training facilities, Belleville's only current Canadian champion, has been relying heavily on a 5' x 7' space of living room floor in his parents Howard St. apartment. Apparently no other space in the city can be squandered for things like helping to train Canadian titlists, as his request for training time in a Secondary school gym was turned down.

Stitt was able to make the trip only through the efforts of the Hamilton Wrestling Club, which paid his transportation costs. His brother, David, 24, who is currently working in Hamilton and is a member of the club, captured the Canadian senior championships, and a spot on the Commonwealth Games team, by winning the welterweight division of the 114¼ pound - class.

David, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Stitt of 21 Howard Street, must take a great deal of the credit for teaching wrestling techniques to his younger brother. No Belleville coach offered to take the time to work with the wrestler since the close of the high school wrestling season.

"I think the saddest thing about the lack of support from this town, is that there are often 25 boys with as much wrestling potential as Bob, and there's no one to help develop it," says Irvin Stitt.

Besides his outstanding wrestling ability, the grade 11 student also holds a brown belt in judo and has received much of his encouragement from YMCA instructor Jim Driscoll; his father said.

ROBERT STITT

Probably the most impressive of the other wrestling awards which he has picked up, with only two years experience, is a first-place finish at the Guelph Invitational Wrestling Meet this winter, where he defeated the United States champion in his weight class.

David, who resided with the family when they made their home in Belleville three years ago, will also receive a trip to the world championships in Edmonton, July 4-11, as well as his junket to the Commonwealth Games July 16-25 in Edinburgh.

Robert will have to content himself with the Canadian crown, as the junior world championships are only held every two years.

DAVID STITT

Scots Have 'World' on String

The hills and the heather of Scotland were replaced by the mud and the rain of Southern Ontario Saturday but the spirits of an all-Scottish soccer squad weren't dampened as the 'Rest of the World' fell to their second half onslaught 3-1.

Sound like further action in the World Cup or first leg action in the European Cup of Champions? Actually it was the exhibition soccer game sponsored by the Kinsmen Club between Scottish-descent players and an all-star team by Bay and Quinte Soccer League players.

Although the field was rain-soaked and greasy with mud, both teams put on a sustained exhibition of soccer skills and playing prowess.

The World' jumped off to an early first-half lead on a goal by Tony Gonzales and continued to carry the play to the Scots for the entire half. Dangerous attacks and numerous scoring opportunities arose for the World but the inability to finish the play in front of the Scottish net kept the score limited to the single goal for the first half.

The half-time break for the Scottish was a godsend as the World was faced with an invigorated Scot team that completely dominated the second half.

Forward Ken Frost opened the scoring for the Scots early in the half and minutes later headed in a goal to give the Scottish team the lead for the first time. Robin Findlay added the insurance marker late in the game and the Scottish defence took over preventing any further scoring although the World came close hitting the uprights twice.

All the players on both teams provided the large crowd at Zwick's Island with an example of how the game of soccer should be played demonstrating their shooting, passing, dribbling and goalkeeping abilities.

The Dairy Queen continued its Ladies' Softball League dominance by shutting-it Weese's Greenhouse 18-5 Sunday.

Barb Breadner and Sharon Lumnis shared the victory combining to fan nine Weese's and walk only one batter. Lumnis' homer in the sixth and three double plays by her teammates provided the support to gain the victory.

Irma and Nora Barbersnick toiled the mound duties for Weese's giving up 18 runs while striking out seven and walking four. Irma provided her own batting support by cranking a home run.

Belleville Day Capped By Staub Game Winner

"Belleville Day" at Jarry Park, a bus safari venture for CJBQ Radio, was greeted by perfect baseball, a near-capacity crowd and most important, a 3-2 Expo win.

Staub's two-run eighth-inning clout over the right-field fence was the pefect ending for the Sunday drive which gave most of the Belleville visitors their first live look at big league baseball, let alone Canada's national team.

The game provided everything the baseball novice could hope for: a pitching duel between promising Expo right-hander Carl Morton and Met veteran Ray Sadecki, who had a 5-0 record against the Montrealers before Sunday; three home runs, one by Met Dave Marshall, and Expo replies by catcher John Bateman and the popular Staub; and a genuine major league rhubarb, which say Met manager Gil Hodges tossed out of the game after over-arguing a call.

Belleville went up into lights twice on the ingenious Jarry Park scoreboard, once between and between acknowledgements of the Jarry Park scoreboard, once between acknowledgements of the Jarry Park scoreboard, once between acknowledgements of the Jarry Park scoreboard, once

Wright Cashes Biggest Cheque After Nine-under Open Win

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Open golf championship which ended Sunday was the story of Klondike Bill and his side-kick Claude.

Bill Wright Jr. of Edmonton won the $5,000 first-place prize money after three sub-par rounds of 68-69-69 had gave most of the credit to his caddy, Claude Clement of Montreal.

"I wouldn't less than without him," said Wright, a five-foot-six, 130-pounder 29-year-old golfer who cashed his biggest cheque in three years for his nine-under par 201.

Wright's last victory was the Klondike Open in Edmonton earlier this month but he said the first-place prize—an airline ticket to Las Vegas—for $100.

"I sure couldn't have afforded that trip," he said.

Wright finished five strokes up on Moe Norman of Gilford who won $1,400 and seven ahead of Gary Bowerman of Richmond Hill who made $1,100. Bowerman and Wright had been tied after the second-round of the 54-hole tournament on the par-70, 4,210-yard Custen Golf Club course.

Gary Cowan of Kitchener was the low amateur with an even-par 210, one stroke better than 52-year-old Nick Weslock of Brantford, the defending champion who shot a final-round 70 despite a sore back.

Wright, who won $2,000 at the Willow Park Classic in Calgary in 1967, said he warmed up for the Ontario Open by shooting 1,000 balls daily for 30 days preceding the tournament.

Wright led a charge of western professional golfers.

The Homenuk brothers of Manitoba, Stan from Dauphin, and Wilf from Winnipeg, tied at 209 with Ed Englebardt of Calgary, Gary Pitchford of Toronto and Al Balding of Southampton. Each made $600.

Balding, the first-round leader with a 64, one stroke off the course record set by Weslock in 1962, had a 72 on the second round and slipped to a 73 on the final 18 holes.

Wright, who says he hasn't made a cent on the three United States tournaments he played this year, brushed aside the pressure everyone said he would face when he was paired with Balding for the final round.

On the final 18 holes he made only 34 putts, 12 below regulation figures.

He didn't even have to put on the par-four, 365-yard 14th hole when his 190-yard shot with a sand wedge hit in front of the green, bounced and ballied into the cup.

"When I heard the cheer and couldn't see the ball, I knew I had the tournament," he said.

Wright praised his caddy who works in the winter as a camp, cook in the Northwest Territories.

"He helped me on every hole. It things keep up I'll have to make him my manager."

Ken Pullen of St. Jules, Que., tied with Cowan at 210 and earned $450 while Gary Slatter of Campbellville and Frank Whibley of Toronto were at 211, good for $387.

Nijinsky Wins With Final Burst

DUBLIN (CP) — Nijinsky, the Canadian-bred wonder colt of European racing, stretched his winning streak to nine Saturday by coming from behind to capture the Irish Derby, on which a major Irish sweepstake is based.

American millionaire Charles Engelhard, owner of Nijinsky, was at the Curragh track to see the victory of the powerful three-year-old that once came from E. P. Taylor's Toronto racing establishment.

"It was so easy," said jockey Liam Ward. "Even my grandmother could have won on this great horse."

However victory didn't look that easy, with less than a quarter-mile left in the 1¼-mile race, Nijinsky appeared to be out of it, boxed on the rails in the 13-horse field. But Ward pulled him clear, overtook the field in a few strides and finished three lengths ahead of Meadowville.

Four Canadians were among 17 Irish Sweepstakes ticket buyers who received $125,000 payoffs for tickets they held on Nijinsky. The Canadians won $50,000 each on second-place Meadowville and three won $25,000 with tickets on Master Guy, the French-trained entry that finished third.

Nijinsky, named after the great ballet star, is by Northern Dancer out of Flaming Page and was bought by Engelhard for $110,000 as a yearling. First prize Saturday added another $142,500 to the colt's winnings, which now total more than $410,000.

Gurney Starting String

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (CP) — Dan Gurney won his second consecutive race in the Canadian-American Challenge Cup series Sunday at the wheel of a McLaren M12D but said it was "not a decisive win."

Gurney, of Costa Mesa, Calif., finished 10.4 seconds ahead of Lothar Motschenbacher of Beverly Hills, Calif., after 75 laps of the twisty, 1.65-mile Le Circuit track. Gurney averaged 97.95 miles an hour and his lead was never severely threatened after he took over the pressure from the front end of the car on a lot on the rear spoiler and K Jam Hilborn motors.

The fastest lap of the race was turned in by New Zealander Hulme—a time of 1:34.3 and an average of 101.7 miles an hour—before he left the race with his car leaking oil.

Gurney's third place made him the top Canadian in the race and marked the first time the Chevrolet - powered BRM finished a race.

He said he was "pleased with the car" despite "a lot of minor problems."

He ran the race with no tachometer, a broken seatbelt, a loose nose cone and spongy brakes. About 25 laps into the race "something broke in the rear suspension" and he lost the use of his clutch at about the halfway mark.

Bob Brown drove his McLeagle, basically a McLaren modified by the all-American racing team, to fourth place. The Hunsington, N.Y., resident finished four laps behind Gurney and Motschenbacher.

Devlin a Scorcher

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bruce Devlin maintained a scorching pace in the Cleveland Open with rounds of 66 and 64 Sunday to win the $130,000 golf tournament. The 29-year-old Australian turned back a surprising challenge by Steve Eichstadt, a 24-year-old Vietnam veteran who went into the final round six under par. Devlin opened the third round Sunday with a 68 and then came in in the final round with a six-under-par 64, matching the course record for the 6,661-yard Aurora Country Club course. That gave him a 72-hole 268, 12 under par; for the $30,000 first prize and his second championship of the year. He won the Bob Hope Desert Classic early in the season and has earned more than $87,000 for his best year since joining the tour in 1963.

Expansion Again?

FREDERICTON (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, predicts the NHL will add four more teams, probably by 1975. He said in an interview following the New Brunswick Hall of Fame Dinner Saturday that he expects Atlanta, Kansas City, Dallas and Seattle to be in the league by 1973. Campbell said this would probably mean the NHL would operate in three divisions with six teams in each league, instead of the present two division. He predicted there would eventually be a European division with Russia, Sweden and Czechoslovakia taking part. The European division would mean he would become a member of the NHL because the players are government employees, he said.

Foster Catches Prey

BALTIMORE (AP) — Light heavyweight champion Bob Foster chased an elusive Mark Tessman for 10 rounds Saturday night before knocking him out with a two-punch combination in defending his 175-pound title for the fourth time. It was the 13th consecutive knockout for the 31-year-old champion from Stone Spring, Md., who has won 30 bouts in a row since losing to heavyweight Zora Folley in 1965. Tessman, the No. 2 ranking challenge from Houston who had never been floored in 34 professional bouts, was sent crashing to the canvas after Foster connected with a hard overhand right and ended the bout with a left. Tessman, a 23-year-old college graduate, was counted out at the two-minute mark.

Two Die on Track

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Two auto racing drivers were killed in separate, track collisions on the weekend. British driver Derek Williams, 27, died when he crashed into another car in the Formula 5,000 races at the Anderstorp track in southern Sweden. The two cars collided in the first lap of the second heat. At Rouen, France, Jean-Luc Salomon of France died Sunday after a last-lap pile-up in a Formula Three race.

Eagle Gets Scare

OTTAWA (CP) — Quarterback Sonny Wade of Montreal Alouettes threw a minor scare into the camp of the Canadian Football League's all-star team Sunday when he reported in with rib injuries. But all-star coach Eagle Keys has been assured that Wade will be fit when the cream of the CFL meets Ottawa Rough Riders here Thursday evening at Lansdowne Park. Wade, who picked up the injury in the Alouette camp, is to share quarterbacking duties with Ron Lancaster of Saskatchewan Roughriders. Lancaster did the lion's share of the quarterbacking in two workouts held by Keys Sunday. Wade called a few running plays but did not throw. There was no body contact in the workouts, in contrast to the heavy scrimmage Rough Riders held in the morning. Rider coach Jack Gotta wants to start cutting down the 60-odd players he has in camp so called an all-out scrimmage. "I'll cut nine or so guys after I see the films," he said.

Breeze Blows Laver Down

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — An Australian ex-carpenter and the son of an English steel worker have brought a promise of more excitement into the second week of the All-England tennis tournament, already set ablaze by the downfall of mighty Rod Laver.

The two players adding extra spice to these unofficial world championships are Roger Taylor and Bob (Nails) Carmichael, who reached the last eight of the men's singles with upsets that staggered the fans.

Taylor, 28-year-old British professional, received last of 16 seeds, was the hometown hero for sensationally knocking Laver out of the tournament he had made his own. Dethronement of the wiry Australian was the biggest shock at Wimbledon since the championships went open in 1968.

Gusty conditions prevailed Saturday and after winning the opening set, Laver fell victim first to the breezes—he served 12 double faults on the day—and then to an increasingly confident opponent who refused to let him recover.

Laver was shooting for his third straight Wimbledon title and his 64th in 10 years. The defeat was his first at Wimbledon since he lost the 1960 final to Neale Fraser of Australia.

Taylor, whose mother taught him tennis on public courts, defeated Laver 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1 in the finest win of his career.

"There's tail a long way to go," Taylor said after the match. "But if I can beat Rod the Rocket then I must be in with a chance for the title."

Expos Finally Get Sadecki's Number

MONTREAL (CP) — Since Montreal Expos entered baseball's National League in 1969, Ray Sadecki has had their number.

Last year, Sadecki posted a 3-0 won-lost record against the Expos while with San Francisco Giants. Last winter, he came to New York Mets in a trade and earlier this year he increased his lifetime mark against the Expos to 6-0 with two victories.

Sadecki's luck ran out Sunday afternoon before 27,154 at Jarry Park as Rusty Staub clouted a two-run homer in the bottom of the eighth inning to erase a 3-1 deficit and give the Expos a 3-2 decision over the Mets.

Chicago Plundered

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pittsburgh Pirates closed the curtain on Forbes Field Sunday and it is rapidly dropping on the Chicago Cubs as well.

The Pirates celebrated the final day of baseball in their park's 63-year history by sweeping Chicago 3-2 and 4-1, tagging the Cubs with a 18-game losing streak.

It was the third doubleheader which Chicago has lost in eight days and the sagging Cubs tumbled into third place in the National League's East Division 2½ games behind New York.

* * *

"Sadecki gave a curve ball, up and over the plate," said Staub. "I don't think he wanted the pitch there."

The homer was Staub's third in four games, his 11th of the season and was also his first game-winning hit in 1976.

The Mets jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first inning on a double by Tom Agee and singles by Ken Singleton and Dave Marshall. Montreal tied the score in the bottom of the second on John Boiteman's eighth homer of the season.

Marshall's homer in the eighth inning put the Mets ahead 2-1 and set the stage for Staub's winning blast.

In the sixth inning, they had runners on first and third with no one out. Expos pitcher Carl Morton got Ken Boswell to foul out to Boiteman and then Joe Foy hit into a disputed double play.

With Art Shamsky at third and Marshall at first, Foy lofted a fly ball to left field, which Don Hahn just managed to grab. Hahn threw the ball into relay man Bobby Wine and the Expos shortstop turned and fired the ball to third baseman Coco Labby who tagged the bag for a double play.

Home plate umpire Ed Sudol ruled that Shamsky had left the base too early and had not tagged up after the catch. Mets manager Gil Hodges charged out of the New York dugout to protest the call and was eventually thumbed out of the game by Sudol.

Pitcher Carl Morton (8-5) scored his second win in three decisions against the Mets this year.

One Watt Too Dim for Orioles

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Reliever Eddie Watt tried in the late innings Saturday night and again Sunday to protect slim Baltimore Orioles' leads and both times the Orioles lost to Washington Senators.

Sunday's score was 6-3 as pinch hitter Rick Reichardt, the only batter for a two-run homer in the bottom of the 12th inning.

Saturday night, Watt came on in the eighth inning with the bases loaded and one out and Baltimore in front by a similar 3-2 score. The first batter to face him, pinch hitter Wayne Comer, promptly doubled home the tying and go-ahead runs in the Senators' 5-4 triumph.

The Orioles' leading the American League East Division dropped to 2½ games when the New York Yankees trounced Boston Red Sox 8-2 after losing the opener of their doubleheader 5-3. Elsewhere, Detroit Tigers downed Cleveland Indians 3-1 after losing 8-2. Minnesota Twins whipped the Chicago White Sox 9-1 but dropped an 11-10 nightcap slugfest.

California Angels nipped Kansas City Royals 2-1 in their first game but the Royals won 13-1 in the second. Oakland Athletics took a pair from Milwaukee Brewers by identical 4-1 scores.

Carl Yastrzemski's three-run homer off Mel Stottlemyre and George Scott's solo shot helped the Red Sox withstand late first-game homers by New York's Bobby Murcer, Thurman Munson and Ron Woods.

But reserve catcher Jake Gibbs walloped a three-run homer and Roy White connected with a man on as the Yankees won the nightcap behind Stan Bahnsen. Tom Satriano homered for Boston.

Sam McDowell won his 11th game with a five-hitter and Jack Heidemann rapped out five straight singles in the Indians' opening-game win over Detroit. Rookie Roy Foster slammed his ninth homer. Mike Kilkenny of the Tigers stopped the Tribe on six hits in the nightcap, with the winners scoring all five runs in the sixth inning against Cleveland hurlers.

The White Sox, who had lost both ends of their previous seven twin bills this season, squeezed past Minnesota in their nightcap on home runs by Ken Berry, Danny Murphy, Luis Aparicio and Bill Melton. Tony Oliva and George Mitterwald homered for the Twins, while Harmon Killebrew smacked two homers and Oliva one in Minnesota first-game victory.

The Angels, who also split remained three games behind the Twins in the West Division. Jim Fregosi doubled to set up one run and hit a tie-breaking homer in the fifth to provide the margin of victory in the opening game. But the Royals pounded out 16 hits, including a homer by Lou Piniella and two doubles and two singles by Amos Otis, in taking the nightcap.

Fights and Drugs Mar Rock Festival

TORONTO (CP) — Clashes between police and hundreds of youths attempting to gatecrash a weekend rock music festival resulted in dozens of injuries and 18 arrests Saturday.

The two-day festival at the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand also was marred by bad drug trips, with about 400 persons being treated for adverse reactions to narcotics.

It began almost as a game Saturday as police tried to thwart individual gatecrashers. But it ended with police calling reinforcements in with horses and motorcycles to disperse the crowd of about 2,500 young people outside the stadium.

The mass gatecrash attempts were organized largely by the radical May Fourth Movement as a protest against the price of admission, which ranged from $9 to $15 for the two-day concert.

About 30 persons, nine of them policemen, required hospital treatment. Among the most seriously injured were a policeman whose nose was broken by a thrown brick, and a youth who broke his leg in jumping from a wall.

Charges laid against those arrested included assaulting police, causing a disturbance, common assault, possession of an offensive weapon and theft.

Nine arrests were made Sunday, most of them on charges of causing a disturbance, but the concert's second day remained virtually free of incidents due to the combination of increased police security and a free show in a park near the festival grounds.

Many of the advertised performers did double service, performing both for the 37,000 persons who attended the two days of music in the bandstand, and the estimated 2,000 who took advantage of the free show Sunday.

The event was called Festival Express 1970.

Top-name performers include Janis Joplin, Ian and Sylvia, Traffic, The Grateful Dead, The Band, and Delaney, Bonnie and Friends.

Ottawa Gives Washington 'Warm' Send Off

OTTAWA (CP) — Vic Washington, Ottawa Rough Riders halfback, could be excused if he feels unwanted.

Washington, an all-Canadian selection last season, was suspended by the Canadian Football League club Wednesday, and team officials were apparently relieved to see the speedy back depart for home in Philadelphia, N.J.

Ottawa coach Jack Gotta said Washington had "endangered the morale of the entire squad" because he wanted no part of the team or Canadian football.

General manager Hal Clair said further discussion on the matter would be held by lawyers representing the Riders and Washington.

After Friday's practice, Gotta had seemingly forgotten Washington when he spoke enthusiastically about Joe Jackson of Northern Arizona, leading contender for the vacant halfback position.

"This kid is the surprise of the training camp. He's a burner, fast, and he's hungry."

He said the 6-foot, 185-pound Jackson "didn't look that good" early in training camp but every day he improves and really runs hard.

Gotta discounted rumors Saturday that Washington might be part of a three-way trade with San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League and Montreal Alouettes of the CFL.

"That's just a wild story made up by some . . . sportswriter," he said.

The story suggested Washington would go to 49ers in exchange for the playing rights to centre Ken Coppedlil who is at present in Alouettes training camp but under orders by CFL Commissioner Jake Gaudaur not to play until his playing rights are cleared through both leagues.

Montreal has been unsuccessful in attempting to work a deal for Coppedlil with San Francisco. If Riders obtained Coppedlil it would set the stage for another trade between the two eastern division teams.

Skrien Prefers Pre-season All-Star Game Format

OTTAWA (CP) — The first two workouts of the Canadian Football League's all-star team have convinced assistant coach Dave Skrien that a pre-season all-star game is preferable to one held after the Grey Cup contest.

"The boys came here eager to get into shape and ready to work. Skrien said Sunday in an interview.

Skrien, who will preside over workouts of the CFL dream team until Wednesday, when head coach Eagle Keys of Saskatchewan Roughriders takes over, said he had had doubts about a July game.

"But today has really convinced me I'm wrong," he said. The 32 players, four from each of the other eight CFL clubs aside from Ottawa, meet Roughriders, defending Grey Cup champions, here Thursday night. It's the first all-star game since 1958 and all previous ones were played after the regular season and playoffs.

Belleville Harness Bettors Go Over Top

No one can deny the interest aroused by the weekly Saturday night Quinte Riding and Driving Club Harness card as a crowd of 1,081 reacted to the harness bug and set an all-time record for Pari-mutuel betting at $34,606.

Although no large pay-offs were issued and a surprising number of scratches plagued the races, the bettors were nonetheless more active than ever.

Dandy Duke returned the highest pay-off of the night and also set a personal record for the mile in winning the ninth race. His time of 2.15 was the fastest of the night and more importantly fastest of the race as it paid $22.10 to win.

Lions Club Midgets Top Cats

Bill Kirkham started on the Lions mound but a 10 - hit wildness brought on reliever Stan Brooks in the second. Together they allowed only three hits while fanning nine and walking ten Peterborough batters.

Brian Cousins with three singles and Barry Culkin with a triple led the nine - hit Belleville attack. Paul Wolfe with two singles and solo singles from Jimmy Lapierre, Doug Dersnah, and Smith rounded out the Lions hitting.

Kinsmen Drop 7-5 Decision

BOWMANVILLE — Four runs in the first two innings by the Bowmanville Intermediates was good enough to provide the winning edge in a 7-5 victory over the Belleville Kinsmen Juniors.

After the winners had added another run, Belleville counted four times in the fifth inning to narrow the gap to one run, but were unable to bridge the gap.

John Noakes was the losing pitcher, yielding nine hits and four walks, while getting six batters on third strikes. For Bowmanville, k was Terry Carleton going all the way. He was reached for eight Kinsmen hits, didn't walk a man, and set ten down on strikes. Belleville errors hampered their efforts.

Brian Coughlin continued his heavy hitting for the Kinsmen, belting a homer and two singles and driving in a pair of runs. Terry Meagher was good for a brace of singles and two RBI's, while Warren Hay collecting a pair of singles and John Noakes, one.

Guy Parks was the top Bowmanville batter, banging out three singles.

Drive for Reality, Relevance Features Fall TV Programs

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The fall television season, now in production here, is characterized strongly by a drive for reality and relevance.

The networks have swept aside many taboos, and relevance is the subject uppermost in the minds of producers and performers. Nearly a dozen new shows promise to tackle such issues as drugs, campus riots and the political influence of the Mafia.

Dan August, a new police show on ABC, goes beyond the usual who-dunit to investigate the murder of a union leader and the cracking of a Negro passing for a white.

Andy Griffith, returning to CBS with Headmaster, opens with a story about a father who pushes his son to the brink of suicide.

The shows have such names as The Young Lawyers, Storefront Lawyers, Gilded Force and The Young Radicals.

Quinn Martin, producer of Dan August and the returning FBI, says:

"I think the realism we are trying to use is a breath through. I think television lags behind the movies, and will stay behind. But I think the movies have progressed so much and I think the networks and the advertisers realize you have to catch up with the times."

Norman Felton, whose accomplishments include Dr. Kildare, Mr. Novak and Eleventh Hour, is executive producer of The Psychiatrist segment of NBC's Four In One.

"We did some research into the reason why people go to doctors," Felton says. "I thought the biggest reason would be respiratory ailments. You know what it is? Loneliness. A patient may say his arm hurts or something, but he goes because he is lonely. These are the kinds of things we'll be exploring."

Hal Hobrook leaves behind his portrayal of Mark Twain to become The Senator in a new segment of The Bold Ones on NBC, replacing the police show in the three-part series. Holbrook said scripts are being written that deal with the political influence of the Mafia and the compromises a senator is sometimes forced to make to accomplish anything.

Rawdon

RAWDON — Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver visited their grandson, Jack Sills in Kingston General Hospital on Sunday.

Lyle Couch and a group of school children from Peterborough spent a few days on the farm of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Couch. The group enjoyed a banquet Wednesday evening at Mount Pleasant Rawdon Church hall when the UCW catered under the direction of the June group.

Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Messengers group convened in the church hall with Margaret Hoard presiding for the meeting. The devotional was in charge of Debbie David, Mrs. Raymond McConnell, David Jeffs and Donnie Hubel. Mrs. Stanley Williams was in charge of the tape recorder when songs pertaining to the study-book were sung. Plans were made for the evening meeting on July 8 when the UCW will entertain the Messengers.

Minto

MINTO — The district Orange Lodge service was held in St. Thomas Church last Sunday with a fair attendance of members present. Following the service, the decoration service was held in the cemetery under the direction of district master Lorne Hagerman. Rev. Saunders spoke briefly and Norman Middleton sang two solos.

Marmora

MARMORA — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brady attended the wedding of Sharon Ann Hollahd and Donald O'Rourke at Blessed Sacrament Church in Toronto on Saturday.

Tweed

TWEED — George Phillips, United Church lay supply minister at Plevna, has gone to Halifax for an eight - week course in Theology. A student minister from Napanee will fill the charge in his absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Holmes, of Vennachar, attended the recent graduation of their son, Dean Holmes, at Loyalist College, Belleville. Dean has completed his Communication Arts course, but plans to return to Loyalist College in the fall to further his education.

Doukhobor Leader's Residence Burned

GRAND FORKS, B.C. (CP) — The $30,000 home of orthodox Doukhobor leader John J. Verigin was burned to the ground early Sunday and six nude women arrested at the scene.

Police said they suspect arson and that the fire was probably a renewal of a decades-old leadership feud between Mr. Verigin's 15,000-member Union of Spiritual Communities of Christ, better known as orthodox Doukhobors, and Stefan Sorokin's 3,000 Sons of Freedom group.

An RCMP officer here said fear is growing among Orthodox Doukhobors in the Brilliant and Grand Forks areas.

Police found a beer bottle half full of volatile liquid and gasoline-soaked rags near the scene of the fire.

Interviewed in Brilliant, 45 miles northeast of Grand Forks, Mrs. Verigin said her husband was unavailable because he was busy searching for a new home.

"It has been a very hard day for us," she said. "We came to Brilliant Saturday night with all our family to attend the ceremony (the 75th anniversary of the burning of arms by Doukhobors in the Ukraine in 1895.)"

"We, of course, left a guard at home but he couldn't stop it. We are very upset. These are the old problems again."

Mr. Sorokin, in Krestova, 125 miles northeast of here, agreed that this seemed to be a repeat of violence of the 1950s and 1960s but said neither he nor his sect had anything to do with it.

"I have tried . . . to stop the people from doing this. I didn't even go to Brilliant for the celebration. We stayed home.

"There were rumors of trouble coming," he said through a Russian interpreter. "We stayed home."

Mr. Sorokin said he believes that the persons responsible are those who were involved in burnings and nude demonstrations in the 1950s.

Provincial Judge William Evans of Nelson, Doukhobor confidants, said:

"It's too bad it's starting all over again. We've had seven years of peace. It's really too bad. We could be in for problems. I think some of those women are insane. Sorokin will be very disappointed."

British Columbia's Kootenay region was hit by outbreaks of arson and nude demonstrations on numerous occasions in the early 1950s but the outbreaks died away around 1963 when about 100 members of the Freedomite sect were sent to prison for terms ranging up to 12 years on charges of arson and bombing.

New Trustee Seated

Cpl D. Brant, a councillor of the Mohawks of the Tyendinaga Reserve, took his seat last night as the 17th trustee on Hastings county board of education. He was sworn in by director of education Eric Runacres, centre, and officially welcomed by board chairman James Clarke, left, at the regular meeting at Earl Prentice School in Marmora. (For story, see Page 2.)

Troops All Out

Nixon Reports on Cambodia

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (CP) — President Nixon, reporting on the exit of all American troops from Cambodia, said today "We shall renew our efforts to bring about genuine negotiations both in Paris and for all of Indochina."

Saying that the controversial venture was a military success, Nixon declared that "we still face substantial problems, but the Cambodian operations will enable us to pursue our goals with greater confidence."

Looking ahead, he said in a 7,000-word statement:

"With American ground operations in Cambodia ended, we shall move forward with our plan to end the war in Vietnam and to secure the just peace on which all Americans are united."

Nixon's lengthy justification of his April 30 movement of troops he said were 22,000 Americans into Cambodia contained no surprises. Instead, it was his most elaborate explanation to date of why he undertook the move even though, in his words, "we anticipated broad disagreement and dissent" on the home front.

Reporting that all U.S. ground forces and logistic and advisory personnel have been withdrawn, Nixon listed guidelines for "our future policy for Cambodia."

First of all, he said, "there will be no U.S. ground personnel in Cambodia except for the regular staff of our embassy in Phnom Penh." Also, there will be no American advisers with Cambodian units.

The president reported, too, that South Vietnamese forces remaining in Cambodia will conduct their operation without the assistance of U.S. advisers or American air or logistic support.

In only one area did Nixon indicate continuing U.S. military involvement in Cambodia, saying:

"We will conduct—with the approval of the Cambodian government—air interdiction missions against the enemy efforts to move supplies and personnel through Cambodia toward South Vietnam and to re-establish base areas relevant to the war in Vietnam. We do this to protect our forces in South Vietnam."

Nixon gave no specifics on how the United States would renew peace efforts but appealed to Hanoi to "join us at long last" in that effort.

"There is no military solution to this conflict. Sooner or later peace must come. It can come now, through a negotiated settlement that is fair to both sides and humiliates neither. Or it can come months or years from now, with both sides having paid the further price of protracted struggle.

"We would hope that Hanoi would ponder seriously its choice, considering both the promise of an honorable peace and the cost of continued war. . . .

"The lesson of the last two months has reinforced the lessons of the last two years—the time has come to negotiate a just peace."

Nasser Confers With Reds

From Reuters-AP

President Nasser of Egypt began talks with Russian leaders today to decide the future conduct of the Arabs' war with Israel.

A brief announcement said the Egyptian leader met with Soviet party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny.

Brezhnev apparently broke off his vacation to be on the talks. He had been absent from official functions in Moscow for more than a week.

A United States ceasefire proposal for the Middle East was believed to be high on the agenda. While Nasser's speeches indicated Arab rejection of the peace plan, initial Soviet response has been guardedly described as "not entirely negative."

The U.S. plan announced last week was predicated on a 90-day ceasefire, a beginning to negotiations under the auspices of UN special emissary Gunnar Jarring, who is Sweden's ambassador in Moscow, and the presence of a cease-fire zone on both sides of the Suez canal.

But the Soviet response to the American peace initiative has not yet been declared, but official press comment so far has not been enthusiastic.

Premier Golda Meir said Monday Israel would not go along with a temporary ceasefire. She called for "a mutual and absolute ceasefire" and renewed her appeal to the Arabs for peace talks "without prior conditions, without ultimatums."

Maudling in Ulster On Peace Mission

Threats Ignored

BELFAST (Reuters) — Roman Catholic shipyard workers, threatened Monday and told to go home by their Protestant co-workers, returned to their jobs today.

A spokesman for the Harland and Wolff Shipyard, Northern Ireland's biggest employer, said most of the men who had gone home were back at work and there were no incidents when the day shift went on.

He said most of the Protestant workers, who make up the vast majority of the yard's 9,000 work force, were angry at those who threatened the Catholics.

Airport Pledge Made Tie to Crown Stays'

BELFAST (CP) — British Home Secretary Reginald Maudling flew into Northern Ireland today in an effort to cool the Protestant-Roman Catholic conflict which turned Belfast into a weekend battleground.

In a statement at Belfast airport, Maudling warned "there can neither be peace nor harmony nor prosperity unless there is first of all law and order."

His two-day visit follows close on the weekend explosion of violence which left six dead and 200 wounded in an orgy of gun battles and arson. It was the worst rioting Northern Ireland had suffered since last August, when 13 persons died.

Shortly after arriving, Maudling went into conference with Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark. Leader he was to meet members of the cabinet, the Northern Ireland Parliament and civic and religious leaders.

At the airport, Maudling reiterated British government pledges that Northern Ireland would not be severed from the Crown without the consent of the people of Northern Ireland.

The pledge appeared to be an effort to placate Northern Ireland's Protestant majority which fears that Catholics are trying to overturn the Ulster administration and link up with the Catholic Republic of Ireland.

One urgent problem facing Maudling is the coming seasonal build-up of Protestant religious marches which threaten to provoke Catholic counter-demonstrations—perhaps on an even fiercer scale than anything since the troubles of the 1920s.

About a dozen such parades have been cancelled, but the major Protestant parade is still scheduled for July 13. And a rehearsal for it is scheduled for Wednesday.

Another problem for Maudling is unrest bubbling up in the ranks of the Northern Ireland police.

A large part of the Royal Ulster Constabulary is reported to be demanding that its members should be re-armed.

Four Seeking Entry Into Common Market

LUXEMBOURG (Reuters)—Britain Ireland, Denmark and Norway entered into historic negotiations today on their bids to join the six-nation Common Market amid strong hopes of success.

But Britain, for one, planned to make clear at the meeting between the community's ministers and the four applicant states that the success or failure of its third attempt to join depends on whether it can negotiate fair and equitable entry terms.

Britain's chief negotiator, European Affairs Minister Anthony Barber, told reporters on arrival here from London that he believes prospects are good because he knows that all involved are entering the negotiations with goodwill.

But he added: "Whether we shall succeed or not, I do not know, but we shall negotiate with goodwill. Given the right terms, it will be to the advantage both of Britain and of Europe, if we join."

The flags of the four applicant nations flew alongside those of the six Common Market countries outside the skyscraper conference building on the outskirts of Luxembourg.

The meeting is a symbolic gathering of the countries who could become the 10 members of an enlarged European community. It has been described as a "family portrait" gathering.

Detailed negotiations on the British application will begin July 21 at Brussels, the headquarters of the European Economic Community.

The full-scale negotiations on the Irish, Danish and Norwegian applications will be held Sept. 21-22.

Forty-truck Convoy Carries Small Arms to Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (Reuters) — Diplomatic sources said today a 40-truck convoy carrying American military aid to Cambodia is moving along the main road from Saigon to Phnom Penh.

A Cambodian military spokesman said the trucks, driven by South Vietnamese soldiers, were expected in the capital today. Although he would not reveal the exact nature of the military aid in the trucks, informed sources said they were loaded with small arms, rocket and ammunition.

Meanwhile, a Cambodian military high command spokesman today said deposed head of state Norodom Sihanouk will be tried in absentia Friday by a military tribunal. The charges against Prince Sihanouk, who set up a government-in-exile in Peking, were not stipulated but it was expected that they would most likely be treason and embezzlement of state funds.

In Hyannisport, North Korea, Sihanouk today denounced President Nixon's withdrawal of American troops from Cambodia as "nothing but a Machiavellian manoeuvre of an ambitious politician intended to dupe his peaceable electors."

In Cambodia, the news of the U.S. truck convoy came just hours after about a dozen cargo planes, including several Hercules aircraft, were seen at Pochentong airport unloading crates also believed to contain arms and ammunition.

Artillery fire was heard Monday night about two miles from the eastern outskirts of the capital but a military spokesman today said there were no Communist forces within six miles of the capital.

U.S. planes and artillery pounded Cambodian border areas vacated by American ground troops as the last American advisers were pulling back into South Vietnam.

Military sources said some advisers were still with the South Vietnamese forces who are remaining in the neighboring country, but "all of the Americans will be out of Cambodia by midnight tonight."

The aircraft and artillery attacks were aimed at suspected supply dumps and base camps which American ground forces did not have time to explore before the June 30 deadline set by President Nixon for them to withdraw.

It was not clear whether the bombing and artillery would continue after midnight. The U.S. command refused to discuss the possibility that big guns installed in a series of bases along the border would be used in support of South Vietnamese troops operating in Cambodia.

South Vietnamese officials announced the withdrawal of some 5,000 of their troops, leaving 34,000 South Vietnamese troops still inside Cambodia. The Saigon government said the 5,000 troops were withdrawn after completion of two operations in which they killed 1,160 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese and captured more than 1,800 weapons and 58 tons of munitions.

The U.S. command reported the death of one American and the wounding of another in a helicopter gunship shot down over Cambodia Monday in the final hours of the withdrawal of U.S. combat troops.

Officials said this brought the total U.S. casualties in Cambodia to 339 killed and 1,328 wounded. It was the 38th helicopter lost in Cambodia, the command said.

Italian-Americans Stab Two Policemen

The mostly peaceful demonstration was marred when two policemen on duty outside FBI headquarters were stabbed with icepicks. No charges have been filed.

The officers were in hospital in satisfactory condition.

For 3½ hours the crowd waved small Italian and American flags as it listened to a succession of speakers assail the practice of equating Italians with criminals.

The most tumultuous applause came for Joseph Colombo, listed by the justice department as leader of one of six Mafia families in the city.

After the rally ended, about 10,000 from the demonstration marched to FBI headquarters, scene of nightly picketing for the last two months by the Italian-American Civil Rights League.

Police barriers were knocked over and temples ignited.

School Board Meeting Turns In to Rap Session

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Trustees of the Hastings County board of education held their regular business meeting in Marmora last night — and ran headlong into a ratpayer protest movement.

The customary messages of greetings from municipal politicians in the board and its officials gathered at Earl Prentice School stretched into a 1¼-hour "beef session".

Education taxes were the core of the audience's discontent, but politicians and people got in a crack at school busing, switching of pupils from one school to another and modern education compared with that of "the good old days".

The unscheduled presentation by 18 politicians and ratepayers in the area was led off by Reeve William Shannon of Marmora village, who expressed the customary greetings usually given by the heads of municipalities when the board holds meetings outside its Belleville office.

But Reeve Shannon is a former school trustee, who told the board he had become acquainted with modern trends in education and the department of education's philosophy during his terms of office.

Having had a "grandstand view" for several years ago of the policies now being implemented here, the reeve said he understood and was in accord with the present programs in education.

He said the present situation is no fault of the board's, the Valley now has the new department of education, and perhaps the wishes of many county councillors.

He noted that, the Federation of Agriculture is calling for council to refuse to pay their tax levy for education, but said he did not agree with that course of action.

"The province has said it will take over 95 per cent of the cost of education, but it's not going to be enough, he concluded.

Provincial grants this year comprise 85 per cent of the county board's total revenues.

The Reeve of Rawdon said he had come to listen and find learn, not to talk, and yielded the floor to Cecil Woods, reeve of Madoc township.

Reeve Woods observed that for sale signs were up on completion of his township's farms and if this cost of education continues to climb "we won't have any farmers left because they can't afford to stay."

He said that if the government had not helped out this year, the school tax would have been double that paid a few years ago when he was a trustee.

"And I don't think we're getting twice our money's worth," he added.

He hit at outdoor education, saying the idea was good, but "the cost of some of it should be the parents' responsibility."

In an apparent reference to the community student council held this spring in Marmora, he complained about children not being in the schools.

"It used to be that after the children went to school in the morning you could set your watch by the time you saw them on the streets again," Reeve Woods commented. "Now, they go to school at 9 and are wandering around the streets again at 10. It's a wonder about the cost.

Later in the meeting, in a report to the board of the pilot project in community studies, the vice-principal of Marmora Senior School said citizens and firms had donated their time and services for the program. Total cost to the board for the week of applying the learning to the actual situation in the municipality was $20.

Mr. Spry then called on women in the audience to make their thoughts known to the board, and their presentations were led off by a woman who said she was a supernumerated elementary school teacher, farmer's wife and grandmother...of two.

She said farmers receive a fixed price for their produce but haven't a fixed price for education. She also bit at busing and transportation, saying there are hazards involved, including the risk of kidnapping and traffic accidents. Children stand out for the side of the road in rain and below zero weather, waiting for the buses, and they can't reach school they are frozen or soaked, she said. "Under the old system, when schools were nearby, we used to take them to school ourselves, by car, in inclement weather.

The former teacher also called for "a better way of policing the system.

She noted that teachers today complained about the workload, but she once taught 44 children in a room adequate without adequate seating and when she was hospitalized, no supply teacher could be found to take over the school.

Three mothers in the audience rose to complain about the quality of education, systems of teaching, lack of job opportunity for young people and shifting of children from school to school, as many as three times in four years.

One mother objected to the large open-plan classroom in which the latest child was taught, saying that her boy, who was enrolled there last year, "came home with his head spinning" and the teacher said he found the open plan, confusing. She called for a separate room for each grade.

Two male ratepayers gave expression to a rumor floating about the community that secondary students in north Hawdon and Marmora townships, High School, would soon be moved to Belleville schools.

Later, assistant superintendent Frank Tate told them no transfers of students would take place within the next two or three years, and any transfers after that time would not involve north Rawdon or Marmora students.

Wes Drake objected to kindergarten children in the county Hastings area being required to attend school for a full day, instead of the half day required in other areas.

And Morsley Bateman claimed education taxes discriminate against farmers. He objected to paying taxes on his land as well as his buildings — $300 in school tax this year.

"Most rural children don't come back to the land after they complete their education, so why should we pay a tax on our land?" he asked.

After hearing the disgruntled ratepayers Mr. Spry commented that if he wanted to be successful in the board of education elections next December he would have to get the minister of education to lower the voting age.

Carl D. Brant First Indian On Board

In full Indian regalia, Carl D. Brant of the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte Band of Tyendinaga Reserve was sworn in last night as the 17th trustee on the Hastings county board of education.

His appointment was unanimously approved by the 16 trustees after the request for representation on the 150 Indian children attending Belleville schools was made by the Band council.

Eric Runacres, director of education, conducted the ceremony and administered the oath of allegiance at the board meeting held in Earl Prentice School in Marmora.

Chief Dan George of Mr. Brant said he was greatly honored by being chosen by his chief and council for the position on the board. He added, in fact, that because of his involvement with many other organizations, he would not be volunteering for committee work.

The 36 - year - old electrician is a member of the Band council and a director of the Association of Iroquois and Allied Indians. He is also his council's representative on the Reserve's five-member advisory committee which supervises operation of elementary schools on the Reserve.

At the termination of his first board meeting, Mr. Brant said he was pleased to be "a man living in two worlds."

"My first love and concern is the Band Council and I came to serve on this board only to speak for the Indian children there," he added to the Hastings county schools," he remarked. "But I realize now that every time I vote on a motion I affect the education of all Hasting's 34,000 pupils and in a sense I will be representing them too."

Mr. Brant was anxious that his appointment to the county board would not be interpreted as first step in a move to amalgamate Reserve elementary schools into the county system.

"Elementary school pupils will continue to be educated at home on the Reserve," he stated firmly.

He revealed that the practice of sending grade 7 and 8 pupils to Belleville schools will be phased out, beginning next year.

"Next fall we will keep the grade 7 pupils in Reserve schools and send only the grade 8 pupils to Belleville," he said. "This year after that, grade 8 pupils will remain at the Reserve."

In the past, Chief Earl Hill and his council have gone on record as being opposed to sending Indian children off the Reserve for schooling before they reach the grade 9 level. About 75 Indian children now attend Belleville elementary schools, and an equal number are enrolled in secondary schools.

Mr. Brant's appointment to the board is not a first in Ontario. At least one other board, in Sault Ste. Marie, has an Indian trustee, but Mr. Brant's fellow Six Nations Indians at the Reserve near Brantford have been denied representation on their county board.

The headed buckskins that the new trustee wore for his swearing in were made by his wife, using the old method of seaming the garment with invisible thongs laced through holes punched through the hides. Prominently displayed on the back of the garment is a beaded turtle, totem of the Mohawk tribe of the Six Nations Indians.

Trenton Will Foot Storm Sewer Bill

TRENTON (Staff)—An unexpected $14,000 expense which was not included in Trenton's 1970 budget, was approved by town council at a special meeting Monday evening.

Council agreed to pay for installing a 300 - foot tiled storm sewer from the end of Gould Street to the new Brett Park subdivision west of Sidney Street after a lengthy debate.

Tom Fleming and Austin Scott, two principals in the Brett subdivision development, told council that there was no provision in the subdivider's agreement for the developers to cover the cost of this sewer.

The pair stressed that they had sold all 53 lots in the subdivision without waiting for this unexpected expense and had met all the conditions of the subdivider's agreement.

Public Works Commissioner Arthur Campbell told council that his department had prepared the drawing for the ditch before or shortly after he came to Trenton late last fall.

He explained that he had assumed the town was paying for the sewer which he said was necessitated because of a drainage problem caused by the development of the Brett Subdivision.

The drainage ditch on Gould Street is to help handle the Brett Park subdivision and will have to be installed at a deeper depth, Mr. Campbell added.

He said that the matter was of some urgency because the developers planned to pave later this summer and stressed "there's no use paving if the area isn't properly drained."

Council unanimously agreed that the developers "cannot be justifiably charged for the storm sewer or a portion of the cost."

The Printed World

While Belleville's Corby Library is a popular and well-patronized establishment a question to be pondered in this age of supposedly increased leisure time is, what extent do books play a part in spare time activity?

The Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce reviews the latter-day leisure thing in its current Commercial Letter and notes that while books no longer enjoy their former predominance, they are still a major vehicle for recreation and entertainment.

The letter draws attention to the transformation of the publishing industry through the "paperback revolution" and notes that the stock of books in Canadian public libraries doubled between 1956 and 1966 to more than 20 million. At the same time, there was an increase in the rate of circulation both per volume and per head of population.

While some experts claim that books are "already obsolete or obsolescent," the letter expresses certainty that the printed word, in one form or another, will long continue as a primary means of communication and leisure.

It goes on to suggest, however, that with microfilm and other miniaturization techniques, economics may well dictate that both publishers and libraries avail themselves of such techniques.

For example, to save costly storage space, books "could be quite literally printed on demand from a text stored in the memory bank of a computer."

Such a technique might be in line with the times, and with the needs of economics and efficiency, but it could not compare with the pleasure that reading a book affords. A book is a priceless possession, a fountain of knowledge and enjoyment which enters the lives of all of us from the early days in school. We trust it will ever be thus. It is true that as with other media the contents of a book can express ugly things, but by and large literature has within its pages the best of man's creative endeavors. As Oscar Wilde put it: "With flowers, books and the moon who could not be perfectly happy?"

Teens in Decline!

A further interesting point made in The Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce's Commercial Letter is contained in a reference to the impact of teenagers and young people generally on the leisure market.

"While the young will continue to exert considerable influence in the future, their relative importance is expected to decline. Teenagers at present constitute about 20 per cent of our population. By 1980, however, they are expected according to Economic Council of Canada estimates, to comprise only 17 per cent."

Looking at the huge sales of such products as record players, radios, musical instruments, the letter suggests that many firms in the teen market have built their growth with nostalgia to the 1960s as the heyday of youth." On the other hand it sees the balance being redressed to some extent by earlier retirement and the participation of older people in the leisure market.

With all this emphasis on leisure we sometimes wonder does it really exist. Is it a factor for example in the life of the medical man or the politician, or of any professional man? And if increased productivity is a factor in beating inflation then why are both labor and management not putting in longer hours to that desirable end?

Leisure? For some it may be increasingly a reality. For others, it is only a myth.

A Cow for Rent

A farmer can rent the land he works — but has anyone ever got into the renting of animals sphere of agriculture operations? If not, businessmen "down under" can claim a first with the establishment in Auckland, N.Z. of a company to rent cows to farmers who cannot afford to buy a herd.

The scheme, known as "lease a cow," operates on the principle that a retiring farmer does not sell his herd but leases it to the company which in turn leases the animals to newcomers to farming.

This novel aspect of cattle raising has been worked on a trial basis for a year and is said to be going well. It has the advantage too of letting a fellow try his hand at the business and getting out quickly if it does not agree with him.

The Misadventure of the Bonaventure

How to Get Rid of $10 Million of Our Money

BY RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Quiet, please. Do not disturb.

Tranquillity at Parliament's Public Accounts Committee is resting in blissful peace.

Herewith the story of Stage Two of the de-escalation of its fevered excitement over the discovery and debacle of how the Defence and the old Defence Production Departments mis-managed to waste $10,000,000 in refitting the aircraft carrier Bonaventure, now outward bound for the big marine boneyard in the sky.

You will recall the initial estimate for refit of the Bonnie was $6,000,000.

Then Auditor General Maxwell Henderson, in toting up the bills, revealed to the consternation of the Government and the two departments, and the astonishment of the Opposition, that the total tab read $18,000,000.

Here was something just too big to sweep under the rug.

Here was something for Parliament's own resident bureau of investigation, the Public Accounts Committee to probe.

Solemnly swearing to get to the bottom of this suspected pork barrel, point fingers, name names and hit heads regardless where they may, the Committee got down to endless months of work.

Although the committee is dominated by the Liberal majority and directed by Conservative MP Alfred Hales who is as amiably reasonable as to be almost supernatural, it made it sound like it meant business.

Forecasts of tough findings and stern — even disciplinary — action came alike from Grit and Tory.

And good as its word, out came the Committee with a unanimous report, actually naming names, two deputy ministers and four senior civil servants, recommending they be disciplined.

Then, within hours, the backoff began.

Deputy Committee Chairman Thomas Lefebvre said there had been no disciplining of the two deputies recommended.

And having the grace to look embarrassed — what else could the Tory Chairman do in the face of the mind-changing Liberal majority — Alf Hales agreed.

Ah, but hold. To the Tory rescue rode Conservative Whip Thomas Bell proclaiming that he would move a double motion in the Commons:

1. That the House concur — that is accept and approve — the committee report.

2. That Treasury Board President Bud Drury — at the end of the spending spree on the Bonnie the Defence Production Minister — be censured.

But there was only more backoff.

Instead of moving for House approval of the report, Mr. Bell instead first moved a routine motion of concurrence — the Government's Bonnie book, which, in essence, merely begged about "bad show."

And there was no whisper of any formal censuring of Bud Drury.

Highlights of the three hour discussion of the Bell motion — the House ran out of time and reached no decision, took no vote nor any other action — was not a spanking for Bud Drury, the two deputies or the four bureaucrats — but weirdly, a bemoaning of Alf Hales by Privy Council President Donald Macdonald for having the temerity to blame bureaucrats.

Backoff followed backoff.

Just as weirdly, next day, Alf Hales protested that he had not blamed the bureaucracy, the committee had.

Donald Macdonald apologized — at least that is how Alf Hales interpreted it — and everyone blessed and made up.

Imagine! What a naughty boy little Alfie Hales was as chairman letting the Committee and Civil Service twists.

But that cost the sorry end of the sad affair.

Finally, Tom Bell moved his motion for concurrence — approval and acceptance — of the Committee report. Or, more accurately, Mr. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux called such a motion which had been standing in Mr. Bell's name for a month.

A hah! This was it! The crunch! Day of bureaucratic reckoning!

But instead of moving his motion, when called upon by Speaker, Tom Bell, as ever the gallant, withdrew it because, he smiled, Don Macdonald had been such a thoroughly decent sort in "apologizing" to Alf Hales.

The games MPs play!

"What could we do?" shrugged Alf Hales, "can you see the Liberal committee majority giving the concurrence?"

Not really. For Alf Hales to have tried to force it through could have cost him his chairmanship of Public Accounts. There had been an earlier Liberal move to give him the boot. He was spared then, but the threat was clear.

He does the best he can as a minority Conservative committee chairman — which, to be honest, is pretty good.

With the Public Accounts report sunk without a trace, is the business of the Bonnie buried in Davis Jones' Locker?

Alf Hales swears no.

Pledges that next session he will have the committee call those two now-forgiven deputy ministers and four bureaucrats and, as to what — if anything — they have done or had done about all that waste, extravagance, negligence, incompetence, indifference, indolence and worse that costs you $10,000,000.

Hah.

Conservation in Africa

UNESCO Features

Assistance in ecology and conservation is to be made available to Black African countries through the Unesco Field Science Office for Africa at Nairobi, Kenya.

Kai Curry-Lindahl, a leading Swedish conservationist, who has already worked in the Congo, has been sent to Nairobi to serve as regional expert. Part of his job will be to help countries set up national parks and biological reserves and to protect archaeological sites. Training in ecology will also be promoted.

Mr. Curry-Lindahl is director of the Department of Natural Sciences of the Nordic Museum in Stockholm and has been a lecturer in conservation at the University of Stockholm. He led the Lund University Expedition to the Congo in 1961 and worked at the Institut pour la Recherche Scientifique en Afrique Centrale in the Congo (Kinshasa). In 1956, he directed studies of ecology in Swedish areas threatened by hydroelectric plants.

With him as an associate expert is Dr. Hartmut Walter, a German zoologist, who has taught bio-geography at the University of California in Berkeley. A specialist in ecology and planning of national parks, he worked in Morocco before the government to establish a reserve for the Eleanor's Falcon (named after a mediaeval Sardinian princess) that breeds in southern Morocco.

Getting Away from It All

Beauty Amid L.A.'s Smog—and Iceland's Primeval Scene

Richard Needham in
The Globe and Mail

Right now, Los Angeles has a population of about seven million, and is said to be heading on another million every three years. Why limit this growth? L. A. still isn't as big as Tokyo, London or New York. The reason is smog — the increasing air pollution caused by an increasing number of people driving an increasing number of cars. Environmental experts claim the only solution is to stop people from moving in, to keep L.A. to its present size, or even reduce it.

What a hope! As between living hazardous life in Los Angeles and a state of no return say, South Dakota, many Americans would elect — have elected, in fact — for the City of the Angels. Perish of smog they may, but what a way to go, and in what delightful surroundings. Better five years expectation of life amidst the palms and the orange groves, than 10 or 15 years among the blizzards. So they flock to and Midwest, and doubtless will continue to do so until the metropolis spreads all the wayover to Palm Springs, all the way up to Santa Barbara, and all the waydown to San Diego.

Why does a city attract people? In Los Angeles, as in Toronto, affluence, high wages, job opportunities are a big factor.

Los Angeles has magnificent surroundings. Everything for everybody all year round, from golf to skiing. If you have a car (and everybody in L.A. has a car) you're in quick reach of deserts and mountains, rich valleys and magnificent beaches where the big rollers pound in from the Pacific. It's an outdoor - living botanical — an sub-tropical version of British Columbia.

Los Angeles—has a social atmosphere too, which is easygoing. Inevitably, one must contrast it with New York, where you can cut the tension with a knife. Not so in L.A., courteous, take time out to chat, where waitresses seem to take genuine pleasure keeping your cup filled with coffee.

I wouldn't call L.A. an expensive city. A comfortable room in a respectable downtown hotel can be had for $6; meals cost about the same as in Toronto; entertainment is free in a community made up of all the colors and races on this earth — Chinese, Japanese, Mexican, Italian, Negro, the works. It's a paradise for people - watchers, and there are beaches everywhere to do it from.

Lastly, I'd say that Los Angeles is as kooky as you've been led to think. The tinsel is real tinsel, and the asphalt lawn an authentic shade of green. In store windows are signs saying (and meaning it) God Bless You Hippies; little old ladies chug around in electric - powered minicars; the streets are so long that houses have numbers like 23597; one highway has a drive - in palmist; and close by the celebrated - Farmer's Market is a hotel called the Farmer's Daughter, whose cocktail bar is entitled — now I'll say! — the City Slicker Room.

Before the days of long-range jets, many trans-Atlantic planes stopped to refuel in Iceland. Their passengers rarely saw more than the bleak view from the airport.

In spite of its name, Iceland has a temperate climate. Frost and snow come only occasionally to the southern coastal area and Reykjavik, the capital.

Iceland has a wild primeval beauty; its name, translated, means the Place Where Land is Made. The constant struggle for survival has produced a strong, gentle people with serene faces; they are supremely happy with their homeland.

Geysers, of course, are favorite tourist attractions. Inland stand, cameras at the ready, waiting for the next spout at predictable intervals. Some of the sulkier ones can be coaxed into action with a dose of soap powder.

This is great country for hiking and camping and there are signs both in farming country and in the wild, uninhabited centre part proclaiming campers. Dotted throughout the country, too,are huts for the use of travellers who may be stranded by bad-weather, or far from human habitation. Hiking, or travelling with pack ponies is the best way of getting around.

There are no railways, street cars, trolleys in Iceland, although there is regular bus service on the growing network of roads. Because of the sparse population, the mountains, glaciers, lava fields, rocky coastline, there is no traffic. Until the beginning of this century, travel was mostly by horseback, and you still see many Icelanders trotting across the fields on their sturdy little horses, a bit bigger than Shetland ponies, a bit smaller than Welsh ponies. The main means of travel is the airplane.

On summer days, the light is dazzling; colors are bright, the air is fresh with the smell of rain that always seems to be hovering on the horizon. On summer nights, the paler sun casts an eerie glow over this moon-landscape. In June and July, the sun is above the horizon for as much as 23½ hours a day.

Finishing Touches

Steve Cornell, 17, of Wilcoxnsin, a member of Project Christopher, polishes a fire truck as part of his contribution to the cleanup campaign taking place in the Picton area yesterday. The project is an interdenominational movement consisting of those wanting to help others in an effort to create understanding among people.

'Christopher Kids' Descend on Picton

PICTON (Staff) — Picton police station was alerted yesterday when 80 teenagers closed ranks to "clean up" on the town.

Youth groups involved in Project Christopher, an interdenominational movement similar to the Peace Corps, checked with town police to secure a job list during their visit to Picton.

Teenagers from across Canada and the United States joining Project Christopher this week are billeted at the Oblate Fathers seminary on Wauppos Island. With the island as their temporary headquarters these enthusiastic young people are taking part in a local clean up program aimed at community development.

"The goal of our project," says 17-year-old Steve Cornell, Wisconsin, "is to use our work to get acquainted with people and to get people acquainted with us and our ideals. We want to create understanding among people," added Mr. Cornell.

Originated in 1960 by a Montreal priest, Father Brayley, Project Christopher is steadily expanding each year. About 150 teens are working on Wauppos Island this summer compared to 89 just year. The 'Christopher kids' range in age from 15 to 18 years and come from diversified backgrounds.

Each teen taking part in this travelling brotherhood must finance his own trip. A cover cost of $150 per student is required. Grants made by the Canadian government assist the youths however.

Gathered in the Picton fire hall to polish the brass on the engines were teenagers Carla Lefeben, Ottawa, and Mike Hutse, Appleton, Wisconsan, aided by group leader Sister Roberta Steiner, a teacher at the John F. Kennedy Prep school in Appleton. Several other teens reported back to the fire hall after completing clean-up tasks they had discovered on Main Street.

Asked about the public's reaction to Project Christophers' "something for nothing" philosophy, Steve Cornell replies, "Our welcomes vary from doors slammed in our faces to open armed greetings. People can reject us or they can be very thrilled." Members of Project Christopher expect to spend today in Belleville where they will again offer to assist residents with cleanup jobs at all kinds. Most of the young people working in Picton yesterday plan careers in social work using Project Christopher as the first step in a lifetime of service to mankind.

Planning Area From Belleville To Brighton

Creation of an Artist

Prince Edward County artist Joanne Cunnington, owner of The Old Schoolhouse Pottery located about two miles from Picton, displays some of her creations. The craft shop is now open and informal classes will be held for summer visitors wishing to learn the art.

Pottery Studio Open for Season

PICTON (Staff) — Lining the shelves of The Old Schoolhouse Pottery "little brown jugs" fashioned by Prince Edward County artist Joanne Cunnington stress a theme of doing your thing.

The pottery, located in Greenbush about two miles from Picton, was opened last summer by Joanne and her husband Ray, newcomers to the county from Montreal.

This week, the unusual craft shop swung back its doors for a second tourist season.

Built in 1877 the Schoolhouse Pottery was in constant use as an elementary school until 1967. Since that time the one room building has been gradually renovated and equipped by Mrs. Cunnington as a ceramics studio. The petite artist spends most of her spare time fashioning unique jugs, ashtrays, hanging pots, candleholders and vases from clay.

Each piece is glazed in varying shades of green, blue or brown for added beauty. Unlike molded pottery, no two pieces are alike and great skill is required to produce sets of bowls, mugs, or dishes that look similar.

Joanne, "Everything I make is very tactile so if the people touch the pieces I experience satisfaction. When I am making a certain piece I feel something. When someone touches it I have communicated and this is important in what one is doing."

Brightly draped near Joanne's pottery displays a re lengths of silk screen prints designed by her 25-year-old daughter, Francine, a student at the Sheridan College of Design, Port Credit. Colorful terry cloth beach shifts and ponchos patterned in silk screen provide gay companions for hand-woven bags and ties also made by Francine.

The Old Schoolhouse Pottery will remain open daily throughout July and August with informal classes held often for summer visitors wishing to try their hand at creating pottery.

Wallbridge Road Work Nearing Completion

With the establishment of Loyalist College on Wallbridge - Loyalist road in 1968, the amount of traffic using this route increased.

With the increase, the surface became rough and during the spring, dangerous.

Work commenced in 1969 to improve the surface and last year a new bridge was constructed, the road was widened and the surface hardened in preparation for paving.

That was the north end.

To the south, the conditions remained the same and numerous complaints were laid

Most of these were centred on the railway crossing to the south of the creek. Unmarked and surrounded by trees and buildings in the distance, the crossing presented a hazard which on occasion saw near misses. That problem has all but been resolved. The first equipment for the crossing arrived on Thursday, April 30, and the rest of the crossing was recently installed.

Since April, resurfacing, widening and relocating of the road has been moving ahead and the old roadbed is no longer in use.

The cost of regrading of the approximately one - half mile of unfinished road north of Highway 2, the application of hot mix pavement over the entire 1.8 miles, and the installation of an automatic signalling device at the CPR crossing has been estimated at $66,950.

Hastings - Belleville Suburban Roads Commissioner Harry Morrow announced plans to complete the Wallbridge - Loyalist Road on January 22, 1970.

The budget for this year was given at a total of $114,000; $82,000 being for new construction. Suburban Roads Commission expenditures are in addition to regular county road costs. The city shares equally with the county on these costs, and Belleville's estimated expenditure is expected to be $28,402.

Pollution Probe Team on Tour

By HARRY GRILLS
(Staff Reporter)

This year's summer season could be remembered as the year that an active fight against pollution began, especially in the Quinte area.

Yesterday afternoon two Toronto Pollution Probe members arrived in Belleville to discuss their plans for pollution prevention education in the resort areas of Bancroft and areas possibly closer to Belleville.

The duo, Ed Thompson and Susan Newman, will spend the entire summer in the area, specifically to fight water pollution.

Mr. Thompson explained that teams of two people had been organized by the Toronto Pollution Probe and had been dispatched to resort areas in Bancroft, Haliburton, Muskoka, Georgian Bay, Parry Sound and the Kawartha.

The team will speak to children's camps, people at resorts and trailer camps, and will work with college students.

The news of the Toronto Pollution Probe's project broke at the same time as the announcement by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and the province's 20 community colleges that they will hold one-day teach-ins on pollution across Ontario Oct. 17.

David Archer, president of the 500,000-member OFL, told a news conference the purpose of the teach-ins is to stimulate establishment of pollution - fighting citizens' groups, like Toronto's Pollution Probe, in communities across Ontario.

"We want to make people see that pollution is their problem too and they can't just blame industry or government," Mr. Archer said.

The OFL has promised $10,000 to organize the teach-ins and expects to raise about $20,000 more in donations from local labor councils. Facilities for holding the teach-ins will be made available on the 30 campuses belonging to the 20 community colleges, who will also provide many of the experts expected to speak.

Dr. W. J. Bowen, president of the Association of Community College Presidents said the pollution teach-ins are the first Ontario-wide service to the community to be performed by the colleges.

Mr. Thompson and Miss Newman had more details on their project and the past experience of the horror of pollution before them.

They spoke of major water pollution, of bacterial pollution and of lakes that had been closed.

"It's the responsibility of the cottage owners themselves to stop pollution," Miss Newman said. "It's obvious that some lakes can't hold more cottages. Cottage owners can pressure neighbors. They can form associations."

The pollution probe people will use audio-visual aids in their presentations as well as a number of expert speakers.

Mr. Thompson and Miss Newman hope to realize an idea in which they will use a grey van as a medicine show and present medicine shows in various parts of the area. Clean water would serve as the health - giving elixir.

The pollution preventers will warn citizens about such things as phosphate detergents and pesticides. They will also recommend such rules as buying drinks in returnable bottles as opposed to cans.

Even minor rules like the pollution factors presented by pastel - shaded toilet paper — the dye in it is a hazard — will be considered.

The pollution concern brought to this area is timely for the Belleville Pollution Probe, which organized and operated a Moira River clean-up Sunday as its first anti-pollution project.

Gordon Johnston, an official with Belleville's organization, told The Intelligencer, about the adventurers he and his workers had during the weekend cleanup.

Mr. Johnston explained that 50 to 60 people were on hand to clean, up the six miles of the river from Corbyville to and including parts of the shore of the Bay of Quinte.

He said that of the 50 or 60 workers only 10 were adults and all of them had a direct interest in the river, being yachters and people that lived on its banks.

The workers collected more than two tons of garbage and prizes were offered to the people who found the strangest prize. The winners were two people who found a parking meter and a toilet bowl.

Everything was on the bottom of the Moira even, in fact, a kitchen sink.

There was a refrigerator, a 50 - foot cable and several assorted car parts. Bottles and cans were prevalent and several parking signs, shopping carts and a manhlid were included in the loot.

"Everybody was cut and bruised. There was lots of glass," Mr. Johnston said. "One girl had to have tetanus shots."

He estimated on an approximate count that 4,000 cuys were lifted from the river's depths. The workers labored from 10 in the morning until 4.30 in the afternoon.

KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Does your youngster smoke? You may not know. In the early stages of the habit, it is likely to be secretive.

I recall that my first smoke as a kid was some dry grass loosely rolled into the form and of a newspaper. Much later I graduated to Sweet Caporals and other enticing brands, mostly made and inviting.

We had our occasional tobacco parties in back of the barn. My weekly consumption averaged about one cigarette. Soon I tired of it, as did the other kids.

We didn't have television in those days to mesmerize us into believing that smoking a cigarette was akin to manliness.

Not until I was a freshman in college did I begin to smoke regularly. Mostly a pipe. I smoked moderately — pipe, cigarettes and cigars — until about six years ago. I quit cold when I became convinced that the cards against the smoker were stacked. Some win, others lose — either in comfort, good health or length of life.

I ask myself what chance the modern youngster has against succumbing to the tobacco habit. Think of the pressures exerted against his will by the millions spent in advertising tobacco.

I think you will be interested, as I was, by a recent survey conducted by Dr. Eugene E. Levitt, professor of clinical psychology at Indiana University School of Medicine. It rests on information obtained from 18,000 pupils in the fifth through the twelfth grades (11-18 years old) in the Indianapolis schools. Here are some of the findings:

Whether parents smoke or not seems to have little effect. The most important factor seems to be peer-group influence. If their friends smoke, they are more likely to do so. Boys smoke more than girls, while both smoke more as they grow older.

Smokers as well as non-smokers are aware of the health dangers. Among those who never smoked 94 per cent agree that smoking is bad for the lungs. Of the smokers, 91 per cent agree. Sixty-nine per cent of non-smokers recognize it as being bad for the heart. So do 63 per cent of those who smoke. (As in adults, kids don't seem to be scared by warnings or potentialities for later illness.)

Of the entire group of pupils, 9 per cent smoke every day. 12 per cent smoke regularly but not every day. 40 per cent have tried smoking but did not continue. 33 per cent have never smoked, and information was not available on 4 per cent.

Those who smoke every day consume about three and a quarter packs a week. More than two - thirds of the pupils' fathers and half of their mothers smoke. Slightly more than one - third of the pupils report that most of their friends smoke, and three out of 10 say that their best friend smokes.

For those who smoke every day, 85 per cent have best friends who smoke. Among non-smokers, only 19 per cent have best friends who smoke.

At grade five, fewer than 1 per cent regard themselves as smokers. (No more than 1 did when I smoked dried grass.) But smoking increases to 11.5 per cent in the eighth grade and rises to 31 per cent in the 12th grade.

Among the entire sample, 25 per cent of the boys and 16 per cent of the girls smoke. Regular smokers consume an average of two packs a week, whether their parents smoke or not. There seems to be no magic answer. My own hunch is that TV advertising is the culprit. Youngsters are at the mercy of TV's daily appeal and insufferable impact.

Some Medals Never Awarded

At impressive formal ceremonies in the East Wing of the White House, President Nixon recently awarded the A. K. Medal of Liberty to a half-dozen distinguished journalists who have fought for freedom in their long careers.

Included among them was Random Q. Forensic, 88, an editorial battler for human rights in the 1930s, when he vigorously opposed Social Security, Federal Bank Deposit Insurance, the Civilian Conservation Corps, the National Housing Act, the establishment of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Federal Communications Commission, and the right of illegitimate children in the public schools.

Standing side by side with this gallant defender of freedom was Hector Proudfoot, 91, long a time Washington columnist, who is noted as the man who alerted the American public to the fact that Hitler was no menace to the Western world, and indeed served as a bulwark against the inroads of atheistic communism. He also predicted that if we allowed the Nazis to have Poland and Czechoslovakia, Europe would achieve "stability" in our time.

A third winner of the coveted Presidential award was Lamont Miasma III, recently deceased, who was given a posthumous prize for his patriotic advocacy of the Spanish-American War.

As publisher of a chain of newspapers in the Rio Grande Valley at that time, Miasma urged us to help the Cubans throw off the yoke of Spanish oppression, flatly denying that he had an interest in American investments there), and further urged that the Cuban people would thus forever remain friends with the United States.

By no means ignoring the more dramatic side of journalism, the President also pinned a medal on Amy Woodford Fraxham, 82, for her long and celebrated career in covering some of the most momentous events in contemporary American history.

Who can forget her graphic and poignant "ringside" stories at the trials of the Spokane Strangler, the Pittsburgh Poisoner, the Kansas City Kidnapper, the Baltimore Butcher, and her gripping interview with a possible suspect in the Minneapolis Wife-Killer case? I, for one, can not.

And of course, no observance of merit in journalism would be complete without recognition of Turbid J. Sopworth, 94, editor of the weekly news journal, "U.S. Nostalgia and World Regret," whose smashing editorials in favor of slavery, capital punishment for strikers, and dropping the bomb on the Kremlin have been so widely reprinted throughout South Africa and other friendly nations. You might say that decorating Sopworth was the epitome of the whole dazzling affair.

DDT Ban Exposes Queen to Skeeters

OTTAWA (CP) — A curious combination of circumstances may threaten the Royal Family with being eaten alive on their visit to the Northwest Territories and Manitoba July 8-15.

For the first time in years, communities in North haven't attacked mosquito and blackfly dens because DDT is banned and malathion, the alternative is too expensive.

Early July is probably the worst time of the year for the mosquitoes and flies, which attack in strangling droves and leave itchy, maddening welts.

The Queen obviously can't wear net hats and boots, and insect repellents aren't all that effective against the superbugs. However, a commercial variety has been selected for the Royal Family.

"It's going to be a hazard—probably THE hazard," says anaesthetist C. A. Van Vliet who will accompany the Queen's surgeon on the tour in case of trouble in isolated areas.

On a dry run recently, planners found the insects already hyper-active. Sir Martin Charteris, the Queen's secretary, was particularly hard hit.

"It's much tougher on people who aren't used to it," says Dr. Van Vliet.

Ontario Changes Holiday

Over Half Factories Open Dominion Day

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The modern trend to make statutory holidays part of a weekend appears to be especially strong in Ontario.

The Dominion Day holiday Wednesday, which may be the last under that name, will be just another working day for many Ontario workers.

In other parts of Canada — particularly Manitoba, which is celebrating its centennial year — wholesale turnouts will be seen at golf courses, parks, beaches and highways.

But in Ontario about 60 per cent of provincial factories will be open, M. E. Howard, director of employment standards at the Ontario department of labor, said Monday.

During the last two weeks the department has granted thousands of requests for permission to hold the midweek July 1 holiday either on the Monday just gone or Friday. At General Motors in Oshawa, 25,000 plant workers will take Friday off.

Manitoba will be the Dominion Day capital with an invasion from Ottawa led by Prime Minister Trudeau and about 20 members of his cabinet.

A cabinet meeting will be the first held in Western Canada and only the fourth held outside Ottawa. Its purpose is to mark Dominion Day but all the Manitoba programs planned have a tie-in with the province's year-long centennial celebrations.

A private member's bill to come before the Commons would change the name of the holiday to Confederation Day, but it would still be held July 1 even if that date comes in the middle of a week. The Commons justice committee approved the bill April 9.

Prize Winning Fruit!

Mrs. Jane Becker displays some of the preserves which she exhibited in competitions held at her home in Riverdale, South Africa. She has won a number of cups and other prizes for her baking skills and horticultural exhibits. Mrs. Becker is visiting her son in Belleville, her first visit to Canada.

African Visitor Has Many Talents

Having a "green thumb" is just one of the accomplishments of Mrs. Jane Becker. Not only has she won awards for floral arrangements but she has also won six cups for her entries in competitions in the Southern Cape Music and Art Festival involving preserves, baking, sweets and pastries. She also won the most points in the show.

Mrs. Becker, who is from Riverdale, South Africa, is visiting her son, Cecil Becker and his family who reside in Belleville. They have lived in Canada now for six years. She stated that this is her first visit to Canada and she is quite impressed with the country. Mrs. Becker plans to stay for a number of months.

On Saturday she visited the horticultural show in Belleville and was impressed with the high standard of the exhibits, especially the fuchias and roses. She is a member of a horticultural society in South Africa.

She will be addressing the Belleville Horticultural Society in the near future and hopes to display a number of exhibits at the Quinte Exhibition.

Mrs. Becker has given several demonstrations at home and hopes to continue on with her 40-year-hobby which she inherited from her mother.

"Everything she touches seems to turn out well," said her son. This is a quality which every horticulturist the world over must certainly envy and admire.

Secretaries Tour TAS Building

the last get - together of the season for the Quinte Medical Secretaries was held recently at the Telephone Answering Service Limited, Belleville. On entering, each girl was greeted personally by Mrs. Lorraine Scott and Mrs. Lois Toth. From the manager's office of old barn siding, Ralph Morton took the group on a tour of the building and explained the function of TAS and its facilities. It was most interesting to see the switchboard in action and to understand how the answering is done.

After the tour, the secretaries enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Morton at their home.

START AROUND PAPER

When hailing a dress or knitting yarn, start the ball by wrapping it around the wrapper that came around the yarn. Then, if you run out of yarn before the garment is completed, you will know exactly what kind to buy.

Social Status for Frankfurters

Stuff and wrap your franks to raise their social status for a guest meal. Mary Moore tells you how to add this chef's touch to make an economical but enjoyable meal.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

An Economical Dish Using Frankfurters

By MARY MOORE

Often a short paragraph is inserted in readers' letters telling me they especially appreciate my budget recipes.

Waiters-or franks as they call them in Kansas -- come under the economical category, but I do not give them enough space here.

Here is a little story that will surprise you. Your wandering cook went to a big league baseball game between the Kansas City Royals and the Baltimore Orioles. You see Marianne had bought tickets which included the 35 minute bus ride from Fort Leavenworth and admission to the ball park for a Father and Son baseball outing. But Herbie had to be in Victoria on the day -- April 26th -- so, knowing I liked baseball Marianne knew I would like to be Danny's "father" so I rode with about 190 officers with their sons in a convoy of three army buses to Kansas City. Fifty-five thousand happy spectators were in attendance and your correspondent bought eight-year-old Danny everything the hucksters were selling: peanuts, popcorn, chewing gum, root beer and hot dogs -- and I ate them all too and do you know that hot dog was good.

All of which leads up to Franks -- Stuffed and Wrapped, because they can be cooked in the oven or on your barbecue.

FRANKS -- STUFFED AND WRAPPED (serves 6)

One 12-pack frankfurters or wieners
12 slices bacon cut in half crosswise
¾ cup buttered bread or cracker crumbs

TUESDAY

Dinner Menus

Broiled Sausages; Applesauce; Creamed Corn; Spinach; Celery Hearts, Radishes, Gherkins; Apple Tapioca; Coffee Hard Sauce; Tea.

WEDNESDAY
(Dominion Day Cookout with Guests)

Franks Stuffed and Wrapped (see Tuesday) OR Hamburgers (see Monday for Burger Buns); Sliced Tomatoes and Cukes; Four Bean Salad; Strawberry Shortcake (see last Saturday); Coffee.

1 tbsp. prepared mustard
2 tbsps. chopped parsley or chives
2 or 3 tbsps. water (see note)

Split franks lengthwise almost through and spread open. Combine crumbs, mustard parsley or chives and water. (NOTE: If you use cracker crumbs use 2 tbsps. water.) Spoon about 1 tbsp. of this mixture into each split wiener. Wrap near each end with half slice bacon and fasten each strip of bacon with a toothpick to prevent filling from falling out. If to be baked in oven place on rack in broiler pan and bake or broil at 400 deg. Fahr. until bacon is sizzling but not crisp -- about 8-10 min.

If you intend to cook these on your barbecue I would suggest using 3 half slices bacon to completely wrap franks and confine stuffing so it will not fall out when you turn them over. Ideal for Dominion Day Cookout.

I thought these were very good and will add a new method of preparing the ever present wiener.

Incidentally the Orioles won 11 to 10.

Recipe For Meat Loaf Brings Flood of Mail

DEAR READERS: I swore I would not print another word about that bloomin' meat loaf recipe, but then along came a letter informing me that Ann Landers' meat loaf took first prize in a contest in New Orleans. The news seemed too good not to share — especially after a reader in Michigan said my meat loaf was so lousy even the dog wouldn't eat it. So, I publicly pinned a rose on myself and while I was at it, decided to give credit to the person who had given me the recipe in the first place — my sister, Mrs. David Brodkey of Omaha.

ANN LANDERS

Now Mrs. Brodkey isn't speaking to me. In fact, she isn't speaking to anybody. She is not answering her telephone.

It had sent out thousands of copies of the recipe and was sure that every housewife in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Tokyo and Bangkok who wanted it, had mailed for it.

I was wrong. When Mrs. Brodkey's name appeared in the column she suddenly became the most popular woman in Omaha. No address was given, but that didn't discourage the meat loaf lovers. Her mailman is exhausted. He keeps asking, "Where in this going to stop?" Letters have arrived addressed to Ann Landers' Sister, One letter was addressed: Meat Loaf, Omaha. Readers have sent her cash, cheques and money orders. Along with hints on how to improve the recipe, she has received requests to publish a cookbook. "It would be a best seller," wrote Mrs. S. of Bangalah, Washington. You could call it "Ann Landers' Sister's Cookbook."

Almost everyone who wrote said, "I don't want to bother Ann Landers . . ." Letters requesting the meat loaf have been sent to the Brodkey Jewelry Company. A relative in California whose maiden name was Brodkey called to say she has been asked for the recipe.

A Texas reader, Marvin Cox, sent a song called Ann Landers' Meat Loaf. It should be sung to the tune of "I Love Paris." Here it is:

I love meat loaf in the morning . . .
I love meat loaf late at night.
I love meat loaf on a platter . . . doesn't matter . . .
I love meat loaf in the Navy, topped with gravy.
I love meat loaf stuffed with raisins . . .
It tastes good with ice cream cones . . .
I love meat loaf . . .
Why do I love Annie's meat loaf?
Because it has no bones.

I hereby take an oath on Julia Child's head that you have heard the last of my meat loaf. If anyone wants the recipe, please get it from a friend. Do Not write to Mrs. David Brodkey, or to the Brodkey Jewelry Company or to me. I have had it. — ANN LANDERS.

This Mother Asks for A Whole Day Off

By DORIS CLARE

Dear Doris: I wonder how many husbands ever thought their wives might like (especially with small children) One Day Off Duty A Year. For four years now I have said I don't want a gift on Mother's Day — no flowers, candy, etc. Just one day off duty a year. No meals, no kitchen mess, no things lying around to pick up, no notes from the children, just one day to do what I feel like free from wiping noses, putting on sweaters, rocking babies, changing babies.

So far I've made it to noon (breakfast in bed and breakfast dishes done). Then instead of cutting up with a good book and having lunch and supper (and dishes) and children attended to, I ended up at the helm again.

Most husbands have two days off a week. I haven't had a whole day off in six years. I wouldn't trade places with anyone in the world, but perhaps there are thousands of other mothers like me who would like One Day Off A Year instead of a material gift. — Tired Mother.

Dear Mother: Maybe you can start something. After all, any person who is under stress should strike for more than just the one day off a year.

* * *

Dear Doris: Is it not proper to give a gift only to those who graduate from grade XII?

The wife says if you give one, you give all. This is a mixed marriage. The others graduated with cigarettes early in life and didn't even make Grade VIII. Caused a lot of trouble breaking windows, stealing cars, etc. In and out of courts, etc. Knew it all. — Wondering.

Dear Wondering: Would your wife ban all graduation presents? I'd say the fellow who stuck with the studies deserves a special pat on the back. A gift is a good way to do it.

* * *

Not that you asked the others, if they can be helped out of their law - breaking habits, lend them a hand. A mixed marriage might not have started them off with the best in security or self-confidence.

* * *

Dear Doris: My only daughter is 18 and training for a nurse. She comes home every week end and the reason is that the other girls are going out on dates and she isn't. It seems the boys just ignore her. Oftentimes she pretends to be sick so get out and going somewhere. She has no confidence in herself where boys are concerned. — Help!

Dear Help!: Don't let her beg off sick. Lacking brothers and sisters, your girl hasn't had enough to do with the opposite sex to take them in her stride.

Encourage her to bring a girl friend home with her; see if you can't lure a member of two of the opposite sex around for dinner partners.

When she wants to stay house from any kind of affair, feed her an aspirin and get her going. Encourage a new hair-do, a new dress, and let her know you think she has something on the ball.

You learn to mix by mixing.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Father: "I will we never had gotten a sandbox. All Danny and his friends do is load the sand into their little trucks and dump it in the yard. Why can't they build sand castles or just dig in the sand?"

Father: "If you want to haul your sand around in your little trucks, don't dump it on the lawn. It will kill the grass. Dump it in this box and then we can put it back into the sand box."

Imaginative children are likely to think up inconvenient ways of using toys and play-yard items. Instead of always curbing the youngster's imagination, use your own to make the playtime harmless.

U.C.W. Meeting

COLLEGE HILL UCW

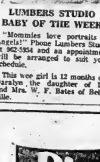
Recently a small number of UCW members met at College Hill Church to enjoy the tasty food and the fellowship of a potluck supper prior to their monthly meeting. Following the clean - up period, the president proceeded with the usual opening.

Several matters of business were discussed. The supply allocation to the Angoni Mission was received. The annual tea and bazaar date was set for Thursday, November 12. The decision was made to sponsor a hat or fashion show early in October, provided this can be arranged with a local business. Mrs. Carolyn Emerson was appointed to attend to the details.

Assistance for a forthcoming wedding dinner was solicited. A letter was read to announce a training school at Quin-Mo-Lac on Sept. 11 13 with the theme, "Trends in Our Church.",

The worship service took on an Indian theme and was conducted by Marilyn McIntosh and Mrs. R. Veney. The writings of Pauline Johnson, in verse and prose were read and an Indian version of Psalm 23 followed the singing of appropriate hymns.

With the absence of the program conveners, several contests were given.



The next regular UCW meeting will be on September 16 when it is hoped a goodly number will be back in attendance.

Guidelines on Wages Introduced Too Late Says Stanfield

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government's wage-restraint ceiling policy had been introduced too late, "almost as if to prove that guidelines couldn't work," Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said Monday.

Mr. Stanfield told a news conference the six-per-cent guideline on wage and salary increases has not been accepted by Canadians and has not given the appearance of being fair.

It was intentional, he said, as an "11th- or 13th-hour move that hasn't carried conviction."

Although he has favored, establishment of national guides, Mr. Stanfield said, he feels the six-per-cent level is unrealistic. He would not, however, suggest an alternative figure.

Mr. Stanfield said guides, perhaps even lower than those now set, should have been introduced before the beginning of negotiations which have recently resulted in settlements that have shattered the government's proposed ceiling.

He said that in dealing with inflation "we have to be determined and steady in our efforts but we have to be humane."

Criticizing the level of unemployment in the country, he suggested it is weakening the determination of Canadians to fight inflation.

"There is no particular evidence," he added, "that increased unemployment is leading to an acceptance of smaller wage increases."

After eight months of public discussion of the white paper on proposed tax changes, he said, the government has yet to make an important change in its proposals. Asked whether the Conservatives would fight bill the way if the government proposes new tax legislation without amending the white paper proposals, Mr. Stanfield gave his briefest answer: "You bet."

Mr. Stanfield said the party is setting up "policy probes" to investigate and report to him in the fall on key issues.

The five issues to be studied are: Housing, urban affairs; pollution; consumer protection, and economic growth and stability.

Alvin Hamilton, former minister in the Diefenbaker government, will be chairman of the urban affairs study, Dr. James Gillies, dean of administrative studies at York University, heads the investigation on employment and economic growth.

Lincoln Alexander, Conservative MP from Hamilton West, will be chairman of the housing study; Howard Graffley, former Conservative MPP, and Bill Armstrong, an acting party worker in Toronto, will head the consumer protection study; and Gordon Aiken, MP for Muskoka —Parry Sound, and John Fraser, Conservative candidate in Vancouver South in the 1968 election, will be in charge of the pollution study.

Holiday May Limit Postmen's Rotating Strikes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians may gain some relief from postal strikes this week because the postmen must work both today and Thursday in order to qualify for Dominion Day holiday pay.

The latest in the series of 24-hour rotating strikes ended Monday night when about 5,800 postal workers in areas of British Columbia, Alberta, Ontario and Quebec returned to their jobs.

Bob McGarry, strike director for the Toronto area, raised hopes of a pause in the strike action in noting that postmen must report to work on the shift before a holiday and on the shift immediately after the holiday in order to collect holiday pay.

The rotating strikes have been used by the Council of Postal Unions, representing 27,000 postal workers, as a means of putting pressure on the government during continuing contract negotiations in Ottawa. The talks have been deadlocked on the issue of wages.

The latest walkouts involved about 1,500 men in Ontario, 600 in Quebec, 900 in Alberta and about 2,000 in Greater Vancouver, Kimberley and Cranbrook, B.C.

About 50 Ontario centres were affected including London, Sarnia, Chatham, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie and North Bay. The flow of mail through Toronto International Airport was halted.

Quebec City and Levis were hit in Quebec and Calgary and Lethbridge in Alberta.

Because of the stoppage at Toronto International Airport, first class and air mail destined for Western Canada and the Maritimes was stockpiled. But mail for Ottawa and Montreal, normally handled by air, was sent by surface carriers.

In Calgary, postmaster Alex Shred said workers in the sorting centre will be asked to work overtime to reduce the backlog.

But Bob Kempton, president of the Calgary local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said no overtime will be worked because letter carriers would have abnormally large loads if sorting was increased.

"I'm not sure I care THAT much about losing weight."

Iroquois Confederacy Asks for Recognition of Nationhood

BRANTFORD (CP) — The Iroquois Confederacy from the nearby Six Nations Indian Reserve has released a proclamation asking the Canadian government for full independence and recognition of its rights as an autonomous nation.

The confederacy seeks:

—Restoration and preservation of self-government by hereditary confederacy chiefs;

—Restoration and preservation of land, minerals and water rights under treaties;

—Preservation of culture, tradition and language;

—Prevention of entry of federal law enforcement agents into Indian territory;

—Recognition of previous treaties.

The points are to be dealt with in negotiations with the federal government.

Chief Coleman Pewless said Sunday the confederacy has rejected an offer from the federal government to meet with Jean Chretien, minister of Indian affairs, but will talk to any other government officials.

The Iroquois warriors, who, with the hereditary chiefs form the confederacy, seized the reserve council house last week and proclaimed the reserve an independent nation called Grand River Country.

They claim the confederacy has always been an independent nation and that this status was recognized by the Crown as early as the 18th century.

The chiefs were ousted from power in the 1920s and replaced by an elected band council, the only governing body the federal government recognizes.

Chief Pewless said the crisis "is very serious." But added that the Warriors have been urged to keep the peace "and not give the police any reason to come in."

Gambling in Britain Goes Puritan Wednesday

LONDON (AP) — From bingo to baccarat, gambling in Britain goes puritan Wednesday—shorn of Playboy bunnies with plunging necklines, music, cabaret, dancing and gangsters.

Britain's czar of chance is Sir Stanley Raymond, chairman of the British Gaming Board.

"We are trying to lay down a pattern for legalized commercial gambling in this country on a scale which does not exist in any other country," he says.

Biggest targets are Britain's 1,000 casinos, a mushrooming phenomenon of the 1960s which grew through loopholes in a badly written attempt to give legal sanction to home or boniface club gambling.

Beginning Wednesday, instead of 1,000 casinos scattered over the islands, there will be fewer than 200 concentrated in 38 geographical areas. The rules are so tough that about half didn't even apply for a license. Less than half who did got turned down.

BC to Force Refunds for Cans

VICTORIA (CP) — Tin cans made in British Columbia, for beer and soft drinks will lose their privileged status under the province's Litter Act beginning Aug. 15.

Conservation Minister Ken Kiernan told a news conference Monday that cans made in B.C. will eventually be treated like all other containers under the act, passed at the last session of the legislature.

The act requires merchants to offer a two-cent refund to customers for beer and soft-drink containers. Mr. Kiernan said the regulations are being amended to limit the number of empty containers to 18 for any one customer on any single day, instead of the unlimited number permitted now.

Cans made in B.C. were originally exempted from the two-cent refund provisions because can producers feared they would be put out of business.

However, Mr. Kiernan said that effective Aug. 15, a person returning a B.C.-made can will be entitled to a two-cent credit for the container. After next Jan. 1, he will be entitled to a refund in cash.

The minister said the changes are being made following complaints from bottlers that manufacturers using cans would have an unfair advantage.

Tweed

TWEED — Judy Hurst of Harrowsmith, who graduated recently from Albert College, Belleville, was one of four recommended for an Ontario Scholarship. Miss Hurst was presented with an award for making the highest mark in Grade 13 English and drama and received the Women's College Guild award for the highest standing in school scholarship and social life.

Mrs. Lorne Lloyd and daughter, Laurie of Northbrook, left Thursday for a vacation trip to London, England and Rome.

Three-way Governing Of Universities Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — Equal representation of academic, government and community interests on provincial university coordinating committees is proposed in a university-sponsored report as the best means to clear away continual suspicions.

Based on a 15-month review of relations between universities and governments, the two-man report, published today, says secrecy and uncertainty about the role of the university in society characterizes the administration and financing of higher learning in most provinces.

It proposes that existing university councils should be reconstituted by law with power to co-ordinate university programs in each province.

"The chief purpose of the kind of agency we recommend would be to elaborate and supervise a master plan for universities," it says.

A second section proposes the federal government's role in financing universities be ended and compensating tax revenue shifted to provincial governments.

The report, published by the commission on relations between universities and governments, was financed by a Ford Foundation grant of $150,000. It is the work of Donald Rowat, professor of political science at Carleton University, Ottawa, and Rene Hurtubise, vice-rector at the Montreal campus of the University of Quebec.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For July 1

Your birthday today: The year should challenge you to learn greater self-reliance. Your view of the world widens to include many things that you missed before. Your interest is toward self rather than involvement. You will need extended leisure. Use this time to regather your intuitive forces and work out your own philosophy. Today's natives are inclined to follow several kinds of work at once. A student of unconventionality is normal.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Exchanges of property are possible. A short journey brings results and a new interest. Sentimental periods go well in the later hours.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Use today's spirit of energy to do something about your person, clothing, hairstyle. An open and suddenly taboo on a novel solution to an old problem.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Listen to the advice of people longer on the job than yourself and take it somewhat as a reproach. Consultations on health, confidential matters are favored.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Today could be the beginning of a three-week personal improvement campaign. Make permanent the good things that are going on. There is something to celebrate this evening.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Be sociable, make life more enjoyable for everybody. Seek introductions to recently arrived neighbors. Find a small party this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Pay attention to older people. You can attract beneficial interest now. Today is very promising for efforts at legal settlements, conferences, filing of papers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Your friends are trying to be helpful. Turn to the most important chores first, and concentrate down to the more minute details. For the evening: good music is a necessity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Partnership matters work out rather well. Questions involving distant people get answers from novel sources of information. Write a quota of pale pleas.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Today you meet much enthusiasm and assistance. Group financial actions are more likely to prosper. Take home something nice for your loved ones.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 20): Your attention for the coming three weeks should focus on ways of making more effective co-operation from others. Meditate on where you have been short of your goals.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 19): Exchanges of property come more readily today. Get in as many details of your regular work and seek such interests as you can, while the energy flows well.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Use this completely wholesome spirit of day to meet people halfway. A good listener and helping hand with friends and family. Sentimental interests advance.

For July 2

Your birthday today: "Be organization" describes the coming year. All your resources are subject to growth and conversion to more usable form. Liquidate projects which are beyond your personal management. Your memory of special information, long neglected facts will stand you in very good stead in the complex times ahead. Today's natives place great importance on home life and usually are very good mothers.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Your temptation is to act on insufficient information. Make your decisions late, or better, tomorrow. Your family situation is the most likely focus of the next three weeks.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Doubt and disorder are avoided by adhering to routine. Accounts and correspondence are quite mixed up, so check for accuracy as you proceed.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): All types of people with fancy schemes are around now. Your first impulse is not necessarily the best one today. Think twice before making any commitments.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Don't fight the crosscurrents of confusion today — let people discover for themselves that they live in their glass. Your own plans can advance more readily later.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Personal problems have no place in your career, so let them lie unspoken. Do exactly what is needed and no more. If you catch up on delayed work you will earn praise and goodwill.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Your friends rally around but misunderstand your situation. Give them time to review their ideas, while sticking to your own careful schemes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Your sense of humor runs into temporary delays, bottlenecks today. Negotiate carefully with an eye to the future; postpone personal projects if need by.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Now is not the time for even minor revisions. Reflect overnight or perhaps longer on any project proposed today. You may react more abruptly than people can follow.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): You will be glad later you resist the temptation to speculate today. Further details are missing in the schemes of mail - breaking friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 20): Your skill at reorganizing meets a challenge now as some unrealistic pressures come apart. In the evening hours you can achieve considerable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 19): Bear with temporary setbacks, interruptions, return to your original plans as soon as you can. Much can be done despite unsettling conditions early in the day.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Stay with settled routines in preference to experiments, particularly with money. Something is going on which makes for both high comedy and serious concern.

All 'Negotiate'

By ROSEMARY SPEIRS

TORONTO (CP) — Non-medical staff at Toronto Western Hospital voted Monday to leave their jobs to attend a conciliation meeting next week in an attempt to reach a higher wage settlement from the hospital.

Pat Murphy, president of the Canadian Union of General Employees, told a union meeting that, although hospital workers in Ontario are forbidden by law from striking, it would be legal for all the hospital staff to join the meeting July 6 as members of the union negotiating team.

Youth Jailed

TORONTO (CP) — A 17-year-old American youth was sentenced to 30 days Monday when he pleaded guilty to assaulting a policeman during a melee at a rock music festival Saturday.

Richard A. Lindner of West Seneca, N.Y., was one of 28 persons who appeared in court on charges placed at the festival on Canadian National Exhibition grounds. Many were remanded to July and August for sentencing.

Environment Council Will Be Recommended

OTTAWA (CP) — The Science Council of Canada is preparing to advise that its federal government set up an environmental council on the short-term and long-term effects of man's impact on the world around him.

Many questions about the agency are still in the discussion stage but informants said Monday that the council will give notice of its intentions early next month.

One possibility is that the Council will make a special report to Prime Minister Trudeau outlining its views of the needs for and purposes of a special environmental agency.

Air, water and other forms of pollution are only a small part of the problem as currently envisaged by the Science Council study group, doing spadework for the Council's debate on the subject.

A major factor in population growth and the optimum population for this country.

This is a particular interest of Dr. O. M. Solandt, Science Council chairman, who is publicly on record as saying Canada in the next two years should decide what the optimum population should be and take steps to keep it there.

Manitoba Speaker Faces Question of Principle

WINNIPEG (CP) — A crucial vote on compulsory government automobile insurance will probably come late next week in the Manitoba legislature and a general election appears to hinge on the outcome.

"If the bill is defeated or doesn't get out of committee we will go to the people," says Premier Ed Schreyer.

The Speaker's tie-breaking ballot has already been used twice on the insurance bill, first to defeat an Opposition motion to defeat the bill for six months and again to give the bill second reading.

The Conservative Opposition now is pearing for the possibility that Speaker Ben Hanuschak could take his seat as a private member in committee of the whole house, where the government normally would be one member short, and vote to present it for third reading.

If he breaks with tradition and does this, he will face a motion of censure from the official Opposition. Conservative sources say a rough draft of the censure motion, has already been considered.

Excluding the Speaker, the NDP has 28 members against a combined opposition of 28 in the 57-member legislature.

After the Speaker broke a tie last week, the bill went to the public utilities committee where the government has a two-member majority. After hearing upwards of 100 briefs and dealing with any amendments, the committee chairman will send the bill back to committee of the whole.

At this stage the Speaker is normally absent from the house and his deputy takes the chair, reducing government floor strength to 27 against a combined opposition of 28. The Speaker voting as a private member could force a tie, to be broken by the chairman.

If the Speaker does not vote with government in committee stage, the bill could justify debate in the committee room before it's trooping to the polls.

"It is a decision only he can make," said Premier Ed Schreyer in an interview. "Nobody can ask him to do it and nobody will."

The premier notes that although there are no precedents for a Speaker voting in committee, there are no rules against it.

Fearful of Crowds

Council Shoots Down Planned Festival

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

City council, brushing aside cautions against undue hysteria, taxidermy and warnings it was poorly-informed, last night opposed opening Belleville to a one-day peace festival.

An overwhelming majority of council lined up behind Mayor Russell Scott as he led opposition to the Belleville Peace and Brotherhood of Man Festival, sponsored by the Black Cultural Workshop.

Mayor Scott, protesting there was "no suggestion of racism" in what he claimed was mounting public reaction against the festival, was vocal and voting support from eight councillors for a motion requesting the city parks board rescind permission to hold the festival.

The hour-long debate, tinged with acrimony, saw Ald. Paul Russell, parks board chairman and Ald. Don Soutter, arena and property commission chairman, fruitlessly try to turn the flow of tears evoked by the festival—through city traffic problems to crowd control and concern for the contacts festival goers might make.

"What does this mean for other events that come to Belleville?" the woman councillor demanded. "... That we must be an insular community?

"Does this mean that any event that might involve young people must be cancelled because they can't be trusted? Is this what your decision means?"

Silent spectator to the controversy was John Kehoe one of the festival's organizers. He left the council chamber following a brief chat with the event's founders after council's decision.

Prelude to the debate was an attempt by Ald. Russell to sway council away from an immediate decision. He sought to be called on "intelligent debate" at a special meeting of council, parks and recreation board, and the Black Cultural Workshop representatives.

Ald. Soutter supported such a session.

He believed "much of the hysteria" surrounding the event had been caused by people not being fully aware of its details.

Festival organizers he felt should have an opportunity to outline their program and plans.

"If we're going to have a true, sensible, logical, reasonable discussion on this, we can do it better by having a special meeting," he advised.

The talking manoeuvres was turned down on the same vote count that passed the mayor's resolution — 7-3, with Aldermen Russell, Soutter and Jeffrey the minority.

Traffic Chairman Ald. Arthur Keegan seconded Mayor Scott as the final back to the ned discussion.

Mayor Scott said he had received more concern and communications on the issue than "probably on any other matter that has come up."

Citizens objecting too the festival were sincerely concerned, he said.

"These were no suggestion of racism or otherwise in our good community — and it was a pleasure to realize that. And I hope the question is not involvement that is suggestrained. Because that is not the ed."

The mayor feared the event it widely advertised in Southern Ontario and the northern US might draw crowds well exceeding the 4,000 estimated.

"I don't believe today, with the mobility of people, you can estimate the numbers of people that will arrive. What do you do if there are 10,000 . . . 20,000 that do arrive?" he queried.

City police had a force of 43 officers for duty. On a holiday weekend, traffic conditions caused by such an influx could result in an emergency situation.

In such a situation it would take the Attorney General to declare a state of emergency.

The mayor then produced a letter which he said was "typical" of letters he had received from concerned Bellevillians.

"And these are not crank letters. They are not racist letters . . ."

He identified the letter only as written by an Ann Street woman.

"These gatherings," advised the letter, "in other communities result in anything but peace."

It warned against the "countless thousands of oddballs, hippies and peaceniks" that would converge on a city with the police resources to control possible rioting.

The city had sufficient problems without adding to them, the woman concluded, appealing to the mayor to use his influence to veto the festival.

Mayor Scott emphasized the city could not handle any major crowds attracted by the festival.

"We have a nice community. We have enough problems . . . with our own young people. Why add to it?" he asked.

"We don't have any problem here with our black, colour or other, that I've heard of," added Mayor Scott.

Ald. Keegan, whose traffic committee also produced a resolution suggesting council object to the festival, believed the event could draw 75,000 to 100,000 people to Belleville. Many of them would want to travel around Belleville to view the city.

Such a crowd might need 200-300 extra police reinforcements to control.

Ald. Soutter cited the workshop's stated purposes of the festival — an outline that emphasized stimulating peace and brotherhood among all races.

The outline states: "We want to show youth that there are more things in life than drugs, materialism and delapidation, whatever is in".

Ald. Soutter said parks and recreation authorities had reached a decision to permit the festival only after lengthy discussions and inquiries.

Organizers had agreed in limit the sale of admission tickets so crowds could be controlled.

Since the festival was planned for a Sunday, he foresaw no "insurmountable" traffic problems.

"I take particular exception to the letter the mayor read," added the alderman. "This is not a festival or an activity or happening for hippies or oddballs."

Instead it offered an opportunity for young Bellevillians to participate.

It would be to think we're going to classify 2,000-3,000 young people of this community . . . as oddballs and hippies."

The festival was "a well-organized, well thought-out project" and criticism b a been from people unfamiliar "with what is going on," said Ald. Soutter.

Ald. Jeffrey said city parks and recreation representatives don't "legislate through hysteria or fear" but from facts.

Neither Mayor Scott nor Ald. Keegan had been present at a June 13th committee meeting where the festival decision had been reached, said the alderman.

"You're making your decision on what you're guessing went on," she added.

Ald. Jeffrey also rounded on the woman whose letter the mayor had quoted.

The woman had not read the brief presented by festival organizers or taken the trouble to find if the parks and recreation committees had screened the proposal.

Yet, she feels free — as do others in this city — to condemn or characterize what is going to happen," said Ald. Jeffrey.

"We're sincere, dedicated people, trying to do a job for the city of Belleville. With all the facts in front of us we decided the festival should be given a chance."

Ald. Ben Corke also queried the crowd estimates of the festivals.

"Why do we have to face this problem? Surely, a farmer's field between here and Cobourg would do just as well.

Ald. Corke said he was concerned "where these people are going to go at 11 o'clock at night."

"I think it's a great pity we were ever asked to have — if that's the right word — this event," he added.

The alderman said some parks board members had assured him there was an "inherent danger" to the festival.

He believed few Bellevillians were interested in the festival. Yet they would be saddled with a "clean-up" charge in loss of crowd control and traffic problems.

Ald. Gerald Joyce said council should be concerned about the city's own young people. He felt the city's own recreation commission could just as well organize youth dances and events.

"We're going to have more people from outside the community and we don't know their habits or whether their intentions are good or bad."

He was also concerned where the crowds went after the festival closed.

"I don't think we're going to look too hospitable if we cannot find a place for them to sleep — particularly if it starts to rain."

Mayor Scott said he questioned members of the committees on the festival and demanded Ald. Jeffrey retract her earlier statements.

"We cannot be concerned about the purpose of this. We must be concerned about the results of this—what can happen. This is the point in question," stressed the mayor.

"I do think the hazards are too great for us to gamble as a community and as a council.

Ald. Soutter charged that neither the mayor nor aldermen Keegan or Corke had articulated what the "clear-cut danger" of the festival was.

"I object strenuously to this kind of statement being made — not only to influence members of this council, but this community."

The sizable majority voting with the mayor were aldermen Corke, Ireland, Joyce, Keegan, Orr and Smith.

After the Vote

Disappointed Kehoe Leaves Belleville

The Belleville Peace and Brotherhood of Man Festival died quietly aidhere this morning.

It's end came at a special meeting of the city parks board in the wake of last night's city council objection to the festival.

The board "with regret" advised John Kehoe, of the Black Cultural Workshop's representatives organizing the festival, that the event could not now be successfully held in Belleville.

"We mutually decided it was advisable to cancel it," said Mr. Kehoe later.

Pursuing the issue further would only detract from the spirit of the festival," he indicated.

"When you have to force it, it's not really worthwhile. You might as well forget it," he said.

Today's meeting was the sequel la last night's 7-3 council vote suggesting the parks board change its decision permitting the Aug. 2 festival at the Quinte Exhibition Grounds.

Mr. Kehoe, who has been organizing teenage dances in Belleville for two years, was called from Toronto yesterday to have present at today's meeting.

The end of the festival came in two resolutions adopted by the parks board.

Stated the first: "With regret this board must advise the that present circumstances appear to make a successful holding of their festival in Belleville impossible and that they should be advised accordingly."

In the second resolution the board recognized "legitimate interest and concern on the part of city council. . ."

At the same time it "regretted that council did not see fit" to meet with the board and festival representatives. This would have produced "fully-informed answers" to council's questions.

"This board regrets," concluded the resolution, "that council's decision was made without the said opportunity and on incomplete information."

Mr. Kehoe prepared to leave for Toronto today after silently witnessing council's opposition to the festival at city hall last night.

"I'm really stunned at this point, because this was not anticipated in my own mind," he said after the deciding discussion with parks board representatives today.

Mr. Kehoe spoke glowingly of the support and interest shown by board members.

They had conscientiously researched and investigated every aspect of the festival scheme, he said.

"They realized the benefit of it, and I can only speak extremely highly of them.

"Had their proposal been approved, Belleville would have been the recipient of a cultural and educational seminar festival that would have brought much prestige and esteem to the city of Belleville."

Protests against the festival were based on misinformed opinion, said Mr. Kehoe.

"I'm rather disturbed by the people who voted against it in council — I doubt very much whether they read my brief (on the festival)."

Among the misconceptions was that the festival was a rock-music event, he said. It was a seminar festival planned for all people, regardless of color.

The idea originally was only conceived by the Black Cultural Workshop, of Toronto.

"It could have been such a very beautiful thing to happen . . ."

"If Jewish people were to hold a circus, certainly people wouldn't think the circus was to consist of nothing but Jewish culture," he said.

"We one bothered to consider the immense benefits — only the problems. Certainly there are problems. But they could have been surmounted."

Mr. Kehoe said festival plans to date already had cost money but he was "not prepared to even begin to calculate it."

"Rescheduling the festival elsewhere would be complicated.

"You just don't say: 'Move it to another city.' It's too involved."

"It could have been such a very beautiful thing to happen . . ."

Alderman Says Welfare Cases Not Sent Here

Hastings County municipalities are not steering welfare recipients toward Belleville, Ald. Robin Jeffrey told city council last night.

Her statement came in a report to council on an investigation into a report that a welfare recipient had been encouraged to move from Trenton to Belleville.

The investigation was made by herself, Ald. Jack Ireland and Hastings County welfare officials, said Ald. Jeffrey.

Welfare recipients are not to ville come from a wide area, she said.

And, as city appointees to the county welfare committee, neither herself nor Ald. Ireland had ever found facts to "substantiate the apparent belief of some that outside municipalities in Hastings County are encouraging their welfare recipients to move into the city . . ." added Ald. Jeffrey.

The investigation was touched off when Ald. Keegan told council two weeks ago he had been approached by Richard Deshane with the hope of finding a house in Belleville.

Ald. Keegan said Mr. Deshane had been advised to move to Belleville where housing was available and subsequently ended up living in a tent with his family.

Ald. Jeffrey said the case actually was a Bellevillian who earlier had moved to Trenton for a job, and had found himself again unemployed some time later.

While he was in Canada Manpower office in Belleville a man seeking beside him had suggested he see Mayor Scott about a house.

The man subsequently told the inquiry that statements he had made before Mayor Scott and Ald. Keegan had been "misunderstood and misinterpreted", said Ald. Jeffrey.

Replied Mayor Scott: "I can assure you that this visitation to this recipient was not solicited in any shape or form."

The complainant had read over his statement, even deleting a name before signing it, he added.

City Wants to Buy Zwick's Island Land

The price of land, — even if it's only a dump — can run high.

Particularly if it's in a prime recreation area — like it is east side of Zwick's Island.

For several years the waterfront area has been a city land-fill project, used as a city dump, but projected as a city park resource.

The land is owned by the federal government and the city is anxious to complete its purchase.

The federal transport department is prepared to recommend the sale, Belleville harbor commissioner Don Barrett informed council by letter last night.

But, Mayor Russell Scott warned, the 35-acre site was now prime land. An adjacent acreage sold to the current Four Seasons hotel project had been given high evaluation by the department.

If department evaluators placed a price of several thousands of dollars an acre on the site, Belleville would have difficulty making the purchase, he said.

However, he believed department officials were "reasonable people" and proposed action be taken to ensure any transaction be agreed to acre of the land for park purposes.

Council Seeks OWRC Ruling

Clarification of an Ontario Water Resources Commission ruling, crucial to operation of a new Belleville - area highway service centre, is being sought by city council.

Involved is a type of Gulf Oil to truck sewage through Belleville to the disposal plant serving the city.

A letter from the OWRC received yesterday puzzled council members as to whether permission hinged on completion of a current enlargement project of the disposal plant.

The city's traffic committee has proposed that — if the OWRC approves the Gulf request — the company use a truck similar to a gasoline tanker with a minimum capacity of 4,000 gallons.

Narrow Escape

Three Prince Edward County men escaped uninjured from this car owned and driven by Donald Nelson, 22, R.R. 9, Picton, yesterday afternoon when it overturned two miles south of Picton on the Waupoos Rd. Don Gordour Thompson, Picton, and Henry Marshall, R.R. 9, Picton, escaped unhurt with the driver. Damage to the vehicle was estimated by a spokesman for the Ontario Provincial Police at $200.

UCS Emphasizes 'People Business'

People are the United Community Services most important asset business, the agency's new executive director, Isidore Cooperman told city council last night.

The UCS exists not only to run an annual campaign for the city's social service agencies, said Mr. Cooperman as he introduced himself to council.

"We are in the people business and are concerned with everything that involves the lives of people."

Mr. Cooperman has had an active career in social work in the U.S. and Toronto.

A basic task before the UCS is to determine an audit of community social resources.

The agency must determine if these resources are sufficient, outdated or duplicated. If there are unmet needs of

"We should also determine if there are unmet needs of existing agencies there are no community resources," he said.

The UCS can also serve as a communications link between all individuals and community organizations, said Mr. Cooperman.

He was introduced to council by UCS president, Robert Ord.

Tag Sales Lagging

Dog days have hit Belleville's dog tag sales, city council was told last night.

As a result, city council last night instructed city manager J. R. Reynolds to examine the situation along with the Ontario Humane Society, which looks after city's animal control con tract.

Ald. Ben Corke noted that previous to the 0ct5 contract two years ago, the city's own dogcatcher sought out dog-tag revenue.

Mayor Scott warned the city was losing a considerable amount since tag sales did not apear keeping pace with population.

The situation also was unfair to citizens who conscientiously purchased dog tags, the mayor indicated.

No Support For Motion

An attempt to bring Hastings County board of education to city hall to explain its expenditures before city council died a swift death last night.

Seeking the move was Ald. Arthur Keegan.

A motion presented by the alderman requested the board's city hall presence to "explain and justify . . . the high administrative cost and salaries" of the board.

The attempt expired when Ald. Keegan could find no councillor to second his motion.

Mayor Scott said he would have supported the motion, but he was precluded by his position as chairman of the debate.

Finley 'Seals' Bid for Hockey Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Just because Charles O. Finley is the new owner of Oakland Seals, don't expect the National Hockey League team to start wearing white skates to match the white baseball shoes Finley's Oakland Athletics wear.

Not right away, anyhow.

"White skates are out right now from what I've heard the governors say," Finley said Monday after his $4,300,000 bid for the ailing Oakland franchise was accepted over a comparable offer by rodeo-skating promoter Jerry Seltzer. "One governor told me they'd be fine but the fans in his building would wave handkerchiefs instead of the players."

Getting Finn in Oakland's building is Finley's first project. He is the third owner of the financially-troubled team in as many years and his investment "paid off all of the franchise's outstanding obligations and left a modest excess," said Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL.

Campbell said the Seals will be owned officially by Charles O. Finley and Co. Inc.

The Seals joined the NHL in 1967 when the league doubled in size by awarding six franchises at $2,000,000 each. But the club never attracted enough support to pay its bills.

A year ago the team was sold by San Francisco Seals Ltd. to Trans-National Communications Inc. of New York for $3,400,000. The new purchaser defaulted on scheduled payments and the original owners, headed by Barry van Gerbig, sought redress in the courts for resale, with Finley a prospective purchaser.

Trans-National fought the van Gerbig group's move to regain possession with a restraining order and also filed a bankruptcy petition, which is later asked to have dismissed.

"If I thought white skates would increase attendance from 6,000 to 10,000," said Finley, "I might consider them."

Finley first stepped into the sports picture a decade ago when he purchased Kansas City Athletics. After a turbulent seven years spiced with several civic battles, Finley moved the team to Oakland after the 1967 season.

"I looked into possibly buying the Seals then," he said, "but didn't pursue it because the A's were just moving and I wanted to concentrate on baseball at that time."

Finley outfitted his American League baseball club in flashy uniforms which feature kelly green and gold color combinations—"my favorite colors." He said he expected to use the same colors for the Seals.

"You know," said Finley, "many people refer to my operation in baseball as flamboyant. I like to think of it as colorful. Regardless of what you're selling—baseball, insurance, hockey—you've got to put color into it.

"If people think a colorful uniform is flamboyant, then it's too bad. I like color and my players like their uniforms."

Finley said he believes the main problem in Oakland so far has been in the area of promotion.

"I believe in making fans feel wanted and appreciated. I want fans to feel entertained at a game—during the periods and between them too. But I learned in baseball that you can have a lousy team and no matter how much promotion you do, it's impossible to bring on a funeral."

Finley, 57, said he plans to move his family to the Oakland area. That overcame one of the main objections to his bid because the board of governors was in no mood to accept absentee ownership for the floundering Seals.

McLain Can't Lose Opener

DETROIT (AP) — Denny McLain can't be a loser in his second debut Wednesday night.

He may lose the game against New York Yankees at Tiger Stadium, but he will have the built-in excuse that he needs a couple of weeks to get in the groove following a three-month suspension for association with persons said to be involved in bookmaking operations.

But, if Detroit falters during the two-week span beginning tonight, any designs of gaining the East Division title of the American League are virtually wasted.

Detroit lies in third place, 7½ games behind first-place Baltimore and five behind the Yankees, the Tigers' opponents in a three-game series beginning tonight.

McLain joins the team Wednesday for the first time since Commissioner Bowie Kuhn suspended him April 1.

He is scheduled to go right to work, pitching against New York's Guy Walland.

If he loses, or lasts just a few innings, the expected crowd of between 40,000 and 50,000 is likely to be understanding, on the grounds that McLain may need more time to get on the right track.

Track Team Faces Warm-up

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian track and field team, en route to the Commonwealth games in Edinburgh, meets some Europe at competition Sunday from the Prague, Czechoslovakia, track club.

The one-day clash is billed by its Ottawa Kinsmen Club organizers as the outstanding one in Canada this year. They expect the Canadian team will have its hands full with the powerful Czechoslovakians.

The all-male Prague team is led by middle-distance runner Tomas Jangwirth and triple jumper Petr Nemsovsky, whose performances are among the world's best this year.

But the Canadian team also claims some outstanding performers including Debbie Brill of Haney, B.C., Norm Tretiak of Vancouver and Toronto's Bruce Simpson and Bob Rafila.

Miss Brill established the North American women's high jump record last month at six feet, one-quarter inch, and her peculiar back-first jumping style has made the 17-year-old athlete a gold-medal favorite in Scotland.

Trerise, like many outstanding Canadian athletes, is on scholarship at an American university and recently ran a three-minute 33.2-second mile in a year when outstanding milers are scarce. Olympic gold medalist Kip Keino of Kenya is expected to provide plenty of opposition for Trerise at the Games.

Simpson and Rafila have done 16 feet, nine inches, and 16 feet, eight inches, respectively, in the pole vault—tops in the Commonwealth in 1970.

Distance runner Jerome Drayton of Toronto, whose 28:25.8 time in the 10,000 metres is the world's best this year, will shirt to the 5,000-metre event and may against teammates Bob Friday of Toronto and Grant McLaren of Guelph, Ont.

Another Canadian expected to show well at the Commonwealth Games, which open July 18, is Thelma Fynn of Vancouver who has been clocked at 4:26.2 in the 1,500-metre race.

Miss Fynn, Penny Werthner of Ottawa and Abby Hoffman of Toronto, who won the 800-metre gold medal at Jamaica in 1966, will compete in the 1,000-yard event.

Miss Hoffman was left off the Canadian team after a poor showing in the 800-metre event at the games' trials in Hamilton June 30 and 31.

A spokesman for the dual meet said "Abby should be really flying Sunday" in an effort to show team selectors they were wrong in not naming her to the team.

The absence of sprinter Harry Jerome, who did not qualify for the team, has left Canada weak in the short distances and the relay events.

Doug Chapman and Ian Gordon of Vancouver have been timed at 10.4 and 10.5 seconds respectively this year—well behind the Prague team's 100 metre runners.

5 YOU CAN USE IT IN OVER 40 COUNTRIES
Wherever you see the familiar blue, white and gold symbol you know that your Chargex card is welcome. Even when the identifying name is different. In the United States, the name is BankAmericard. In Great Britain, Ireland, the Bahamas, Jamaica, Barbados, Trinidad, Tobago, Malta, South Africa and Gibraltar it's Barclaycard. In Japan, the name is Sumitomo Card. And in Mexico, your Chargex card is welcome where you see the name Bancomer Card. They all identify charge cards backed by some of the world's greatest banks, just like your Chargex card.

9 YOU WRITE ONE CHEQUE FOR EVERYTHING
You are sent one monthly statement for everything you buy with your Chargex card, and write just one cheque to pay for all your purchases. That can save you a lot of valuable time, and save you money on the cheques you write too.

10 YOU DON'T NEED TO CARRY A LOT OF CASH
Your Chargex card eliminates the risk of carrying too much cash. It works just like cash for almost anything, almost anywhere. As long as you have your Chargex card with you, you'll never be stuck.

11 CONVENIENCE OF EXTENDED PAYMENTS
When you find your expenses are unusually high in one particular month, say for unexpected emergencies or new outfits for the children, you can budget your payments over several months.

You may enjoy using your Chargex card for just some of these reasons. Or you may like all eleven reasons, and add a few of your own. If you don't have a Chargex card yet, pick up an application from any bank or merchant displaying the blue, white and gold Chargex symbol.

Remember, no matter where you bank, you can enjoy the convenience of a Chargex charge card.

The Chargex Plan is backed by The Royal Bank of Canada, Toronto Dominion Bank, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and Bank Canadian National.

Lancaster Looking to Break Nine-Year Lansdowne Jinx

OTTAWA (CP) — Quarterback Ronnie Lancaster says it no longer bothers him to play at Lansdowne Park, home of the Ottawa Rough Riders who traded him to Saskatchewan Roughriders in 1961.

"It used to at first but I'm over that now and the fans have treat me real well," he said in an interview Monday.

What does bother him is the fact he hasn't won a game here since trading uniforms. In every exhibition and league game he has played here since, he's been a loser.

"Yes, and that includes the Grey Cup game he played here in 1967 against Hamilton Tiger-Cats," Lancaster recalled.

Lancaster hopes to break the spell here Thursday when he calls the signals for the Canadian Football League All-Stars against Riders, defending Grey Cup champions.

The 31-year-old quarterback says he doesn't think the jinx will be here to stay.

"It's been a combination of things. Sometimes we were really hammered and sometimes we were in the game right to the end."

He's enthusiastic when he talks about the players he'll call signals for Thursday.

"George Reed is used to carrying the ball an average of 25 times a game, and so is (Bill) Symons," said Lancaster. "The only trouble is he wants to go to other players as much as possible. So they won't feel they have been used."

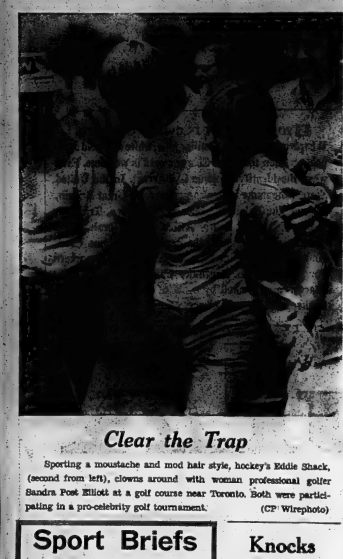
But in a tight spot, he feels he just naturally will hand the ball to Reed.

"He's only let me down two or three times in a tight spot for the last seven years," says Lancaster.

The ticket office at Lansdowne Park did a booking last week Monday—more than 10,000 in sales were rung up.

More than 15,000 tickets now have been sold for the pack that holds in excess of 27,000.

Proceeds of the game go into the CFL players pension fund. Gary Schreiber, an executive of the association, is hoping for a crowd of about 25,000.



Part of that hope was based on a television blackout both on local TV stations and the two city cable-television outlets.

"The Canadian Radio-Television Commission has ruled that cable stations no longer can carry regular or playoff games in CFL cities where the local stations are blacked out.

But there is some doubt that the ban applies to the all-star game. The CRTC refused to take a position on the matter when questioned about it Monday.

One Ottawa cable station said it will carry the game unless told otherwise by the CRTC. The other said it will "wait and see.".

Clendenon: Prophet with Honor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Donn Clendenon thinks the Pittsburgh Pirates are the team to beat in the National League — and it seems he's determined to do it all by himself.

Clendenon drove in the winning run with a pinch hit sacrifice fly Monday night as the New York Mets rallied in the ninth inning to nip the Pirates 3-2 in a first place showdown between East Division contenders.

It was the Mets' second victory in five meetings with Pittsburgh this season. And ex-Pirate Clendenon has provided the margin each time in the pinch.

The part-time first baseman, hero of the Mets' World Series triumph over Baltimore last October, stood up his teammates and Manager Gil Hodges on the eve of the season opener at Pittsburgh by picking the Pirates to take the pennant. The next day his two-run pinch single in the 11th gave New York a 3-2 victory.

His sacrifice fly in the ninth Monday night capped a two-run comeback, sealed down, Tom Hume's 12th victory of the season, snapped the Pirates' winning streak at seven and gave the Mets a one-game edge in the division race.

Pitch blisters also supplied the punch as the St. Louis Cardinals struck for four runs in the eighth to down Chicago Cubs 8-4 and move past the sliddering Cubs into third place in the East. 3½ games off the pace. Vic Davalillo and Jose Cardenal came off the Cards' bench to deliver two runs apiece in the eighth.

Houston Astros whipped Los Angeles Dodgers 10-5 in the only other league action. Philadelphia Phillies scheduled game at Montreal against the Expos was rained out.

The Mets trailed 2-1 when rookie Ken Singleton singled to open the bottom of the ninth. He was third on Art Shamsky's single and scored the tying run when Dave Marshall bounced a single through the Pirates' drawn-in infield.

Joe Gibbon replaced Pittsburgh starter Steve Blass and hit Ken Boswell with his first pitch, filling the bases with none out. Orlando Pena came out of the bullpen and got pinch hitter Cleon Jones to tap into a force at the plate. But Clendenon, swinging for Jerry Grote, sent Marshall across with a fly to deep right, breaking the knot.

Seaver, 12-5, had a two-hitter until the top of the ninth, when he was called for elughes by Richie Hebner, Roberto Clemente and Willie Stargell, giving the Pirates a one-run edge.

The Cards overcame the Cubs with a four-run eighth after Ernie Banks, who drove in first, Chicago runs, broke a 4-4 tie in the top of the inning with his second two-run homer off Steve Dalton.

A walk, Joe Torre's single and a bunt single by Jim Beauchamp filled the bases with none out in the bottom half and Davalillo's pinch double off Phil Regan ended it before Cardenal stroked the deciding two-run single.

Bob Watson cracked a single, double and homer, driving in five runs, as the Astros pummeled Bill Singer and ended the Dodgers' winning streak at six games. Joe Pepitone also homered for Houston.

Singer, who pitched 7 2-3 hitless innings against Atlanta last week, was knocked out of the game in the third after yielding five runs and seven hits.

Senators Keep Orioles Ailing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore's ailing Orioles came out on the short end of a 5-3 decision Monday night—the third straight game in which Washington Senators came from behind in a final at bat to win an American League game from the Orioles.

Saturday night it was Wayne Comer's bases-loaded eighth inning double that did the damage. Sunday, Rick Reichardt tied a pinch two-run homer to turn the score around in the 13th. And, Monday night, it was a three-run homer by Aurelio Rodriguez that wiped out a Baltimore lead.

Elsewhere in the league Monday night, Minnesota Twins tripped Kansas City Royals 5-4 and California Angels battered Milwaukee Brewers 10-3.

The Orioles' American League East lead was trimmed to two games over idle New York as they lost their fifth game in the last seven starts.

Frank Howard had an early two-run homer for the Senators but Baltimore battled back to tie the score in the fourth.

Then the Birds went ahead in the seventh on singles by Brooks Robinson and Ellie Hendricks and a sacrifice fly by Mark Belanger.

Washington's Tim Brukman opened the eighth with a single and Howard walked with one out. Reichardt, Sunday's hero, bounced out but Rodriguez followed with his 12th homer of the year to win the game.

Hot-hitting Cesar Tover cracked four straight hits including a game-winning triple as Minnesota overcame a four-run Kansas City lead to beat the Royals.

Tover's sixth inning triple drove in winning pitcher Jim Perry, who was credited with a double when his fly ball fell between outfielders Amos Otis and Pat Kelly.

Tover, who has raised his average 30 points and moved past .300 in the last five games, led Minnesota's comeback after the Royals banged Perry for four runs in the first, two of them on Ed Kirkpatrick's double.

Perry allowed only two hits after the third inning and moved down 14 in a row over one stretch. Ron Jackson's double on to get the final out.

Sandy Alomar, whose 23-game hitting streak was ended Sunday, cracked two triples, a double and a single leading California's romp past Milwaukee.

Clyde Wright rode the 12-hit Angel attack to his 11th victory of the season. Ed Fisher finished up.

Alomar scored three times and drove in one run. He started California off quickly when he tripled in front of Roger Repoz' first inning homer.

Tommy Harper had three hits including a homer and Max Alvis also connected for the Brewers.

TORONTO (CP) — Knees, not the pretty ones below the mini skirts but damaged masculine ones, were the subject of a strategy session Monday by Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League. The Leafs lost eight players last season because of the injuries and general manager Jim Gregory said before the meeting: "Maybe we're doing the wrong exercises. Maybe we're not doing enough of them. If I knew what was wrong I wouldn't be calling this meeting." Attending the meeting were Gregory, coach John McLellan, team vice-president Kng Clancy and the team's specialists, Doctors Hugh Smythe, Leith Douglas and Dave Hastings. Sidelined with knee injuries last season were Marv Edwards, Johnny Bower, Rick Ley, Jim Dorey, Mike Pelyk, Brian Glennie, Mike Walton and George Armstrong.

SEATTLE (AP) — George Chuvalo of Toronto, the third-ranked world heavyweight, meets Charlie Reno of Seattle tonight in a fight which Chuvalo's manager Irv Ungerman has called "very, very important." The fight is Chuvalo's warm-up for a match with George Foreman,—1968' Olympic Heavyweight champion, Aug. 3 but Ingerman said more consideration to the Reno fight would have been given had the Foreman match been signed earlier. Ungerman said he agreed to the Chuvalo-Reno bout May 30 before negotiations were completed June 9 for the Foreman fight. "If I'd known I was getting a fight with Foreman I would have given it (tonight's fight) more consideration," he said. He added that a bad cut for Chuvalo could delay his fight with Foreman of Haywood, Calif., who has had 39 victories since turning professional and is ranked ninth in the heavyweight division.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Accommodation organizers for the Canada Open golf championship to begin Thursday are in a turmoil because of cancellations being made on advance bookings, apparently because of the uncertainty of the weather. James O'Donnell, executive assistant manager of the Hotel London, said the demand for rooms hasn't reached expectations and predicted the estimated influx of 50,000 golfers and golf enthusiasts for the tournament won't be reached. Paul Wagner, office manager of the Holiday Inn who is responsible for booking golfers, tournament executives and celebrities, said another problem is the shifting of bookings by golfers participating in qualifying rounds.

NEW YORK (AP) — Australian Bruce Devlin has vaulted to fifth from 17th on the pro golf tour's money-winners list but he's still far back in the pack on the player point list, the Professional Golfers Association tournament players division reported Monday. Devlin won $30,000 in the Cleveland Open Sunday, increasing his earnings for the year to $57,650 for 93 tournaments. The figure represents a career high for Devlin, who joined the U.S. tour in 1963. He has 602 points. For the 16th straight week, Lee Trevino was the leader in both divisions with 1118.785 and 1,115.6 points. The point totals will be used by the PGA tournament players division to determine exemptions for the tour next year.

Knocks 'Pitching'

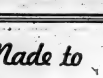
NEW YORK (AP) — The British Open next week at historic St. Andrews may mark a turning point in American golf, says Gene Sarazen.



"The pressure is on the U.S. players to win," the 68 year-old former champion said Monday in an interview. "If Tony Jacklin or another Briton wins it. It will be proof that after 50 years the game has turned full cycle.

"Jock Hutchison, a Scotsman who emigrated to America, was the first overseas winner of the British and Americans won 11 of the next 12 British Opens. The Unified States asserted its world golf supremacy.

"Now a Briton, Jacklin, holds both the U.S. and British Opens. If he should repeat—and he well might—then American golf would slip to secondary status."

Sarazen won the British Open in 1932 at Sandwich and lost it the next year at St. Andrews.

Sarazen said golf on the American tour has become largely a "pitch-and-putt" contest because of the easy courses.

Winning Wind Moves Sehl West

To paraphrase an old saying, "a good wind can always blow somebody ill," and so Quinte's massive blow by Dave Sehl at the Columbia 25-mile championship on the weekend, paid off with a chance for him to break into big - time racing in the United States.

However, it also meant that both he, brother Doug would be unavailable for the Muscular Dystrophy Benefit Motorcycle races at the Fairgrounds tomorrow.

Both Sehl brothers have accepted an all-expense trip to California to compete in meets on the coast, and are currently "heading west."

Despite the loss of two of the top drivers, the 68-strong field of contestants for the July 1st, Belleville race, still includes a number of frontliners.

Yvonne Duhamel, five-time Canadian dirt track champion, would have to be considered the favorite, especially in light of a recent win at the National Road Racing championships at Laconia, New Hampshire.

Popularity of the annual bike races appears to be skyrocketing as 4,000 fans jammed the fairgrounds for last year's competition, an increase of 1,000 spectators over the previous year.

Proceeds from the races will go to combat muscular dystrophy.

Back in the Saddle

Five-time Canadian dirt track champion, Yvon Duhamel is off the crutches that held him out of last year's competition and will be a leading contender in the Muscular Dystrophy Benefit races tomorrow. The absence of Dave and Doug Sehl could open the way to a win by Duhamel.

Rollins Roar Back To Defeat Stinson's

Rollin's Construction moved into a first place tie last night in Commercial League Soft ball - action before the rain cancelled the second half of the double - header.

Rollins defeated the Stinson Constructions team 9-5 and thus grasped a share of first place with the Ellis Juniors whose game with Corby's was postponed.

Stinson's jumped on Rollin starter Carl Boomhower and quickly got a 4-0 lead courtesy of two Rollin miscues and a two run homer by Wayne Woods.

But Rollins gradually wore away the Stinson's lead with Carl Boomhower's two-run shot in the fifth and a four run outburst in the sixth.

Boomhower allowed six hits in his five inning stint and walked only one batter before Wayne McConnell came in in the sixth to preserve the victory. McConnell allowed one run on one hit and two walks while fanning one batter.

Brian Harder with three singles, Ralph Plane with a pair and Boomhower's home run were the big hitters for Rollins.

Bob Swan started for Stinsons and allowed six hits while fanning two and walking two.

Harold Workhoven relieved in the sixth and picked up two strikeouts.

Wenn's shocked the Dairy Queen with a three run explosion in the first inning but couldn't hold on to the lead as they dropped a 5-4 decision to the Dairy Queens.

Barb Bennekom went the distance for the Queens allowing 10 hits and fanning eight batters. Judy Pultz with a homer and a triple provided the hitting power for the Queens.

Donna Brest and Nora Barbaratsch took the loss in their relief stints and gave up walks while fanning four. Barbaratsch led her own support with a fourth inning triple.

Bowlers On Beam

The Belleville Lawn Bowling Club has made its presence felt in the district provincial playdowns by taking the top honors in the three events held so far.

Frank Benson, Bob Semple and Ken Sobie won the colt trebles part of the competition by defeating teams from Trenton, Kingston and Brighton.

Jerry Hyde Jr. and Wally Lavergne won the doubles event while the Belleville team of Bill Vantassel, Ralph Tuck, Frank Morrell and Stan Fuller won the men's rick event.

Further action on the Belleville greens will be on July 8 when the men's single competition will be held.

Juniors Bury Reserve

Belleville Kinsmen Juniors did their part to see that the Reserve stayed mired in the South Hastings League basement, as they unleashed a 11-hit attack to come up with a 17-7 victory last night.

The Juniors picked up a win in his first pitching start, getting relief help from Glenn Carleton. They gave up seven hits and three walks, while fanning eight men.

Glenn Marcelle, George Hill and Rod O'Connor all saw action for the Reserve. The trio was touched for 13 safeties, issuing three walks and fanning five batters.

Midget replacement Steve Rushlow paced the Kinsmen hitters, swatting two triples and a single. Rick Meagher picked up a double and triple, while Brian Cousins and Bill Kirkham had a single and double apiece.

George Hill was a thorn in the side of the Belleville pitchers rapping out a stuntle, double and triple. Weaver was next best with a pair of singles.

The Juniors next home game is tonight against Plane's Concrete at the Belleville Fairgrounds. Game time is 7 p.m.

Minor Softball Rich Get Richer

The rich got richer and the poor got poorer in Belleville Minor Softball Tyke action last night. The top two teams both won convincingly over their lower opponents.

The Wings tightened their first place position by whipping the Leafs 21-8 while the Beavers clawed the Kinsmen Bobcats 20-6.

Tim Soule fired no hit ball for six innings and fanned 13 Leaf batters in picking up the victory for the Wings. Steve Gilby took to the mound in the seventh and allowed all six runs scored by the Leafs.

Gilby more than proved his worth at bat though as he hit three home runs leading the Wings. Bob Hodge with a homer and triple, and homers from Dan Furness and Pete Jacques were other Wing hitters.

Len Wigger went the distance for the Leafs forging eight and walking five plus pacing the hitting attack with a triple.

Andy Rossit allowed just six hits winning for the Bears while fanning 16 and walking nine. Support in the form of home runs from Bob McCann with two and Steve McCory and Rossit with one each were sufficient to provide the win.

Paul Soule, Steve Molina, Darryl Miller, and D. Greene all saw action on the Bobcat mound and together gave up 24 hits while striking out eight and walking 18.

Falcons Halt Travellers

Two games were played in Belleville Minor Soccer League last night with the results drastically different.

In junior action the Falcons defeated the Trenton Travellers 2-1 while Bob's Auto greasedbacked Modern Hair Styling 4-0.

Mariners Upset Mead Johnson 5-4

The March Mariners pulled a major upset in Industrial League Softball action last night by edging third place Mead Johnson 5-4.

Wilson Bolger won the decision for March's in going the distance by fanning eight Johnson batters and walking only one.

Steve White with relief help from Larry Marshall in the seventh was tagged with the loss. The pair allowed six hits and fanned six while walking three.

Clint Halladay was the hero for March's clouting a home run in the seventh and driving in three winning runs.

The CN Turbos missed a chance to move into solo possession of first place last night as they dropped a 4-1 decision to Union Carbide.

Ken Osbourne picked up the win for Carbide firing a five hitter and striking out five Turbo batters. Hits from G. Bird, R. Lucas, B. Palmer and H. Cole provided the runs for Osbourne.

B. Plumbe was touched for the loss giving up four runs on five hits while fanning three and walking four. Safeties by Vandervolk and the Plumbe brothers, Zane and Brian, were the only Turbos to reach the Carbide pitcher.

School of Hard Knocks

Belleville's midget lacrosse entry in the OMLA are still learning some lessons and Whitby made sure it was the hard way last night by whipping them 23-3.

Danny Nuttall scored one goal and assisted on others from Glen Sloa and Danny Payne to lead the Belleville point getters.

Peter Cox and Paul Morton shared the goaltending duties and were the centre of attraction for most of the game.

Tim Briscoe paced the Whitby attack with six goals followed by Barry Talyor with five and hat tricks from Brian Miller, Bob Dalby and Danny Valiant.
